HOOVER 'NOT DRY AT HEART,' STAYTON SAID IN LETTER; DENIES GIVING WET PARTY

VIEWS REVEALED AT HEARING

President 'Dry Because of Votes,' Wet Leader Told Philadelphian.

SENATORS TERMED ABUSIVE

LIQUOR AT DINNER AIRED

Witness Denies Hand in Baltimore Fete 'in Honor of a Presidential Candidate.'

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—President Hoover was described as being "not a dry at heart" but "dry because of the prospective profit in votes," in a letter written by Captain William H. Stayton, chairman of the board of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, and read at the Senate lobby hearing today during the second day of Captain Stayton's testimony.

Captain Stayton, writing in March, 1929, to Herbert L. Clark of Philadelphia, expressed the view that Mr. Hoover had made up his mind that the drys "somewhat fanatically regard the wet and dry issue as being superior to all questions of government and of morals," and that "as a matter of vote-getting he had better take the dry side," since "he can get votes from the wets without espousing their cause."

The letter concluded that "nothing that has to do with right and wrong or with facts will make any impression upon him."

Another letter read today and applauded by the audience referred to the President as being "so dry he squeaks." The letter, taken from the files of the wet association, was written by Representative Peavey of Wisconsin.

Heflin and Sheppard Attacked.

Still another letter, written by Captain Stayton to General Lincoln C. Andrews in 1927, referred to Senators Heflin and Sheppard and the late Senator Willis of Ohio as being "abusive men, very fond of boasting of their strength," and charged that "they are perpetually sending out this propaganda so as to get more money out of their people."

The Supreme Court under Chief Justice Taft was characterized in one letter as "wishy-washy."

Memoranda concerning expenditures for liquor for a dinner in Baltimore in 1928 were placed in the record, but Captain Stayton denied that the association was responsible either for the dinner or for the liquor.

Captain Stayton was told to appear later with information on one point in his previous testimony, after which he will be excused. This concerns a contribution of $5,000 to the association from Nicholas F. Brady of New York, which Captain Stayton said he received and reported under the corrupt practices act as his own donation. Senator Robinson told him today that he had been unable to find any report of such a contribution and asked for proof, which Captain Stayton said he would supply.

The activities of the Anti-Saloon League will be the subject of inquiry when the committee reconvenes on Tuesday, Senator Caraway announced at the close of today's session, but he said the selection of the first witness has not been decided upon. It is expected, however, that the witness will be the Rev. Dr. F. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the league.

Captain Stayton's Letter.

Captain Stayton's letter to Mr. Clark read as follows:

March 19, 1929.

Locust at 16th Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

Dear Mr. Clark:

I am very grateful for your letter of March 12.

I am absolutely in accord with you as to the desirability of writing to the President, and, if you will send me a copy of your letter, I will take the matter up with other directors.

You will recall that there were two groups formed, both headed by your directors. One group was

Yale Profits by Steel Merger; Sells Stock at $328,700 Gain

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, May 2 (AP).—Because of the proxy fight over the Bethlehem-Youngstown Sheet and Tube Merger Yale University has realized over $300,000 more from the bequest of Stephen V. Harkness than normally would have been expected, it has been disclosed in stock purchase figures made public in depositions here.

Merger proponents, listing their purchases, told of buying 13,148 shares of the Sheet and Tube stock from Yale at $150 a share, or $1,972,200. At today's market price of 125 asked the stock would be worth only $1,643,500, a difference of $328,700. The stock was a part of the Harkness gift to the university.

SENATE WILL VOTE ON PARKER MONDAY

HE URGES 'HUMAN LIBERTIES'

Senator Fess Declares Congress Should Change the Injunction Law if It Is Wrong.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—Chairman Norris of the Senate Judiciary Committee today closed the debate of the opposition to the confirmation of Judge John J. Parker to be Associate Justice of the Supreme Court, and the Senate recessed until Monday, with indications that a vote will be taken late on that day.

The outcome is admittedly in doubt, with the administration forces exerting all their influence to induce Republican Senators to support Judge Parker.

The latest poll shows the rival groups to be about evenly divided, with eight Senators in doubt. Four of these are susceptible to administration influence and Judge Parker's supporters will enter upon the vote with confidence. The opposition leaders, however, declare that the nominee will be defeated by a narrow majority. Another poll shows the possibility of a tie, with Vice President Curtis being called upon to cast the deciding vote.

In a two-hour speech Mr. Norris asserted that Judge Parker's decisions showed him to be against "human" rights, and a jurist of "conservative" tendencies who, if confirmed, would increase the present conservative majority of the court.

Puts Human Questions First.

"I am moved in my opposition to Judge Parker," Senator Norris said, "because I want to preserve that great judicial tribunal and keep it on a higher plane than in my judgment it would be if we permitted it to be filled with men who have one idea of wealth, big business combinations and the virtue of large aggregations of wealth. I am opposed to Judge Parker because I do not believe in his ideas."

Saying that Supreme Court Justices are put on the bench for life "and we ought to know from which side they approach injunction and human questions," the Senator went on:

"We ought to know whether they have a feeling for the liberty of their

HOUSE GROUP FORCES SUGAR RATE SLASH; VOTES FREE LUMBER

CRISP WARNS OF HOUSEWIFE

SHINGLES ON FREE LIST

Opposition Starts Out by Defeating Silver Duty, and Then Rejects All Compromises.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—Low tariff forces got control of the House today in a rough and tumble fight over the conference report on the Smoot-Hawley tariff bill, forced the acceptance of the Senate's lower base rate of 2 cents a pound on Cuban raw sugar and returned silver, lumber shingles and logs to the free list.

The low duty group would accept no compromises. Feeling themselves suddenly powerful in the balloting on silver this morning, they picked up enough strength in each succeeding fight to pile up good majorities, and refused successively to accept either the administration force's offer to split the lumber and shingle rate, or a compromise by which it was hoped to attract enough votes to raise the rate of the sugar duty.

The climax of the sugar battle turned out to be the actual counting of ballots late in the afternoon. When members stood up for a count Speaker Longworth announced 204 to reject the proposal of accepting the Senate's 2-cent rate, against 196 in favor of it. A roll-call was immediately demanded, with the result that 229 voted to accept the Senate's lower rate, against 160 who preferred compromise.

Party Lines Are Overridden.

Ninety Republicans, many of them "regulars," left their ranks when the final balloting came. Among them were Mrs. Pratt of New York, Mrs. Rogers of Massachusetts and Mrs. Langley of Kentucky.

Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen of Florida was one of the fourteen Democrats who left their reservation to vote with the administration forces to uphold the higher rate.

The lumber interests of the Northwest and the piney wood sections of the South again were turned away from the tariff wall when the House rejected the Senate's amendment for $1.50 per thousand board feet on rough soft lumber and 25 per cent ad valorem on shingles.

A compromise was attempted. Chairman Hawley of the Ways and Means Committee, in charge of the bill, offered to split the rate in half, making it 75 cents per thousand feet and reduce shingles to 15 per cent. The opposition had become conscious of its strength by this time, however, and answered this offer with a motion to reject the whole tariff.

The lower tariff forces also compelled acceptance of a Senate amendment returning to the free list logs, on which the House in its original bill had imposed a duty.

Large Majority Against Silver.

Silver was returned to the free list by an overwhelming majority. Only a small group of Westerners and the more orthodox high tariff advocates voted for the duty of 30 cents an ounce inserted by the Senate. Even the administration group rejected the silver rate, and the move to return it to the free list was initiated by Mr. Hawley himself.

The day's gains of the low tariff group, led from the minority side, set administration leaders to worry-

John D. Rockefeller Jr. Adds $1,500,000 To $2,000,000 Gift to University City, Paris

Special Cable to The New York Times.

PARIS, May 2.—John D. Rockefeller Jr., who two years ago gave $2,000,000 for the construction of the central offices and meeting rooms of University City, which is being built on the southern outskirts of Paris, has increased his gift to $3,500,000 to cover the entire cost of the building as it is being planned, it was announced today.

The announcement of Mr. Rockefeller's gift to University City was made in July, 1928, when it was proposed to build a communal building with a library, reading rooms, meeting rooms and gymnasium, in a central position among the various national houses, of which the most recently opened is the American house. A study revealed that the $2,000,000 would not meet the architect's plans, and Mr. Rockefeller invited the architect to accompany Senator André Honnorat, the president of University City, to New York for a consultation. The result has been the increase in Mr. Rockefeller's gift, the announcement of which was conveyed in a letter from Raymond B. Fosdick to Senator Honnorat.

Associates of John D. Rockefeller Jr. in New York would not confirm the report from Paris of the gift of an additional $1,500,000 for the completion of University City. At the offices of the Rockefeller Foundation it was said such a benefaction evidently was from Mr. Rockefeller personally and not from the Foundation.

At Mr. Rockefeller's offices it was said Mr. Rockefeller's policy was not to announce gifts, but to leave that to the recipient. At the offices of Ivy L. Lee, Mr. Rockefeller's usual spokesman, it was said nothing was known of such a gift. Raymond B. Fosdick is now in Paris.

When the original announcement was made two years ago of Mr Rockefeller's gift of $2,000,000 for the construction of University City, a system of dormitories and commons for foreign students in Paris, it was said Mr. Rockefeller would contribute three annuities of $60,000, $55,000 and $50,000 during the three years following the completion of the buildings.

Midsummer Heat Sends Mercury to 82 Here, Causing One Death, and Sets Record in Boston

Midsummer heat blistered New York and vicinity yesterday, causing the death of a man in Orange, N. J., and sending the mercury soaring to a maximum of 82 degrees, or five within the record for the date, in this city. The heat wave, which began on Thursday, scored a record high temperature of 91 in Boston and almost set a record with 90 degrees in Springfield, Mass.

A thunderstorm late last night sent cooling rain down on the city and forced homegoing theatre crowds to scurry into doorways and subways.

Fair and cooler weather was forecast for today by the local Weather Bureau.

Yesterday noon Henry Kling, 63 years old, of 504 Church Street, Orange, N. J., collapsed in Freeman Street, that city, and was removed to the Orange Memorial Hospital, where he died. First Assistant Medical Examiner William M. Brien said death had been caused by heart attack superinduced by heat. The noon temperature in Orange was 80 degrees.

Thousands flocked to the beaches, donning bathing suits for sun baths on the sands or dips in the surf. In the city Summer reigned supreme. Everywhere were the usual Summer signs—fans humming in the subway trains, office windows open, cold drink stands doing a rushing business, pedestrians perspiring and public parks thronged with idlers.

An unofficial reading of 84 degrees in the shade was reported in the Flatbush district in Brooklyn in the midafternoon. The official maximum temperature of 82 degrees was recorded by the Weather Bureau at 4:40 P. M. The lowest temperature during the day was 62 degrees at 6 A. M. The day's average temperature was 71 degrees, which was sixteen above the normal average of 56 for the date. The record of 87 for the date was established in 1913.

By 3 P. M. the mercury in Boston had climbed to 91 degrees. The unseasonable warmth there brought orders by the city authorities to open all the city bath houses in which lockers are ready for immediate use. Straw hats and other Summer clothing were seen on the streets.

The previous Boston record for May 2 was 88 degrees set in 1894.

An official temperature reading of 90 degrees in Springfield, Mass., yesterday afternoon contrasted with the weather of Tuesday when a white frost occurred. It was one of the warmest days for the date in Springfield for many years.

OMNIBUS VETO KILLS 125 ALBANY BILLS

AIR LAW PLAN SCRAPPED

With the promulgation yesterday of the so-called omnibus veto, containing 125 legislative bills disapproved by Governor Roosevelt, announcement has been made of the Governor's action on every bill that was passed by the Legislature and sent to him for approval or veto.

Survey of his action on such measures shows that the present Governor has been far more liberal with his vetoes than his predecessor, Alfred E. Smith, although, like the present Governor, Mr. Smith, a Democrat, had to deal with a Legislature Republican for most of the eight years of his régime in both its branches and during all of his administrations with an Assembly dominated by Republicans.

Aside from the 125 bills embodied in the omnibus veto, Governor Roosevelt vetoed ninety-six out of a total of 67 "thirty-day bills" that were passed by the Legislature and sent to him during the last ten days of the late legislative session. Prior to the thirty-day bill period he had vetoed fifty-three bills, of which twenty-one were sent to him by the Senate and thirty-two by the Assembly, a total of 274 measures vetoed while, in all, 879 bills were approved and became law with the Governor's signature.

Among the bills included in the omnibus veto was one which would have authorized the Department of Conservation to furnish trees and cooperate in the work of reforestation on private forest preserves, 100 acres or more in area. He also vetoed a bill appropriating $175,000 for the development of Saratoga Springs on the ground that he already had approved another bill carrying an appropriation of $1,000,000 for the same purpose.

Another bill vetoed by the Governor would have extended for a period of ten years, from Jan. 1, 1926, the time within which electrification of steam railroads operating within this city must be completed. Electrification of the New York Central lines on the west side of Manhattan and the Baltimore & Ohio tracks in Richmond would have been principally affected.

Completion of the work on the New York Central lines was long overdue on the date mentioned, in fact two or three extensions had already, up to that time, been granted by the Legislature. The delay is attributed to the extensive changes, including grade crossings and placing underground the New York Central tracks in Eleventh Avenue and along Riverside Drive.

Aviation Law Bill Rejected.

Governor Roosevelt also included in his omnibus veto a bill appropriating $25,000 for salary and expenses of the "people's counsel" contemplated in connection with the radical readjustment of the Public Service law to modern conditions. Earlier the Governor had vetoed the bill creating the position and allocating it in the Attorney General's office. The Governor also vetoed another bill appropriating a like amount for the maintenance of a Veterans' Legal Aid Bureau in the Department of Law at Albany.

A bill introduced by Assemblyman Wallace of Nassau which provided an aviation law for this State was also included by the Governor in his omnibus veto.

Included in the multiple veto also was the bill introduced by Assembly-

COMPANY ACCEPTS CUT IN PHONE RATES

Will Obey Commission Under Protest—Way Left Open for Court Action Later.

McCULLOH SCORES ORDER

Company Head Says Board Was Insincere and Ignorant of True Operating Costs.

The New York Telephone Company reluctantly yielded yesterday to the rate decision of the Public Service Commission. In an announcement last evening after he had conferred with his rate experts and counsel J. S. McCulloh, president of the company, said he would not authorize an appeal to the courts to upset the decision, at least for the time being.

"The company will comply, under protest, with the order of the commission with respect to the filing and putting into effect of the rates prescribed by such order," he said. "No further application to the courts is contemplated at this time."

The schedules fixed by the commission on Thursday, Mr. McCulloh declared, would "fall far short" of yielding the 7 per cent return on the fair value of the company property which was directed by the Federal court. Proof of this, he added, could be more definitely established by the results of actual operation.

This comment was taken to be an intimation that there may yet be a court appeal, but it will in any event be postponed for many months.

The company has heretofore contended in the commission proceedings that the present temporary rates, which in general effect were lowered slightly by the commission's decision, would fail by more than $13,000,000 this year to earn a 7 per cent return, due to bad business conditions. They would fail by $11,000,000, it said, to earn the return now decreed to be legal by the commission.

Accuses Board of Pretense.

Mr. McCulloh charged the commission with "pretense" when it said that its decision accorded with the decision of the court. He also voiced resentment at the criticism of the company's operating expenses, declaring that the commission had no real understanding of operating problems.

Temporary acquiescence, also reluctant, was given to the commission's decision in the office of Corporation Counsel Arthur J. W. Hilly who actively opposed the telephone company's case. Mr. Hilly, however, has one more card to play. In the near future he will petition the Public Service Commission to prescribe a new form for the keeping of accounts by the telephone company.

His object will be to obtain a reorganization of the depreciation accounting system of the company by forcing abandonment of the straight line method which builds up a depreciation reserve. Should this be accomplished a rate cut as high as $12,000,000 could be effected, he argues.

The same plea in a different form was rejected in the present decision. It is known that some members of the commission will be sympathetic to a new petition from Mr. Hilly which can be given attention in separate proceedings.

From Trenton, where he had gone in connection with the Delaware water litigation, the Corporation Counsel made no personal announcement. A. S. B. Little, the city's utility engineer, said that he deprecated the rise in business telephone rates and thought it would have a reaction upon the company in the loss of stations. Extension telephones particularly would be reduced, he predicted.

The city, Mr. Little declared, had been the only one to seriously ques-

WHALEN DISCLOSES SECRET RED ORDERS; AMTORG IMPLICATED

FORGERY, OFFICIAL CHARGES

Bogdanov Asks Full Inquiry, Saying Publication Hurts $150,000,000 Business.

ENVOY AT CAPITAL NAMED

Whalen Says Moscow Documents Revealing Propaganda Moves "Speak for Themselves."

Photostat copies of Russian documents, purporting to prove Moscow's responsibility for Communist activities in the United States and linking the Amtorg Trading Corporation, the Soviet commercial agency in this country, with these activities, were made public yesterday by Police Commissioner Whalen.

The documents implicate the Amtorg as one of the channels through which American Communists maintain contact with and receive financial assistance from the Communist International, the Soviet Government's agency for propaganda of world revolution.

Mr. Whalen's charges against the Amtorg recalled similar accusations against Soviet commercial agencies in various countries. The publication of the documents also brought to mind the raid by the London police on Arcos, Ltd., the Soviet commercial organization in Great Britain, three years ago. Scotland Yard said it had seized much incriminating material showing how the Soviet Government used its commercial institutions and agents abroad for purposes of subversive political activity. The raid on Arcos led to a break of diplomatic relations, which have, however, been restored since the advent of the MacDonald Government on the promise of the Soviet Government to refrain from political propaganda.

In recent months there have been many protests in Berlin against the alleged political activity of the Soviet trade and diplomatic organizations in Germany, and Foreign Minister Curtius is reported to have remonstrated with Soviet Ambassador Krestinsky against the conduct of the Soviet agents.

Another incident recalled yesterday was the famous Zinovieff letter which led to the downfall of the first British Labor government. The Zinovieff letter remains a mystery, although it is now generally accepted, especially in England, as a forgery. The latest of this type of anti-Soviet documents were the Orloff documents in Berlin, which purported to show that Senator Borah was in the employ of the Soviet Government as an advocate of Soviet recognition by the United States. These documents have been proved to be forgeries as a result of a thorough investigation and a trial of Orloff and his accomplices in Berlin.

Denounced as Forgeries.

While Commissioner Whalen declared that the documents "speak for themselves," they were denounced as forgeries by Peter A. Bogdanov, chairman of the board of the Amtorg Trading Corporation, and Boris E. Skvirsky, so-called "unofficial Soviet Ambassador" and head of the Soviet Information Bureau in Washington. Both men are named in the documents, Mr. Bogdanov as one of

CITY MOVES TO BAN GRAFT BY CREATING NEW BUREAU TO CHECK UP PUBLIC BIDS

BERRY'S PLAN IS APPROVED

Agency Under Controller to Collect Cost Data for Comparisons.

ADDS $401,228 TO PAYROLL

Finance Department Will Get 226 More Employes Under Civil Service Regulations.

AIM IS TO AVERT 'SCANDALS'

Move, Partly Outgrowth of the Queens Sewer Case, Viewed as Reply to Connolly.

At the urgent request of Controller Charles W. Berry, the Board of Estimate voted yesterday increases of personnel and of budget resources which, for the first time in the city's history, will create in the Finance Department a Bureau of Municipal Investigation.

The purpose of that bureau will be to enable city officials to keep a check against collusive or exorbitant bidding on city contracts and to prevent a recurrence of such municipal abuses as the recent sewer scandals which cost New York and the Borough of Queens millions of dollars under the régime of Maurice E. Connolly.

In fact, the Controller's project, to which the Board of Estimate gave its unanimous assent, is held to be a direct outgrowth of those abuses and of a realization of the limited facilities of the Controller's office in the past to detect and check them.

Payroll Increased $401,228.

The establishment of a Bureau of Municipal Investigation in the Finance Department was the outstanding feature of the resolution adopted by the board yesterday in which it authorized 226 additional employes to be attached to the staff of the Controller, entailing an annual increase in his departmental payroll of $401,228. The salaries of the new employes will range from $1,200 to $5,000 a year. All of them will be chosen under the Civil Service regulations.

The project, as outlined yesterday by Controller Berry, is one to which he has given months of thought. He submitted it to Budget Director Charles L. Kohler, who assisted him in working out its details. The Budget Director presented a report yesterday approving the proposal unreservedly.

As described to the Board of Estimate, the proposed Bureau of Municipal Investigation is intended to afford ready means for borough or city officers to inquire into instances which may look like collusive or exorbitant bidding on the part of unscrupulous contractors seeking city or borough contracts and to halt such extoritions before it is too late.

The bureau is to have a force of ten engineers, inspectors, draftsmen and computers. The chief assistant engineer of the bureau is to receive $5,000 a year, another engineer $3,120. There also is to be a sanitary engineer at a salary of $4,000, a mechanical engineer at $3,540, an electrical engineer and a full engineering chemist at the same salary.

Will Collect Cost Data.

Budget Director Kohler, in his report approving the Controller's request and describing the staff of the projected bureau, said:

"This force is required for a bureau whose work, in addition to general investigations for the department, will be to establish a system of control over contracts after bids have been received, with a view of showing the comparative unit price of all public works of a similar character. This progressive step, with the installation of an efficient, easily available cost data system, should be the means of bringing to the attention of the responsible public officials excessive and collusive unit price bids and, at the same time, reduce the possibility of unbalanced bidding.

"Here in the bureau will be the available unit prices, and by use of these schedules the various departments and borough offices can compare the bids received with the costs shown on the schedule, and can institute pertinent inquiries as to the cause of any striking discrepancies."

The setting up of such a bureau, it was learned, has been under consideration by the controller since the Queens sewer scandal prosecutions, which resulted in convictions of Mr. Connolly and former Borough Engineer Frederick Seely on charges

COURT VACATES BAN ON CUT-RATE TAXIS

250 APPLICATIONS READY

But Independents Will Defer Action Until Final Hearing on Monday.

By vacating a temporary order prohibiting Police Commissioner Whalen and Deputy Commissioner Muldoon from licensing cut-rate taxicabs, Supreme Court Justice Strong of Brooklyn cleared the way yesterday for the issuance of 15-cent-a-mile licenses to about 250 cab owners whose applications are ready for filing. The prohibitory order was issued on Monday by Supreme Court Justice May of Brooklyn on application of Mrs. Mary G. Morton, taxpayer, of Queens.

Justice Strong on Monday will hear argument on a show cause order in the Morton suit. His decision yesterday indicated, however, as did his comment fro mthe bench, that he is not impressed by Mrs. Morton's allegation that cut-rate taxicab operation would endanger public health and safety.

Officials of the Amalgamated Taxi Association, which backed the fight to vacate the writ, were confident of victory on Monday. Although Justice Strong's decision leaves the way open for immediate application for additional 15-cent cab licenses, none will be sought today, because of the half-holiday. Michael Donella, vice president of the Amalgamated, declared that a steady stream of applications will be presented to the police licensing bureau as soon as the legal questions are cleared up.

Holds Writ Improper.

Justice Strong held the prohibitory order was the wrong form of action, because the police officials at whom it was directed were not judicial officers. The same view was taken by Assistant Corporation Counsel Herbert S. Worthley, who said that an injunction should have been sought instead of a writ of prohibition. Edward J. O'Brien, counsel for the Amalgamated, urged that the order be vacated. He represented Harry G. Hitchcock of Brooklyn, who intervened in the Morton suit on the ground that he desired a 15-cent-a-mile license.

"An order of prohibition may only be obtained when there is no other remedy open to the petitioner," Justice Strong's opinion declared. "It is well settled by the decisions in this State that prohibition will only issue to restrain judicial or quasi-judicial

While Columbia College freshmen were making last-minute efforts yesterday to scrape together enough money to get to the Blackwell Cup regatta at Derby, Conn., today process servers sought twenty of them to serve papers calling for their appearance in court to answer four lawsuits involving damages totaling $51,150.

The suits are the outcome of the freshman dinner at the Villa Restaurant, Hastings-on-Hudson, three weeks ago, which was raided by fifty sophomores who broke through a skylight. The raiders escaped before the arrival of Westchester County police, but the proprietor collected the name-cards left by the freshmen.

The chief complainant is R. Villa, Inc., the restaurant owner, which charges that the students destroyed furniture and edibles worth $10,000. The corporation is suing to recover three times that amount, as provided by a New York statute. The restaurant also demands an additional $15,000 for losses it allegedly sustained through the notoriety arising from newspaper accounts of the mêlée.

Ida Bloom, cloak room attendant in the restaurant, is suing for $3,000 because of "painful bruises and injuries to her right side and shoulder, and injuries to her neck, which have resulted in a disfiguring lump on her left side." She received all this, Miss Bloom charges, at the hands of several unidentified students during the free-for-all fighting.

Charles Ilse, manager of the restaurant and president of the corporation, is seeking to recover $3,000 for injuries which he says he sustained "about the body and right leg." The corporation is also suing Clyde Buchanan, freshman class president, for $150 said to be still owed on the dinner.

The summonses, about half of which have been served, call for the appearance of the students in the Westchester Supreme Court or the City Court of Yonkers. Complaints have not yet been filed with the court, according to Frederick Walz, attorney for the defendants.

None of the students named was present during the mêlée, The Spectator, undergraduate daily, said yesterday. They were in a group of fifty freshmen who were captured by sophomores and imprisoned in a barn near Closter, N. J., according to the paper. It was the name-cards of these students, undergraduates believe, which were seized by the proprietor.

Charles A. Joyce, sophomore class president, was also named as a defendant. The freshmen are George A. Boulet, William H. Gottlieb, John C. Kahlback, Paul E. Kaunitz, Milton Koestler, William N. Low, William H. McConaghy, George A. Olpp, Joseph G. Ornstein, Kenneth L. Petty, Sidney W. Poole, Leo Rangell, Peter C. Rhodes, Vincent J. Rieigllano, Allen Scattergood, Josef H. Singer, Robert L. Skelton, John J. Slavin, Alessandro Torelli and Myron Wechsler.

of conspiracy to defraud, after it had been shown that virtually one-half of the $29,500,000 of the Jamaica and Flushing sewer systems had gone for graft.

The controller's action was regarded in some quarters as his reply to Mr. Connolly's attempt in his trial to blame the Finance Department for the excessive Queens sewer costs. Connolly and Seely, whose convictions have been upheld by the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court, are still free under bail bonds twenty months after having been found guilty. They remain under bail pending review of the case by the Court of Appeals.

No Personnel Increase Since 1928.

An investigating bureau would have been set up long before this, Controller Berry explained, but for the fact that the Finance Department has had no increase in the number of its employes since 1928, and authorization for new employes was needed.

The Controller made the point that establishment of the bureau will not give his office authority to pass upon contracts, but will provide easily available data for officials and taxpayers to determine whether or not costs for proposed improvements are excessive.

Of the 226 new employes to be added to the force of the Controller 148 will be assigned to the Bureau of Collections, a recently organized unit, under which have been combined the former functions of various city agencies and which now permits a taxpayer to pay his real estate taxes, his water rents and other charges and assessments at a single bureau in each borough.

The increased business of the Finance Department was a reason assigned by Controller Berry for augmenting his staff. He explained to the board that in 1923 the financial turnover handled by the Controller's staff amounted to $1,042,215,000, whereas in 1929 it was $1,712,918,000. In 1923 the department had 971 employes. In 1929 there were 1,095, which included 129 who had been taken over from the Water Tax Bureau of the Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity.

Controller Berry explained that his department was so undermanned that 150 temporary employes were necessary in handling the tax assessment collections.

Among the positions to be filled in the new force are two auditors of accounts at $3,800 each and three at $3,480 each; 24 bookkeepers at $1,800, and 3 bookbinders at $2,496 each.

There is to be an inspector of repairs at $3,000 and an inspector of supplies at the same salary. The balance of the personnel will be clerks.

LIKELY TO BACK DRILL AT JAMAICA SCHOOL

A final hearing on the application to the Board of Education for the provision of financial assistance for a military training unit at Jamaica High School was held yesterday by a subcommittee. The hearing, at the Board of Education hall, was held to permit the presentation of a brief in opposition by Justin O. Reynolds, counsel for the Central Queens Peace Society.

Arthur S. Somers, chairman of the committee, said he would endeavor to have the report of the committee ready for the full board next week. It was reported that the subcommittee would recommend granting the application.

A reply to Mr. Reynolds was made by Colonel C. B. Smith, retired, who is in charge of the military training work at De Witt Clinton High School, New Utrecht High School and the recently discontinued course at Thomas Jefferson High School.

Mr. Reynolds presented legal arguments to support his contention that boards of education have no power to establish, or enter into an agreement whereby others would establish, military training or drill as part of, or connected with, the system of education maintained by the State. He contended military training and drill are not educational. He argued further that Jamaica High School was not a school of the class to which the Secretary of War might furnish equipment under Section 55c of the national defense act, under which application was made.

Colonel Smith declared that the permission for military training under Section 55c had already been given by the Secretary of War more than a year ago and the course was now in operation, without proper arms or equipment, at Jamaica High School under a faculty member. The only question now before the Board of Education, he said, was whether the board should furnish a bond as security for government property offered so that the War Department could supply rifles and other equipment for the work now under way. Mr. Somers concurred in this interpretation of the question.

Julius Hyman of the National Security League speakers' bureau also supported the application.

"There is no provision of law," the opinion added, "which prescribes minimum rates; in fact, this court has determined that the respondent canot fix a minimum rate."

This reference was to the recent decision by Supreme Court Justice John Ford ordering Commissioner Whalen to issue a cut-rate license to Eugene Piantoni of Astoria. The Appellate Division will hear argument on Commissioner Whalen's appeal in this case next week.

Questions Grounds of Action.

Justice Strong's belief that Mrs. Morton's allegation that public safety required the barring of cut-rate cab operation was not well-grounded was indicated in an exchange of comments with R. L. Javits, counsel for Mrs. Morton.

"There are even now many accidents upon the streets," Mr. Javits told the court, during argument for continuance of the prohibitory order.

"Scores," he said, when asked by Justice Strong how many accidents occurred involving taxicabs.

"That's not many, considering the millions of people in this city," Justice Strong replied.

"I guess the police department has plenty of summonses and will hand them out when necessary to take care of that situation," was the court's comment when Mr. Javits declared that the operation of low rate cabs would fill the streets with cabs "dashing along at maddening speed."

"This will lead to guerilla warfare," was another of Mr. Javits' arguments.

"No, I don't think so," Justice Strong replied.

Amalgamated officials reported yesterday that Paul Cozzi, owner of the only cab in the city operating under a 15-cent-a-mile license, was still doing a "land office business." Cozzi obtained his license a few hours before Mrs. Morton got her order.

Mayor Walker's taxicab commission, headed by Frank P. Walsh, attorney, will hold an organization meeting in City Hall this morning. The fact that the commission had been appointed and would investigate the industry was set out by Mr. O'Brien yesterday in his argument for vacating the prohibitory order.

Friends and foes of the cut-rate cab were preparing data yesterday for submission to the commission. It was learned that the commission intends to delve thoroughly into the methods of organizing and operating cab fleets, with emphasis upon the provisions made for taking care of damage claims arising from accidents to taxicab passengers. The commission will hold extensive hearings and will make known its schedule soon after organization.

GOV. COOPER HOLDS PRISON FIRE WAS SET

Accepts Theory of Fire Marshal Instead of Inquiry Board, Which Blamed Wiring.

DISASTER LAID TO SYSTEM

Failure to Be Prepared for Such an Emergency Caused Loss of Life, Says Report.

By F. RAYMOND DANIELL.

Special to The New York Times.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, May 2.—Holding that the Ohio penitentiary fire, in which 322 convicts perished, was incendiary in origin and that the heavy loss of life could not have been avoided under the circumstances, Governor Myers Y. Cooper declared tonight that the prison must be made "fireproof and secure" and "so manned as to bring about modern administrative control and discipline."

In effect, the Governor's statement rejected the findings of the board of inquiry he appointed after the fire with Attorney General Gilbert Bettman at its head. The report of this body, made public at the State House earlier in the day, ascribed the fire to defective wiring in a cell block under repair. It also held prison officials responsible for the heavy death toll because of tardiness in sounding the fire alarm, in releasing the prisoners from their cells and in failing to take proper measures to prepare for such an emergency.

Fire Marshal Supports Governor.

Coincident with the releasing of Attorney General Bettman's report, bristling with implied condemnation of Warden Preston E. Thomas, for whose suspension he asked vainly at the outset of his inquiry, the report of Ray R. Gill, State fire marshal, was made public by the Governor. Fire Marshal Gill said he was convinced the fire was incendiary in origin, that it was "started by some unknown person" and that he would produce proof later in a supplemental report.

Meanwhile within the walls of the prison National Guardsmen were still trying to bring about order. The convicts maintained a surly quiet, broken occasionally by sporadic outbreaks and attacks on guards and prisoners who resumed work.

A report published in a local newspaper that eight men had escaped under cover of the fire was declared to be "without foundation" tonight by Warden Thomas and D. J. Bonzo, the record clerk, both of whom declared tht no check-up of prisoners had been made. So far as they knew, the only man who got away was Michael Dorn, who slipped out at the height of the fire disguised as a doctor and who was reported captured in Cleveland today.

The Governor's Statement.

In his statement Governor Cooper said the board of inquiry was "under a considerable handicap in making a thorough-going inquiry because of the excitement and tension naturally attending a tragedy of so grave a nature."

"At the outset," the statement went on, "the report of the board of inquiry recognizes the possibility of the fire originating from incendiary causes, although inclining to the belief that the underlying cause was defective electrical wiring. On the other hand, the report of the State fire marshal, also before me, seems definitely to incline to the belief that the fire was of incendiary origin.

"Because of the unusual facilities, the specialized personnel and technical knowledge available to the State Fire Marshal and the Ohio Inspection Bureau, weight must be given to their observations. At this time, when there is such a diversity of opinion existing, I do not feel it safe to accept conclusively the theory that electrical wiring was the underlying cause of the fire nor is such acceptance urged by the board of inquiry.

"The report sets forth two major weaknesses, each of which had its influences upon the result growing out of the catastrophe.

"First—The physical conditions at and surrounding the site of the fire brought about by the fact that new construction was in progress, where a large number of men were working and large quantities of material, not of fireproof nature, were in use.

"Second—The human factor, which is subjected to criticism in the report on the ground of alleged absence of an organized plan to meet the emergency of a fire and also failure to designate any one to command the special situation within the penitentiary walls.

"These failures are said directly to have contributed to cause the loss of life. There is beyond question merit in the conclusions of the Board of Inquiry in these regards. Retrospectively, these are but natural conclusions. However, it must not be lost sight of that there has been another ever present threat and hazard beyond the possibility of fire and with possibilities of most serious consequences, confronting the administrative officials at the penitentiary—namely that of riot and wholesale escape.

"From the findings it would appear that there was some one in authority and command at the actual scene of the fire, and for that reason any further specific designation probably would not have helped the situation or changed the results.

Inquiry Board Blames Wiring.

Regarding the cause of the fire the board of inquiry reported:

"There was no evidence to lead the board to the conclusion that the fire was either of incendiary or spontaneous combustion origin. There was, however, strong circumstancial evidence that the fire was caused by defective wiring."

Mr. Gill in his report admitted he was "aware of the dangerous practices" in connection with temporary electric wiring in the prison, but said he had received information that threats had been made to burn the prison or part of it. The most conclusive proof that a short circuit did not start the fire, he said, was that guards testified to seeing the electric lights burning in the cell block after the fire started.

The board of inquiry further reported:

"But, although reasonable care would have demanded either the turning off of the current after work ceased or the posting of a guard to watch for fires, neither was done, and the evidence showed that no plan existed and no organized arrangement had been made among the officers and guards to meet an emergency of fire in a cell house."

The board found that from ten to twenty minutes existed between the time when the fire was discovered and an alarm was turned in by prison officials, and that "confusion as to how the prisoners in the cell block should be handled" was "directly traceable to the lack of an organized plan of meeting the emergency of fire and that this failure directly contributed to cause the loss of life."

The board found there was "vagueness as to whether any instructions were given the guards about releasing prisoners and failure to designate some one after the emergency arose to take command at the burning cell house directly contributed to cause the loss of lives."

Conditions at the prison, the report stated, "called for the exercise of a higher degree of care than would be necessary in a modern penal institution," but "the degree of care which the circumstances required was not exercised."

PUTS BLAME ON LEGISLATORS.

Prof. Glueck Also Censures Prison Officials for Riots.

"The lengthening series of prison riots, culminating in the Ohio disaster, is the answer of the 'forgotten man' to the 'treat-'em-rough' type of penologist," Dr. Sheldon Glueck, Professor of Criminology at the Harvard Law School and an official delegate of the United States Government to the International Prison Congress in Prague, said in a statement issued here yesterday. Dr. Glueck is co-author of a recent study of 500 criminal careers.

He places the blame for the prison riots directly upon State legislators and prison administrations, and indirectly on the general public for complacently permitting officials to use evil penological methods.

"Most important, I believe, is the unpardonable attitude of legislators, whose point of view in the last few years has indeed changed, but changed for utter neglect of the priso nproblem to the passing of mechanical fourth-offender legislation of the Baumes type. To all the other evils has been added the forcible repression of the one thing the prisoner had left—hope."

Clipped-Eared Schnauzer Pups Evicted by City; Liked Fifth Avenue, but Court Banishes Them

Three small Schnauzers went sadly back to New Jersey late yesterday afternoon. They had expected much of the city, but it had done nothing but expel them. They were not wanted. No more looking out on the hurrying crowds of nice people along Fifth Avenue, no more barking contentedly at magistrates. The future was in the past and that was too black to contemplate. A life of soup bones loomed, not dog biscuits.

Four days ago they came to New York from Hillside. They had a pleasant trip. Upon their arrival they were ushered with ceremony into the window of the London Dog and Bird Shop at 300 Fifth Avenue. From that vantage point they sniggered at dowagers and growled at poodles. Children stopped wistfully in front of the windows and elderly men watched them play with bits of paper. Seeing the audience, they played more importantly. Had they stayed there a week they would have been elephants.

But on Thursday morning Inspector Garrett W. Howard of the A. S. P. C. A. went by the window. He looked in and saw them. He looked closer and found that their ears had been clipped. He remembered a law against owning dogs with clipped ears. He went inside, handed Robert Lubbon, the proprietor, a summons and then seized the Schnauzers. They didn't like leaving the window for the society's home, but it was one of those things.

Yesterday the case came up before Magistrate Flood in Jefferson Market Court. Mr. Lubbon explained that he pleaded guilty to owning the dogs, but he thought that as the ears had not been clipped in this State they were within the law. An attorney for the society said differently and the magistrate after looking it up fined the owner $2. He did it apologetically and said that he knew "there was no bad intention" on Mr. Lubbon's part. The latter, in turn, agreed to send the puppies back to New Jersey.

The exhibits were composed in court. They growled at the attendants and barked at Magistrate Flood. At one stage there was a suggestion that they might be done away with, but the court stopped it before it became more than a suggestion.

GOLD STAR MOTHERS INSTALL OFFICERS

W. F. Deegan Tells Meeting of the City's Plans to Welcome the Western Delegation.

Officers of the newly formed New York State Chapter of the American Gold Star Mothers were installed at a meeting yesterday in the Pennsylvania Hotel. Representative David J. O'Connell, one of the authors of the pilgrimage bill providing for the tour of mothers to France, who was to have been present, was represented by Stephen A. Rudd, alderman of the district which Mr. O'Connell represents.

On behalf of the Gold Star Sisters, Miss Harriet T. Dondero presented an American flag to the organization.

Major William F. Deegan, chairman of the Mayor's committee on the reception of Gold Star Mothers, outlined plans for the reception of the first delegation of 236 mothers from Western States who will arrive in New York next week. They will be received at City Hall next Tuesday and afterward entertained.

A feature of the celebration at City Hall will be the first playing of the Gold Star Mothers March, composed by Mrs. Jennie J. Doyle of 7,220 Fort Hamilton Parkway, Brooklyn.

On Wednesday, a bon voyage celebration will be held on the pier of the United States Lines in Hoboken. The first delegation will sail on the America, and arrangements have been made for the Macom to accompany the ship down the bay with a delegation of ninety mothers of Greater New York.

Among the new officers of the New York State organization installed yesterday were:

MATHILDA BURLING, president.
MINNIE V. Higgins, vice president.
ANNA JOHNSON, recording secretary.
MAMIE L. BROWER, corresponding secretary.
CATHERINE A. MARTIN, treasurer.
META STEUER, historian.
JULIA ZIMMERMAN, chaplain.
FRANCES A. WALTERS and ANNA MICHEL, color bearers.
HARRIETT L. MALLON, sergeant at arms.

BOSTON POLICE CHIEF REFUSES TO RESIGN

Defies Gov. Allen After a Stormy Conference Over Charges of Corruption in Force.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, May 2.—Police Commissioner Herbert A. Wilson of Boston today bluntly refused to give up his position voluntarily and, as a result, steps to bring about his enforced removal will be taken Monday morning unless his resignation is placed in hands of Governor Allen before that day.

Such was the upshot of a stormy session between the Governor and the commissioner at the State House this morning over yesterday's report of Attorney General Joseph E. Warner that his investigation into the retirement of former Special Officer Oliver D. Garrett, one time "czar" of the liquor squad, had uncovered grave evidence of graft and corruption in the Police Department, and the utter incompetence of its commissioner.

Just what took place at the conference was not learned, but it was assumed that the commissioner had been given a chance to vacate with as much grace as possible the position he has held for eight years and that he had declined to withdraw under fire.

This was confirmed when the commissioner shouldered his way past newspaper men with the curt statement that he had not resigned, to be followed a few minutes later by the Governor, who made public a five-line letter to the commissioner in which he demanded Wilson's resignation.

Meanwhile, William G. Foley, District Attorney, today began to study the findings which Attorney General Warner turned over to him yesterday for presentation to next week's Suffolk County grand jury for criminal prosecution.

WARNS SOUTH AGAINST NARROW LABOR POLICY

Research Worker Says Industry Will Lag if Employes' Welfare Is Disregarded.

Industrial development in the South is likely to be marked by bitter labor wars such as have already occurred in North Carolina and will be greatly retarded if the industrial executives adopt a narrow policy of dealing with labor, according to Everett P. Partridge of Ann Arbor, Mich., associate editor of Industrial Engineering Chemistry, journal of the American Chemical Society, who reported yesterday the result of a survey of Southern industries.

"It will be a narrow policy which, in attempting to maintain cheap labor costs, permits the same cycle of labor conflicts in the South in the next quarter century that took place in the development of industry in the Northeast," said Mr. Partridge.

"It is significant that industrial concerns with well-developed programs to further the health and recreation of their employes and to prevent profiteering by unscrupulous dealers in supplies, experience very little trouble with labor. Possibly the best means of counteracting radical labor agitation lies, not in riot guns, but in attractive, sanitary industrial villages supplied with baseball diamonds, tennis courts and company-operated stores.

"There are several peculiar problems involved in the utilization of Southern labor. These problems have their origin in the inevitable clash of industrial discipline with the habits of a sensitive, independent type of people.

"The solution apparently lies in attempting to keep the interest of the laborer centred on his job. The foreman who descends from the autocrat to the practical psychologist seems to be getting results in regions where traditional methods of supervision continue to fail."

SAVE 36 IN CUBAN JAIL FIRE.

Police Lead Out Prisoners as Block Including a Hospital Burns.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HAVANA, May 2.—Through the smoke-filled corridors of the municipal jail at Guantanamo, policemen and guards conducted thirty-six prisoners to safety as an entire city block, part of which was occupied by the jail, was razed by fire at an early hour this morning.

The block comprises the emergency hospital, the offices of the municipal electoral board and various other city departments. Sixty thousand dollars in the municipal treasury was saved.

Say Census Count Is Low.

COLLINGSWOOD, N. J., May 2 (AP).—Borough officials have issued a statement criticizing census figures for the borough, recently enumerated. The official enumeration is 12,562, as compared to 8,714 in 1920. They contend the count should be nearer the 15,000 mark, and say that more than 200 complaints have been received from citizens who have not been counted. One of the complainants is William H. Dunn, a member of the Borough Commission.

HOOVER IS NEUTRAL IN JERSEY CONTEST

Frelinghuysen Gets Message Saying No Stand Has Been Taken for Opponent.

MORROW REMAINS ENVOY

Washington Hears Prediction He Will Make Senate Race on Radical Modification Issue.

Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, candidate for the Republican nomination for Senator from New Jersey, and opponent of Dwight W. Morrow, made public yesterday at his headquarters in Newark a telegram from the office of President Hoover denying that the President was committed to Mr. Morrow's candidacy.

Former Senator Frelinghuysen's statement follows:

"In their efforts to make Mr. Morrow appear as the candidate of the National Administration, those responsible for Mr. Morrow's candidacy have made certain statements. Governor Larson has even gone so far as to intimate publicly at a meeting of Morrow workers in Newark on April 23 that he had Mr. Morrow's own word for the Administration's favorable attitude.

"In order to determine what truth there was in these statements, I communicated with the White House and on April 25 received the following reply from President Hoover through his secretary, Walter H. Newton:

> Your wire received. Neither the President nor the Administration has taken any part as between candidates for a Republican nomination in any Republican primary in any State.
>
> WALTER H. NEWTON,
> Secretary to the President.

Joseph E. Monaghan, campaign manager for John A. Kelly of Newark, who is a third aspirant for the Senatorial nomination, made public yesterday a letter sent to both Mr. Morrow and Mr. Frelinghuysen calling for a declaration not only on opposition to prohibition but on a substitute method for control of liquor. Mr. Monaghan said Mr. Kelly favored repeal of the Volstead Act and automatic liquor control by the States in the absence of a Federal enabling act.

Morrow to Stay As Envoy.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—Dwight W. Morrow will not enter the present session of the Senate but will remain Ambassador to Mexico during his campaign for the New Jersey Republican nomination for the Senate which, it was predicted in some quarters here tonight, will be made on a platform favoring a radical modification on the prohibition issue.

President Hoover had desired Mr. Morrow to accept the offer of Senator Baird to resign to permit him to enter the Senate so that he could defend the treaty along with the other two Senatorial commissioners. Upon finding that there was very little opposition to the treaty, the President, however, is represented as agreeing with others that Mr. Morrow could be serviceable to the treaty in appearing at the Foreign Relations Committee hearings.

According to New Jersey leaders Mr. Morrow will make his pronouncement on the wet question at his first political meeting, which will be held in the next two weeks in Newark, N. J.

SIDAR AT TAKE-OFF FIELD.

Mexican Flier Will Start Buenos Aires Flight in Ten Days.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, May 2.—Colonel Pablo Sidar left by plane this morning for the State of Oaxaca, whence he will attempt a non-stop flight to Buenos Aires.

Colonel Sidar, accompanied by Lieutenant Carlos Rovirosa, was escorted by a fleet of Mexican Army planes when he took the air at Valbuena Field this morning. Several thousand persons were present to bid him farewell despite the early hour of 6:15 o'clock. Their plane is a 425-horsepower Emsco.

Colonel Sidar and his companion landed three hours later at San Jerónimo. They will make test flights and other preparations for about ten days at the Rancho Loco Pelado there. When he takes off from the ranch on the long flight thirty Mexican military planes will fly with him for several hours.

Colonel Sidar plans to fly from the ranch down the Pacific Coast, then turn west and fly over the Andes to the Argentine capital. He visited Buenos Aires by plane about a year ago.

GOLDSBOROUGH NEAR GOAL.

Darkness Forces Flier Down Seventy Miles From Los Angeles.

COLTON, Cal., May 2 (AP).—Brought down by darkness here tonight, Frank Goldsborough, 19-year-old transcontinental flier, was forced to spend the night seventy miles short of Los Angeles, where his adventurous trip will end.

Goldsborough, whose home is in Westfield, N. J., left El Paso, Texas, this morning. He stopped in Tucson, Ariz., for fuel and took off at 11:20 A. M., twenty minutes after landing, on a projected non-stop flight to Los Angeles.

Rain forced the youth to land at Yuma, Ariz., where he remained until 4:45 P. M. The rain did not let up and he took off into the storm, bent on reaching his goal. Darkness, however, interfered after he had passed the most dangerous part of the route, San Gorgonio Pass.

ARMY SURVEY PLANE DOWN.

One of 3 Mapping Philippine Airway Lands at Dumaguete.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MANILA, May 2.—One of three army Loening amphibian planes returning to Manila from Zamboanguita yesterday was forced down by motor trouble at Dumaguete, in Oriental Negros Province in the Southern Philippines. There was no casualty.

The other two planes reached Iloilo this after noon and are expected to continue to Manila tomorrow morning. Lieutenant Howland and his non-commissioned assistant remained with the crippled plane and will return to Manila by steamer.

The three amphibians left Manila April 20 for an extended survey of the airways and airports of the Southern Philippines with a view to developing commercial aviation.

His Only Heroes of Parliament Are Guy Fawkes and Cromwell

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 2.—A soap-box orator in Hyde Park expressed himself concerning Parliament today as follows:

"Only two good men ever went to Parliament. One was Guy Fawkes, who went there to blow it up. The other was Oliver Cromwell, who went there to shut it up."

UNITED HOSPITAL FUND SUBMITS PENSION PLAN

1,200 Directors of Member Institutions Get Proposal for Care of Aged Workers.

The United Hospital Fund announced yesterday that a report proposing a pension system for employes of non-municipal hospitals had been submitted by the hospital pension committee of 1,200 trustees, directors and superintendents of member hospitals of the fund.

W. E. S. Griswold is chairman of the committee, which was appointed in 1928 as a result of a meeting of sixty directors, superintendents and other officers of hospitals, homes, settlements, universities, foundations, funds, bureaus and associations which had been called by the Russell Sage Foundation. The report recommends that each hospital consider establishing a plan of retirement allowances based on the principle of contributions by the employes as well as the hospitals.

The report holds that hospital service can be improved by the establishment of such a system and emphasizes that in any system established the employes should participate. The report was worked out in collaboration with representatives of large insurance companies and, the fund said, is the most comprehensive and detailed study of the question yet made in New York. It follows somewhat, it was said, the successful Superannuation Scheme for Nurses and Hospital Officers established in Great Britain and Ireland, and the committee was aided by Sir Edward Penton, chairman of the British system.

The system proposes that each hospital employe shall pay into the fund of his or her hospital an amount equal to 5 per cent of his regular salary, the amount to be duplicated by the hospital. Annuities would be provided by the reserve fund thus built up and a pension board or committee set up by each hospital would administer the fund.

The report points out that such systems are almost universal in public service, widespread in the field of education and developing rapidly in industry.

FORD DRY DRIVE EFFECTIVE.

Drinking by Employes Drops One-half—Bootleggers Cooperate.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, Mich., May 2.—Evidence of drinking among Ford workmen has decreased 50 per cent in the two weeks that have elapsed since the Ford Motor Company issued a warning that all employes found using liquor or frequenting places where it was sold or kept would lose their jobs, Harry H. Bennett, chief of the Ford service division, said today.

Squads of raiders have entered dozens of hotels, stores and coffee shops since the official announcement that the Ford and city police would cooperate in a drive to dry up the suburb.

Bottles and jugs and tins of wine and whisky have been spilled, stills and breweries have been wrecked, and axes have battered in the heads of kegs filled with beer and mash. Slot machines, punchboards and other illegal paraphernalia found in the raids have been seized and destroyed.

One of the most significant consequences is that bootleggers not only are taking unusual precautions with all strange customers, but actually are barring their doors to all known employes of the Ford Motor Company.

PROCLAIMS MOTHER'S DAY.

Roosevelt Calls Upon People of State to Observe May 11.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, May 2.—Governor Roosevelt today proclaimed Sunday, May 11, as Mother's Day.

"The setting apart of one day in the year as Mother's Day," said the proclamation, "has always impressed me as being a particularly beautiful and happy custom. We all know instinctively the most appropriate way in which to honor either the memory or presence of our greatest and best friend on earth.

"Now therefore, I, Franklin D. Roosevelt, Governor of the State of New York, do hereby proclaim and set apart Sunday, May 11, as Mother's Day and urge the people of the State, by an intimate and personal observance of the day, to make as happy as possible and gladden the hearts of God's medium for our very being."

STORM'S TOLL 24; DAMAGE $5,000,000

Red Cross Rushes Aid to Sufferers in Gales and Tornadoes That Hit 9 Central States.

FEARS FELT FOR AVIATOR

Lieut. R. E. Cobb Is Missing on Flight From Illinois to Selfridge Field, Mich.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 2.—Red Cross and National Guard units moved tonight from metropolitan centres to relieve the distress inflicted last night by the cyclonic disturbance which, covering nine central States and attended by tornadoes, killed twenty-four persons, injured scores of others and caused property damage estimated at $5,000,000.

The death toll, as compiled tonight from Associated Press reports and other sources, was as follows:

City.	No. of Dead.
Norborne, Mo.	5
Tekamah, Neb.	4
Lake City, Minn.	3
Duluth, Minn.	3
Antioch, Ill.	2
Kickapoo, Kan.	2
Chicago	1
Rockford, Ill.	1
Galesburg, Ill.	1
Lawton, N. D.	1
Westby, Wis.	1
Russell, Iowa	1

Nine of the dead were women and one an infant.

The gyrating black funnels, characteristic of tornadoes, struck the four widely separated villages of Westby, Norborne, Russell and Tekamah, the havoc apparently being worst at Tekamah. Reports at the local weather bureau indicated that outside of these four communities the wind was a strong, steady gale and not a tornado.

Tent Shelters Provided.

Red Cross workers from mid-West headquarters at St. Louis were at Tekamah tonight and their early reports indicated that the storm's toll there was worse than elsewhere.

The dead at Tekamah were John Houser, Albert Brimley, Mrs. William Tuttle and the 2-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Hans C. Anderson, who died in his mother's arms as their home was rent by the twister. The total damage to property in the hamlet was estimated at $150,000. Tent shelters will be provided for the several hundred homeless.

In Northwestern Lake County, Ill., the dead were Richard Shannon, whose cottage collapsed upon him, and Mrs. Elizabeth French of Oak Park, a Chicago suburb, who succumbed to an apoplectic stroke, due to excitement during the storm.

A cloudburst, sending a wall of water down a ravine, inundated a stalled automobile and drowned two women and a child at Lake City, Minn.

Fear for Army Flier.

Fears were entertained tonight for an aviator and a score of mariners. An army flier, Lieutenant Richard E. Cobb, who took off from Belleville, Ill., at 4 P. M. yesterday for Selfridge Field, Mich., had not been heard from. Officials at Selfridge Field expressed fear that his plane had been wrecked and he killed or injured in the storm.

The freighter Munising of the Cleveland Cliffs Iron Company was hard aground on a shoal a quarter-mile north of Parisienne Island light with Lake Superior still turbulent from the storm.

Other ore carriers and a lighter steamed to the Munising but were unable to get close enough to attach lines and were forced to run behind Parisienne Island to ride out the storm. The Munising's crew was believed to be aboard.

ASSAILS "JAZZ JOURNALISM"

A. I. Finley Urges Leading Papers to Join in Raising Standards.

"The philistines of jazz journalism are upon us and it does not yet appear to what lengths their excesses will go," declared Alvin I. Findley, for twenty-five years editor of The Iron Age, a trade publication, speaking yesterday before members of the Association of New York Business Paper Editors at a luncheon in the Hotel Astor.

Mr. Findley, who only recently resigned from The Iron Age, spoke on the future of business publications and their relation with periodicals of more unlimited appeal.

"It is a time," he said, "when so much that is offered to the reading public has back of it a low appraisal of reader taste and reader intelligence that it is time that those papers which have led in the past should now advance to a new high ground and stand together to restore reality and orderly thinking to the place that has been usurped by the bizarre, the freakish and the unreal.

"If, as we are told, the movies appeal to the mind of the twelve-year-old, then many popular articles of the day appeal only to the youth of the early 'teen age. We should strive to make our business publications models of clear, crisp and pungent expression."

fellow-men, or whether they are willing to issue injunctions that shall enthrone the men who want to bear down on those who toil.

"When we are passing on a judge, therefore, we ought to know whether not only is he a good lawyer, not only is he honest, and I admit that both of these things can be applied to this applicant, but we ought to know how he approaches these great questions of human liberty.

"This is the great tribunal that Roosevelt says leads the way in constitutional questions for the change of our government, the greatest lawmaking body on earth, the power that no one can overrule or override, whose word is final, whose decrees are final and from whose word and judgment there is no appeal. Therefore, we ought to know that every one who ascends to that holy bench should have in his heart and in his mind the intention of looking after the liberties of his fellow-citizens, of construing every question of law on present civilization, of discarding, if necessary, the old precedents of barbarous days and construing the Constitution and the laws in the light of modern day, present civilization.

"I close as I began. Judge Parker is only an incident. The Supreme Court is only an incident. Human liberty is the issue. The preservation of our government is the issue."

Senator Fess, leading the fight for confirmation, discussed injunctions and criticized the opposition for denouncing Judge Parker and the Supreme Court for following the laws made by Congress.

"Senator Norris inveighed continuously against the power of injunction," Mr. Fess said, "and I raised the question whether the remedy for what he is trying to reach is not legislation rather than judicial decision. If an injunction should not be issued, here is the place to make the change.

"It is law, written into the statutes by Congress and signed by the President. If we want to eliminate it, there is one way to do it. The lawmaking body that made it is the one to repeal it. If we do not conclude to repeal, then it might be amended if, as it is, it should not continue.

"It is not logical to ask the court to do what the law-making body refuses to do. The court is an interpreting body, not a lawmaking body. Congress is the lawmaking body, and if a statute dealing with the injunction is the offense, let the body that made that offense repeal or modify it and not demand that a court exercise extrajudicial power in undertaking to modify or repeal it.

"As I have stated over and over, the court is guided by the law and not by its sympathies or emotions; and when my friend continually speaks about the lack of sympathy of the court with humanities, the difficulty is that 'human rights' has no limitation. It is broad as the sea."

Senator Simmons read into the Record a telegram from the North Carolina Bar Association, in session at Pinehurst, declaring that Judge Parker had correctly followed Supreme Court precedent in the Red Jacket case and endorsing him as a strong lawyer, eminently fitted for the highest bench.

EDUCATORS 'DRYEST' IN PROHIBITION POLL

Bench and Bar Is Wettest of Six Special Groups Counted by The Literary Digest.

PASTORS HERE FOR REPEAL

SECTIONAL VIEWS PREVAIL

Ballots Reflect Community Rather Than Professional Bias—Physicians 50% for Repeal.

The educators of the country are dryer than the dryest State, and the lawyers wetter than the wettest State in The Literary Digest national prohibition poll, according to returns of the magazine's six special polls as published in today's issue of The Literary Digest. Special ballots were sent out to bankers, clergymen, educators, lawyers, physicians and Digest subscribers.

The educators voted more strongly in favor of enforcement than did the clergymen, although the latter also gave a majority of their votes for enforcement. Approximately 60 per cent of the educators' ballots were marked for enforcement. The lawyers, on the other hand, were the only one of the six groups polling a clear majority for repeal, giving 55 per cent of their vote in this column. The physicians cast almost half of their vote for repeal, and The Digest subscribers also gave a repeal plurality. The bankers polled a slight plurality for enforcement over repeal, though enforcement received less than half the vote.

Modification Loses Ground.

A noticeable trend in these polls, which were conducted somewhat later than the main poll, according to The Literary Digest, is a heavy decrease in the proportion of the vote for modification. No returns in the main poll sent to 20,000,000 persons were reported by the magazine this week. An unusually high percentage of the ballots were voted in the special polls, varying from 31.46 per cent to 46.83 per cent in the professional groups and reaching 55.7 per cent in the case of The Digest subscribers.

In some cases geographical location seemed to have a greater effect on the voting than did professional grouping. Clergymen in the District of Columbia, Louisiana, Nevada, New York and Wisconsin cast absolute majorities for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment. On the other hand, lawyers in South Dakota cast 50 per cent of their vote in favor of enforcement and physicians in Kansas polled an enforcement majority.

The vote of the bankers was the most evenly divided as between enforcement and repeal. A total of 218,711 ballots were mailed to bankers, of which 84,824 had been returned at the time of tabulation. The bankers voted 35,210 for enforcement, 34,518 for repeal and 15,096 for modification.

Geographical differences were especially noticeable in the bankers' group. In New York, New Jersey and Connecticut they polled repeal majorities, and in Kansas, Arkansas and Tennessee, gave enforcement majorities. There were, however, repeal majorities in Montana and Idaho, and an enforcement majority in Delaware.

In the poll of clergymen, 46,639 ballots were counted in the total of 116,235 sent out. Among the clergymen, 34 per cent were recorded in favor of repeal. The group cast 26,863 votes for enforcement, 15,912 for repeal and 3,864 for modification. Besides repeal majorities in four States and the District of Columbia, the clergymen gave repeal pluralities in three other States, Connecticut, Massachusetts and Rhode Island.

Detailed Count Listed.

7,000 Searched on Leaving Bremen as She Sails; Customs Men, After Liquor, Revive Hip-Slapping

The hip-slapping order which was rescinded some time ago by Seymour Lowman, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury in charge of customs, was revived last night when the Bremen of the North German Lloyd Lines sailed from pier 4 at the foot of Fifty-eighth Street, Brooklyn.

Most of the 7,000 visitors to the ship were searched by the customs guards as they left the boat, and more than one fist fight was narrowly averted when husbands found that their wives were being searched. The men in the crowd were thoroughly "frisked," and the women's coats were pulled back and wraps which they carried on their arms were examined by the guards.

Hundreds of automobiles parked near by were gone through by the customs men, and the occupants of the machines were ejected while the officials turned up the car seats.

Several pints and half pints of alleged liquor were seized. They were taken as customs contraband which, it was contended, was being smuggled into the country. Despite the fact that those visitors who were found to have alleged liquor in their possession maintained that it had been taken to the boat and not bought on the ship, the seizure was made on the contraband basis. No arrests were made.

One man who had brought a box of candy to his wife who was sailing and had been asked by her to take it home to their children, was detained half an hour while he explained that the candy had been purchased in New York. The box bore the label of a New York store.

The agents were active aboard the ship and made a round of the staterooms to see if liquor was present. When liquor was found they inquired if it had been purchased from the ship's crew. The squad was in plain clothes.

The Bremen sailed with 1,807 passengers.

DRYS LOSE FIVE MORE CITIES.

Wet Gains Continue in 4 Reported for the Second Time.

Advocates of repeal and modification of prohibition won a complete victory in the returns from nine cities reported yesterday in The Literary Digest prohibition poll. Four of the cities newly reported and three of those reported for the second time gave pluralities to repeal. One new city showed a preference for modification, and one of those reported for the second time did likewise. All nine cities cast anti-dry majorities.

Auburn, Me.; Cumberland, Md.; Muskegon, Mich., and Champaign, Ill., of the newly reported cities, cast repeal pluralities. Modification received the preference in Santa Cruz, Cal. Of the cities previously reported, Duluth, Minn., Salt Lake City and Cambridge, Mass., polled pluralities for repeal, while Canton, Ohio, gave modification a plurality. The figures follow:

PRESIDENT INTENDS SLUMP SURVEY ONLY

Proposed Commission to Study Economic Crisis Will Attempt No Dictation.

LACK OF HASTE STRESSED

Legge, Whom President Thinks Able to Defend Himself, Answers the Chamber of Commerce.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—The commission which President Hoover last night told the United States Chamber of Commerce he hoped to appoint will not be a super-power attempting to dictate the economic life of the United States, but merely a body to examine the experiences of the recent boom and slump.

The President has no idea, it was authoritatively indicated today, of trying to direct the economic progress of the United States, but he does desire to ascertain the causes and effect of the crisis of last Fall and Winter, in order, as he said last night, to attempt to find a preventive and a remedy.

Studies would be made by the commission, similar to those undertaken with reference to the boom and slump of 1919-20, which, the President assured the Chamber, had an important effect in furnishing warning signals whereby "thousands of business men avoided the maelstrom of speculation," in the market crisis. The study of eight years ago, administration leaders argue, had a fine result in crystallizing ideas and spreading understanding.

Waits for Complete Background.

It was made clear this afternoon that President Hoover does not intend to rush ahead pell-mell with his plan, but will wait until the situation becomes clearer and the nation has the full background of its disastrous experience.

The Chamber of Commerce, in a bulletin today, briefly referred to the Presidential proposal as "a national economic conference."

Attempts were made today, without success, to ascertain what "exception" the President had in mind when he said in his speech that a telegraphic canvass of Governors and Mayors "brings with one exception the unanimous report of continuously decreasing unemployment each month," and a promise that May would show even better progress. It was stated at the White House that the President had no intention of particularizing concerning any State or city, and for that reason the name of the "exception" was withheld.

Reports that Governor Roosevelt had written a letter to Secretary Lamont criticizing some of the administration's statements on business so far as they related to New York brought a statement that no such letter had been received. Mr. Lamont said that Mr. Roosevelt replied telegraphically, with other Governors, to a request for information on the unemployment situation, but that no criticism was contained in it, and that it would not be singled out from other replies for publication.

Thinks Legge Can Defend Himself.

Although the Federal Farm Board was severely criticized by the Chamber of Commerce in a resolution yesterday no comment upon the chamber's action was made at the White House.

It is understood, however, that the President considers Chairman Legge capable of taking care of himself in such a controversy. That the chairman was in no way chastened by the chamber's course was demonstrated by the reply he made today when questioned on the matter.

"The Chamber of Commerce proposes to make the Farm Board impotent," Mr. Legge said, "and would sponsor another national conference to adopt some more resolutions of sympathy for agriculture.

"That action simply confirms what we told the membership of that organization Wednesday—they are for something to help the farmer only until they find out it works.

"Naturally, we had hoped they would support our efforts to aid agriculture, but if they are going to oppose us we are glad they have come out in the open. It's much easier to deal with an enemy who is squarely against you than one who pretends to be friendly but fights you behind your back.

"Our client is the farmer, and we are going to continue to serve him just as the agricultural marketing act intended we should—for his benefit, not the benefit of some one else."

TO CONVENE AT BUFFALO.

Roosevelt Committee on Employment Will Continue Studies.

Special to The New York Times.

BUFFALO, N. Y., May 2.—With a view to furthering its studies, Governor Roosevelt's special committee for stabilization of industry and prevention of unemployment will convene in Buffalo on May 13.

Maxwell S. Wheelock, vice president of the Larkin Company and a member of the committeee, is making arrangements for the session here. The other members of the committee, all of whom are expected to attend, are Henry Bruere and Ernest G. Drayer of New York City, John Sullivan, State President of the Federation of Labor; Frances Perkins, State Industrial Commissioner, and Henry H. Stebbins of Rochester.

DAVIS FOR THE DRY LAW.

Labor Secretary, Seeking Senate Seat, in Accord With Hoover.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, May 2.—Secretary of Labor Davis, who is seeking a nomination for Senator, replying to a questionnaire from the Pittsburgh chapter of the Crusaders, an anti-prohibition organization, has replied that he favors law enforcement.

"I was a delegate to the Kansas City convention which nominated Mr. Hoover for President," Mr. Davis wrote. "At that time I pledged myself to support Mr. Hoover and his administration. I was honored by selection to Mr. Hoover's Cabinet. I am still a member of that Cabinet.

"In view of these circumstances, I do not see how I can decently say that I favor anything other than the law and law enforcement. It may be said, too, that I am heartily in accord with the President's views on the subject of prohibition."

MORE ALCOHOLICS IN CITY.

Dr. Gregory Also Reports Unexplained Rise in Mental Patients.

An increase in the number of alcoholic and mental patients treated in city institutions during the first three months of this year was disclosed yesterday in a report by Dr. Menas S. Gregory to Dr. J. G. William Greeff, Commissioner of Hospitals. Dr. Gregory, who is director of the department's psychiatric division, said he could not explain the increase.

In the three-month period this year there were 2,096 alcoholic patients, including 310 women. For the same period in 1928 there were 1,653, including 229 women. This year the number of mental cases was 1,995, including 821 women. Last year there were 1,605, including 726 women. Dr. Gregory said his division had been handicapped in caring for a large number of cases, pending the completion of the new psychopathic hospital that is to be built just north of Bellevue Hospital.

DENTISTS AVOID DRY ISSUE.

New Jersey Group Fail to Take Stand When Division Arises.

Special to The New York Times.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., May 2.—Because of a division of opinion among members onprohibition , the convention of the New Jersey State Dental Society refused today to take a stand on the question. The retiring president, Dr. E. L. Wharton of Newark, had in his report urged that the society recommend a change in the law.

Submitting the committee's report on the president's address, Dr. George H. Grim said that it had been found that a division of opinion existed and that for that reason believed it best that no action be taken.

The society recommended the following names to Governor M. F. Larson for the State Board of Registration and Examination:

C. A. Hopper — R. A. Albray
Adam Flutting — A. L. Harrington
C. L. Henderson — H. L. Romine

The Governor will select three from the six recommended.

PROF. BOHLEN SEES WET VICTORY AHEAD

HOLDS FEAR INJURES CAUSE

Says He Is Running for Senate to Show Politicians They Can Defy Anti-Saloon League.

Pennsylvania is now the battleground of the first great struggle in a long fight for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, it was asserted here last evening by Professor Francis H. Bohlen of the law faculty of the University of Pennsylvania, candidate for United States Senator on a wet platform in the Republican primaries.

Professor Bohlen, who visited New York for a conference with other members of the American Law Institute, said in an interview that his object and that of his colleagues on the wet ticket was not primarily to gain office, but to prove that it was not suicidal for a candidate to take an open stand against prohibition and thus to set an example for the rest of the country.

"It is high time," said Professor Bohlen, "that the terrorism which the Anti-Saloon League has imposed on politicians should be terminated, and we believe the time is right to start the fight."

Professor Bohlen's colleagues on the wet ticket are Thomas W. Phillips for Governor, and Charles Dorance for Lieutenant Governor.

Sees Wet Strength Growing.

"All of us are busy men and not out for office for its own sake," explained Professor Bohlen. "In the beginning we thought only of bringing out a protest vote. But such a widespread opposition to prohibition has developed, even among people who formerly favored it, that it appears now that we have a fighting chance to win. The wet sentiment in the industrial centres is highly organized, and we are finding an enormous response in Philadelphia. There is every indication that Philadelphia will poll as large a vote as Alfred E. Smith polled on the same issue.

"We believed that the people were ready for the issue and now they are proving that they are.

"Our ultimate object is the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment. That doesn't mean the return of the old saloon or anything like it. We want temperance in fact as against prohibition in name. We want the prohibition amendment repealed so that the States may regulate the sale of liquor according to local conditions and so obtain real temperance.

Seeks to Encourage Others.

"We realize that it will be a long fight, but we have got to make the first step. If we win, or even of we only poll a large vote, it will encourage others to follow our example.

"We are trying the experiment of coming out in the open and making it the issue in the Republican party, which is dominant in Pennsylvania. Once a great State like Pennsylvania shows that the vote can be registered on this issue and on this alone in an election, the death knell will have been sounded on the unholy alliance between the Anti-Saloon League and whichever party happens to be in power in any State. If the Republican party continues to be a party to this unholy alliance we feel that its hold on the industrial East, on which it depends to keep in power, will be lost."

The practical objects of the wet platform in Pennsylvania, he said, included the repeal of Pennsylvania's "baby Volstead law," which he said was even more severe than the Federal law.

"Meanwhile," he declared, "the sentiment we are creating will help in the election of wet Congressmen and legislators."

HOOVER IS CALLED 'NOT DRY AT HEART'

formed by General Atterbury and included friends around Philadelphia, while the other was a group in New York, headed by Courtland Nicoll. Both groups published the fact that they were wet and that they were affiliated with this association, but they did not believe Mr. Hoover to be a dry and would therefore support him.

It seems to me highly important that those groups recall to Mr. Hoover the attitude they took prior to election.

* * * * * *

From what I hear, Mr. Hoover has made up his mind that the drys are of that temperament which impels them to somewhat fanatically regard the wet and dry issue as being superior to all questions of government and of morals, and that, consequently, a dry will always scratch from the ticket a man who does not do lip service to the dry cause.

At the same time Mr. Hoover, I learn, believes that the wets are of a different temperament, and he thinks that he can get votes from the wets without espousing their cause, and that, therefore, as a matter of vote-getting, he had better take the dry side.

If he were sincerely a dry, one might hope to convince him by argument or statement of facts, but as I know that he is not at heart a dry I fear that I must approach the conclusion that he is a dry because of the prospective profit in votes, and nothing that has to do with right and wrong or with facts will make any impression upon him.

Sincerely yours,

WILLIAM H. STAYTON.

Senators Termed "Abusive."

An indication that Captain Stayton had cooperated with General Andrews, former Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, at General Andrews's request, in pushing legislation regarding medicinal liquor, was contained in a letter from Captain Stayton to General Andrews in January of 1927, which also contained the following discussion of the Senate:

"In that body there are a few abusive men like Willis, Heflin and Sheppard, who are very fond of boasting that the wets have no strength whatever; that the drys control 90 votes out of 96, or some other fool statement, and they are perpetually sending out this propaganda in the form of speeches so as to get more money out of their people."

"Do you want that charge to stand?" Senator Caraway asked.

"Yes, sir," Mr. Stayton replied.

"That is what I meant."

"Do you believe that?"

"Yes, I do."

"What speech did Senator Sheppard ever make on which you could, with any kind of a show of self-respect, make that charge?"

"I think most of his speeches justify that," said Captain Stayton.

Senator Caraway quoted Captain Stayton's letter further that "they have not been fair and square about it, but quite partisan and untruthful about it."

"You want that charge to stand?" asked Senator Caraway.

"Yes, sir," said Captain Stayton.

The examination of Captain Stayton covered a large file of letters and other material, including some penciled slips bearing notations of money presumably spent for liquor, which were attached to correspondence regarding a dinner at the University Club in Baltimore on Friday, April 13, 1928; at which former Senator Wadsworth was the principal speaker.

These slips were examined in detail by Senator Caraway, three of them indicating original quantities, the amounts returned, and finally the bill, which was $76.50. This represented, the slips were interpreted as meaning, three bottles of gin, one bottle of vermouth, twelve of champagne, three of Scotch and one of "liquor."

Stayton Denies Buying Liquor.

Following the reading of the slips Senator Blaine, while looking at a letter which was not entered in the record, asked Captain Stayton:

"Mr. Stayton, have you any knowledge or information as to whether or not the liquor that is listed on the loose slips here which the chairman read was served at a dinner evidently in celebration of a candidate for the Presidency of the United States just prior to June 20, 1928?"

"I have no personal knowledge, sir," Captain Stayton answered.

"You have no personal knowledge?"

"Was there such a dinner held?"

"Yes, there was such a dinner held," Captain Stayton admitted, but he added that the association did not purchase liquor and he did not know whether any had been bought, or if any was bought, who bought it.

A qualification of Captain Stayton's testimony yesterday that six members of the Cabinet believe prohibition a failure was noted today, when Chairman Caraway said a friend of Secretary Davis had protested at Mr. Davis's being named among the six. Captain Stayton pointed out that he at first had said Secretary Davis was wet, and then added, "not wet hardly."

References in letters by Captain Stayton to "packages" brought out another long series of questioning, culminating in the admission that one package mentioned contained peach brandy.

The Captain was carrying on a correspondence last year in an effort to obtain the appointment of Professor C. W. C. Schantz as superintendent of schools at Wilmington, Del., the activities indicated by the letters including conferences with Irenée du Pont. One of the letters, addressed to G. T. Barnhill Jr. at Wilmington, stated:

"It may be that I have another package, but as to that I am not sure. If it has been consumed, bully for you."

Says Package Contained Brandy.

"What was in that package?" Senator Caraway asked Captain Stayton.

"I should say that referred to peach—," he began.

"Cough drops?" asked Senator Caraway.

"No, peach brandy," replied the witness.

Mr. Barnhill wrote to Captain Stayton:

"There is another one of the large packages remaining, and I think one or two of the smaller ones. If you come to Wilmington during the week of July 22, Mr. Abberger is familiar with the package in question."

"Who is Mr. Abberger?" asked Senator Caraway.

"He is the local secretary in Wilmington of the Delaware Association."

"And to qualify for that job he has to be an expert on packages?"

"Not necessarily, but it is convenient," answered Captain Stayton.

This letter to Mr. Barnhill urged the selection of Professor Schantz "in order to establish contact with the school system in Wilmington, and thereby prevent the teaching of dry propaganda originating with the Anti-Saloon League and kindred organizations."

"The Supreme Court, under Chief Justice Taft, was described as being "as wishy-washy as was his administration in the Presidential office," in another letter from Captain Stayton to Henry Alan Johnston of New York, written on March 13, 1929, and it was suggested that "we might wait until time and nature make some changes in the personnel."

Captain Stayton again denied that his organization had supplied liquor for a dinner, when the correspondence revealed a letter from Emory W. Clark of Detroit, dated last April 17, which said:

"The dinner for men only in New York the other evening, where the Statue of Liberty was made the butt and 'Uncle Sam' ridiculed, was, to say the least, an unfortaunate affair. If there is to be a revolution in this country, let us approach it with a calm and sane mind."

This affair, Captain Stayton told Senator Caraway, was not in any way connected with the association.

Much of the correspondence dealt with other matter of the same nature as those noted, and one, written by Arthur W. Machen, former president of the Maryland division of the association, contained a forecast of possible revolution, saying:

"If the dry tyranny is not overthrown by ballots now it is bound to be destroyed by bullets hereafter. The patriots must be up and stirring while peaceful means are still possible. Maryland is a small but strategically important part of this great battle. It is vital that no backward step be taken here."

Replying to Senator Robinson, who interrupted to ask what Mr. Machen meant by his reference to bullets, Captain Stayton said he certainly did not subscribe to such a view of the situation.

Mr. Machen's letter continued:

"Throughout this land the spirit of liberty is stirring. 'Caesar had his Brutus, Charles I his Cromwell, and Herbert Hoover may profit by their example.'"

7 OFFICIALS CALLED IN AUTO 'RACKET'

Tuttle Summons Group Heads Which He Charges Promise 'Protection' to Owners.

COMPLAINTS POURING IN

State Prosecutor Says Names of Judges and Others Have Been Used in Selling Memberships.

Officials of seven concerns which, according to complaints received by Federal Attorney Tuttle, are engaging in an "automobile association racket," selling membership to motorists for from $29 to $71 each, are among twenty-five persons who were subpoenaed yesterday to appear Tuesday before a Federal grand jury in an investigation which will be conducted by John A. Wilson, Assistant United States Attorney.

Mr. Tuttle, who said he had received "hundreds of complaints" against the companies in the last six days, ordered the investigation following a conference with Joseph H. C. Flynn, Deputy State Attorney General, who asked him to proceed under the mail fraud statutes.

Mr. Flynn said that two of the companies, both of which had been enjoined from further operation, had listed the names of city magistrates, justices of the Supreme Court, State Senators and other officials, as members of their "advisory boards."

These companies, he said, were the Prudence Automobile Owners' League, 16 Court Street, Brooklyn, and the Allied Automobile Owners' Association, 66 Court Street, Brooklyn.

Mr. Tuttle announced that subpoenas had also been issued for officials of the Equitable Auto Owners' Association, 186 Joralemon Street; the Authorized Automobile Owners' Association, Inc., 11 West Forty-second Street; the Pioneer Automobile Owners' Association, 1,776 Broadway; the Universe Motor Service, 404 Broadway, and the Automobile Basic Protection Corporation, 1,860 Broadway.

These companies, according to complaints, sold memberships for two-year periods at the prices quoted, and guaranteed member motorists "protection" in damage suits. According to Mr. Flynn, they also supplied members with finely engraved parchments purporting to give what salesmen promised as "all-round protection."

"I have in mind," he said, "one paper particularly purporting to be acceptable in lieu of bail up to $5,000 in any State or territory except Alaska or Hawaii. A beautiful red seal appears at the bottom, but no signature. Imagine what would happen to a poor victim haled into court who relied upon such rubbish to secure him freedom pending a hearing."

The concerns, according to Mr. Flynn, also guaranteed to obtain oil and gasoline for motorists at low prices, to pay court costs in all civil and criminal claims arising from accidents, but most of them, he said, had avoided the use of the word "insurance."

Mr. Flynn said that letterheads of the Brooklyn companies he named listed the following names as members of their advisory boards: Justice Edward Reigelman, Magistrate James B. Short, Postmaster Elbert Firman, Justice Charles J. Carroll of the Municipal Court, Magistrate Leo Healy, James A. McQuade, Registrar; James J. Browne, Park Commissioner, and State Senator James J. Crawford.

Mr. Flynn said he was confident that the use of these names and others had been unauthorized.

Sale of Chicago & Alton Upheld.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 2.—The United States Circuit Court of Appeals today sustained the order for foreclosure and sale of the Chicago & Alton Railroad entered by Federal Judge George A. Carpenter. The opinion of the appellate court upheld Judge Carpenter in all the major points of his order, which is intended eventually to end the receivership under which the railroad has operated for the last eleven years.

MRS. BLOCK IS HELD AS MURDER WITNESS

Placed Under $5,000 Bail After Funeral of Husband Who Was Slain in Apartment Lobby.

CRAIN TAKES OVER INQUIRY

Sees Crime as Challenge and Assigns Two of His Detectives to Hunt for Assailants.

After attending her husband's funeral yesterday the widow of Harry Block, ex-convict and night club backer who was shot to death Wednesday in an elevator in the apartment hotel at 175 West Seventy-third Street, where the couple lived, was held in $5,000 bail as a material witness by Judge Cornelius F. Collins of General Sessions. Daniel Sullivan, operator of the elevator, who witnessed the shooting, was held in $1,000 bail.

Meanwhile, District Attorney Crain has, in a sense, taken the investigation of the murder into his own hands by assigning two of the detectives regularly detailed to his office to hunt for the murderers. This is said to be the first time such a step has been taken since the days of District Attorney Jerome.

"The murder of Harry Block at 3 A. M. on April 30 in the doorway of the elevator on the ground floor of 175 West Seventy-third Street," said Mr. Crain, "was a challenge not alone to the District Attorney's office, but to the police and to law and order.

"That challenge was accepted at 10 A. M. that date, which was the hour when I was first informed of the crime. I have visited the premises, interviewed the widow, the superintendent of the building, the elevator operator, the maid servant employed by the deceased and a brother-in-law of the deceased.

"By written order I have assigned, under the supervision of Assistant District Attorney Saul Price, two of the six detectives detailed by the Police Department to this office to try to ferret out this crime.

"I have been in conference with the Police Department and shall continue to be. I have required two material witnesses (Sullivan and Mrs. Block) either to give bail or go to the house of detention. I expect to interview one or more other persons. This office will do the right thing at the right time to discover the guilty and cause their punishment."

Mr. Crain said he not only regarded Mrs. Block as an important witness, but had reason to believe she might leave the county. He added that he had not considered her statement as complete as it might have been.

On account of Mrs. Block's condition of near-collapse after her return from her husband's funeral, which was held at Alpert Brothers' funeral parlors at 216 Lenox Avenue, it was decided to postpone further questioning of her until Monday or Tuesday.

Mr. Price and Inspector Daniel Kiely of the Hoboken, N. J., police conferred at length yesterday in an effort to establish a motive for the Block murder.

NEW CANADA TARIFF GOES INTO EFFECT

Experts Say It Will Affect $300,000,000 in Imports From the United States.

CONSERVATIVES PLAN FIGHT

Amendment to Budget Is Debated—British Welcome Greater Preference.

OTTAWA, May 2 (Canadian Press).—The extensive list of tariff changes announced yesterday in the budget speech of C. A. Dunning, Minister of Finance, went into effect at 9 o'clock this morning at every customs port in Canada. When the doors of the custom houses opened today, Canada automatically went under the most drastic and far-reaching customs revision of this century.

Although the budget has been delivered, and although the customs ports have been notified of the changes, the order to take all entries subject to amendment will stay in force until the bills, incorporating the changes, have been passed by the House of Commons, the Senate and have received royal assent from the Governor General.

The budget tariff rates will affect about $300,000,000 in value of United States imports. This estimate was made today by tariff experts after a close perusal of the fiscal statement of the Minister of Finance, C. A. Dunning.

The chief import from the American republic on which the duty has been altered is iron and steel. Alteration of these tariff schedules will probably affect some $250,000,000 in the United States imports.

Fruits and vegetables to an amount close to $27,000,000, malt importations in the sum of $4,000,000 and eggs of various kinds, approximating $500,000, brought in from that country, are other items involved in the revision of duties announced.

An amendment to the budget will probably be moved by Conservatives. The text of the amendment, however, has not yet been drafted.

At a caucus of members of the opposition today, a number of the complex tariff proposals announced yesterday by the government were discussed.

British Welcome Preference Shifts.

LONDON, May 2 (Canadian Press.)—British reaction to the Canadian budget, especially as concerns its proposals for increased British preference on many articles, is likely to be profound.

The difference in time between London and Ottawa resulted in late reception of the Canadian Finance Minister's proposals last night and there were no comments in the morning's papers. Only in the headlines and in the prominence given the Ottawa dispatches is British opinion indicated. A note of welcome is sounded for the possibility of increasing trade between the mother country and the senior Dominion.

Tariff Retaliation Seen.

WASHINGTON, May 2 (AP).—Divergent opinions of the Ottawa announcement that Canada will place in effect immediately countervailing duties on all goods exchanged with the United States based on existing American tariffs, and subsequently change them to the basis of the new law now being framed, were expressed today by Congressional tariff leaders.

Republicans in both Houses refrained from public comment in view of the present status of the American legislation.

Democrats contended enactment of high American tariffs inevitably leads to retaliatory rates by foreign nations and affects this country's foreign trade.

"The policy of the United States in enacting such tremendously high tariff walls, said Representative Crisp of Georgia, a Democratic member of the Ways and Means Committee, "invites retaliation from other nations."

HOUSE GROUP FORCES SUGAR RATE SLASH

ing about the outcome tomorrow of the vote on the debenture and the flexible tariff.

The Democrats and a group from the farm sections of the West are determined to fight to the last ditch for the debenture plan. Administration leaders declared today that acceptance of the debenture would cause the President to veto the whole bill.

The upset in the House today was one of the surprises of the present session. It was not through any coalition of Democrats with Western Republicans, as threatened soon after the bill was returned to the House from the Senate, but rather an amalgamation of Democrats with a variety of elements from the Republican side, who either were not interested in the duties in question or were concerned over warnings sounded in the sugar debates about the attitude of housewives throughout the country.

The difference in the standing vote and roll-call on sugar was pointed to as proof that many who might actually want the higher duty did not dare put themselves so on record. The original rate in the House bill was 2.40 cents.

Crisp Leads Sugar Fight.

The successful fight against the higher sugar duty was led by Representative Crisp of Georgia, son of former Speaker Crisp, and himself a former parliamentarian. Representative Rainey of Illinois, one of the few remaining traditional free traders in the House, led the assault on lumber.

The pleas for retaining the higher lumber and sugar tariffs were practically identical. Representatives from the Western and Southern sugar producing areas pictured the plight of a necessary American industry which, they said, was being ruined by "murderous" competition from Cuba. Members from the Northwest argued that cheaper lumber from Canada was closing down their mills and throwing thousands out of work.

Representative Rainey charged that the agitation for the lumber rates had been stirred up "by a bunch of lobbyists here in Washington who don't have the courage to disclose their names." Several Northwestern and Southern lumber men sat in the gallery.

The sugar tariff protagonists declared that the government had lured or forced capital into the sugar industry, and that now it was the duty of the government to grant the benefits needed. They argued, too, that Cuba had had the United States at its mercy so far as sugar is concerned, and that the industry should be developed even further in this country.

Argue Cost Would Be Slight.

Representative Barnett of Indiana declared it to be mostly an agricultural question. Others argued that the additional duty asked on sugar would cost the average American family hardly sixty cents a year more.

"The whole thing is a result of an epidemic of prohibitive tariffs on everything that would make competition," declared Representative La Guardia, of New York. "But Congress is too big to take a stick of candy away from the American children.

"Sugar is the cheapest and most important food product we have," Chairman Hawley argued. "Yet sugar, pepper and salt are the only things which are not on the free list. This is an industry that needs protection, and the additional is so small it will not be felt."

Representative Cramton charged that the opposition to the higher duty came from two sources, from capitalists with investments in Cuba, and from bottlers of carbonic beverages who wanted to keep on at "excessive" profits.

Mr. Crisp made only a brief statement against the higher duty, but he warned that the housewives of the country have their eyes on Congress.

The Sugar Vote in Detail.

The vote on the sugar tariff was as follows:

SWISS BUSINESS MEN PROTEST OUR TARIFF

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, May 2.—The session of the Federal Council at Berne yesterday was entirely devoted to a discussion of the projected American tariff. It was decided to send further representations to America contending that the adoption of the new schedules would do great harm to the trade of the two countries and requesting modification in regard to Swiss imports.

At a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce of Geneva yesterday it was resolved to ask the Federal Government to threaten reprisals and a boycott if the American tariff is adopted.

BERNE, Switzerland, May 2 (AP).—Proposed American tariff increases have created a situation so threatening to certain branches of Swiss industry that President Jean Marie Musy has been led to cable President Hoover direct with reference to them.

GENEVA, May 2 (AP).—Agitation against the proposed American tariff increases on Swiss goods has reached such a stage here that representatives of some large American business interests in Geneva today telegraphed a protest and a warning to influential persons and organizations in the United States.

A cablegram sent to a number of Congressmen protested particularly against the proposed increase in the duty on watches and watch parts. This was described as a catastrophe for Switzerland's oldest and most important industry.

ALTMAN EXPANDS SERVICE.

Fifth Av. Store to Open Shopping Bureau in White Plains Monday.

B. Altman & Co. announced yesterday that they would open on Monday an Altman-Westchester Shopping Service in White Plains. The establishment will be located in a new building at Mamaroneck Avenue and the New York Post Road.

Merchandise considered especially fitted to the needs of Westchester patrons will be carried in stock at all times, according to the announcement, while a telephone and delivery service will make available the additional resources of B. Altman's Fifth Avenue store.

Miss Perkins Plans Fireworks Code.

Anticipating the approach of the Fourth of July, State Industrial Commissioner Frances Perkins announced yesterday that she has recommended to the State Industrial Board a fireworks code designed to protect the lives and health of workers in fireworks factories. Among the provisions are that no fireworks factory shall be more than one story in height; that furnaces or boilers shall be located in separate buildings and that wherever practical tools made of non-sparking metals shall be used.

tion the operating expenses of the company, a matter of which the commission had made a point in its decision. He said that the city also took the lead in contesting the company's gloomy business outlook, which the commission subsequently largely ignored.

Statement of Company.

The telephone company's statement follows:

"The decision just announced by the Public Service Commission making changes in telephone rates throughout the State purports to cut by $2,760,000 the annual rates proposed by the company last January under the authority of the judgment of the court. As the rates then proposed by the company were designed to yield somewhat less than the 7 per cent return authorized by the court and since the evidence before the commission in the proceeding just closed fully supported the company's estimates, there is no justification whatever for the reductions in the rates made by the commission.

"The commission in its opinion properly states that the decision of the court of last December is binding upon it and pretends to follow that decision in making its determination. But it is pretense only; for example, in deducting $35,000,000 from the rate base for 1930 the commission does so in direct violation of the court's decree.

"The commission criticizes the increase in operating expenses over the period 1913 to 1929 without having any real understanding of the operating problems and disregards entirely the large increases in wages and cost of materials directly affecting the construction and operation of the telephone plant which have occurred throughout that period. Such increased costs of wages and material inevitably increased the total operating expenses.

"Moreover, the people of the city of New York and throughout the State require and have insistently demanded a constantly improving quality in all forms of telephone service. This the commission recognizes in its opinion. The meeting of these demands for refinements and improvements in the various grades of service necessarily resulted in further increasing the operating expenses. The implication in the opinion of the commission that there have been undue increases in the operating expenses is entirely unwarranted. All of these matters were gone into exhaustively upon the trial of the court case and both the special master and the three-judge court found upon the extensive evidence before them that the property was kept in an excellent state of repair and operating condition and that the company in the conduct of its operations had 'availed itself to the fullest extent reasonably possible of all savings and economies.'

"The rates ordered by the commission will fall far short of yielding the annual rate of return upon the fair value of the property directed by the court's decree. Proof of this fact may be more definitely established by the results of actual operation than by predictions. Therefore, the company wil comply, under protest, with the order of the commission with respect to the filing and putting into effect of the rates prescribed by such order. No further application to the courts is contemplated at this time."

Ward Cites Valuation Cut.

In a statement from his New York office Attorney General Hamilton Ward pointed out that the commission's decision along with the Federal court's decision made a total reduction of $226,000,000 from the valuations of the company as found by the special master who reported to the court.

"More than $152,000,000 of this is due to disallowance of claimed assets by the company and $74,000,000 is due to the ruling of the statutory court that 7 instead of 8 per cent constitutes a fair return," he said. "A large part of the $152,000,000 also were reductions made by the court.

"This makes a difference of more than $15,000,000 per annum in the tolls to be collected from the telephone users in New York State."

One part of the commission's decision was read with particular interest by the company's experts yesterday. This was the commission's opinion that the 5 cent charge for public pay stations calls was too low. The commission did not act upon its opinion but it may mean that efforts will be made in the future for ways to raise the charge.

"At this rate," the commission said, "the cost per call from a public pay station is often less than the cost per call to regular subscribers, both message rates and flat rate service. This is opposed in our opinion to principles of good rate making which require that the occasional or convenience user should pay more than the regular subscriber."

man Post, New York City Democrat, which would have amended the theatrical padlock law by providing that members of the cast or stage hands assisting in the production of an alleged immoral play should not be jailed until a court has decided that the production actually was open to condemnation under the provisions of the penal law. Another penal law amendment included in the omnibus veto provided that in cases where a lessee failed to return leased property or to pay for the use of it, this should be accepted as evidence, upon proof, of an intent to defraud.

A bill introduced by Senator Frederick L. Slater of Monroe, which provided that railroad danger signals should have a yellow instead of a white background, was also relegated to the Legislative scrap heap by the Governor and included in his omnibus veto.

Among the Knight batch was a bill introduced by Senator Knight which would have required the use of fireproof wood in fireproof structures. A bill which would have created a police training school in the Department of State Police, also was included.

Various Reasons Assigned.

Governor Roosevelt also disapproved a bill which would have afforded the judges of the county courts in Kings an opportunity to fix salaries in excess of those provided for in the statute, for the stenographers of that court. A bill providing for a Division of Child Guidance with an assistant director in charge, within the Bureau of Compulsory Educaton in the New York City Educational Department is among the 125 bills included in the omnibus veto.

"The following bills," the Governor said in a preface to his omnibus veto, "are not approved for the reasons that they are either duplicates of bills already signed, or are defectively drawn for printing, or for constitutional question, or are in conflict with bills already signed, or have been passed by the Legislature in violation of the provisions of the Constitution, or are for purposes which can be suitably accomplished under the general laws, or are bills regarding which no explanation of their purpose has been offered, or are either objectionable of inadvisable for many reasons."

Stanley M. Isaacs, chairman of the housing committee of the United Neighborhood Houses, said yesterday that in putting through amendments to the multiple dwellings law, the Legislature had singularly failed to press forward-looking housing measures which had the support of his and many other organizations interested in housing.

"It failed to provide fire-retarding of the halls of old law tenements and also failed to pass a measure outlawing even at some distant date the occupancy for living purposes of rooms without a window to the open air," Mr. Isaacs said. "These measures will be presented again next year in the hope that the strong pressure of the social agencies, aided as they have now begun to be by those who realize that the renovation of the old law tenements is essential from an economic as well as a social viewpoint, will bear fruit."

WARD DENOUNCES VETOES BY GOVERNOR

Resents Voiding of His Bills to Relieve Land Owners in Grade-Crossing Projects.

Attorney General Hamilton Ward, in an address last night before the Kings County Republican Committee in Brooklyn, took Governor Roosevelt to task for vetoing a series of bills, endorsed by the Attorney General, which would have afforded relief for owners of land abutting on grade crossing elimination projects who, by reason of the change of grade, would be deprived of access or sustain serious damage to their property.

"In five years there will be hundreds, perhaps thousands, of such cases and the result will be that we will come back, as a result of the Governor's action, to the legislative abomination of special acts," the Attorney General said. "The big fellow with powerful friends will get his special act. The little fellow will lose his property and move out."

Attorney General Ward denounced the Governor's action as "government by first impression," and declared that Governor Roosevelt had given no hearing on the measures he vetoed and had done nothing to inform himself concerning the legislation.

There were four bills, all of which were vetoed by the Governor on the ground that they created a new liability out of which would grow no end of damage claims.

"We hear much about reform in judicial procedure, even-handed justice and the duty of courts," Attorney General Ward said, "but the State itself must do justice and must not set an example of abuse of power. As Attorney General it is my duty to represent the State and to defend all claims against it, but as a citizen I have a higher duty and the right to raise my voice against injustice and to call attention to matters like this which are peculiarly within the knowledge of the law officers of the State, and I feel that this veto represents government by first impression."

The Attorney General said he was sorry to learn that Governor Roosevelt had also vetoed the bill proposing creation of a legal aid bureau to aid World War veterans and their families.

"The bill called for offices in New York, Buffalo and Albany," Mr. Ward said. "And these could have been established for $30,000. The good that would result from such a bureau would have more than repaid the State."

YOUNG PLAN FOES DECLARED 'JINGOES'

Virgil Jordan Tells the Social Science Academy That Politicians Would Hide Failure.

SAYS 'MEDDLING' MUST END

Replying to McFadden, He Warns That Intelligent Business Men Won't Tolerate Such Interfering.

From a Staff Correspondent of THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., May 2.—Virgil Jordan, economist and editor of The Business Week, declared tonight before the convention of the American Academy of Political and Social Science that the attacks made recently by Representative Louis T. McFadden on the International Bank and the Young plan and repeated at the convention were, in effect, "a red herring drawn by orthodox Republicanism across the trails of world-wide business depression to divert the attention of voters in the coming Congressional election from the failure of political leadership at home."

Speaking right after Mr. McFadden had denounced the Bank for International Settlements and the Young plan as having been based on fraud, trickery and deceit, Mr. Jordan said that intelligent business men were tired of the barriers raised by politicians to world trade, and he asserted that they would no longer tolerate interference by politicians with vital credit machinery and international cooperation for a stable economic world.

"Jingoism" Charge Applauded.

Mr. Jordan was warmly applauded when he charged that Mr. McFadden was part of a movement of "financial jingoism," which has resulted in nullifying extraordinary labors by economists, bankers and business men for international rehabilitation and peace.

Mr. McFadden repeated tonight the substance of his recent attack on the International Bank and the Young plan, alleging that the bank's bonds were illegal and would be a total loss to American investors because the bank and the Young plan were based on the Treaty of Versailles and the armistice which preceded it.

He charged that Marshal Foch and General Wemyss exceeded their powers in fixing the armistice terms and said that as a result the entire structure of peace between the Allies and the central powers was built on a false foundation.

The sessions of the academy, which began this morning and will continue until tomorrow night, are being devoted to a consideration of economic tendencies affecting the peace of the world.

M. C. Rorty, vice president of the International Telephone and Telegraph Company, and William S. Paley, president of the Columbia Broadcasting system, in addresses this afternoon, heralded the radio and the international telephone as means for bringing the entire world into closer accord and creating peace and amity among nations.

Danger in Economic Nationalism.

"This recent outbreak of financial jingoism is the most serious menace to international peace and domestic prosperity that has appeared on the economic horizon in many years," Mr. Jordan said in his address.

"If it is continued and given practical effect in face of the irresistible current of forces making for closer international economic cooperation, it can lead only to a complete breakdown of world industry and trade and to profound and prolonged depression and painful readjustment in domestic business."

Mr. Jordan described the growing intensification of economic nationalism in industry and trade since the war, a development which he felt had pushed the world steadily nearer the brink of military conflict than it had been at any time since 1914.

He said that far-sighted business and banking interests of all countries had labored incessantly and with the most herculean efforts "in face of increasing obfuscations of their efforts on the part of demagogic politicians."

Every international conference since the war, he added, had tried "to remove some of the barbed-wire entanglements that have obstructed the road to closer economic cooperation and to facilitate the reconstruction and assure the stable development of world trade and finance."

Way Cleared for Young Plan.

After the labors of a Sisyphus, he declared, these men had in a measure cleared away some of the wreckage left by the war, had overcome "the most vicious effects of the structure of hate and suspicion erected by the peace treaty," and had opened the way, through the Young plan, for the ultimate liquidation of the war debts and indemnities "which have poisoned the entire economic system of the Western world for a decade."

Despite these labors, the business men and bankers had been unable to prevent the growth of new obstructions to the international movement of goods and labor, Mr. Jordan continued, pointing to the rising barriers of tariff walls, artificial price control systems, monopolistic marketing systems and arbitrary immigration limitations.

Heretofore, he said, the paralyzing effect of such restrictions had been offset by the comparatively free international movement of capital and credit and to this he ascribed the saving of the world from complete economic chaos and collapse.

Without the leading part played by the United States in patient revision of the structure of international war debts and reparations and without the close cooperation of the Federal Reserve system with the central banks of other countries, he asserted, the economic system could not have been saved.

Charges Political Sabotage.

"And now, after all this painful progress, in a time of world-wide business depression, when our sins of unrestrained commercial nationalism have overtaken us in a drastic decline of world trade," he went on, "we are asked to scrap all this achievement and tie down the sole remaining economic safety valve, all for the sake of supplying desperate politicians with an issue that will appeal to the prejudices of the economic illiterates in a crisis of political bankruptcy.

"After having participated in every step of world political and financial reconstruction from the signing of the peace treaty and the establishment of the League of Nations down to the construction of the Young plan, we are asked to develop a paranoia toward all things foreign.

"If we were to succumb to infantile phobias of this kind there would appear to be one only logical line of policy for those who foster them to follow. We should immediately seek to cure our business depression by employing the jobless to build a Chinese Wall around the United States and set the Daughters of the American Revolution making bandages and sewing shirts for the soldiers in the imminent next war."

In conclusion Mr. Jordan declared that the only economic security for foreign investments consisted in the continued flow of capital abroad and the expansion of world-wide industry through the influence of that capital.

Dr. F. Cyril James of the Wharton School of Finance, who followed Mr. Jordan, pointed out that there were two problems to be faced in regard to the export of foreign capital, one political and the other economic. The former was increasing governmental control of international loans and the latter was concerned with methods of nations for repayment of loans, he explained.

On the political side he said that an element had entered the economic field which might cause international friction. On this point he said:

"We must look toward a restatement of political policy which is more in accord with fundamental economic tendencies and yet not calculated to annoy weaker powers."

In his address on the future of radio broadcasting Mr. Paley, who predicted that television would be perfected in five years and soon afterward be a commonplace in social and economic life, said that the broadcasting companies were awed by the power placed in their hands and were resolved to use it only for good.

Colonel M. C. Rorty, vice president of the International Telephone and Telegraph Company, spoke on the bearings of the electrical communications service on international relations.

He explained that each new technical improvement increased the desirability of a unification of the telephone, telegraph, cable and radio service in international service, and he deplored the economic waste resulting from the present duplication of such facilities.

Birth Control and Migrations.

Varying views on birth control were offered at this morning session on population growth and migration of peoples. Dr. Henry P. Fairchild of New York University declared that emigration was not a cure for overpopulation and suggested substituting for the quota system a plan under which each foreign nation would demonstrate that it could apply birth control and hold its population stationary for a decade or a generation and thus qualify its citizens for entry here.

Dr. Robert R. Kuczynski, of the Brookings Institution, Washington, D. C., doubted the effect of birth control on the well-being of nations, arguing that a reduction in the birth rate would increase unemployment in industry and add to the hardships of farmers, already suffering from underconsumption.

Mrs. Edna Cers MacMahon, of Hunter College, New York, expressed the belief that a fundamental readjustment of population was more likely to be guided by a reapportionment of the world's resources than by a change of immigration policies.

FUND WORKER SUES CITY MISSION GROUP

Bronxville Man Asks $26,000 From Episcopal Society for Breach of Contract.

MANNING DENIES CLAIM

Says Employe in Centennial Campaign Was Discharged for Unsatisfactory Service.

The New York Protestant Episcopal City Mission Society, of which Bishop Manning is president, is defendant in a suit for $26,000 brought in the Supreme Court, it became known yesterday.

The action was started by Alfred J. Wilde of Bronxville, who described himself in the bill of complaint as having been employed by the mission society as the director of its centennial fund campaign. He alleges that last November the mission society officials decided to engage some one else to conduct its proposed appeal for funds in connection with the organization's 100th anniversary in September, 1931.

The complaint states that "on Aug. 18 the plaintiff entered into an agreement whereby the defendant employed the plaintiff as director of its centennial fund campaign for the period of the campaign, which it was represented by the defendant would continue for about three years, at a salary of $10,000 a year."

Mr. Wilde sets forth that he worked from Sept. 9, 1929, to Jan. 23, 1930, and at the latter date "was wrongfully discharged." He asserts that for the remaining thirty-one and one-fifth months he would have been entitled to $26,000 for his services and asks judgment for that amount.

At 38 Bleecker Street, headquarters of the society, the Rev. L. Ernest Sunderland, superintendent, said Mr. Wilde had been hired to work in the appeal department of the organization, but was discharged some time in January because of unsatisfactory service. Dr. Sunderland denied that the organization had entered into any agreement with Mr. Wilde regarding a three-year term of employment.

Bishop Manning also denied last night the allegations in Mr. Wilde's complaint and said that the reason Mr. Wilde was dismissed was that his work was not satisfactory.

One of the most pressing needs of the society, its officers said, is additional funds with which to carry on the work of St. Barnabas's House on Mulberry Street. Last year a fund of $600,000 for the construction of an annex to St. Barnabas's House, to be devoted to babies and little children, was started.

LONDON CLUB "KING" DIES.

Luigi Naitre of the Embassy Started at $1.50 a Week.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 2.—Luigi Naitre, known as the king of London's clubland, died here early this morning after a heart seizure in a taxicab.

When he first arrived here from Italy he worked as a waiter, earning $1.50 a week. Later he received $625,000 for his interest in the Embassy Club.

Luigi made the Embassy Club unique. The Prince of Wales frequently entertained parties there. It was said Luigi knew intimately every crowned head in Europe. Although he recently sold the club he was retained as manager at $30,000 a year.

Spain Names Commercial Attache.

MADRID, May 2 (AP).—Luis Calderson, Spanish consul in Manila, today was appointed commercial attaché at the Spanish Embassy in Washington. This is the first time Spain has created such an office. The principal object is to have the Spanish Embassy deal in commercial questions now under discussion with American officials.

BANKERS FIX TERMS OF YOUNG PLAN LOAN

American Share of $300,000,000 Bond Issue Will Not Be More Than $90,000,000.

MAJOR SLICE FOR FRANCE

Flotation Is Likely in Last Week of May—Treasury Agents Will Discuss Brussels Decisions.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BRUSSELS, May 2.—The first German annuity loan of $300,000,000—the largest international financial operation since the war—took definite form here this evening when investment bankers of nine nations reached an agreement upon the essential details of the Young plan flotation. Several of the decisions are of a tentative character, pending the meeting of the representatives of the Treasury Departments of the countries which will share the proceeds, but during their meeting, held yesterday and today, the bankers were able to smooth out nearly all the difficulties in the path of the loan.

Of particular interest to the United States was the very definite decision that the American market will not be asked to buy more than 30 per cent of the loan, that is $90,000,000. Indeed, this figure may finally be reduced to about $80,000,000 France will take as much as the United States and probably a little more.

The rate of interest which the bonds will yield and the important matter of the price at which the bonds will be offered to the public, will not be decided until the final meeting of the investment bankers, which will be held within the next two weeks.

The last week of May appears the likeliest time for simultaneous flotation in the nine participating countries, but the fixing of the exact date must wait upon the meeting of the Treasury agents.

The exact totals of the shares to be allotted to the other nations remain to be fixed, but, in a general way, it is understood Great Britain will take between $45,000,000 and $50,000,000, Holland between $15,000,000 and $20,000,000 and Germany $10,000,000. Italy, Switzerland, Belgium and Sweden will take the remainder in amounts to be decided upon at the next meeting of the bankers.

Meeting in Paris on Monday, the Treasury agents will consider the problem of dividing the proceeds of the loan. A sum of $100,000,000 has already been earmarked for the German railways and postal services, and France, it is assumed here, will receive a generous portion.

The American bonds will be in denominations of $500 and $1,000 each. The Bank for International Settlements will act as trustee for the bondholders.

Gates W. McGarrah, president of the Bank for International Settlements, who was detained in Berlin because of the meeting of the Reichsbank, reached Brussels at noon today and presided over the final session of the bankers' meeting. Leon Fraser, American secretary of the world bank, took the place of his chief at the earlier meetings.

Thomas W. Lamont, partner in the J. P. Morgan Company, left for London this evening after taking an active part in the discussions here. He will sail for New York within a few days and will direct the flotation of the American share of the bond issue.

CUBAN LABOR SCORES REDS.

Leaders Call on President and Urge Stern Measures.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HAVANA, May 2.—Following disturbances yesterday at Regla, across the bay from Havana, in which two deaths occurred and scores were injured, a committee of labor leaders called at the Presidential Palace this morning and asserted that the riots were incited by Communist agitators, who, they insist, are tireless in pushing forward their ideas in Cuba and spend their time praising the "triumph" of the Soviet.

The labor leaders expressed the opinion that unless the agitators are sternly dealt with a situation like that provoked in Spain, by Spanish syndicalism, might result in Cuba, in which workmen would kill other workmen.

It is asserted that the riots started when a citizen refused to doff his hat when the red flag passed in a parade.

HAVANA, May 2 (AP).—Bitter oral attacks against the government were delivered along with funeral orations at the burial today of the town of Regla's May Day dead, but the memory of harsh treatment yesterday at the hands of soldiers served to keep the listening crowds from carrying out the pleas of violence.

Regla still is under martial law and was comparatively quiet today. Soldiers were ordered to shoot to kill if a repetition of yesterday's disturbances seemed imminent.

LEAVES FOR ALGERIA FETES.

Doumergue Quits Paris for Centenary of Acquisition of Colony.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, May 2.—President Doumergue left Paris this evening for a ten-day official visit to Algeria, where an elaborate program of military, naval and civil demonstrations and receptions will be held to celebrate the hundredth anniversary of the acquisition of this fertile colony by France.

The President will sail from Toulon on the cruiser Duquesne tomorrow afternoon, reaching Algiers early on Sunday morning. The flag of the republic, with the initials of the President embroidered on it, will be flown.

Forty Reds Seized in Mexico.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, May 2.—Despite official statements that yesterday's labor manifestation was peaceful, about forty Communists are held by police for attempted disturbances in the march of nearly 60,000 workmen. Minor offenses are charged in most of the cases and the movement is not considered serious.

Japanese Students Exhibit Here.

An exhibition of drawings, wood carvings and handicrafts by high and grammar school pupils of several cities in Japan is on view at International House, 500 Riverside Drive. The exhibition is sponsored by the Japanese Association of New York to further understanding and mutually helpful acquaintance between the young people of Japan and America. The work will remain on view until May 10.

NICARAGUAN BOND DEBT REDUCED 15% IN 1929

$700,000 Cut Is Largest Ever Recorded by Country—Foreign Trade Was High.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MANAGUA, May 2.—Irving A. Lindberg, Collector General of Customs and Resident High Commissioner, announces that Nicaragua's bonded indebtedness was reduced 15 per cent, or nearly $700,000, during 1929, which is the greatest reduction in the history of the country. This resulted from $4,000,000 in customs receipts during the year, which amount is the second largest ever recorded. Money spent by United States marines and good coffee prices during the early months were factors in the situation.

Nicaragua's foreign trade amounted to $22,000,000, of which $13,000,000 was in trade with the United States, $2,500,000 with Germany and $1,500,000 each with England and France.

The Nicaraguan Government's building program includes a post-office to cost $200,000 and to be the best government building in Central America, a custom house to cost $50,000 and a new Presidential house, which already is nearly completed, on the site of an old fort overlooking Managua.

Lieutenant Henneken of the United States marines yesterday received the Navy Cross Star for excellent service in northern provinces of Nicaragua during the eighteen-month period which ended June 19, 1929, when he commanded a combined force of marines and Nicaraguan volunteers, which had fourteen contacts with bandits and won all, capturing Jiron, Sandino's lieutenant, who was tried, convicted and shot.

LASKY AND ZUKOR SEEK GERMAN FILM ACCORD

If Satisfactory Settlement Is Reached in Berlin, Paramount Will Begin Producing There.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, May 2.—Jesse L. Lasky arrived in Berlin this morning and said Adolph Zukor would arrive next week to negotiate for German tone film patents. He said he hoped for a satisfactory settlement and that afterward Paramount planned to begin producing in Germany as well as in France. If the negotiations are unsuccessful Vienna will be tried, according to Mr. Lasky.

Tobis and Klangfilm announced today that as a consequence of Herr Kuechenmeister's visit to Warner Brothers in New York an agreement had been reached by the two concerns permitting an exchange of pictures. The statement emphasized that the Warners had bought no stock in the Tobis film—a possibility which had been causing apprehension in German film circles lately.

The Tageblatt, commenting on the fact that the agreement was reported to have been made under "standard exchange conditions," declared that it indicated the near breakdown of the Western Electric grip on the American tone film producers and means that Germany is likely to begin seeing a larger number of American talkies—on Klangfilm apparatus.

GET PRESSED STEEL PLANT.

British Replace Americans in Move to Aid Automobile Industry.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 1.—A move further to reduce British automobile construction costs by placing the plant of the Pressed Steel Company of Great Britain, which is situated at Cowley, near Oxford, under British control, thus making its products available for all automobile manufacturers here, is announced here.

The company, which is working under license from the Edward G. Bubb Manufacturing Company at Philadelphia, is controlled by American capital.

The transaction, it is said, has been put through on behalf of the British trade by the Lord Privy Seal, J. H. Thomas. H. L. Adams, American president of the company, has resigned with a number of other American directors, and the voting control has definitely passed to British hands. The factory can already meet more than half the entire needs of the British automobile industry.

At the same time, the British Daimler Company has disclosed that it is incorporating a new type of "fluid fly wheel" which eliminates the employment of the usual type of clutch in the more expensive models.

Chinese Under Yen Declare Their Capital Is 'Peking' and Await Congress.

STABLE GOVERNMENT IS AIM

Convention This Month Will Form New Regime With Yen as Head and Feng as Marshal.

PEKING, China, May 2 (AP).—Dr. Tchoun Gao-hsiang, Commissioner of Foreign Affairs for Yen Hsi-shan, Governor of Shansi Province and leader of the Northern revolt, announced today for Yen that Peking would resume its title as capital of China, and that the name of Peiping, bestowed on the city by the Nanking Government, would not be recognized.

Yen has called a "people's congress" which will meet here this month to establish a new government, which Yen will head and which will have Marshal Feng Yu-hsiang as commander of the military. Wang Chin-wei, leader of the Left Wing of the Kuomintang party, will arrive here from the South within a week to become head of the political party which will sponsor the new government.

The new régime will have the name "Nationalist Government of China," which is the name usually applied to the government at Nanking, which Chiang Kai-shek heads. Dr. Tchoun, in making his announcement, made it plain that Yen considered Chiang's government entirely illegal.

Delegates to Yen's congress are already arriving in Peking. Dr. Tchoun explained that probably only fourteen provinces—there are twenty-two Chinese provinces including Mongolia and Tibet—would be represented. Soon after the congress, it was said, Yen will issue a manifesto to the world explaining the purpose of his move and asking recognition by foreign powers.

The new Peking Government will seek to be, it is said, a legal and stable government instead of a military or provisional rule.

"Yen has decided, and this decision also has been approved by party leaders," said Dr. Tchoun, "that a legal government must be organized and established at Peking on a solid basis and that all necessary formal procedures which will be observed in its organization are now working to that end.

"Various Kuomintang leaders have agreed to organize an integral party in which all factions will be represented. All resolutions of the party will be passed by a majority of the members and such resolutions will represent opinion of the party as a whole.

"This integral party, now in the process of organization will soon be completed, and when it is completed the new legal government will be created as soon as possible."

Wang Is Pro-Communist.

Wang Ching-wei, who is listed to head the reorganized Kuomintang party, which is to sponsor the proposed new Peking Government, is notorious in China as a leader of the extreme Left Wing of the Kuomintang. He was a devoted follower of the late Dr. Sun Yat-sen, but since 1927 has been in opposition to the Nanking Government, and was recently formally expelled from the Kuomintang by action of that wing of the party which is dominated by Chiang Kai-shek.

For nearly two years Wang Ching-wei was a voluntary exile from China and spent his time in Paris or in Moscow. His leanings are avowedly strongly pro-Communist. Many observers of Chinese affairs believe the present alliance between Wang Ching-wei and Yen Hsi-shan cannot endure, because Wang is a pronounced radical, while Yen is a conservative of the old Northern school of Chinese politicians.

CHINESE INCREASED ON SHANGHAI COUNCIL

Threat to Municipal Order Solved—Soong Says Northerners Jeopardize Nanking's Credit.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SHANGHAI, May 2.—The threatened municipal difficulties following the refusal of the taxpayers of the foreign settlement two weeks ago to adopt a proposal for increasing Chinese membership on the Municipal Council to five were solved today, when the largest gathering of taxpayers ever assembled here unanimously approved the proposed increase.

Several speeches made at this special meeting emphasized the need of cooperation between Chinese and foreigners in Shanghai to meet the new conditions for governing the settlement which have arisen out of recent political changes.

In a statement issued today T. V. Soong, Finance Minister of Nanking, commenting on the attempt of Yen Hsi-shan and Feng Yu-hsiang to seize Northern customs and salt revenues, said it was the Nanking Government's duty to use every means to prevent this step, which was calculated to shatter Chinese credit at home and abroad and was seriously jeopardizing the interests of the government's creditors. Regarding the announcement of Northerners that they intend to remit 5 per cent of the duties to Nanking to cover payments on foreign loans, Mr. Soong said the entire customs revenue was pledged to pay foreign indemnities and loans, but that at present it was insufficient to cover foreign obligations and therefore that Nanking had had to withdraw 5,000,000 taels (about $2,350,000) from its reserve during February, March and April of this year. Further withdrawals are expected. Mr. Soong added that the revenue above the 5 per cent which the Northerners threaten to retain had been heavily mortgaged by them long before the revolt was declared.

Girl "Red" Gets 3 Months in Jail.

TORONTO, May 2 (AP).—Jean Morgenstein, 17-year-old girl arrested at a Communist May Day demonstration, was sentenced today to three months at the municipal farm for women by Magistrate Margaret Patterson, who recommended that she be deported when her time was served. Communists sought to assemble at Queen's Park and were dispersed by police. The girl was arrested on a vagrancy charge after she urged resistance to the police.

ACADEMY ART OPENS THE LONDON SEASON

VISITORS PRAISE PORTRAITS

Sensation of the Show Is Picture of the Crucifixion Depicting Present-Day Crowd.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 2.—The London season opened brilliantly today with the private view at the Royal Academy exhibition at Burlington House. The exhibition will be open to the public next week.

In the opinion of both critics and laymen, a high level is maintained both in the works of such prominent artists as Sir William Orpen, Sir John Lavery and Dame Laura Knight, and in those of less well-known exhibitors.

The sensation of this year's show is unquestionably a modern conception of the Crucifixion by the Reading artist, Mark Symons. It bears the title of the Negro spiritual, "Were you there when they crucified my Lord?" and depicts Calvary surrounded by people of the present day. The same artist has two other striking, though more conventional, canvases.

Augustus John's portrait of the American actress Tallulah Bankhead received considerable attention. Two other outstanding pictures, both painted about twenty years ago, are Orpen's "Mother and Child" and Mrs. Swinnerton's study of Dame Millicent Fawcett. Several fine portraits won praise both for Orpen and John, one by the latter being of Sir Gerald du Maurier.

The royal family is represented among the pictures by David Jagger's dignified portrait of Princess Mary and her husband, the Earl of Harewood, who are shown mounted and in hunting clothes. There is a miniature of Princess Elizabeth and one of Ishbel MacDonald. W. G. de Glehn has done a portrait of the Hon. Phyllis Astor, Viscountess Astor's only daughter.

Sir John Lavery has a lovely interior, "The Chess Players"; a sketch of Alain Gerbault, the French yachtsman, and a study of Lord Melchett.

Dame Laura Knight shows several of her familiar scenes of circus life. George Belcher, famous for his sketches of London charwomen types, has three excellent still lifes of China figures against quaint backgrounds. Dean Cornwell, American illustrator, shows a colorful biblical painting entitled the "Washing of the Feet."

The youthful artists exhibiting include John Rennie, 16 years old, with a flower study, and Cavendish Morton, 19 years old, with a watercolor of Sir Thomas Lipton's yacht "Shamrock V" in the course of construction.

Premier MacDonald and his daughter Ishbel were among the earliest arrivals at Burlington House today. The Premier was seen before Mr. Symons's picture of the Crucifixion, discussing it with Lady Lavery. Another early visitor was the Lord Mayor of London, Sir William Waterlow, with his civic guest, M. de Vlugt, Burgomaster of Amsterdam. Soon came Viscount Brentford and Lady Brentford. A portrait of Lord Brentford is exhibited by Sir Arthur Cope. The Earl and Countess Spencer attended with their two children who admired their father's portrait, in the uniform of the Horse Guards, by Augustus John. Dame Laura Knight, colorfully dressed, was congratulated by many friends on her work.

The theatre was represented by Henry Ainley, Sir Johnston Forbes-Robertson and Sir Arthur Pinero.

Others present included Dean Inge and his wife; Mrs. Winston Churchill; the Countess of Oxford and Asquith, Mrs. Philip Snowden, the Marquess of Reading and his daughter-in-law, Lady Erleigh; Walter Runciman, the Countess Howe, Lady Georgina Curzon and Princess Galitzine.

ASKS FOR LEPROSY SURVEY.

Governor Judd of Hawaii Requests Wilbur to Recommend Funds.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HONOLULU, May 2.—Basing his request upon the recommendation of a committee of Honolulu physicians, Governor Judd today transmitted to Secretary of the Interior Wilbur a recommendation that the United States Surgeon General include in his budget funds for conducting a survey of leprosy in Hawaii. The Public Health Service once authorized a leprosy investigation, but canceled the plan because no funds were provided.

Governor and Mrs. Judd and their son left Maiolo today en route to San Francisco. This is the Governor's first absence from Hawaii since his inauguration last July. He will address the national foreign trade convention at Los Angeles on May 21.

INDIA, TENSE, WAITS GANDHI'S NEXT MOVE

Ominous Quiet Prevails, as Before Chittagong and Peshawur Outbreaks.

COMMISSIONER COLLAPSES

Sir Horatio N. Bolton Breaks Under Strain of Duty in Area of Peshawur Rioting.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BOMBAY, May 2.—There is a lull in the Indian storm tonight, the same heavy breathlessness and inactivity on the part of the disturbing elements throughout the country which was the prelude to the outbursts at Peshawur and Chittagong on two previous week-ends.

Mahatma Gandhi is not far from Bombay and is said to be drafting a new protest to the Viceroy, Lord Irwin, against the government's "terrorist" tactics toward his non-violent volunteers.

By the same post, so to speak, the Moslem leaders, who have been endeavoring to obtain a rapprochement between the government and Mr. Gandhi, will receive the reiteration of the Viceroys determination to resist lawless methods. Both sides are unyielding and, in the opinion of competent observers here, are drifting further apart.

Ask Papers to Shut Down.

In Calcutta Indian journalists have appealed to all Indian papers which have not already shut down immediately to cease publication rather than to post the deposit demanded by the government under the new press act. Liberty failed to appear this morning, but two other Indian newspapers have conformed to the terms of the ordinance.

The government disclosed today that three of Mr. Gandhi's volunteers, who received heavy sentences for breaking the salt laws and later expressed regret for their actions, have been released on probation. The government at the same time published an anlysis of the salt manufactured by the volunteers, showing the percentage of calcium sulphate and magnesium chloride makes it unfit for human consumption.

Sir Horatio Bolton Stricken.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LAHORE, May 2.—Owing to the terrific strain put upon him during the recent Peshawur riots, Sir Horatio Norman Bolton, Chief Commissioner for the Northwest Frontier Province, has had a severe nervous breakdown. He passed through Lahore last night on a mail train for Bombay, where he will sail for England on the liner Viceroy of India.

Sir Horatio's illness shows the tension to which the British officials in India have been subjected during the recent disturbances. There has seldom been a case of an administrator collapsing while on duty, even in war time.

Students Burn Papers.

CALCUTTA, May 2 (AP).—Students made a bonfire this forenoon in the college square of newspapers which are continuing publication. Efforts were made to interfere with the sellers of the newspapers, in furtherance of resistance to the government's censorship ordinance.

The proprietor of a local newspaper has wired the secretary of the All-India Journalists' Association asking him to convene a conference of journalists from the entire country before May 10.

One Dies in Hindu-Moslem Clash.

LUCKNOW, May 2 (AP).—A government communiqué said today that one Hindu was killed and a dozen Hindus and Moslems were injured in a riot on April 30 at Chadesra, in the Azamgar district, fifty miles north of Benares.

The riot originated over the shooting of a buffalo. The Hindu who died was the victim of a sword wound.

SIMON REPORT READY SOON.

Sir John Says Data on Survey in India Is in the Printer's Hands.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 2.—The persistent baiting of the Simon commission, which has been charged with the delay in issuing its report on how far a responsible government might be conceded to the 350,000,000 inhabitants of India, has at last drawn a statement from the chairman, Sir John Simon. The larger part of the report, he says, is not only in the printer's hands but is in final form for production, and what remains is in "an advanced state."

"If the commission succeeds in completing its report in a few weeks," says Sir John, "the time taken will not be more than was necessary for the full consideration of the numerous complex questions involved in an inquiry of the highest constitutional importance, not merely for the moment, but for the future."

It is understood the report will be completed in three weeks and later will be published in London and India simultaneously.

The commission was appointed in November, 1927, and has twice visited India. Meanwhile the situation there has grown increasingly serious.

PEACE PACT BARRED IN GENEVA ACCORD

Committee Decides to Avoid Mention of It in Preamble to New Agreement.

LONDON PRECEDENT UPSET

Lord Cecil Uses Same Arguments for It Which France Employed for League Covenant.

By CLARENCE K. STREIT.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, May 2.—A precedent set at the London naval conference, on the insistence of American delegates, was completely overturned at Geneva today.

Great Britain, it may be remembered, invited the powers to London under the auspices of the Peace Pact, which the United States had ratified, rather than the League Covenant, which it had not. Throughout the conference all the League powers there, with the notable exception of France, showed an aversion to mentioning the word "League." The British appeared especially anxious to avoid offending America.

The situation culminated, when after much argument over whether mention of the Kellogg pact or the League Covenant in the preamble of the naval treaty, it was decided to mention neither because of the Senate's attitude toward the League and the French refusal to have the covenant left out if the Kellogg pact were mentioned. The French, however, did get at least the phraseology the League uses on disarmament inserted in the treaty preamble.

Today a similar question came before twenty-five League members who are members of the committee on arbitration and security when they reached the preamble of the proposed convention for strengthening the Council's means of preventing war they are framing here. The preamble which was drafted originally before the Kellogg pact was established mentioned only the League Council.

Uruguay Voices Objection.

The British, backed by the Danes, the Dutch and the Peruvians, wanted the peace pact mentioned, too. All but one of the League members on the committee are bound by both the peace pact and the covenant. The exception, Uruguay, pointed out that she, like five other League members and one non-member, Brazil, had not accepted the pact and hence was opposed to mention of the pact in the preamble.

The discussion that followed showed that the susceptibilities of League members who had not joined in the Kellogg pact would be protected as carefully at Geneva as the susceptibilities of those signing the pact but not members of the League were at London, for the majority sided with Uruguay in opposing mention of the pact anywhere in the treaty. Just as the League terminology was introduced into the London treaty preamble, however, the substance of the peace pact probably will be inserted in this Geneva preamble, a compromise to this effect proposed by Spain having been accepted by Uruguay.

The viewpoint of the powers bound by both the covenant and the pact in siding with Uruguay, as put forth by Belgium, was significant of the way the wind is blowing. Belgium held that the pact, though important, was not to be compared with the Council, which was not merely a paper convention but a living institution, and, moreover, since the League already was engaged in harmonizing the covenant with the pact, it sufficed for League members to base treaties solely on the covenant, since in amended form it would cover the pact, too.

Covenant Becomes Fundamental.

In other words, for these League members the covenant is far from being displaced by the pact and becomes more than ever their fundamental charter.

An amusing feature of the session was that it placed Viscount Cecil in a position of having to use the same arguments for mentioning the pact that the French used before the British for mentioning the League at London. These arguments, as Lord Cecil put them today, were that there were two great instruments designed to maintain world peace—one the covenant and the other the pact. If the existence of one were mentioned in the preamble of a treaty aimed at preserving peace the other ought to be mentioned, too, he argued, if only from international courtesy and because the commission might imply that the signatories valued one instrument less than the other.

The French listened, but today they let their smiles say all they had to say.

DR. BUTLER SEES REICH ECONOMIC POWER SOON

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, May 2.—Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, who will leave Berlin for London tonight, told your correspondent he felt the changed atmosphere in Berlin very strongly as compared with his last visit four years ago.

"In the first place," he said, "Berlin has advanced from being merely the capital of Germany to the rank of a world city alongside of New York, London and Paris. I believe one feels the difference at once. There is a cosmopolitanism of outlook which I find new."

"There is no doubt about it," he commented on the future of Germany; "ten or fifteen years will see Germany again in a supreme economic position. These people have a terrific burden to shoulder, but they have stopped complaining now and have buckled down to work. When they set their minds to a job there is no stopping them."

Dr. Butler was entertained this afternoon by combined German and American educational societies, including the Carl Schurz Association and the American Institute. He spoke briefly at the Columbia Club of Berlin on the internationalization of universities.

Hampton Choir Sings at 10 Downing Street; Gives Spiritual by Request for MacDonald

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 2.—The Hampton Institute choir of American Negroes sang at 10 Downing Street today after a luncheon given by Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald and his daughter Ishbel. The choir sang seven numbers besides its spirituals, including hymns, a Russian song and an old English air, after which Mr. MacDonald asked the leader, Dr. T. R. Nathaniel Dett, to have the Negroes sing "Were You There When They Crucified My Lord?" which they did.

Mr. MacDonald was especially desirous of hearing that spiritual, because it has the title of Mark Symon's modern conception of Christ crucified at the Royal Academy exhibition, in which Mr. MacDonald showed particular interest when he attended a private view of the exhibition this morning.

When Mr. MacDonald left for Parliament, the singers were invited by Miss Ishbel to sing several more numbers, after which they were shown over 10 Downing Street.

Guests at the luncheon included Dr. Johann Schober, Austrian Chancellor; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Henderson, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Snowden, Mary Agnes Hamilton and others.

The choir also visited the Tower of London today, singing in the open air on the Tower's hill. Its first public London concert will be tomorrow afternoon.

BRIDGEMAN ATTACKS THE NAVAL TREATY

Former First Lord Says Labor Has Surrendered Security of the Empire.

SCORES CUT IN CRUISERS

He Argues Accord Is Move to Disarmament for Britain Only—Lauds Battleship Holiday.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 2.—Viscount Bridgeman of Leigh, formerly known as W. C. Bridgeman and former First Lord of the Admiralty, tonight denounced the naval treaty as a disastrous weakening of the British cruiser strength. He said the MacDonald government had surrendered the empire's security without obtaining comparable concessions from the other powers.

Speaking at Weymouth, within sight of the great naval base at Portland, Lord Bridgeman said the British negotiators had disregarded the advice of their naval advisers in agreeing to a cruiser strength of fifty.

"The other four powers have got all they wanted for their security; we have surrendered ours," exclaimed the head of the British naval delegation to Geneva in 1927. "The boast is that there is a great step in disarmament. It is certainly a great step in disarmament for this country, but I fail to see how an agreement which gives the United States a very much stronger cruiser strength, which leaves Japan where she was and does not affect the other two powers, can be regarded by anybody as a step in general disarmament."

Hails Battleship Holiday.

The Labor Government, Lord Bridgeman added, is claiming credit "not for what it has obtained for this country, but for what it has given away in order to reach some kind of agreement."

The five-year postponement of battleship replacement was the single accomplishment of a conference for which the government might justly claim congratulations, Lord Bridgeman declared, but even that, he said, fell far short of what the British delegates had proposed at the ill-fated Geneva conference. He deplored the contingent clause attached to the three-power treaty, adding, "If the position in the Mediterranean is endangered by new building, it will not affect the United States or Japan, but will affect us, and we shall have the insidious task of raising competition—which will not make our relations with the European powers any easier."

Even in the matter of destroyers and submarines, Lord Bridgeman said, the 1930 treaty provided higher maximum levels than those the Baldwin government proposed at Geneva.

Wants Trade Routes Safe.

"It is also claimed," he declared, "that parity with us has now been reached by the United States for the first time. This again is incorrect. Their claim for parity has not been in dispute for seven years. I never raised any objections to it at Geneva in 1927 nor since. Indeed, I would have been willing to let them have what they liked, because I believe a big navy in the hands of a peaceful power, such as America or ourselves, is a factor for the peace of the world.

"But I would never have agreed to surrender the security of our trade and of our very bread by lowering the number of cruisers below the strength demanded by our naval experts. Parity with America is no measure at all of the security of our trade routes, which are open to the attacks of raiding cruisers—like the Emden and others in the great war, a few of which could hold up an enormous amount of our trade. It is for protection against such raiders—which might belong even to second-rate naval powers—that we require a large number of cruisers.

Score Building Plan.

"Our requirements in cruisers have never been based on any comparison with America and so far as I am aware no plan of war against America has ever been considered by our naval or military authorities. Therefore, security is a totally different question from parity with America. I am not blaming the American delegates, who, I believe, were very reasonable and friendly negotiators, but I do blame our own delegates for having given up so much and—if they felt bound to give up so much—for not having got something tangible in return."

Lord Bridgeman also expressed "grave concern" at Britain's future building policy, as affected by the conference. Pointing out that by the end of 1936 all Britain's cruisers but twenty-two would be over age, and that it took three years to build a cruiser, he asserted the Admiralty should lay down twenty-eight cruisers by the end of 1933 to fulfill the promise of a minimum of fifty. He contended, however, that by Article XX, subsection A, of the naval treaty—which provision had never been referred to publicly before—Britain, alone of the powers, had limited her cruiser requirements to 91,000 tons, thus allowing only fifteen to eighteen to be built, instead of the twenty-eight required.

"We, therefore, of all the three powers," Lord Bridgeman said, "are condemned either to fall below the strength allotted to us in cruisers, or to have to keep in commission a number of cruisers past the recognized life of those built during the war."

DELAYS KEEL LAYING OF THREE CRUISERS

Navy Holds Back Work for Another Month Because of Changes in Design.

TREATY HEARINGS MONDAY

Administration Is Assured That Any Fight in the Senate on Pact Will Be Short-Lived.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—Laying of the keels of the three 10,000-ton cruisers whose construction was delayed last year by President Hoover pending the conclusion of the London naval conference will be delayed another month or two because of changes in design.

These changes are in the nature of refinements, rather than major alterations, and will not affect the batteries or speed of the ships. The improvements will embody lessons learned from the 10,000-ton cruisers already constructed and the intensive study the navy has been giving to the plans. One each of the new cruisers is to be built in the New York, Philadelphia and Puget Sound yards. Material has been assembled and all is in readiness to begin work except for the changes in design. The exact nature of these alterations is being kept a naval secret.

Laying down the keels of the cruisers was deferred by President Hoover last year during the preliminary conversations with Great Britain which led to the London conference. In the meantime, work has proceeded on two others of this class at the Fore River plant of the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation and the Camden plant of the New York Shipbuilding Corporation.

The five are the first vessels of the fifteen-cruiser bill passed by Congress in 1928 and now modified by the London naval treaty, in that the last five will not be constructed. Under the treaty the United States may proceed at once with the construction of seven of the ten remaining and lay down the keels of the last three in 1933, 1934 and 1935.

Study Entire Cruiser Building.

A study is being made of the navy's entire cruiser building program, but no decision has been reached as to intricate details involving the merits of six-inch and eight-inch gun ships or whether the tonnage should be 10,000 even with six-inch guns. Also what type will be selected for the flying decks, limited to 25 per cent of the cruiser class, is yet to be determined.

Careful inquiries made by administration officials indicate that any fight that may be made on the London naval treaty in the Senate will be short-lived and that ratification is likely to ensue within ten days or two weeks following a report by the Foreign Relations Committee. It is taken for granted that the committee will make a favorable report on the instrument.

William H. Gardiner, secretary of the Navy League, conferred today with Senator Borah on the treaty, and urged that "no consideration of time should militate against a careful consideration of the instrument by the Senate."

Borah Said to Favor Treaty.

Mr. Borah gave assurances that the treaty and its effects on naval policy would be studied with care in committee as well as in the Senate.

While Mr. Borah has not definitely committed himself to the London pact, he has stated that he is "friendly" to it and the general understanding is that he will support it. Mr. Borah had canvassed the pact in detail with Secretary Stimson and Senator Robinson of Arkansas, who were members of the American delegation to London, and it is understood he will, early next week, discuss its terms with Ambassador Morrow.

Unless there is a change of program, Secretaary Stimson will appear before the Foreign Relations Committee on the treaty. The committee will meet Wednesday to arrange hearings, and will then decide whether testimony shall be taken at executive or public hearings. The present disposition of the committee is to discuss the treaty behind closed doors, in accordance with a suggestion that this would be the proper procedure in the case of an instrument involving other world powers.

Mr. Borah does not believe extended hearings are necessary. He said today that in the persons of Senators Robinson and Reed, who attended the London parley and are both members of the committee, the committee will have good advice within its own councils. Mr. Reed is on the ocean, and will be back in time to take part in committee consideration of the treaty.

Hearings to Begin Monday.

First public discussion on the Senate side of the capital will take place at a hearing to be held by the Naval Committee on Monday. These sessions will be open to press and public. Secretary Adams will be present Monday. His testimony is expected to take up all that day. High officials of the navy will then be heard.

Chairman Hale has explained that the Naval Committee wants advice along technical lines from navy officers as to the precise effects of the treaty on the navy, and that was why it agreed upon the hearings.

Some Senators say that special attention will be paid to Article 21, containing the safety clause. Under this article, they suggest, it would be possible for Great Britain to build 50,000 tons of destroyers as an offset to French submarine strength, a procedure that would not benefit the United States, for the reason, these Senators argue, that the United States would have no use for additional destroyers needing building-up in the cruiser category.

VOTE FULL SUPPORT TO ARMS REDUCTION

League of Women Voters, for First Time, Favors National Measures for Peace.

HOOVER STAND COMMENDED

Convention at Louisville Thanks President for Urging Continuance of Child Welfare Measures.

By WINIFRED MALLON.

Special to The New York Times.

LOUISVILLE, May 2.—By a vote of 115 to 79 and with many delegates not voting, the National League of Women Voters went on record today in support of international reduction of expenditures for war and, for the first time, of "national measures directly related to such international reduction treaties."

The animated discussion preceding the vote indicated that the convention was practically a unit in its opposition to any naval program, involving building "up to parity," and that the delegates were apprehensive of committing themselves to support of national measures which, while within treaty agreements, might involve larger expenditures for armament, military or naval, than in their judgment were consistent with the spirit of the Kellogg peace pact.

Reassured by the explanation of Miss Ruth Morgan of New York that the proposed addition to the program authorized the national board during the next two years to support navy building bills up to, but not beyond, the point that they harmonized with the league's program of international cooperation to prevent war, the recommendation was adopted by a rising vote, twice taken to assure a correct count and confirmed by a "general consent" votes of the delegates.

Takes Stand for First Time.

The action taken authorizes the league, for the first time, to make a position for or against army and navy appropriation bills. This connection of national measures to an international peace program is regarded as unmistakable evidence that the league's approval of the London conference agreement is based largely if not entirely on the fact that "the building program provided for under the treaty for the United States Navy is permissive only, and not mandatory."

The resolution proposed by Miss Morgan yesterday will be voted on and undoubtedly adopted by the convention tomorrow.

The discussion which preceded the taking of the vote showed much uncertainty of mind on the part of the delegates as to both the purpose and effect of this excursion into practical politics.

Opposition to support by the league of "national measures directly related to such international reduction treaties" was voiced by Miss Katherine Ludington of Connecticut, Mrs. Quincy Wright of Chicago, Mrs. Louise Warren Johnson of Missouri and Miss Adele Clark of Richmond.

Warns of Overloading Program.

Miss Ludington warned the delegates that there was involved "not a large, loose, general principle, but a specific matter," and, she added, "we are already overloaded with program."

Mrs. Wright argued for delay on the ground that the delegates were not sufficiently informed and should have time to prepare themselves before taking a position on a matter largely technical which they would be called upon to defend.

Miss Alice W. Hunt of Providence, R. I., on the other hand, supported the position taken by Miss Morgan. Miss Hunt expressed her strong opposition to any naval building "up to parity," and she voted for the proposed addition to the program" to place the league in a position where it could most effectively oppose such a building program."

Combining the resolutions proposed yesterday by the Child Welfare Committee with reference to the maternity and infancy program, and by Mrs. Alice D. Kohn thanking President Hoover for his interest, the special committee to which they were referred reported for adoption tomorrow the following resolutions:

"That the National League of Women Voters expresses to the President of the United States its appreciation of the statement in his annual message, 'I recommend to the Congress that the purpose of the Sheppard-Towner act should be continued through the Children's Bureau for a limited period of years,'"

Urge Child Hygiene Laws.

"That we urge the passage of adequate and immediate legislation for the promotion of maternal and child hygiene with provision for cooperation between the health and educational agencies of the Federal Government and for the administration of the act by the United States Children's Bureau."

The "nationality" resolution commending the bill amending the Cable act, was favorably reported without change for adoption tomorrow.

Mrs. Edgerton Parsons of New York reported on behalf of the women's delegation at the London naval conference, and called on the convention to support the "meager results" deriving therefrom.

"I call them 'meager' in view of the greater possibilities contained in that conference," she explained. "They must, however, be supported before proceeding with any program for parity downward."

Miss Dorothy Straus, of New York, reported on behalf of the International Alliance of Women for Suffrage and Equal Citizenship on the conference for the codification of international law recently held at The Hague, paying a tribute to the American delegation for the position it took in behalf of the principle of equal nationality rights for women.

Mrs. Catt too Ill to Attend.

Tonight, in the lamented absence of Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, who was prevented by illness from attending, the delegates celebrated the league's tenth anniversary at a "birthday party."

The first four candles on the great cake which was the centre of attraction were lighted by Mrs. George Gellhorn, acting as proxy for Mrs. Maud Wood Park who was the first president of the league and served for four years.

The next six candles were lighted by Miss Belle Sherwin, who served for six years and has just been reelected, and the eleventh by Miss Ruth Hastings of Texas, the youngest delegate at the convention.

A telegram from Mrs. Catt was read by Miss Ludington, who presided, as follows:

"Two doctors and a nurse make no suitable substitute for a birthday party, and I would prefer to be with you.

"I console myself that ten years are not enough to boast over anyway, let us have a bigger and better birthday on the twentieth anniversary in 1940. Order the cake for I am coming. Better make the president happy by promising to accept her resignation then. May the league grow a thousand per cent in the next ten years and all the delegates at Louisville join merrily in the party of 1940."

19 on Honor Roll Present.

Nineteen women whose names appear on the national roll of honor adopted yesterday by the League were present at the dinner tonight. They were:

CONNECTICUT—Miss Katharine Ludington of Lyme, Miss Caroline Ruutz-Rees of Greenwich.
KANSAS—Mrs. Charles H. Brooks of Wichita.

Woman Dies in Kansas Plane Crash.

FORT SCOTT, Kan., May 2 (AP).—Mrs. Joseph A. Wasson of Marshall, Mo., was killed and W. E. Brown of Waco, Texas, an airplane dealer, was injured slightly today when an airplane in which they were flying to Tulsa, Okla., crashed in a corn field south of here and burned. Mrs. Wasson was the wife of the assistant sales manager of the Nicholas-Beazley Airplane Company of Marshall, from which Brown purchased the plane.

GOVERNMENT IN DILEMMA

Depending on Nationalists, It Faces Sudden Defiance of Bloc of Party Insurgents.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, May 2.—Germany's budgetary requirements for the fiscal year 1930 will aggregate $2,685,000,000, according to the government's draft of the Reich budget, which was submitted to the Reichstag today by Dr. Paul Moldenhauer, the Minister of Finance. Roughly, it indicates an increase of $84,000,000 over expenditures for the fiscal year of 1929, in addition to which there will have to be coverage for a deficit of $75,000,000 taken over from the previous year.

The budget was referred to the Reichstag's main commission, where it will be subjected to the scrutiny of sixty Deputies. Their consideration of it will consume at least two weeks, after which it will be referred back to the plenary sessions for debate, which is expected to run well into June.

In the course of today's preliminary discussions of the Reich's domestic affairs, Socialist and Centrist Deputies warned the government of urgent need of economy, there being frank references to appropriations for beginning work on Germany's second armored battle cruiser, which it was evident from the tenor of today's debate will be summarily rejected by the Socialists, Centrists and Democrats, whose spokesmen pointed out that it was not the initial allowance of $700,000 required for laying down the keel of the new warship, but the final cost, which would burden coming budgets with a total of $20,000,000, that made such an expenditure "indefensible" in the present state of the Reich's finances.

Calls Delay's Effect Bad.

In introducing the budget, Dr. Moldenhauer declared the delay in reaching a final settlement of the reparations problem had had a seriously detrimental effect on the development of German economy in general and the Reich's finances in particular. The existing shortage of capital, he said, was one of the fundamental ailments affecting German industry, in that it retarded its expansion at home and also deterred it from bidding in the world's markets.

Referring to the cash position of the Reich, Dr. Moldenhauer announced that with the aid of the $125,000,000 loan negotiated with the Swedish match trust and a similar amount provided by the recently established amortization fund, the Reich's floating debt would be reduced by $250,000,000 in the current year.

Discussing the government's proposed relief scheme for the East Prussian agrarian districts, the Minister acknowledged the immediate urgency of such an undertaking but added that it would be executed only within the scope of available financial resources and that the government did not intend to burden the budget with additional expenditures.

Now that the government, in return for the good will of Nationalist Reichstag deputies has pledged itself to aid East Prussian agrarian areas, the problem of financing this undertaking already is precipitating serious conflicts in the ranks of the Cabinet. As originally conceived the scheme called for the immediate outlay of funds which are not now available and while the Bruening Cabinet already has devoted several executive sessions to consideration of the scheme, no headway has been made yet.

Dr. Moldenhauer's intention to have the work spread over a period of ten years in order to reduce its financial drain to a minimum does not suit the Nationalists, who are demanding their political reward for their transitory support of the present minority Cabinet in a speedy beginning of relief work in the sections which nominally are their political strongholds.

Insurgent Bloc in Control.

In this connection it is noted that twenty-eight insurgents of the Nationalist Reichstag delegation, who through Count Westarp today informed Dr. Hugenberg of their intention to reserve liberty of Parliamentary action regardless of the party's official position, now constitute a Parliamentary group which is ideally situated to browbeat Chancellor Bruening's minority Cabinet into any desirable political bargain by virtue of its strategic position in a critical voting situation. Chancellor Bruening, therefore, is now held to be at the mercy of a small political clique which commands enough votes to decide the government's fate.

It is primarily in connection with such issues as concessons to the agrarian interests that Dr. Bruening finds himself in a position which will force him either to yield to their demands or accept the alternative defeat, as his Cabinet can not dispense with the twenty-eight votes which Count Westarp's insurgent group commands as a result of the rupture in Dr. Hugenberg's party.

Among the protests to such munificence for this corner of Germany is one from the occupied areas of the Rhineland, which charge that for more than twelve years the sorely tried populace there had to put up with inconveniences and sacrifices because of a foreign military occupation for which the government never made commensurate compensation.

In the meantime conjecture in Reichstag circles occupies itself with the probable length of Chancellor Bruening's tenure of office under conditions which are viewed as amounting to polite political blackmail, notwithstanding the fact that the bargain of which he is now beneficiary or victim was one of his own choosing.

REBELLION IN BRAZIL REPORTED NEAR END

Parahyba State Forces Said to Be Closing in On Pereira in Princeza.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, May 2 (AP).—Latest advices received from the State of Parahyba, in Northern Brazil, where local rebel forces have been in the field against the State Government, indicate that the State authorities are getting control of the situation.

José Pereira, leader of the rebel forces is now holding the town of Princeza, but the State police have been closing in and it was believed possible that Pereira would have to surrender.

For several weeks clashes between the police and the rebels have been reported, in one instance several men having been killed and others wounded. Pereira's supporters are tenant farmers and cowboys and clashes at various places have resulted in other casualties.

[A news agency report in Buenos Aires said forty provincial policemen were ambushed and killed near Princeza, but no confirmation of this has been obtained.]

The difficulties in Parahyba are political. Pereira, a former supporter of State President Joao Pessoa, broke with him at the last elections when the names of his Federal deputy candidates were not placed on the official list.

PRAGUE GREETS OUR ENVOY.

Ratshesky Carries Hoover's Felicitations to President Masaryk.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PRAGUE, May 2.—Abraham Ratshesky, the new United States Minister at Prague, was the guest of President Masaryk at an official reception today. A cavalary division escorted the Minister to Hrad Castle. In the first carriage, drawn by two white horses, sat Mr. Ratshesky and Minister Strimpl, and in the others were members of the staff of the American Legation and the Czechoslovak Foreign Office.

In a speech delivered after he had been welcomed by President Masaryk, Mr. Ratshesky declared, "The eyes of the world are on the Czechoslovak Republic—the land of promise and already rich in achievement, in industry, finance, education and social welfare. I have been charged by President Hoover to convey his warm personal wishes for your welfare and the assurance of his deep interest in the continued prosperity and happiness of the Czechoslovak Republic."

"The name of President Hoover is dear to our people," replied President Masaryk. "Our nation is not ungrateful. We retain a happy memory of the distinguished help America rendered us in our struggles for independence."

League Report Also Shows That Australia Borrows Most on Population Basis.

BRITAIN'S INCOME BIGGEST

Figures Reveal United States as Lagging Behind Leaders in Foreign Financing.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, May 2.—Several widely accepted ideas are jarred by a volume on international trade and balances of payments in the year 1928, issued by the League of Nations economic section today. It shows:

The country lending the most abroad per capita was not the United States, but The Netherlands, which was followed by France and the United Kingdom.

The country borrowing the most abroad per capita was not Germany, but Australia, which was followed by Germany, Argentina, Norway and Hungary. Germany was greatest in the amount borrowed, her total being $1,067,000,000. Australia was second, with a total of $267,000,000.

The heaviest annual interest payments abroad per capita are not by Europeans, the most heavily indebted of European nations paying only from $2 to $5 per capita, but by Australia, New Zealand, Canada, Argentina and South Africa, the citizens of these sparsely settled countries paying from $10 to $30 each.

The greatest net receipt from interest and dividends was still recorded by the United Kingdom, with $1,387,000,000 and $683,000,000, respectively, in 1928.

The United States, far from being a laggard in her merchant marine, had the second greatest gross income from maritime freights in 1928, the figures being for the United Kingdom $657,000,000; for the United States $339,000,000, and for Germany $59,000,000, with Norway, Italy and Sweden following.

Canada profits more from tourists than the country whose name is generally considered synonymous with touring, Switzerland. The nations receiving the most from foreign tours are, in order, France, Italy, Canada and Switzerland. A majority of the other countries show a net expenditure on this account, the tourist expenditure of the United States for 1928 being $614,000,000.

Louisiana Wins Boundary Dispute.

WASHINGTON, May 2 (AP).—Louisiana today won in its boundary dispute with Mississippi under a ruling by Thomas G. Haight, Supreme Court special master. The report filed in the Supreme Court recommended that the boundary line between the two States opposite Willow Point, La., should be the middle of the navigable channel of the Mississippi River in 1912-13.

ITALY'S NAVAL PLANS DISTURBING TO FRANCE

New Program Said Not Likely to Facilitate Negotiations for Joining London Pact.

PARIS, May 2 (AP).—An analysis of the Italian naval construction program for 1930 has resulted in some uneasiness in French official circles.

It is remarked that the Italian plans call for exactly the same tonnage as the French—43,000 for this year. Officials also note that the chief item on Italy's program is submarines, of which twenty-two are to be put on the stocks this year. This is precisely the department in which Italy was further behind France.

Because Italy now has less than half as many under-water craft, and proposes to bring her total to parity at once, this naval development did not, it was said in official circles, seem likely to facilitate negotiations between France and Italy as provided at the London naval conference just ended.

"It looks too much like putting the shooting irons on the table before beginning the discussion," a French official said.

One interpretation of the new Italian program is that Premier Mussolini aims to establish the principle of parity with France by actual facts before opening negotiations.

300 ESCAPE FJORD CAVE-IN.

One Dead, Two Factories Wrecked in Trondhjem Landslide.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

OSLO, May 2.—About 300 workmen engaged in the construction of the Orkla Mining Company's new buildings on the Trondhjem Fjord had a miraculous escape from death today when hundreds of tons of land slipped from beneath their feet and plunged to the sea. On the identical spot thirty-seven years ago a landslide cost 110 lives, and so at the first ominous rumblings today the workmen dropped their tools and ran.

One man fell into a crevasse and was not seen again. A huge wave swept along the shore as a result of the landslide and two fish-curing factories and twenty to thirty boats were destroyed.

AUSTRIAN LOAN BARRED FROM SCHOBER TALKS

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 2.—The flotation of a loan to assist Austria's financial reconstruction, it was authoritatively stated tonight, will form no part of the conversations between the Austrian Chancellor, Johann Schober, and Premier MacDonald and members of the Cabinet during his three days' visit to London.

The first Federal Chancellor of Austria to pay a formal public visit to Britain since the World War has set himself to explain the internal situation in Austria and the methods he is taking to reduce the possibility of armed conflicts between the rival factions and to deprive them of firearms.

Dr. Schober had a cordial talk this morning with Foreign Secretary Henderson and he later lunched with Mr. MacDonald. Tomorrow he will be received by the King. It is understood Dr. Schober proposes formally to thank the King for Britain's help in enabling Austria to obtain her financial independence. She is no longer obliged to obtain the consent of the reparations commission before contracting a loan abroad nor will she now be expected to provide the special security, hitherto required, of providing a first charge upon her national revenues.

Referring to Dr. Schober's recent visits to European capitals, The London Times will say tomorrow, "Dr. Schober must indeed have gained the encouraging impression from his travels that the Austrian Republic is everywhere regarded with good-will, and those whom he has visited cannot fail to have gained new confidence in the policy of the government for which Dr. Schober is responsible."

Mrs. McPherson Would "Get Away" From Work—Sees Turkish Dance.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 2.—Clad in a clinging flesh-colored satin dress, a white lace dinner cap, a Summer ermine coat and gold-buckled white slippers, Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson last night was a conspicuous figure in the audience at a native theatre where "stomach dancing" was among the features of the program. Before returning to her hotel, Mrs. McPherson walked through one of the city's roughest sections. Asked by a reporter if she was holding any meetings, she replied, "I am trying to get away from that for a while."

President Cosgrave Indisposed.

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, May 2 (AP).—Reports that President William T. Cosgrave was seriously ill were denied here today. Mr. Cosgrave is temporarily inconvenienced by a minor ailment but expects to return to his work in a few days.

Curtiss-Wright Invites You to Fly in the Ships You See at the Show

THIS is your air week—an occasion for you to view the brilliant display of modern aircraft at Madison Square Garden. At the Curtiss-Wright exhibit you will become intimately acquainted with famous ships—the 18-passenger "Condor", de luxe air-liner—delightful cabin ships of the "Travel Air" and "Robin" type—trim, light "D. H. Moth" sport planes. You will also get a "close-up" of Curtiss-Wright engines, world-renowned for reliability and endurance.

So that you may see Curtiss-Wright aircraft in action, every day this week is a "big day" at Curtiss-Wright Field, Valley Stream, L. I. At 2 o'clock every afternoon special busses leave Madison Square Garden for this great, modern air base where you will see the Curtiss-Wright fleet, piloted by an army of experienced pilots, and an amazing centralization of air activity.

Best of all, it will be your opportunity to fly. Sightseeing trips, in continuous operation, give you a choice of different types of fine planes in the hands of veteran pilots. You will enjoy a glorious experience that fully realizes your wish to "fly some day." Another metropolitan airport for sightseeing trips is at Caldwell, N. J., and its activities are typical of 40 other Curtiss-Wright flying bases in cities of the United States.

During Show Week you are invited to visit

Madison Square Garden has been transformed into a huge hangar, resplendent with color and replete with thrills. From the moment you step into the huge Arena, you will be held SPELL-BOUND:

Six of the largest air transport planes ever built in the United States brought together for the first time in one great exhibit: the Fokker F-32, with day and night accommodations for 32 passengers; the giant 24-passenger Consolidated Commodore to be used in South American service; the 21-place Curtiss Condor; the new Sikorsky Amphibion; the first American-built Savoia Marchetti Flying Boat; the sensational new Ford monoplane . . . and more than 100 other fascinating exhibits.

You will see FREE motion pictures of the Giant DO-X, Lindbergh's famous flights, and the newest developments in aviation, in a SPECIALLY CONSTRUCTED THEATRE. Pictures taken by Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd at the South Pole, rushed to New York by airplane, are being presented for the first time. Don't miss this treat!

DOORS SWING OPEN TO-DAY AT 6 P. M.

Famous fliers, aviation leaders and prominent city officials will greet you at the Grand Opening of the show at 6 o'clock to-night.

Hon. Grover A. Whalen, Police Commissioner, and Frederick B. Rentschler, President of the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce of America, will speak at 8 o'clock. Their aviation messages will be carried by radio and a special loud speaking system to every part of the three exposition floors. FAMOUS FLIERS who have made aviation history during the past decade will be introduced IN PERSON throughout the evening.

Get an early start! Tickets on sale to-day at noon. Doors swing open at 6 P. M.

Also open Sunday, noon to 11 P. M. . . . week days 10:30 A. M. to 11 P. M.

REWARDS HEROISM OF AUBURN CONVICTS

Roosevelt Commutes Terms of Six Who Aided Guards in Prison Riot.

THEY SAVED OTHERS' LIVES

Governor Says They Risked Their Own in Aiding State—Queens Bandit Included.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, May 2.—The sentences of six prisoners who aided the State during the riots at Auburn were commuted today to minimum terms by Governor Roosevelt. They were not pardoned outright, the Governor stated, but each received a special commutation so that for the balance of their terms they will be subject to the parole board.

The prisoners named in the order were:

Earl Howard, convicted in Erie County in March, 1927, of burglary, third degree, and sentenced to 11 years; sentence commuted to 3 years 1 month 20 days, minimum; 11 years, maximum.

Julius Kessler, convicted in Erie County in June, 1925, of murder, second degree, and sentenced to 20 years, minimum; life, maximum; sentence commuted to 6 years 10 months 9 days, minimum; life, maximum.

Ada M. Krokowski, convicted in Steuben County in May, 1929, of attempted grand larceny, second degree, and sentenced to 2 years and 6 months; sentence commuted to 11 months 18 days, minimum; 2 years 6 months, maximum.

Thomas E. Marlowe, convicted in Monroe County in February, 1928, of forgery, second degree, and sentenced to 10 years; sentence commuted to 2 years 2 months 16 days, minimum; 10 years, maximum.

James John O'Connor, convicted in Queens County in September, 1926, of robbery and assault, first degree; robbery, first degree, and grand larceny, second degree, and sentenced to 15 years minimum and 30 years maximum; sentence commuted to 3 years 7 months 4 days, minimum; 30 years, maximum.

Louis Francis Spaide, convicted in Broome County in February, 1927, of forgery, third degree, and sentenced to five years; sentence commuted to 3 years 2 months 13 days minimum, five years maximum.

"All of the terms, conditions and penalties attaching to an ordinary parole," the Governor wrote, "will have to be complied with by these men and for any delinquency they are of course subject to return to prison without a new trial to serve out the balance of their sentence.

"At the time, and subsequent to the recent disturbances in Auburn Prison these men, according to both the warden and District Attorney of Cayuga County, proved themselves steadfastly on the side of law and order, and some of them actually saved the lives of others at imminent peril to themselves. It is also noteworthy that the previous prison records of these men have been very good."

CZECH DEPUTIES FIGHT AS REDS DERIDE FOES

Socialists Exchange Blows With Communists in Three Free-for-All Fights.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PRAGUE, May 2.—The Communists again provoked violent scenes in Parliament today, resulting in a liberal exchange of blows among members. The sitting finally degenerated into a debate with fists.

The disorders began with a remark shouted by Communists to a German Socialist Deputy, Herr Katz, who took it as an insult and rushed across to the Communist benches and began upbraiding them. Thereupon a Communist Deputy, Dr. Stern, sprang up and boxed Herr Katz soundly on the ears, which aroused prompt retaliation by Herr Kauffman, a Socialist, who boxed Dr. Stern's ears twice.

Immediately the House was in an uproar and it was with difficulty that the moderates on both sides succeeded in restraining the combatants.

After a vote was taken the battle was resumed by Herr Katz, who endeavored to drive home the Communists' defeat by himself striking Dr. Stern. In the mass of struggling figures which then filled the floor Herr Katz was clearly seen to strike Dr. Stern's nose three times in rapid succession.

The Ministerial benches joined in and before overwhelming forces the Communists had to admit defeat.

When the House adjourned the battle was resumed in the corridors, where a Nationalist Deputy, Herr Langer, caught a Communist, Herr Hruschka, in a corner and laid him out with a well-aimed blow.

DR. FLEXNER ASSAILS MEDICAL PROJECT

FAVORS UNIVERSITY TREND

Independent Colleges Unsound, He Says—Calls $1,000,000 Far Too Small an Endowment.

The proposal to establish a large medical centre in Brooklyn associated with ten hospitals, announced last week, is a step backward in the opinion of Dr. Abraham Flexner, formerly secretary of the General Education Board and director of the Division of Studies and Medical Education. Dr. Flexner is regarded as an authority on medical education.

Dr. Flexner explained yesterday that modern medical education required a large endowment and that the school should be connected with a university. He said that individual medical schools were unsound, had never lasted, and that the trend was distinctly in the opposite direction.

"Why should local pride or any other motive be permitted to check our upward progress?" he inquired, adding: "We do not need more doctors in this country; what we need is better-trained doctors."

Dr. Flexner said that he was reluctant to "utter a word of warning," but that he was acting "in the kindest spirit and solely in the interest of American medicine and the good repute of Brooklyn."

"It is proposed," he said, "if the newspaper accounts are correct, to separate the Long Island College Hospital from the Medical College, to bring together ten hospitals, to constitute their staffs a faculty of medicine, to erect a central laboratory building serving all, at a cost of perhaps $3,000,000, and to secure $1,000,000 endowment."

In reference to the endowment, he commented: "Why, $1,000,000 is not enough to cross the street with in medical education today."

"Every one of these steps," he continued, "is reactionary and unsound. For upward of a quarter of a century the American Medical Association and other agencies have been working in precisely the opposite direction. Medicine is a university faculty. The practitioner of medicine is not necessarily a proper professor of medicine, whatever his virtues as a practitioner may be. Miscellaneous hospitals are not university hospitals. Teaching and research in the medical sciences—the so-called medical school—must be physically integrated with the university hospital. An endowment of $1,000,000 is ludicrously inadequate; it can only mean that the institution expects to live on fees.

"If a school of this kind is established, its graduates would practice mainly in the Borough of Brooklyn, where there are physicians enough already. They might, to be sure, find openings in the less highly developed portions of the country, but that is precisely where they will not go. Surely the Department of Education of the State of New York should not countenance an enterprise of this kind, which involves turning the hands of the clock backward.

"If the proposed school in Brooklyn can be justified, there is not a large city in the country that would not be similarly justified in establishing the same kind of institution—independent of university organization, association and ideals. We should then be back where we were about 1910."

PANAMA TOLLS RISE WHILE TRANSITS DROP

Larger Size of Ships Using Canal Is Responsible for Trend.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BALBOA, C. Z., May 2.—The decline in Panama Canal traffic continued during April, with 489 commercial vessels making the transit, the lowest figure for the present fiscal year and the lowest since September, 1923. The daily average of transits also was the lowest since September, 1928, when there were 17.3 ships, compared with eighteen daily in April, 1929.

The total tolls collections for April were $2,232,790 and the daily average was $74,425, while the average toll per vessel was $4,565, compared with $4,388 in March, setting the highest average since December, 1925, when it was $4,571.

The increasing size of ships using the canal makes possible fewer transits with a corresponding decrease in operations, without materially reducing the total of tolls collections. Despite the fact that the transits for the present fiscal year to date are 158 fewer than for the same period in the last fiscal year, tolls collections are $109,972 greater, totaling $22,812,996 at the end of April.

Town Hall Club Honored Morrow.

In a report of the Town Hall Club's second annual award to Dwight W. Morrow, Ambassador to Mexico, printed in THE NEW YORK TIMES yesterday, it was incorrectly stated that the award was made by the Town Club.

EARL OF DERBY GETS OFFICIAL WELCOME

British Sportsman, Here for Kentucky Derby on May 17, Is Met at Quarantine by Whalen.

ROUND OF AFFAIRS FOR HIM

Will Be Guest of J. E. Widener and Will Visit Hoover Before Returning Home.

The seventeenth Earl of Derby, famous turfman to whose family the big horse races owe their name, arrived here on the Cunard liner Aquitania yesterday, and was met at quarantine by a party of welcomers aboard the city tug Macom.

The nobleman boarded the Macom, after which the Aquitania proceeded to her pier, docking six hours late, due to bad weather last Tuesday, according to Captain William Prothero.

On the Macom were Joseph E. Widener, wealthy Philadelphia sportsman, who will be the Earl's host in this country; Police Commissioner Whalen and George F. Hand of the Mayor's Reception Committee. On the way up the bay to Pier A the Earl told reporters that he was here "to have a jolly good time for seventeen days." He said it was his first visit to New York in forty years, his previous visit having been made while his father was Governor General of Canada. The Earl, who pronounces his name "Darby," came here primarily to see the Kentucky Derby on May 17. He intends also to visit various noted Kentucky racing stables.

Earl Is Escorted by Police.

After landing the Earl proceeded under a police escort to the Hotel Ritz-Carlton. He will pass the week-end on Long Island, but he would not say where. On Monday a dinner will be given for him at the Ritz by former Governor and Mrs. R. Livingstone Beeckman of Rhode Island; on Tuesday night he will be the dinner guest of the Pilgrims, and on the following night of the Foreign Relations Association. On Thursday he will have luncheon with the English-Speaking Union and dinner with the Jockey Club. Friday is what he described as a "day off." At the end of next week he will go to the Widener estate outside of Philadelphia.

The Earl's itinerary includes a visit to Washington, where he will call on President Hoover and be entertained by Secretary Mellon and by Hugh C. Wallace, who was American Ambassador at Paris while the Earl of Derby was British Ambassador there. His final engagement in Washington will be luncheon at the Alibi Club. He will leave for Kentucky on May 13.

Chinese Minister Returns.

Among the 309 first-class passengers on the Aquitania was Dr. Chao-Chu Wu, the Chinese Minister at Washington, who has been attending The Hague conference. Another passenger was J. E. Fenton, Australian Minister of Customs and chief Australian delegate to the London Naval Arms Conference. He was met by Herbert Brooks, Australian Commissioner General.

Mr. Fenton, who is proceeding home by way of Vancouver and who will call on officials in Washington before leaving the East, expressed himself as pleased with the results of the naval conference, saying that it would relieve his country of building for the next five years. He said he formerly regarded Americans as cousins, but since the London parley he feels "more like calling them brothers." He praised the American delegates and said that the recent conference had done much toward solidifying confidence and good-will among Anglo-Saxon peoples.

The Aquitania brought also a British Vice Admiral, H. F. Haggard, who is Commander-in-Chief of the America and West Indies squadron of the British fleet. He was accompanied by his staff. He will start for Bermuda on Saturday.

Other passengers were Colonel Eugene Czapary, Lieutenant George Endres and Captain Steven Groschmid, three World War Hungarian aviators, who are planning a non-stop flight from Detroit to Budapest, and Dean Cornwall, American painter, who in his studio in London has under way a set of sixteen murals of historic subjects for the Los Angeles public library.

CITY LITTER DRIVE ORDERED

Dorman Plans Court Action if Rubbish in Buildings Is Ignored.

In an effort to curb the increasing number of fires caused by refuse carelessly discarded in buildings, Fire Commissioner Dorman issued orders last night to all company commanders in the city to detail men for inspection tours. One man from each company district will co-operate with the Bureau of Fire Prevention.

Patrick Walsh, assistant chief of the Fire Department, who was appointed by Commissioner Dorman to conduct the campaign, said particular attention would be devoted to Brooklyn, which has 110 company divisions. Commissioner Dorman said 53 per cent cent of the city's apartment house fires during 1929 were started in rubbish piles.

According to the orders issued last night, all inspectors will report back to Chief Walsh any violators who refuse to comply with the first verbal order. After a second inspection ten days later a written order will be given. If the violations still persist a court order will be issued. It is believed that the campaign was precipitated by the fire at Clinton and Pacific Streets, Brooklyn, on Thursday night, when eight firemen were overcome.

CITY WILL WELCOME SAILORS OF FLEET

RECEPTION AT CITY HALL

Dinner to Be Given for Staff and Dance for the Crews—Free Baseball Tickets.

The officers and men of the United States fleet, which is scheduled to reach New York next Wednesday morning, will receive the freedom of the city both symbolically and, to some extent, literally. The program of welcome as arranged last night by Police Commissioner Whalen, chairman of the Mayor's Committee on Reception, provides for a formal reception of Admiral W. V. Pratt, commander-in-chief of the fleet, and his staff officers, and also for entertainment for the men.

The welcoming program will start at 9:30 Wednesday morning when Acting Mayor Joseph V. McKee, Mr. Whalen and members of his committee, representatives of the army and navy and city officials, will go down the harbor in the Macon to welcome the fleet off the Statue of Liberty and pay an official visit to Admiral Pratt. At noon Acting Mayor McKee will receive Admiral Pratt and his staff officers at the City Hall.

On next Thursday night a banquet in honor of Admiral Pratt and the fleet officers will be held at the Hotel Astor, and on May 12 the enlisted men will be entertained at a dance at the same hotel.

Other entertainment features are offered by Colonel Jacob Ruppert, owner of the New York American League baseball team, who will give all officers and enlisted men free admission to home games at the Yankee Stadium from May 6 to May 15, inclusive, and by several theatre and amusement park owners who will issue admission tickets on board the ships. The Chanin organization will give free admission to the Chanin Tower.

On Sunday, May 11, Mothers' Day, special services of welcome will be conducted at the Cathedral of St. John the Divine and twenty other Protestant churches, at St. Patrick's Cathedral and other Catholic churches and at twenty Jewish synagogues and recreational centres.

KOHLER COMPANY LENT MONEY FOR CAMPAIGN

SHEBOYGAN, Wis., May 2 (AP).—George L. Gilkey, chairman of the State Republican Committee, testified today at the trial of Governor Walter J. Kohler that he did not know the date when money owed to the Kohler Company by his committee was repaid.

The State has sought to prove that Mr. Kohler used his manufacturing plant and "model village" near here to sway voters in the 1928 primary campaign. Testimony has established that the Kohler Company kept track of some campaign expenditures, and later billed the State Republican Committee. The Governor is charged specifically with spending more than the $4,000 allowed by the State corrupt practices act.

Gilkey was the second of two witnesses to testify today. The first was George Angelback, an advertising man for the Kohler Company. The State referred frequently to testimony taken in a closed hearing at Madison and examined both witnesses closely on statements made at that time. Each contradicted himself several times on the basis of the earlier testimony, but each time the defense examination brought forth an explanation.

COUZENS RESOLUTION ORDERED TO SENATE

But Committee Is Tied on Issue of Favorable or Adverse Report on Rail Merger Measure.

WASHINGTON, May 2 (AP).—By a tie vote, the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee today ordered reported to the Senate the Couzens resolution curbing railroad consolidations, but whether the report will be favorable or adverse hinged tonight on a poll of the other six committee members.

Senator Couzens, Republican, of Michigan, author of the resolution and chairman of the committee, said that he would report the resolution to the Senate on Monday and predicted that the final poll of the committee on it would be "at least a tie."

Chairman Couzens hoped, however, for committee approval. He said that of the six absentees two were still undecided tonight, but that both, he believed, favored the resolution. Of the others one was definitely against it, he added, one probably would be against it and two were on record as favoring the measure.

The resolution would suspend the authority of the Interstate Commerce Commission until March 4, 1931, to approve or authorize any consolidations or unifications except in conformity with provisions the measure would lay down.

WHALEN DISCLOSES SECRET RED ORDERS

the leading Communist agents in this country, and Mr. Skvirsky as one of the alleged Communist agents, who hold the purse.

Mr. Bogdanov addressed a letter to Commissioner Whalen last night demanding a "thorough investigation of the documents" and offering "every assistance" of the Amtorg.

Pointing out that the Amtorg did a business with American firms in 1929 totaling $150,000,000 and emphasizing that it was nothing but a commercial organization, Mr. Bogdanov told the commissioner that "the publication in the press of your statement and of the photostatic copies of what we insist to be forged documents may cause substantial damage to us and to the numerous American firms with which we are doing business by its effect upon such trade."

Demands Prompt Action.

"In all fairness, we feel that we are entitled to have determined the authenticity of these documents which were given by you to the press without any opportunity on our part to examine the same," he went on. "In view of the wide publicity given to these documents and for the purpose of counteracting the damage we have already suffered, we request prompt action on your part."

Mr. Bogdanov's letter was interpreted as a threat of a damage suit against Mr. Whalen if he failed to comply with the request for an inquiry.

Students of the Russian situation who read the documents also saw in them some features involving addresses, names and composition which tended to cast doubt upon their authenticity.

Other men implicated are Saul Bron, former head of the Amtorg and now head of the Soviet commercial agency in Great Britain, and T. G. Grapfen, secretary-treasurer of the Amtorg. The Amtorg has offices here at 361 Fifth Avenue.

These men, with others of lesser importance and whose names are not unfamiliar, are indicated in the documents to be agents helping to foment strikes, riots and disturbances in this country in response to orders and instructions from the Communist International. Linked with them is William Z. Foster, American Communist leader, now serving a sentence for inciting the Union Square riot of March 6.

Grapfen is pictured in the documents as having received secret instructions from the Communist International in Moscow, as having relayed funds to Foster, and in general as having helped organize and direct Communist activities in the United States. Grapfen and Skvirsky are also pictured as links between the Ogpu, the Soviet secret police, and its agents in this country. Skvirsky appears as the man who handles the funds of the Ogpu section of the Amtorg.

The bulk of the documents consists of letters addressed by A. Fedorov, directing head of the Communist International in Moscow, to Bron and Grapfen. Only one of the photostat letters is a document written on Amtorg stationery. It is a letter addressed by Grapfen to Moscow relative to the disposition of Russian Communist agents under his direction in this country and the organization and progress of his own work.

The papers purport to show that Moscow was taking advantage for propaganda purposes of the "approaching economic crisis" in the United States and was especially interested in promoting strikes and disturbances in the textile, mining, needle and other trades.

Thirty Agents Listed.

Grapfen's letter lists the names of thirty men and women dispatched from Moscow to New York and characterized by him as being hard to replace, stating that the recall of any one of them might result in serious embarrassment to the work here. Among these is Delgass, characterized by Commissioner Whalen as the most dangerous of the undercover men maintained by the Ogpu in this country. Delgass is said to have been at one time personal secretary to the late Felix Dzershinsky, organizer and head of the Soviet Cheka.

A "mandate" received by Grapfen from Moscow orders him to go to Seattle, Wash., to establish temporary headquarters there as Seattle manager of the Amtorg. In Seattle he was to call a meeting in March of Soviet agents and Communist agitators to receive instructions for May Day outbreaks. Attached to the document is a list of twenty-five agents being sent from Moscow to America, together with instructions as to their disposition in various parts of the United States.

One of the photostats to which Mr. Whalen called particular attention was a copy of an article published in Pravda, the official organ of the Communist party in Russia, portraying an economic crisis in the United States and an extreme sharpening of the class war. This article, Mr. Whalen pointed out, was ordered distributed "among the working masses of all races and nationalities, and also in the army and navy." The author of this article is Foster.

Start of Police Inquiry.

In making public the documents, Commissioner Whalen declared that the attention of the police to Communist activities was first drawn through "the number of unnecessary and violent strikes which the representatives of labor declared to be backed by the Russian Soviet Government." Complaint was also made by the United States Department of Labor, through its representative in New York, Charles G. Wood, Mr. Whalen said.

"The United States Labor Department and the labor unions produced such strong circumstantial evidence in substantiation of their charges that it was decided to put the matter in the hands of our Bureau of Criminal Information," Mr. Whalen said, "and after strenuous and painstaking investigation the labor representatives were found to be right—that the Communist International of Moscow was directly operating in the United States through certain agencies having headquarters in the city of New York, fomenting strikes and riots which the police had to contend with recently, not only in this city but also in various other sections of the country.

"The appended photostats, which constitute a part of the documents obtained, tell their own story," Mr. Whalen added. "It will be noted that these documents reach this country by courier from the Soviet Embassies of Berlin or Paris."

Contrary to the assertion of Mr. Whalen of complaints from the Department of Labor and from labor leaders as the cause that led to his investigation and the discovery of the documents, Department of Labor officials in Washington were quoted as saying that while they had participated in the settlement of strikes in New York and New Jersey of apparent Communist origin and inspiration, the department had no information as to these strikes having been incited directly from Moscow. Department officials denied that information of this kind had been transmitted by them to Mr. Whalen.

Officials of the American Federation of Labor, who at various times have charged that Moscow was behind certain strikes conducted recently by the Communists in the textile, mining and needle trades, said they knew nothing of the documents revealed by Mr. Whalen or of the investigation which Mr. Whalen declared led to their discovery.

A sweeping denial of the authenticity of the documents was made in Washington by Mr. Skvirsky:

"These documents, if they exist, undoubtedly form another of the forgeries concocted by subversive persons against the Soviet Union," Mr. Skvirsky was quoted as saying. "In this case the forgery is designed to destroy the structure of American-Soviet trade which has been built up laboriously during the past six years with profit to both countries. The statements relating to me and to the Amtorg Trading Corporation are wholly and absolutely untrue in every particular."

Mr. Skvirsky expressed the hope that the documents would be thoroughly investigated by the Federal authorities. He said he had been informed that purported Soviet official documents had been offered for sale in New York recently and hinted that these might be the documents published by Mr. Whalen.

"The new Russian 'documents' as described to me seem to be another link in the chain of forgeries concocted by certain Czarist emigrés," he said.

When shown the denials of Mr. Bognanov and Mr. Skvirsky, Mr. Whalen said:

"I am afraid the documents will have to speak for themselves. They are very definite and complete."

The correspondence revealed by Mr. Whalen covers a period from Dec. 16, 1929, to March 10. Together with photostats of the originals of letters and documents, Mr. Whalen supplied English translations.

Text of "Mandate" to Grapfen.

Following is the mandate addressed by Fedorov, with the signature again erroneously translated, to Grapfen, under date of Jan. 3:

ABSOLUTELY CONFIDENTIAL.
Moscow, 3 January, 1930.
Personally on Receipt.
WORKERS OF THE WORLD, UNITE!
Executive Committee, Komintern,
Comrade G. Grapfen,
Amtorg, Petrovka, 3-6, Moscow.
No. 6 S. M.
Code: Mengraf.

MANDATE.

The executive committees of the Comintern and Profintern have accredited us to issue to you this mandate, according to which you are again dispatched to the United States in capacity as a general representative of operation administrative section of the above-named organization.

In your duties is the execution of all decisions accepted on the last joint meeting of the foreign sections of Comintern and Profintern, all the changes and all new orders will be forwarded to you through the diplomatic couriers of one of the European countries which have representation of the U. S. S. R.

All your work you have to coordinate with Comrade Bogdanov and consult him on questions having any relations to business.

Comrade Dubrovsky and Sheftel must turn over to you all files which have some relations to their work in our line and activities in the future must be limited by notarial functions under the flag of the Red Cross. Comrade Sheftel is being redispatched to Europe.

You must be in permanent contact with Comrade Kralevsky, who in his political work of the territory of South America must be subordinated to you.

In connection with the last mad outbreak of the traitors your headquarters will be temporarily in Seattle, in the State of Washington, where you will be sent by Amtorg as a manager of their branch, where you must move all the current files. The archives from illegal work must be sent to Moscow by freight boat.

Between the 15th and 26th of March you will have to call in Seattle a reunion of all our general representatives, which must receive instructions, literature for organization of the first of May outbreaks from you and sums of money from Comrade Sversky, who continues to be in charge of the financial department.

Comrades which we are dispatching from the U. S. S. R. in your charge distribute in the regions according to attached list.

Use all efforts to finish the work at Seattle within six months, when the organization work of a solid base with connections, apartments, warehouses and printing shops will be furnished return to New York.

On all important changes of the program inform us by cablegram. The date of legality of this mandate is closed Dec. 31, 1931.

Accredited representative of the Executive Committee of Comintern, FEODOR.
Correct: Alexiv.
Enclosure mentioned.

The Comintern and Profintern referred to in the "mandate" are respectively, the Communist International and the Red Trade Union International.

"The last outbreak of the traitors" mentioned in the "mandate" was explained by Mr. Whalen as referring to a raid made by Jay Lovestone, leader of the expelled right wing of the American Communist party, upon the Communist headquarters in New York, in which many documents weer supposed to have been seized by Lovestone and his followers.

Amtorg Letterhead Used.

The concluding document is the letter on an Amtorg letterhead addressed by Grapfen to Federov through I. Poliakov, the Amstorg representative in Moscow. It follows:

Copy Komintern International,
Comrade A. Fedorov.
Dear Comrade:

Herewith I am complying with your telegraphic requests about sending a list of party comrades which are hard to be replaced of those sent to New York for work:

Belitsky, Berlin, Bogdanov, Garlin, Delgass, Zievkim, Kanevitz, Kassilov, Kolomoitzev, Konovalov, Kopelevitch, Koffman, Lavrentiev, Lindorff, Magidson, Mamaiev, Mr. and Mrs. Markov, Petrov, Poverman, Potrubotch, Ruttenberg, Rykoff, Mrs. Sverdlov, Fetvaiss, Zukerman, Tsurupa, Sharatov, Sheftal, Shulga.

The recall of any one of those might result in a very serious handicap in our work, but if the political situation will require we request to make the replacements gradually, informing us at least three months in advance. Unfortunately, the full report about the removal of the base is not complete, but I am working hard on making it and hope to be able to send you in a few weeks copy of the present list, and will also send to other interested organizations.

With comradely greetings,
G. GRAFPEN.

Points of Doubt Cited.

Doubt of the authenticity of the documents published by Commissioner Whalen was based, among other things, upon the two letters addressed to Mr. Bron. Both these letters bear also the address "Polpred, New York." "Polpred" is not a proper name, but the Soviet abbreviation for ambassador or envoy. There is no such Soviet official in the United States, the Soviet Government not being recognized by this government.

Another point of criticism was the mispelling of Mr. Skvirsky's name in the "mandate" to Grapfen in the photostat of the original, where Mr. Skvirsky's name appears as "Seversky." The critics pointed out that while this may be the mistake of a typist in Moscow, it is curious that a document of the importance of this one should misspell the name of one of the most important Soviet agents in this country.

Attention was also called to the addressee "Polpred" in the letter of Jan. 7. It is not clear to whom the letter is addressed, since "polpred" is merely a title.

A point of criticism made in connection with the mandate to "Grapfen" was the appearance in the original of the word "vistupleniye," which is given in Mr. Whalen's translation as "outbreaks." It was asserted that had Moscow had in mind something more serious than demonstrations it would not have used the word "vistupleniye," which means demonstration. It was said, however, that the word, depending upon the context, might assume a stronger meaning.

The Lovestone group of the Communist party issued a statement last night denouncing the anti-Communist documents as "nothing else but clumsy forgeries made by private detective agencies whom Mr. Whalen hired especially for this purpose."

"The individuals referred to are non-existent," the statement went on. "Whalen's startling Red exposures are the product of a fantastic fraud. We charge that Mr. Whalen has deliberately manufactured this fake in order to ride in on an anti-Red wave. Mr. Whalen feels that he must do this in order to lend color to his coming banquet. Who first suggested the idea of the coming May 6 banquet? Who is really behind it and what is its real purpose?"

The statement threatened that unless Mr. Whalen answered these and other questions the Lovestone group, in the forthcoming issue of its organ, The Revolutionary Age, "will make public full details and startling revelations" concerning the circumstances under which Mr. Whalen assumed the Police Commissionership.

SEATTLE OFFICIAL SCOFFS.

Amtorg Man There Sees Plot to Hurt Soviet Trade With Us.

Special to The New York Times.

SEATTLE, Wash., May 2.—"Absurd, ridiculous forgeries, part of a plot to prevent Russia and the United States from having friendly trade relations," was the answer given today by Seattle officials of the Amtorg Trading Corporation to reports that Police Commissioner Whalen of New York held documents purporting to show a widespread Soviet plot centring in Seattle.

"It is strange that just when trade relations between the United States and Russia are running smoothly that some exposure is made of one of these false plots," a spokesman for A. A. Bogdanov, Seattle manager, said. "It must be that they are promoted by secret agents of European countries who are jealous to see the United States in the line of good business dealing with Russia, or by former (White) Russians, who are determined to do anything to blacken the present government of Russia.

"Such charges as these have been heard before, both here and abroad, and have been proved to be the work of enemies of Soviet Russia."

PICK SITE FOR MUSIC CAMP.

Sponsors Choose Maine Lake for High School Students' Work.

WATERVILLE, Me., May 2 (AP).—The site of an outdoor music camp where high school boys and girls of the eastern part of the country may receive musical instruction in the Summer months from leading musicians was chosen today by its sponsors as Camp Anagance, Messalonskee Lake, in Sidney, near here.

About $41,000 will be spent in preparing the camp, which will be known as the Eastern School Music Camp, for its opening, July, 1931. The camp will follow the general plan of a similar Summer school at Interlaken, Mich., said to be the only one of its kind in the world.

The organization sponsoring the project is headed by Henry F. Merrill of Portland, and directors include Mrs. Edward Bok of Philadelphia.

EXPLORERS PACIFY CHINESE

Andrews Reports to Museum That Gobi Expedition Will Be Resumed.

Professor Henry Fairfield Osborn, president of the American Museum of Natural History, announced yesterday that he had received a cablegram from Dr. Roy Chapman Andrews, head of the museum's Central Asiatic Expedition, reporting that all difficulties with the Chinese authorities had been ironed out and that the Nanking Government had confirmed the agreement between the expedition and the Chinese Society for the Preservation of Ancient Objects for resumption of explorations in the Gobi desert.

The fifth and last expedition will leave Peking for the Gobi on May 9.

GET $4,800 IN HOLD-UP.

Five Robbers Escape With Payroll at Brooklyn Bakery Plant.

Four young men walked into the bakery plant of Henry S. Levy & Sons, Inc., 95 Thames Street, in the Greenpoint district of Brooklyn yesterday morning, held up Abraham Levy, son of the head of the concern, and escaped with $4,800 in cash. Mr. Levy had ushered the visitors into his private office when they asked for his father, who was absent. Three of the men drew pistols and demanded the $4,000 payroll, delivered twenty minutes earlier by an armored car.

Mr. Levy said that he was unfamiliar with the combination of the safe. The leader of the robbers met this objection by ordering Miss Fanny Schulman, who had just finished counting the money, to open the safe. She obeyed.

The men took the payroll from the safe and $800 from the cash drawer. They walked to the stairway where, employes said, a fifth man held the office force at bay while the four went downstairs to a new Lincoln automobile which waited at the curb. The man on the stairs then followed and the automobile moved away.

MERMOZ AT KENITRA BAY.

French Flier Bound for Brazil by Way of St. Louis, Senegal.

PARIS, May 2 (AP).—Jean Mermoz, the French aviator who took off from Perpignan at 5:07 A. M. for St. Louis, Senegal, on the Wert African Coast, alighted this evening at Kenitra Bay, north of Rabat. He will proceed to his destination tomorrow, according to announcement received here.

From St. Louis M. Mermoz plans to take off immediately for Natal, Brazil. He is flying a Postal hydro-airplane carrying four other persons. M. Daurat, manager of the aid post at Perpignan, is acting as his navigator. From Senegal to Natal is 3,100 kilometers (1,926 miles).

ACCUSED OF TAKING $5,000.

Official of Jersey City Loan Organization Named in Warrant.

A. B. Campbell of Weehawken, assistant secretary of the Business Men's Building and Loan Association of Jersey City, is charged with taking $5,000 of the concern's money and with falsifying his books to cover the alleged shortage, in a warrant issued yesterday on complaint of Hyman Smith, an investigator of the Department of Banking and Insurance. The warrant was issued by Justice of the Peace Leon Koenigsberger.

The specific charge in the complaint is that Campbell extracted $5,000 from the association's funds between Feb. 27 and April 25. He is covered by a $50,000 bond furnished by a surety company.

Campbell has been with the association for five years and has been assistant secretary for two years. The association, established in 1898, is one of the oldest in Jersey City and has assets listed at $3,000,000.

Bishop's Wife Quits Boston D. A. R.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, May 2.—Disapproving the stand taken by the Daughters of the American Revolution against disarmament and the World Court and the failure of the organization to take a stand on prohibition at the recent Continental Congress of the D. A. R. at Washington, Mrs. Lulah Ketcham Anderson, wife of Bishop William Anderson of the Methodist Episcopal Church of Massachusetts, has resigned from the Paul Revere Chaper, D. A. R.

PROF. HAYES SEEKS LIGHT ON BOOK BAN

Asks Superintendents' Board What Passages Were Picked After Complaint of Rector.

DR. HAUGHWOUT EXPLAINS

Calls Religious Parts So Partisan as to Stir Prejudices, and Cites Other Points of Criticism.

As authors of "Modern History," which has been barred as a textbook in the public schools of the city after seven years of use upon complaint that it is anti-patriotic, radical and pro-Catholic, Carlton J. H. Hayes, Professor of History at Columbia University, and Associate Professor Parker Thomas Moon asked the city board of superintendents yesterday what specific passages were cited by the complainant.

Harold G. Campbell, Acting Superintendent of Schools, said that no specific passages had been cited by the complainant, the Rev. Dr. Leferd M. A. Haughwout, rector of St. Anne's Episcopal Church at Great Kills, S. I. Dr. Haughwout had objected to the textbook in general terms.

According to Mr. Campbell, the board of superintendents, responsible for the textbooks used in the schools, immediately directed a committee of history teachers to reread "Modern History" in the light of his objection in search of any passages which might have caused such a complaint. The readers found such passages, Mr. Campbell said, and he was willing to communicate them to the authors or to their publisher, the Macmillan Company. If the book was revised to eliminate cause for complaint, he said, it would be restored to the textbook list.

Mr. Campbell explained it was the policy of the school board to exclude any textbook so long as any one objected, because there were always enough textbooks left to which no one objected.

Amplifies His Criticism.

Dr. Haughwout consented last night to amplify his criticism by citing some passages which he noted in reading the history textbook which his two children brought home from their class in the Tottenville High School. He divided them into three heads of objection—religious, economic and political.

Of his objections, he laid the greatest stress on the religious section, as "of such intense partisanship that it cannot but stir up prejudices and bad feeling, and fair-minded Roman Catholic sectarians may well deplore the authors' lack of restraint."

From pages 99 to 106 Dr. Haughwout found "the destruction of the religious unity provided by the Catholic Church in the Middle Ages" objectionable. He cited such wordings as the following: "We moderns, while we treat religion as a private and voluntary affair, have quite a different attitude toward the State and political government. * * * The State, we think, is a vital necessity to civilization, and therefore it must be preserved at all costs. * * * Such was once the popular conviction about religion. * * * It seemed to our ancestors in the Middle Ages as well as in ancient times that it was vitally necessary to civilization to preserve a common faith and a common moral code and to compel the individual to subordinate his private judgment and personal wishes to the demands of a common religion. * * * The Catholic religion was thought necessary not only for every individual's eternal salvation but also for the general welfare of society at large. * * * In practice, however, it became increasingly difficult for the Catholic Church to command the unquestioning obedience of all men in Central and Western Europe. * * * Luther was able to defy both Pope and Emperor. * * * He was a master of invective and denunciation and proved himself very skillful in attracting followers. * * * The peasants turned against Luther because he had taken sides strongly with the nobles. * * * Princes were free to choose whether they should be Catholic or Lutheran, but their common people were not. Though Martin Luther preached the right of every individual to judge for himself in religious matters, real religious toleration was not his own practice and did not result immediately from his rebellion from the Catholic Church. * * * The rebellion of England against the Catholic Church was the work less of religious reformers than of an ambitious and licentious king, Henry VIII. * * *"

Cites Other Objections.

On page 110 Dr. Haughwout objected to the account of John Calvin, for instance, as a man who established himself at Geneva in 1536 as "the town's religious oracle and political boss."

On page 113, in a section entitled "The Significance of the Protestant Revolution," Dr. Haughwout objected to "The Protestant revolution was immediately significant in the development of modern autocracy and even more significant in the rise of modern capitalism."

Under the head of political objection, Dr. Haughwout cited on page 140 a section reading: "By the practical operation of political democracy, by the national fostering of popular education, and by the introduction of universal military training, the spirit of national patriotism was everywhere broadened and deepened. * * It went so far as to produce in the twentieth century the bloodiest war in the whole recorded history of mankind."

On page 145 he finds: "Political democracy is only a fairly recent experiment, and if the experiment does not work well, it will probably be abandoned, as other institutions have been abandoned."

Under the head of economic objection is a passage on the "glorification" of the guild system of the middle ages which fixed "just wages" and "fair prices" on page 43, and the statement that this was destroyed by capitalism on page 45, and left a situation described on page 27 as follows: "Nowadays the owners of capital have an almost absolute right to do what they wish with their own property. In the Middle Ages on the other hand, property owners were subject to many restrictions."

Finally on Page 822, Dr. Haughwout finds: "In place of the dying feudal aristocracy, democratic idealists have dreamed of establishing a new era of social equality. * * The growth of capitalism, however, has made such an ideal very difficult to realize. * * * When one man comes into the world penniless, while another inherits a fortune, there can be no real equality of opportunity. * * For an aristocracy of titles, we have substituted an aristocracy of capital. * * *"

As publishers of "Modern History," the Macmillan Company, represented by George Elsler, will ask the Board of Superintendents today for an opportunity to discuss the possibility of revising the book within the limits of the author's belief as to what constitutes historical truth in these matters.

LILA JIMERSON MOVES TO GET SECOND TRIAL

Indian's New Counsel Drop Assurance of Life—Prosecutor Asks Case Be Started Monday.

BUFFALO, N. Y., May 2 (AP).—Lila Jimerson, "the Red Lilac" of the Cayuga Indians, went into County Court here this afternoon and flung aside her assurance of life in order to stand trial a second time for the murder of Mrs. Clothilde Marchand, wife of the noted artist Henri Marchand.

Her first trial was halted abruptly when she collapsed in court and was taken to a hospital suffering from hemorrhages induced by tuberculosis. In that hospital she later pleaded guilty to a reduced charge of murder, second degree, and was brought into court today to receive the mandatory sentence of twenty years to life imprisonment.

Discarding the attorneys who defended her at her first trial, the Indian woman was represented by John P. Rogers of Corning and John S. McGovern, a former Assistant United States District Attorney here. Her newly retained attorneys refused to withdraw the plea of guilty to murder, second degree, contending that the improvised court room in the hospital had been illegal and that Lila still was on trial for murder, first degree.

After a sharp interchange between defense counsel and District Attorney Guy B. Moore, County Judge F. Bret Thorn adjourned court. Mr. Moore promptly served notice that he would move the case of Lila Jimerson for trial on Monday on the charge of murder, first degree. Judge Thorn remarked:

"I assume that the defense will stand on the original plea of not guilty."

HARVARD ALUMNI FUND DESCRIBED AT AMHERST

David McCord and Wilfred B. Shaw Address Delegates at American Council Session.

Special to The New York Times.

AMHERST, Mass., May 2.—The second day of the American Alumni Council meeting at Amherst College opened this morning with Thomas A. Gosner of Northwestern University presiding. David McCord, executive secretary of the Harvard alumni fund, spoke on the "Harvard Alumni Fund." A discussion of the Smith alumnae fund followed, led by Mrs. Frank H. Teagle, chairman of the Smith College fund.

Wilfred B. Shaw, representing the University of Michigan, spoke on the most recent developments in alumni education and praised the work of such leaders as John Olmstead, alumni secretary, who spoke yesterday.

Sumner R. Parker presided at a luncheon at Massachusetts Agricultural College and introduced the principal speaker, Dr. Roscoe W. Thatcher, who welcomed the delegates. Following the luncheon, Frank S. Checkler of the University of Oklahoma presided at the alumni magazines session.

A reception was held in the afternoon for the delegates by President William Neilson of Smith College and Mrs. Neilson at their home in Northampton. In the evening an informal dinner was held at the Lord Jeffrey Inn at Amherst, and an entertainment was provided for the delegates at the Massachusetts Agricultural College.

WHITE PLAINS TO GET WAREHOUSE CENTRE

Westchester and Boston Road Plans Building Group to Speed Merchandise Handling.

An industrial warehouse centre is being planned by the New York, Westchester & Boston Railway Company at the terminal facing on Westchester Avenue, White Plains, Leverett S. Miller, president, announced yesterday. The plans call for the construction of a series of warehouses in the present freight yards and the use of Paulding Street, adjacent to the yards, by trucks to load from the commercial warehouses.

All of the warehouses will be served directly on one side of the tracks, over which the carload lots of merchandise will be shunted, while on the other side trucks can load from goods stored in the warehouses. The warehouses will be constructed in two groups, and driveways will be built to permit direct loading from freight cars to trucks as well. The larger warehouse will be parallel to the passenger station platform, while the secondary one will be adjacent to Paulding Street.

A number of industries have been located in White Plains near the Westchester & Boston terminal, which is one of the few sections of the city zoned for industry. The freight yards of the New York Central in White Plains have little available space for lease, and none large enough to permit the construction of warehouses.

ALLOWS WATER RATE RISE.

Utility Board Approves 20% Increase by Hackensack Company.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., May 2.—The Public Utility Commission granted today the application of the Hackensack Water Company for authority to increase all of its rates 20 per cent.

Even with this rise, the board said that a 7 per cent return on the company's valuation of its property, a return to which it was legally entitled, would not be realized. This fact was established, it was stated, because the company actually put the increased rates into effect after the board's power of suspension of rates had expired and a test of what the increase would bring about was possible.

The board allowed factories a reduced rate for sprinkler systems amounting to 6 per cent of the rate for similar-sized connections where the water is used for manufacturing purposes.

The board also ruled that consumers must bear the cost of the legal work on behalf of the concern in the rate case, which cost the company, it was stated, $111,263.

ASTOR YACHT BRINGS TROPICAL RARITIES

PLANT SPECIMENS ABOARD

Penguins and Sea Lions Transferred to Aquarium as Scientific Party Ends Expedition.

Laden with zoological and botanical treasures from the Galapagos Islands, the Astor yacht Nourmahal reached New York yesterday after a leisurely voyage up the coast, and unloaded her specimens at Pier 1 for transfer to the Aquarium, the Bronx Zoological Gardens, the Museum of Natural History and the Brooklyn Botanical Garden.

On the yacht, besides the crew, were Commodore Vincent Astor and a group of scientists and explorers brought together for the expedition by Dr. Charles Haskins Townsend, curator of the Aquarium. These were:

KERMIT ROOSEVELT.
SUYDAM CUTTING.
Dr. EUGENE POOL of the New York Hospital.
CLARENCE L. HAY of the American Museum of Natural History.
JAMES P. CHAPIN, ornithologist, also of the museum.
Dr. H. K. SVENSON, botanist, of the Brooklyn Botanical Garden.
WILFORD S. BRONSON, artist.
E. R. SANBORN, photographer, of the New York Zoological Society.

Dr. Townsend, who supervised the transfer of the specimens from ship to Aquarium, told of the aims of the expedition and the success in a primary object, the acquisition of the peculiar giant land tortoise inhabiting two of the islands.

When the Nourmahal started, he said, the expedition was not sure of getting these specimens. Fortunately when members of the party landed they met survivors of a Norwegian colony which was stationed there several years ago and which has now almost died out. Two men still live on the island and they had cut a pathway through the thick jungle to the rainy belt of the island.

Above this belt the explorers found their giant tortoises, and young ones were taken. These will be farmed out on the colonies which Dr. Townsend has established in Arizona, Florida and Texas.

Remarkable specimens of fish and birds peculiar not only to the Galapagos but each explicitly identified with a particular island make up a large and valuable collection.

Two hundred fish were kept alive during the 3,000-mile trip from the islands, but only with the greatest care, Dr. Townsend said. Ocean water was constantly pumped through the fish tanks and during passage through the canal air was forced through the water.

Dr. Townsend said that botany has probably profited more by the trip than any other field of science. Great stacks of preserved plants, as yet unclassified, will undoubtedly yield valuable information on the Galapagos flora, he declared.

The penguin is generally considered a polar bird, but the Nourmahal party brought back several tropical penguins which played all afternoon in the Aquarium tank, darting with the swiftness of fish in the water. Several young sea lions were also caught alive.

$250,000 MORE ASKED FOR WICKERSHAM BODY

First Appropriation of More Than $10,000,000 for Boulder Dam Also Urged by Hoover.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—A request for a further appropriation of $250,000 for the Wickersham commission on law observance and enforcement for the fiscal year 1931 was contained in several supplemental estimates transmitted to Congress today by President Hoover. The President set out in a brief message that the commission would have only $75,000 at its disposal at the close of the present fiscal year.

The supplemental estimates submitted today totaled more than $15,000,000; the largest being $10,600,000 for Boulder Dam. The sum of $1,374,053 was asked by the Department of Justice for the care and support of Federal prisoners, while $293,623 was asked for the Leavenworth prison.

An additional $2,736,000 for the Postoffice Department for 1931 was recommended and $43,220 for the same department for the current fiscal year.

Among other requests in the estimates were $695,759 for the War Department, $773,520 for the National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers, $237,094 for the Department of Commerce and $100,000 for the Department of Agriculture.

TODD GOING TO EUROPE.

Sails Today to Arrange for Making Pulverized Coal Burners.

William H. Todd, president of the Todd Shipyards Corporation, will sail for Europe today on the United States liner Leviathan to attend the annual meeting of his London company, the Todd Oil Burners, Ltd., and to complete arrangements for the manufacture of Todd pulverized coal burners.

With the development of the use of pulverized coal as ship fuel by the Shipping Board the Todd company has perfected equipment for ships and in the past year has been successful in its tests. Interest in pulverized coal has been increased of late, Mr. Todd said.

The Shipping Board conducted experiments on the Mercer and then on the West Alsek with machinery for crushing coal and feeding it to the burner. It was found that cheaper grades of coal were made available when crushed and that the cost of the operation of a ship was decreased.

Senator Robinson Enters Primary.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., May 2 (AP).—Senator Robinson's anti-corrupt practice pledge as a candidate for renomination in the August Democratic primary was received at the Secretary of State's office today from Washington. This was the first definite information that Senator Robinson, minority leader in the Senate, would seek re-election, although it had been generally expected that he would.

Senator Robinson will be opposed in the primary by Tom W. Campbell of Little Rock, former chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee. Mr. Campbell filed his pledge several days ago, as Mr. Robinson's first primary opponent since 1918.

Mother of 37 Children Found; Had Eighteen Sets of Twins

By The Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, May 2.—The newspaper Excelsior's unique effort to find Mexico's most prolific mother has brought an entry from Tuxtla Guiterrez, capital of Chiapas, where Leoncio Chavarria and his wife during the forty years of their wedded life have been the parents of thirty-seven children.

Twenty-three were boys and fourteen girls.

With the exception of the first born, the subsequent arrivals were eighteen pairs of twins.

NURSE TESTIFIES UNGER PAID FOR HER DIVORCE

Amelia Phillips Tells Media (Pa.) Court She Befriended New York Candy Importer.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, May 2.—Miss Amelia Phillips, who is accused of holding Aaron Unger, a New York candy importer, "prisoner" in her upper Darby apartment, took the stand in the Delaware County Court at Media today and testified that Mr. Unger paid for her divorce from a former husband and had agreed to obtain a divorce himself so that they could marry.

A divorce suit brought by Mrs. Unger was dropped, however, and illness prevented Mr. Unger from carrying out his own plans to seek a decree, Miss Phillips testified.

Miss Phillips was a witness during the hearing of habeas corpus proceedings brought against her by members of the Unger family. The hearing will be continued until next Friday morning.

In her testimony Miss Phillips, who is acting as nurse to Mr. Unger during his illness and who has power of attorney over his affairs, said his wife and two children had left him sixteen years ago and that she had befriended him.

The witness declared that she had brought Mr. Unger and his children together. She said she wrote his letters for him to the children "because he could not spell very well" and that she selected all the presents he gave the children.

Blanche Unger, 22 years, testified that she was earning $20 a week as a cashier in a movie theatre and that she and her mother had made provision to have her father placed in a private sanitarium in New York City.

Mr. Unger's mental condition was described as "extremely hazy" by his son, Bernard Unger, a Fordham student, who is asking a receiver for his father's affairs.

KINGSLAND MACY URGES PULVER FOR MARSHAL

Suffolk Republican Leader Seeks in Washington 'Recognition for His County.'

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—Long Island Republican politics were brought to Washington today when Kingsland Macy, leader in Suffolk County, appeared at the Capitol with Representative Robert L. Bacon and later visited Walter H. Newton, one of President Hoover's secretaries.

Mr. Macy, it is understood, is concerned over the appointment of a Marshal for the Eastern District of New York to succeed James B. Moore, whose term will expire May 5. The post pays $6,500 and has been filled by Mr. Moore eight years. It was stated that Mr. Macy is supporting Frank Pulver for the place.

Suffolk County Republicans, according to information here, feel that Meyer Steinbrink, Republican leader of Kings County, controls too much Federal patronage, and that some of this should go to Suffolk.

Mr. Macy is reported to have stated that the Federal marshalship is not so much in question as the principle involved.

His friends assert that Kings County appointments already include the Collector of Internal Revenue, several Federal judges, the clerk of the District Court and various customs employes. The Suffolk people feel that their county deserves recognition, inasmuch as it gave a handsome majority to Mr. Hoover and is the home of Mr. Bacon, one of the few Republicans in the House from Greater New York.

Mr. Macy called on Charles P. Sisson, Assistant Attorney General in charge of Department of Justice personnel. It was stated that he received no assurances that Mr. Pulver would be appointed, but he said: "I am not at all discouraged."

PAISLEY MOVIE HEAD CLEARED OF HOMICIDE

EDINBURGH, Scotland, May 2 (AP).—Charles Dorward, manager of the Paisley Cinema Theatre, in which seventy children died after a fire panic on New Year's Eve, today was found not guilty of culpable homicide in connection with the deaths.

The prosecution charged that Dorward had obstructed one of the two exits by padlocking an iron gate, and said persons outside the theatre had to wrench off the lock but could not help because the children by that time were jammed in a heap near the exit.

Dorward said he had unlocked the gate and left the padlock on a post. He added he had pushed the gate all the way back, leaving the way open, before the matinee started. When he was in his office, he continued, a boy came in and told him that a fire had broken out.

"I rushed through the hall, where the children were sitting quietly," he testified. "There was a little smoke coming through the ventilators. I went to the vestibule and saw a smoking container and pushed it out of a side door into the open. I went back into the hall, where the children were growing restless. I told them everything was all right and to sit still. A boy then shouted 'fire,' and immediately the children rose like a flock of sheep and dashed to the exits. I was powerless."

MAN FOUND SLAIN IN REFRIGERATOR

Bartender Shot Four Times and Shut in Big Icebox of Alleged Speakeasy.

PUZZLE FOR THE POLICE

Cash Register Rifled of $27, but Detectives Attribute Killing to Drink-Crazed Patron.

The bullet-riddled body of John N. McLaughlin, 41 years old, a bartender in an alleged speakeasy at 2,236 Amsterdam Avenue, found lying in a big refrigerator in the basement at that address yesterday, furnished a new murder mystery for the police, toward the solution of which no material progress has yet been made.

McLaughlin's body, slumped against a large block of ice, was found at 10:45 A. M. by John Sheenan, his brother-in-law and owner of the place. Patrons, meanwhile, had come and gone, unable to find any one in the resort, in the window of which a motion-picture advertisement announced: "Murder Will Out."

McLaughlin, according to Sheenan, at whose home, 717 West 177th Street, the brother-in-law lived, was accustomed to opening the Amsterdam Avenue place at 6 A. M. every day, preparing the luncheon to be served later in the day and taking care of the bar. So far as is known, McLaughlin went to work at his usual hour yesterday. One customer was found who said he had seen him alive as late as 8:30 A. M.

Although the cash register behind the bar had been rifled of its contents, about $27, the police do not believe that robbery was the motive for the killing. McLaughlin's watch and several dollars were found in his pockets. The fact that he was shot four times, each time by a weapon held so close that it burned either his clothes or his skin, inclined investigators to the theory that his slayer was either angry with him or drink-crazed at the time of the shooting. His relatives and friends said the bartender, a small, thin man, was without enemies.

The shooting began, according to the police theory, just as McLaughlin was entering the refrigerator and other shots were fired at him after he was inside the ice chest. It is believed that he quarreled with some one, perhaps a drink-crazed customer, who ordered him to walk down the steps to the basement and, following him closely, began shooting him in the back as he approached the refrigerator door. There were no bloodstains outside. The icebox door was closed.

Dr. Charles Norris, medical examiner, said McLaughlin had been dead about forty-five minutes when the body was found by Sheenan.

NEW TONG WAR THREATENS.

Chinatown in State of Siege as Whalen Acts to Avert Hostilities.

Chinatown was virtually in a state of siege last night, with squads of uniformed policemen and detectives patroling its streets against the possibility of an outbreak of hostilities between the Hip Sing and On Leon tongs.

Following a report that a meeting was in progress at the Hip Sing headquarters, 19 Doyers Street, at which it would be determined whether a tong war should be declared, Police Commissioner Whalen, Assistant Chief Inspector Edward P. Mulrooney and Deputy Chief Inspector John Sullivan went to the Doyers Street address.

Ong Yow, Hip Sing president, and Eddie Gong, the tong secretary, denied such a meeting was being held or contemplated. They admitted, however, according to Mr. Whalen, that the Chicago faction of the tong was holding a meeting, but they did not know what the decision would be.

Commissioner Whalen, talking to reporters at Police Headquarters, gave it as his opinion that if a tong war is declared in one city it inevitably will spread throughout the United States.

Mr. Whalen said it was reported that arms and ammunition were stored in the Hip Sing building. He told this to Eddie Gong, who invited the police to search the six-story structure. Only a few opium pipes, which the police confiscated, were found.

The Police Commissioner said his visit to the tong headquarters was precautionary, and that he wanted to impress upon the tong officers that the police were aware that something was brewing.

M'ADOO PAPERS ARE FILED.

Ouster Move in Communist Case Goes to Appellate Division.

Papers on the motion of the American Civil Liberties Union for the removal of Chief City Magistrate William McAdoo because he refused, it was charged, to grant bail to William Z. Foster and other Communist leaders when they were arraigned before him on March 7 last, were filed with the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court yesterday. At the same time Chief Magistrate McAdoo's answer and a memorandum of law by Deputy Attorney General Beyer who is cooperating with the Chief Magistrate in asking that the motion be denied, were filed.

The affidavit of Arthur Garfield Hays, counsel for the petitioner, contends that the Chief Magistrate's failure to admit the Communists to bail when they were charged with a misdemeanor, was a violation of the Code of Criminal Procedure.

In his reply Chief Magistrate McAdoo declared that the testimony before him indicated that the offense of which the prisoners were charged, inciting to riot was a felony. He asserted that neither the prisoners nor their counsel asked that they be admitted to bail.

In his memorandum Mr. Beyer said it was "not alleged that the Chief Magistrate was actuated by any corrupt intent, and that he was not exercising his best judgment in disposing of the questions before him." He said that in the absence of such allegations and sufficient proof of them the removal "would not be justified."

Builder Cleared in Forgery Case.

An indictment charging John M Kaufman, a builder, of West Seventy-second Street, Manhattan, with forgery was dismissed yesterday by County Judge Adel in Long Island City. Kaufman was exonerated of the charge that he had forged the name of Dr. Max Helfant of 207 West 106th Street, Manhattan, to a $1,700 promissory note.

Firemen Struggle Two Hours To Save Cat Caught in Crevice

Four firemen and a policeman spent almost two hours last evening in rescuing a pet cat from a perilous position to which it had fallen between the buildings at 109 and 111 Christopher Street. With the aid of an extension ladder from Hook and Ladder 5, they eventually hooked the cat and raised it to safety.

The cat, the property of Mrs. E. F. Perelli of 111 Christopher Street, misjudged its distance as it attempted to jump from the roof of one of the five-story buildings to the other and fell into a crevice about two inches wide. It struck a protruding brick in the wall about nine feet down and ten feet back from the front of the building. It clung there, meowing desperately for help until it was rescued.

FRANKFURTER CALLS OUR GOVERNING LAX

In Lecture at Yale He Cites Criminal Justice in Deploring Lack of 'Trained Capacity.'

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 2.—Trained capacity in the administration of criminal justice is very low in the United States as compared with Britain and Europe, and American maladroitness in dealing with economic problems, such as are presented by public utilities and unemployment, places this country where England stood in 1830, according to Professor Felix Frankfurter of the Harvard Law School, who delivered tonight at Yale the last of the Dodge Lectures on "Citizenship."

"Debate continues to be anxious and even bitter about modes for relieving unemployment," he said. "But, at all events, search for remedies is not confused and diverted by doubt and denial that anything needs to be remedied. We are still where England was in 1830.

"Congress still debates whether unemployment really exists, and if so, where and how much. And we have the extraordinary spectacle of the Secretary of Labor of the United States issuing unemployment estimates which the Commissioner of Labor of the State of New York denies.

"Let me take another illustration of the limited application of scientific standards in public administration. Just as in Eighteenth Century England it was a matter of political controversy whether the population was rising or falling, so in Twentieth Century America, the homicide or burglary rate in our great cities is a recurring subject for political debate.

"And this is a very fair index of our whole attitude toward problems of crime. That the level of professionalism, of trained capacity in our administration of criminal justice is very low, compared with that prevailing in Great Britain and on the Continent, is one of the most patent facts about our system.

"In the United States there is no body of highly trained, capable men who are drawn to the enigmas of crime as problems to be solved, who are adequately disciplined for their exploration and who give the preoccupation of a lifetime to their solution.

"Governing is the art of making men live together in peace and reasonable happiness. Among the instruments for governing are organization, technological skill and scientific methods. But they are all instruments, not ends. And that is why the art of governing has best been achieved by men to whom governing is itself a profession.

"One of the shallowest disdains is the sneer against the professional politician. The invidious implication of the phrase is, of course, against those who pursue self-interest through politics. But too prevalently the baby is thrown out with the bath. We forget that the most successful statesmen have been professionals."

ANTHRACITE MINERS SUSTAIN THEIR UMPIRE

Pennsylvania Convention Votes Confidence in Gorman When Districts Assail Him.

Special to The New York Times.

HAZLETON, Pa., May 2.—Two lengthy debates in which decisions of Umpire James A. Gorman were attacked on the floor of the tridistrict miners convention slowed up proceedings today and the convention is likely to go over into next week. The debates ended with an overwhelming vote of confidence in the umpire.

District 9 assailed the umpire's decision covering the advent of Stone & Webster in the hard-coal field as constructors of a breaker for the Philadelphia & Reading Coal Company. The umpire had ruled that the Mine Workers' Union had no jurisdiction over that firm.

President Lewis and the district presidents were drawn into the debate. The former warned against adoption of the resolution offered by District 9, and only four delegates voted for it.

A resolution from the Jermyn colliery local was ruled on by the chair as disposed of in the previous vote. The miner who presented the resolution insisted on its reading and the debate was renewed. It ended with the vote again favoring the umpire.

A proposal that President Lewis spend one month out of every three in the anthracite jurisdiction was defeated after he had explained the machinery of his office.

Proposals for a new all-anthracite set-up of officials were defeated, and the convention also condemned the Farrington-Fishwick group in Illinois for setting up a dual organization.

A red-hot debate looms at tomorrow's session, as local unions have sent in resolutions favoring the candidacy of Gifford Pinchot for the Republican nomination as Governor.

NONE IN 294 SQUARE MILES.

REDDING, Cal., May 2 (AP).—When Asa McKenzie got the job of census enumerator for an area of 294 square miles in Northern Lassen County he immediately began to figure his profits at four cents for each person counted.

He scanned 293 of those square miles without meeting a single human being. Just as the situation was beginning to look hopeless he came upon a lone man and hailed him with exceeding zest as he explained his mission.

The lonely one eyed him coldly.

"Aw, I don't live here," he said.

McKenzie's report read: Population, 0; increase, 0; percentage of gain or loss, 0.

BREAD LINE REVEALS MANY IN DISTRESS

Socialist Women's Kitchen Has Long List of "White Collar" Workers Seeking Food.

140 ARE FED THE FIRST DAY

Dairy Firms, Bakery, Butcher and Gas Company Cooperate to Aid in Emergency Relief.

While surveys are being cited to show that unemployment is waning, widespread distress among the so-called "white collar" workers of New York City was found by the women's committee of the Socialist party yesterday when it opened an emergency kitchen and bread line at 25 West Twenty-fifth Street.

Mrs. Jacob Panken, wife of former Judge Jacob Panken, in charge of the kitchen, reported last night that after feeding 140 hungry men in steady numbers up to the time that the kitchen closed, she and her associates were convinced that there still was "a tremendous number of people who are suffering from lack of food and who have no means of employment."

"Men who were too proud to ask for charity for themselves came to the emergency kitchen and begged for food for their suffering children," said Mrs. Panken. "We are hoping that we shall be able to help the women and children of the 'white collar' workers who appear in the bread-lines."

The emergency kitchen of the women's committee will be open daily from noon till 2 o'clock in the afternoon, Mrs. Panken announced. It occupies the ground floor of a building formerly occupied by a restaurant.

"The Consolidated Gas Company furnished the range and will supply the gas free while we try to meet the emergency," said Mrs. Panken. "The tables and benches we made ourselves. The Dairymen's League supplies a can of milk and will supply containers. We expect to send out milk to suffering women and children whose husbands and fathers ask help in their behalf. Borden's has promised to contribute milk to the kitchen.

"Lowenstein's is supplying the meat and gave us 75 pounds on the first day. Messing's and the Cooperative Bakeries are giving us bread. Their contribution on the first day was 150 loaves and they say they will give more as needed.

"Money came in to the kitchen unsolicited. It was sent by people who read of our plans."

The women workers of the Socialist party who are distributing food under Mrs. Panken's directions are Miss Lena Prey, Mrs. Esther Friedman, Miss Elizabeth Stuyvesant and Miss Pauline Newman.

CONTRACTOR IS STABBED.

Two Alleged Racketeers Seized for Attack on Bronx Painter.

Paint racketeers are blamed by the police for an attack yesterday afternoon on Isidore Wolk, 44 years old, of 1,520 Crotona Parkway, the Bronx, a painting contractor. Wolk was stabbed several times while working with his men in a brownstone building being remodeled at 50 West Fifty-ninth Street. He was taken to Flower Hospital in a critical condition with wounds in his face, back and chest. Two of the wounds are near his heart.

Two men seen fleeing from the building were arrested by Patrolman Edward Golden on charges of felonious assault. They described themselves as Sam Sterling, 37 year old, a painter, of 1,114 Ward Avenue, the Bronx, and Jacob Kotton, 37, also a painter, of 3,550 Rochambeau Avenue, the Bronx. A detective took the men to the hospital, where they were identified by Wolk as his assailants.

Lawyers Eulogize George Schulz.

Prominent members of the bench and the bar of the Bronx joined last night in eulogizing George M. S. Schulz, Surrogate of the Bronx, who died on April 7. The memorial meeting was held in Bronx County Court House, Third Avenue and 161st Street, and was attended by several hundred.

MISS STEWART WED TO FREDERICK WHITE

RECEPTION AT GOLF CLUB

The marriage of Miss Mary Ridgely Stewart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Henry Stewart of Montclair, N. J., to Frederick Newbold Lawrence White, son of Mr. and Mrs. Loomis L. White of Sycamore Farm, Shrewsbury, N. J., which took place yesterday afternoon in St. Luke's Church, Montclair, was attended by many relatives and friends from here, for the bridegroom is a member of old New York families. He is a grandson of Mrs. M. Lawrence Keene and a great-grandson of the late Frederick Newbold Lawrence, for many years prominent in the affairs of this city.

On the maternal side he is a grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. William S. Fanshawe, who also were prominent in New York in their day.

The bride is a granddaughter of the late Shellman Baer Stewart of Baltimore and a great-granddaughter of the late Samuel Slater Tiffany.

The Right Rev. Wilson Reiff Stearly, Bishop of Newark, assisted by the Rev. Dr. Luke M. White, the rector, officiated. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a princess gown of cream-colored satin, the bodice being almost entirely of old rose point lace which had been worn by her paternal great-great-grandmother at her marriage. She wore two veils, one of tulle over which fell another of old family lace mellowed with age to a deep ivory tint, and which also had been worn by the same ancestor. The veils were arranged with a snug fitting cap of the lace, fastened on each side of the head with a small cluster of orange blossoms. Her bouquet was composed of white orchids and gardenias.

The bride was attended by Mrs. Clark W. Costikyan of Montclair and Miss Jane B. Durston of Syracuse, as matron and maid of honor; also Mrs. John E. Davis, Misses Rosalie Evans and Elizabeth K. Barstow of New York; Mrs. Littleton C. Barkley, Mrs. Harold Huntting Cook, Mrs. C. Meyer Beresford and Miss Elizabeth Hanna of Montclair, and Miss Sylvia White of Shrewsbury, sister of the bridegroom. They wore costumes of peach-colored lace and chiffon with blue straw hats, and carried bouquets of Spring flowers. Mr. White was attended by his father as best man. The ushers were William S. Fanshawe White, brother of the bridegroom; F. Herman Gade, Howell Van Gerbig and Harold W. Scott of New York, Harris Baldwin Fisher, Jr., Matthias Plum and George Dwight of Rumson, N. J.; H. Maxwell Doyle and Littleton C. Barkley of Montclair, Albert G. Scherer of Summit, Frederic A. Potts of Red Bank and James C. Hauck of East Orange, N. J. The ceremony was followed by a reception at the Montclair Golf Club.

Other Weddings

Neff—Carey.

Miss Nan Carey, daughter of former Judge and Mrs. Robert Carey of Jersey City, N. J., was married to Walter Holt Neff, son of Mrs. John Henry Neff of Ware, Mass., and the late Mr. Neff, yesterday afternoon in St. Bartholomew's Church by the Rev. Dr. Robert Norwood, the rector, assisted by the Rev. Worcester Perkins, rector of St. John's Church, Jersey City Heights. Spring flowers, combined with Australian ferns, decorated the church. While the guests were assembling there was a program of music by Dr. David McKay Williams, organist of the church.

The bride, a member of the Daughters of the American Revolution, was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of flesh-colored satin made with a court train and embellished with old point lace. Her veil of point lace was held in place with orange blossoms and she carried a bouquet of white orchids and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Dykeman Sterling of East Orange, N. J., and Miss Naneen Burnap of Los Angeles, Cal., were matron and maid of honor. The other attendants were Mrs. Richard Field, Miss Aleta Freile and Miss Imogene Louise Perkins of Jersey City; Miss Jean Guy of South Orange, Miss Katherine Seaman of Bridgeport, Conn., and Miss Marion Faithful of Paris, France. All wore costumes of flesh pink chiffon and tulle with tulle hats of the same shade, trimmed with streamers of French blue velvet ribbon. They carried arm bouquets of Spring flowers with blue predominating.

Howard Neff was best man for his brother. The ushers were Russel B. Neff of Ware, Mass., also a brother; Robert Carey Jr., brother of the bride; John Turner of Brooklyn, Dutton Noble of Waterbury, Conn.; Frank Raymond Crow of Uniontown, Pa.; John S. Davenport 3d of Richmond, Va.; Pierce Gains and Alvin P. Adams of this city.

Following the ceremony there was a reception at Sherry's. The couple received the congratulations of their friends in a bower of roses, lilies of the valley and ferns.

Mr. Neff and his bride will go to Bermuda on their wedding trip, and on their return will live at 111 Halstead Street, East Orange, N. J.

Warwick—Mueller.

Miss Gladys Ruth Mueller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emil T. Mueller of Yonkers, was married to John Marshall Warwick Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John Marshall Warwick of Ridgewood, N. J., yesterday afternoon at Sherry's. The Rev. Dr. William W. Bellinger, vicar of St. Agnes's Chapel, Trinity Parish, performed the ceremony before an improvised altar which had been erected in the restaurant against a background of cybotium ferns combined with apple blossoms, pink sweet peas and snap dragons and blue delphinium. There was an aisle leading to the altar formed by standards topped with pink Spring blossoms.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of ivory colored panne velvet combined with silk net embroidered with crystals and seed pearls. Her veil of tulle was dotted with seed pearls and crystals and arranged with a halo of silver tissue. She carried a sheaf of calla lilies.

Mrs. Charles J. Hardy Jr., sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a costume of blue chiffon with a picture hat and carried a bouquet of pink sweet peas and snap dragons. There were two bridesmaids, the Misses Grace Langeler and Hazel Anderson, who wore frocks of pink chiffon with picture hats and carried bouquets of delphinium and pink sweet peas.

Walter C. Meadows Jr. was best man. The ushers were Harry A. Tracey and Winfield M. Baird.

Mr. Warwick and his bride, after a wedding trip in Europe, will live in Englewood, N. J. He is a member of the New York Curb Exchange.

MRS. FREDERICK N. L. WHITE,

Former Miss Mary Ridgely Stewart, Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Henry Stewart, a Bride of Yesterday.

Blau—England.

Miss Rose England, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Simon England of Pittsfield, Mass., was married to Alan James Blau, son of Mrs. Will S. Blau of Cleveland, Ohio, yesterday afternoon at the Ambassador. The Rev. Dr. Solomon Foster of Newark, N. J., performed the ceremony.

The bride, who was escorted by her father, wore an afternoon gown of pale blue chiffon and carried a bouquet of gardenias, roses and lilacs. She had no attendants. A dinner for relatives and a few friends followed.

The couple will go to Europe for their wedding trip and on their return will live in Wade Park Manor, Cleveland. The bride was graduated from Wellesley College in 1929. Mr. Blau was graduated from Dartmouth and Swarthmore Colleges. He is a member of the Excelsior, Oakwood and Moreland Hills Hunt and Saddle Clubs of Cleveland.

A Son to Mrs. John L. Loeb.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. John L. Loeb of 161 East Seventy-ninth Street yesterday at York House. Mrs. Loeb is the former Miss Frances Lehman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur H. Lehman.

WORLD SCOPE VOTED BY JUNIOR LEAGUE

2 OFFICERS ARE ELECTED

Mrs. Carleton Palmer Urges Clubs to Foster World Peace and Outlaw War Forever.

The several hundred delegates representing the Junior League of this country, Canada and Mexico voted yesterday to expand internationally and to admit foreign countries at the closing session of the annual conference held at the New York league clubhouse, 221 East Seventy-first Street.

A section of the resolution, introduced on Thursday by the foreign policies committee, and voted on yesterday, states that the majority of the charter members of any foreign league shall be made up of natives of the country in which the league is organized.

Two new national officers were elected for the ensuing year, Mrs. Roger S. Sperry of Waterbury, Conn., for president of the Association of Junior Leagues of America, and Mrs. Horatio H. Armstrong of Hartford, Conn., for treasurer. It was also decided by vote that Cincinnati would house the next annual conference.

Mrs. Carleton Palmer, speaking on the internationalization of the League, expressed the belief that the youth of America should lead the advance guard of an international movement endorsing general disarmament. The present conference, she said, had endorsed an immortal phrase: "The Junior League International."

"The Eastern and the Western Hemispheres shall meet," Mrs. Palmer declared. "Thirty years ago the Junior League and the twentieth century were born. You have heard the stirring challenge of our founder to carry on. In thirty years' time you have grown from municipal to national to international comprehension. What is the next step?

"The world today is slowly recovering from the shock of the ugliest story in the annals of man. A war that plunged us back numberless centuries into a ferocious and primitive animalism, that destroyed thousands of homes, millions of men. Those of us that have survived owe a debt of honor to the dead who laid down their lives to democracy.

"It is our task to demand of the nations of the world to lay down their arms in order that peace and good-will shall never more vanish from the earth. A world in arms against itself will never know peace. A world in arms is haunted by fear, not inspired by good-will.

"I believe the time has come for the United States of America to take an active part in making war impossible. I believe armies for destruction should be abolished once and for all, and that they should be replaced by armies for construction of a better world. I believe the youth of America should lead the advanced guard of an international movement endorsing general disarmament.

"I believe that the ideals which have inspired the Junior League to a steady onward march of evolution and progress in better thinking and better living are an example to the world of the dynamic power of fearlessness, of good-will and of faith in mankind."

Mrs. Charles J. Henderson, delegate from the Honolulu league, extended an invitation at the morning meeting to hold next year's conference in Honolulu, after presenting a pink "lei" to Mrs. Foskett Brown, the national president. Miss Katherine Ernst, president of the Cincinnati league then came forward with her invitation, and Cincinnati won.

Earlier in the conference, Mrs. Henderson, in reporting on social service work in Honolulu, said that the nutrition camp there had a free kindergarten, and that in April and May, in connection with the Honolulu Board of Health, a physical examination of school children was made. In three months 3,000 children will have been cared for. The Junior League volunteers are helping the doctors, she said.

A tropical luncheon was held at the clubhouse, and at the same time a luncheon was given for the presidents of leagues at the Barbizon. Last night the delegates were entertained at dinner and at various theatres. The exodus of delegates begins today.

CLANCY'S BAT PUTS YANKEES TO ROUT

White Sox Score Easy Victory as First Baseman Drives Home Six Tallies.

HE CLOUTS TWO HOMERS

Also Connects for Triple and Single—Lyons Proves Puzzle in Stadium Game.

By WILLIAM E. BRANDT.

The Great Shires had an operation Thursday and the Chicago White Sox drubbed the Yankees, 10 to 1, yesterday.

The link between these two events is the fact that John (Bud) Clancy, handling Shires's duties afield and at bat in the Stadium yesterday made half of the White Sox hits and his two homers, his triple and his single drove home six of their runs.

Bud, in fact, was the chief reason why the game never became a stern twirling duel between our Henry Johnson and their Ted Lyons. The Sox made only three hits off Johnson in the first seven innings, but they enjoyed a 4-to-0 lead because two of these three hits were a home run and a triple by Clancy, the triple landing in deep centre, about fifty feet further from home plate than his first-inning homer into the right-field bleachers.

In the eighth Clancy's single drove home Chicago's fifth run. In the ninth, with Lou McEvoy in Johnson's place, Mr. Shires's understudy blasted another two-run homer into the right-field sun seats, [illegible] all nine innings. Lyons baffled the local club.

Clancy Only a Substitute.

Clancy, obscured by the bright light of Shires's publicity, was just a substitute first baseman until last Sunday, when by accepting no fielding chances whatever, he tied a first baseman's fielding record that had stood since 1891. His exploits yesterday broke up the ball game, making the Yankee Stadium look like an inviting spot for the invading Western legions, and probably worked wonders toward hastening Mr. Shires's recovery.

Johnson began the game by walking Cissell. After Clancy's homer scored two runs, Johnson fanned three in a row, Jolley and Harris to end the first inning and Kamm to start the second. He fanned Riddle to end the second and Lyons to start the third.

Then came the three-base crashes of Cissell and Clancy with Reynolds's strike-out in between.

The effect of the strike-out was spoiled because Dickey muffed the third strike and had to chase the ball, Cissell scoring and Reynolds taking first. Clancy's triple scored Reynolds.

The eighth opened with a walk to Cissell and after Clancy's single, Harris and Kamm drove singles and Johnson probably tied somebody's record by cutting loose two wild pitches which advanced three Sox a base apiece. Each wild pitch scored a run from third.

16,000 View Contest.

About 16,000 viewed the encounter with mixed emotions.

Combs had two of the six Yankee hits, including the only extra-bagger. The Yankee run was scored in the ninth without a hit. Koenig walked, took second on a balk, took third unmolested and ran home while Cissell was throwing out Ruth.

Cissell took his stand twenty feet from his usual position out in right-field grass whenever Ruth batted, and the Babe bounced the ball right at him two of the three times he hit it to fair territory.

SENATORS' 17 HITS SWAMP THE BROWNS

Slashing Attack Behind Sam Jones's Fine Pitching Leads to Victory.

WASHINGTON, May 2 (AP).—The Senators pounded three St. Louis pitchers for seventeen hits today while Sam Jones was holding the Browns to seven safeties to pave the way to a 13-5 Washington victory.

Joe Cronin, Washington shortstop, whose big bat has helped put the Senators on top of the league, hit four times out of five at bat. His hits included two doubles and a triple, thereby accounting for four of the Washington runs.

INDIANS' LATE ATTACK OVERCOMES RED SOX

Victors Score Six Runs in Last Two Innings—J. Sewell's Record of Consecutive Games Ends.

BOSTON, May 2 (AP).—Cleveland won its fourth straight game today by scoring six runs in the last two innings to beat the Red Sox, 8 to 3, in Boston's first East-West game of the season.

Joe Sewell's record for consecutive games played ended when he was forced to remain in bed today with a temperature of 102. Starting in 1920 Joe had played 1,102 consecutive games for Cleveland.

Johnny Hodapp, who was hit on the head by a pitched ball in St. Louis earlier in the week, led the Indians' onslaught on Lisenbee and Ruffing. Todt of the Sox hit a homer against Ferrell, the winning pitcher, in the second with Regan on base.

REDS' TWO RALLIES DEFEAT THE GIANTS

Score 7 in 2d Inning, in Which Heilmann, Up Twice, Connects for Triple and Double.

NEW YORK DRIVE CHECKED

By JOHN DREBINGER.
Special to The New York Times.

CINCINNATI, May 2.—As the Giants opened their first Western invasion of the year today several startling upsets manifested themselves, not the least of these being the fact that the Reds carried the day by a score of 9 to 8. This upset John McGraw very much, for it marked the fourth successive reverse for the Giants and the fourth straight game in which his pitching staff displayed little beyond an astounding ability for hurling baseballs squarely upon enemy bats. Also it toppled the Giants out of first place.

Bounding gayly off to a two-run lead in the first round on doubles by Marshall and Ott, the Giants, with Freddy Fitzsimmons on the mound, appeared set for a grand dash, as most of last year Freddy stopped the Reds, but something must have happened to the charm over the Winter, for in the second inning the Reds gave Fitz an unmerciful pounding, rushing him from the box and scoring seven runs.

It was an inning painfully reminiscent of that weird Dodger game earlier in the week. Thirteen men came to bat, and Heilmann, coming up twice, hit a double and a triple. The Reds added two more off Ralph Judd in the third, and upon this the Rhinelanders chose to stand pat.

Giants Bat Rixey Off Mound.

It almost proved a fatal decision, for in the sixth the Giants pelted Eppa Rixey out of the game under a shower of five hits and four runs and in the ninth the McGrawmen put on another demonstration that just missed connections.

In fact, had not the veteran Heilmann made a miraculous one-handed catch of a terrific smash by Lindstrom right at the start of the round, the Giants at least would have been assured of a tie. After this play Terry hit his fourth homer of the season; Ott tripled, Jackson singled, driving in Ott and driving out Benny Frey, and when Reese also singled off Pete Donohue, the tying tally was on second.

But there it hung suspended to the end. Hogan passed out on an infield tap, and then an effort born of despair doubtless inspired McGraw to send the veteran Dave Bancroft up as pinch hitter. Banny used to win a lot of these sizzling encounters for McGraw in the old days. But after one healthy shot to right that went foul by a few feet, Banny, too, passed out and the combat was over.

Old Stars With the Reds.

The Reds certainly present a motley array these days with Bob Meusel and Durocher, late of the Yanks; Heilmann of the Tigers and McWeeny, former Dodger, among their number. It is almost impossible to recognize some of these fellows in their new livery.

No change, however, is to be discerned in young Durocher, whose noted sartorial effects are said to be fairly dazzling the Rhenish provinces on the Ohio.

"Well, sir, and how are things going?" Durocher was asked by one of the New York delegation.

"Great," came the cheerful rejoinder. "Hitting .400, but so far only on the beach. It will be just a breeze when I get there."

ATHLETICS' BATS AGAIN HALT TIGERS

Champions Pound Out 14 Hits in Second Straight Victory Over Detroit.

PHILADELPHIA, May 2 (AP).—The Athletics had no trouble making it two straight over the Tigers today, 9 to 4. Bing Miller led a fourteen-hit assault on Whitehill and Herring with three doubles and a single.

The champions walloped Whitehill for five runs, spaced over the first five innings, and knocked him out of the box in the sixth, when they scored four runs by also whaling relief hurler Herring for a triple, double and a single in the same inning.

Rube Walberg hung up his third victory of the season against no defeats. He was hit hard in only one inning, the eighth. In this frame the visitors bunched two singles and two doubles for three tallies.

JERSEY CITY TAKES FOURTH GAME IN ROW

Topples Rochester for the Third Straight Time and Gains Tie for Fifth Place.

The Jersey City baseball club gained its third victory in a row over Rochester at Jersey City yesterday, winning by 6 to 3 and increasing its string of consecutive triumphs to four. By winning, Jersey City moved into a tie for fifth place, while the Red Wings toppled into the cellar as a result of their defeat.

Bobby Veach led the attack for the victors, the veteran collecting two doubles in three times at bat. Each club used three pitchers, Miller being credited with winning and Derringer being charged with the defeat.

PIRATES TAKE LEAD BY BEATING BRAVES

PITTSBURGH, May 2 (AP).—Jess Petty's fine relief hurling after Boston scored 1 run in the ninth and had filled the bases with one out gave the Pittsburgh Pirates a 3-to-2 victory over the Braves today. The Pirates thus took the league lead, as the Giants lost to the Reds.

Prior to the ninth, Remy Kremer, who started for Pittsburgh, had pitched good ball and had seldom been in trouble.

Paul Waner of the Pirates and Neun of the Braves each rapped out three hits in four times up.

Two double plays by each team held down the scoring. Hemsley's double in the fourth scored what proved to be the winning run.

ROBINS' LATE DRIVE TOPPLES CARDINALS

BISSONETTE HITS HOME RUN

Clout Is First Blow of Victors' Decisive Attack—Clark Scores First Triumph.

By ROSCOE McGOWEN.
Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, May 2.—The Robins got away to a rousing start on their Western invasion when they defeated the Cardinals, 8 to 4, in Sportsman's Park today before a crowd of 11,000. In the sixth the Robins held a four-run lead, only to have the score tied in the Cardinals' half.

A home run by Del Bissonette at the start of the eighth sent them on the way to victory again, three more runs being added in the same inning on hits by Flowers, Lopez, Gilbert and Herman.

It was Watson Clark's first victory of the season, four defeats being charged to him. Grabowski, Hill, Rhem and Haines worked for the Cards. Errors by Frisch, Bottomley and Gelbert all figured in the scoring, while the Robins played flawless baseball for the first time this year.

Grabowski Puzzle at Start.

Grabowski seemed to baffle the Robins in the first two innings, getting them out in order and retiring Bissonette and Bressler on called strikes in the second, while Clark was threatened in both innings by the Cards.

Douthit, first man to face the Brooklyn southpaw, slapped a double to right centre, but was left stranded on third when High, Frisch and Bottomley all went out on infield grounders. Wilson lined a single through the box in the second after two were out, but Gelbert's best effort was a grounder to Wright.

In the third, however, the Dodgers took a two-run lead. With one out Lopez singled over Bottomley's head and Clark promptly followed with a double to distant right centre, scoring his catcher. Frederick grounded to Bottomley, Clark taking third and scoring when Gelbert momentarily fumbled Gilbert's grounder.

Grabowski Routed From Box.

In the sixth the Cardinal southpaw was blasted from the mound. Singles by Herman and Bissonette and Bressler's double against the right-field screen were good for two runs.

Clark's bad moments were nearly all centred in the sixth. the Cardinals tying the score at 4-4. Mancuso, who batted for Hill, started the trouble with a single to centre, Douthit smashed a double to the same sector, Martin, running for Mancuso, stopping at third. Clark fanned Andy High, but Frankie Frisch whacked a clean single to left to score two runs. Bottomley forced Frisch, but Chick Hafey doubled to the left-field corner, Bottomley holding third. Homer Peel, batting for Fisher, drove in two more runs.

Bissonette quickly untied the score in the eighth by bouncing a home run off the right-field pavilion roof. He twisted his right ankle rounding first base and completed the round trip at a snail's pace. Harvey Hendrick replaced him.

Flowers singled and sent Rhem to the showers. Jesse Haines came in to pitch and Al Lopez doubled. Before the Robins quit singles by Gelbert and Herman gave them three more runs.

KASHDAN-STEINER DRAW.

Eighth Game of Their Chess Match Is Deadlocked.

I. Kashdan, champion of the Manhattan Chess Club, and Lajos Steiner of Budapest, international chess expert, yesterday contested the eighth game of their match of twelve at the rooms of the Manhattan Chess Club in the Beacon Hotel. It resulted in a draw in sixty-one moves.

Kashdan had the black side of a Petroff defense which was pretty evenly conducted throughout. Eventually the play, after two adjournments, reached a rook and pawn ending which was finally abandoned as drawn. The ninth game is scheduled for today at the Manhattan Chess Club.

Savage Beats Wellens at 18.2.

Jack Savage defeated Michael Wellens, 150 to 63, in seventeen innings, in their game in the handicap 18.2 balkline tournament at the Fourteenth Street Billiard Academy last night. Savage's high run was 27 and Wellens's 17. Both were playing for 150 points.

12,000 FANS SEE NIGHT BALL GAME

Powerful Projectors Flood Park With 50,000,000 Candle Power at Des Moines.

VENTURE CALLED SUCCESS

President Keyser Predicts New Life for Minor Leagues—Only Four Errors in Contest.

Special to The New York Times.

DES MOINES, Iowa, May 2.—Des Moines inaugurated night baseball, the first game played at night since the World War, by triumphing over Wichita at Keyser's Park tonight. The score was 13 to 6.

The innovation was a success with 12,000 fans witnessing the contest staged under projectors from huge towers, ninety feet high, supplied by powerful batteries flooding the park with 50,000,000 candle power.

It was the opening game of the home season for Des Moines in the Western League. Wichita, the pacemaker in the circuit, was followed here by a large delegation, while baseball notables from all sections of the country attended.

Interest in the Test.

Baseball Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis wired President Keyser he was keenly interested in the outcome of the night baseball idea and regretted his inability to attend.

In the opinion of many fans, the contest was viewed as clearly as a game played under daylight conditions. Bearing out the visibility from the players' angle, the final outcome recorded errorless ball for Wichita and four misplays for the home team.

Due to the small attendances at baseball games played in the afternoon, President Keyser developed the idea of night baseball as the means of reaching fans who were unable to attend games during the day.

Des Moines started with a rush and was leading by 12 to 0 at the close of the third inning. Wichita grouped four runs in the sixth for its biggest run splurge.

Game Broadcast Here.

The first broadcast of a night baseball game in history went on the air last night and New York fans received a detailed account of the Des Moines-Wichita contest at Des Moines, Iowa, over the National Broadcasting Company's Stations WJZ and WEAF.

hTe broadcast started at midnight, New York Time, when the game was in the fourth inning, and was completed when the contest ended at 1 o'clock this morning.

Lee Keyser, president of the Des Moines club, addressed the radio audience between the sixth and seventh innings, expressing great satisfaction with night baseball.

"My reaction to night baseball is that it is glorious and wonderful," Mr. Keyser said. "The players are happy, the crowd perfectly satisfied, and it means that baseball in the minor leagues will now live."

SPRINGFIELD WINS SIXTH.

Lipp Stars on Mound and at Bat in Beating Conn. Aggies.

Special to The New York Times.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., May 2.—Springfield College won its sixth straight baseball game today, pounding out a 9-4 victory over the Connecticut Aggie nine.

Sterling Lipp, southpaw ace, in addition to hurling superbly for his third victory to date, led his team at the bat, getting three hits in three attempts, one a hard drive to left field which went for a home run. He struck out eleven of the Aggie batsmen.

Columbia came bounding back into the race for the Eastern intercollegiate baseball league championship yesterday at Baker Field by defeating Cornell, 8 to 7, in a thrilling finish. The Morningside nine pushed across three runs in the last inning to topple the Ithacans and thus go into fourth place in the league standing with two victories and three defeats.

Cornell had a 7—5 lead when Columbia came to bat in the ninth. Morrison singled to right. Balquist was safe at first when Habicht fumbled his grounder, and Morrison went to second. The Columbia fans were in an uproar as Hewitt, heavy hitter, stepped to the plate.

Hewitt sent a long fly to Maiorana, who caught the ball against the centre field fence, Morrison going to third. McLaughlin, who had previously hit a home run, smashed a single over second base and Morrison scored, making the tally 7—6. Balquist went to third on the hit and McLaughlin advanced to second on the throw to third.

Bradley Breaks Up Game.

Then Bradley, who has broken up many a game at Baker Field this season, connected with one of Stevens's fast balls and sent a sizzling grounder between short and third. In came Balquist and McLaughlin with the tying and winning runs.

The Lions had to battle all the way to win. Cornell obtained six hits off Lew Bender but they were timely. Two hits in the third gave the up-Staters a two-run lead and then when Columbia seemingly had the game tucked away, the Ithacan attack rumbled into action in the eighth and four hits and five runs were registered.

Columbia Scores Run.

The Morningside nine pushed across one run in the fourth when with two out, Bradley singled and scored on Obey's double to left. Two runs in the sixth put Columbia out in front, 3—2. McLaughlin hit a home run over the centre field fence. Bradley singled over third and stole second. Obey flied to Moon. On a hit and run play, Bradley came in on Stelljes's single.

After the visitors took a 7-to-3 lead in their half of the eighth, the Lions tallied twice in their half to make the count 7—5.

HURLS NO-HIT GAME AGAINST PRINCETON

Only Five Tigers Reach First as Nichols Pitches Amherst to 2-0 Triumph.

Victors Score in Opening Inning When Williams Completes Circuit on Squeeze Play.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., May 2.—Al Nichols held Princeton hitless today and the Amherst nine scored an easy 2-0 victory over the Tiger team.

Nichols fanned seven batters and issued only two passes, which, combined with Amherst errors, allowed five Princeton players to reach first during the contest. Only two Tigers progressed as far as second.

The visitors opened the scoring in the first when Williams hit safely, was sacrificed to second by Trenchard and completed the circuit on Bennett's error and a squeeze play by Whitehead. The second tally in the seventh resulted from Gibson's single scoring Gotlieb, who had replaced Hemley on the bases after the latter had driven out his second hit of the contest.

Amherst made only four hits off Waud, Princeton hurler, but three of them were bunched in the two scoring frames.

HOLY CROSS NINE TAKES 5TH IN ROW

Easily Turns Back Vermont by 8-1, Ryan Getting Homer, Double and Single.

Special to The New York Times.

WORCESTER, Mass., May 2.—Holy Cross defeated Vermont today, 8 to 1, to win its fifth successive game. Evers kept the Vermont hits scattered and fanned seven batters.

Ryan with a single, double and home run led the Crusader attack. Jay registered the fielding gem of the afternoon when he went to the bank in deep centre to pull down Shevlin's labeled triple.

ST. JOHN'S RALLIES TO BEAT VILLANOVA

Scores 9-to-8 Victory After Manning Takes Mound in Third and Checks Foes.

Coming from behind in the sixth inning to tie the score at 7—7 after enjoying an early lead, the St. John's College baseball team defeated Villanova College 9 to 8, in a return game at Dexter Park yesterday. Two weeks ago Villanova turned back St. John's, 7 to 2.

Captain Johnny Manning was the winning pitcher in his first start for St. John's. Manning relieved Tom Neary in the third when the latter was chased on account of wildness and got out of a hole in fine style with the bases loaded.

In the sixth, when Villanova led, 7 to 5, a triple by Manning brought in Kinsbrunner, who had walked, with the first of the two runs that tied the score. A single by Stephens after Borise had fanned sent Manning home with the tieing run.

In the seventh and eighth St. John's collected three extra-base hits to score a run in each frame and clinch the game. Villanova threatened in the ninth when it touched Manning for two singles and, aided by two errors, scored a run, but the St. John's ace bore down nicely in the pinch and retired the side.

GARRETT FANS 9 MEN AS RUTGERS TRIUMPHS

Yields Only 7 Hits in Victory Over Lafayette, 9-4—Thompson Gets Two Home Runs.

Special to The New York Times.

EASTON, Pa., May 2.—Rutgers defeated the Lafayette baseball team today 9 to 4, due mainly to Bob Garrett's air-tight pitching in the pinches. Garrett yielded only seven hits and struck out nine men.

Grossman, Steager, Pecora and O'Connell hit for extra bases, Grossman getting a triple and the other doubles. Jack Thompson was Lafayette's hero, hitting home runs in two consecutive times at bat in the sixth and eighth. No one was on the bags either time.

Murburg was knocked from the box in the seventh. Wiley replaced him.

BOSTON COLLEGE UPSETS SYRACUSE

Seven Errors by the Losers at Critical Moments Factors in Their 8-3 Defeat.

TOPOL CONNECTS FOR HOMER

Sends Losers Away to Two-Run Lead in First—Four Tallies in Third Clinch Contest.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, May 2.—Seven errors by Syracuse at critical moments enabled the Boston College baseball team to score an 8 to 3 victory today.

Syracuse was off to a two-run lead in the second inning when Horowitz doubled and Topol connected for a circuit smash. In the third inning Boston College came back with a four-run rally that just about ended the game.

Donovan started with a pass and took second on Creeden's single. Downes singled to score Donovan but Temple forced Downes at second. Colbert hit a grounder to Topol and the latter fumbled with an easy double play in sight. Singles by O'Connor and Gibson followed and Boston College had four runs.

FORDHAM CUBS BEATEN.

Lose to Samuel Johnson Academy Nine by 5-to-4 Score.

The Fordham University freshman team lost, 5—4, to the Samuel Johnson Academy nine at Fordham Field yesterday. The Maroon yearlings took a three-run lead in the first inning, but the visitors rallied in the sixth inning and scored three runs on a home run by Pond, who sent in Koslowski and Swan ahead of him.

The winners made their other two runs in the fourth and fifth. Danny Alvino hit a home run in the sixth inning for the Maroon nine's final run.

EARLY DRIVE HELPS N. Y. U. CHECK DUKE

CLYDE STARS AS RELIEF

Replaces Schmotzer and Halts Losers—Kistler, Farley, Hoffman Batting Leaders—Score, 12-7.

New York University's baseball team piled up an early lead to defeat Duke University by 12 to 7 yesterday at Ohio Field in a free-hitting game. Five pitchers were used, three by the losers. Duke made nine errors.

The defeat was the Southerners' third in eighteen games this season. Until yesterday Coach Jack Coombs's charges had won their last seven contests in a row. N. Y. U. was outhit by fourteen to eleven.

Once again it was the masterly relief twirling of tall Bill Clyde, Violet star, which aided his team to gain its hard-fought victory. Clyde relieved Gus Schmotzer with one out in the sixth in the midst of a Duke rally and held the visitors to only two hits for the remainder of the battle.

Henry Kistler, with a triple and two doubles, and Roland Farley's home run and two singles featured Duke's hitting, while Burt Hoffman, with a trio of one-base blows, led the N. Y. U. attack.

N. Y. U. practically won the game in the second inning, scoring six times on a combination of hits, passes and errors and shelling Horace Duffey, Duke's starting pitcher, off the mound before the session closed. Gaudet reached first and kept on to second on Farley's error. Schmotzer was safe on another misplay and Hoffman's hit to right scored Gaudet. Duffey walked Kastner, filling the bases, and followed by issuing passes to Sackett and Bohl, forcing in two runs.

With all the bases still occupied, McKeithan, who replaced Duffey, walked Sweeney to push across another score. Gaudet, up for a second time, then singled through third, scoring the last two runs of the frame.

Duke began to solve Schmotzer's delivery in the fifth by tallying its first run on Farley's single to centre and Harrington's safe drive to right. The visitors added three more in the next inning on Werber's single, Kistler's triple and Farley's home run to deep centre.

With N. Y. U. leading by 12 to 4 in the seventh, Duke picked up two more tallies on Werber's four-base hit over the right field fence, which scored Dean ahead of him. Kistler tallied Duke's final run in the ninth after hitting a double.

14 BASES ON BALLS AID TO MANHATTAN

Well-Timed Hits Also Figure in 12-4 Victory Over Union College.

KECK GETS FINE SUPPORT

Manhattan's well-timed hits, supplemented by fourteen free passes, resulted in a 12-4 victory over the Union College nine at Jasper Field yesterday.

Fred Keck was selected by Coach Pete Noonan for mound duty and after the first inning, when the Garnets found his offerings for four hits, he settled down and kept the remainder of the blows well scattered. His teammates contributed fine support.

After a rather slow start, the Jaspers got going in the third inning. Yackel walked Shand, who took second on a passed ball by Ryan. Noonan hit a high fly to right field and Burns drove a liner which bounded of Yackel's glove. Yackel threw wildly to third and Shand scored, Noonan taking second.

McCormick got a free trip to first and on the next pitch Burns and McCormick executed a double steal. Yackel tried to catch McCormick off second and Burns scored on the play. Gunther and Reilly walked and with the bases full O'Neil singled to centre, scoring McCormick and Gunther, and putting the Jaspers in the lead, which they held without danger through the remainder of the game.

Kahn and Reville did some heavy stick work for the visitors, the former getting three hits out of five trips to the plate, including two doubles. Reville had three singles out of four attempts.

Nitchman of Union provided the fielding feature of the day with a beautiful catch of Gunther's high foul back of third base.

U.S.A.

Gentlemen,

Your representative has just shown me a collection of Golf Shoes assembled from various London Bootmakers.

After carefully examining each shoe, I quickly picked this one. I was then told that this type was also Andra' Kirkaldy's choice.

I am not surprised, for I know that Martin Calf skin upper and stout leather soles with genuine Scotch Tacketts, combine to make the finest Golf Shoe it is possible to build.

With their low broad heels and comfortable foreparts this pair of shoes will 'follow through' from the first to the last tee of any match.

Yours faithfully,

Abe Mitchell

ABE MITCHELL

Premier Golfer of England and a member of the famous Ryder Cup Team, selected this Golf Shoe from a group of the best custom models in all England.

Dear Sirs,

After carefully looking over the various shoes submitted to me by your representative, I have picked this one. In my opinion it is as good a shoe for golf as ever I saw.

"Ye canna wear these oot and they will hold the ground like a squirral on a tree."

Yours faithfully,

Andrew Kirkaldy

If according to the latest statistics there are three million golfers in the U. S. A. it is a safe bet that a good many of them this year will follow the new 1.68 golf ball with a new pair of $6.60 Golf Shoes.

Our representative spent a month roaming around all the famous courses of England and Scotland, sketching styles as they stepped up to the first tee, talking with the players at the 19th hole, making notes of Leathers, Lasts, Patterns, Rubber and Leather Soles, Linings, Wing Tips, Plain Toes and Moccasin types.

With this information, our man went to London and bought 22 pair of golf shoes, ranging in price from $10 to $42 in American money, and took this collection of high-priced golf shoes direct from London to Abe Mitchell's home in St. Albans.

The shoes were placed on a table—the price marks and labels removed, and when Abe Mitchell selected this shoe, he did not know the Price or name of the Maker, but after carefully examining every shoe, he picked up this shoe made by Bunting of Dover Street and said, "This pair of shoes will follow through from the first tee to the last of any match."

Abe Mitchell liked the broad low heels, spoke of the comfortable forepart of the last, the Upper Leather, Sole Leather, Scotch Tacketts, etc., and said, "The whole combination makes this the finest golf shoe that it is possible to build."

The Upper Leather in the Original is a new water-proofed calf-skin tanned by Martin of Glasgow. Our man made a special trip to Scotland and saw Mr. Martin, and purchased the entire first American Importation of this new leather.

Bunting's $32.76 Original is made with a hand sewn moccasin type vamp—full leather lined—with a double sole—steel slugged leather heels and the sole is set with Genuine Scotch Tacketts (spikes). Every feature of the Original is faithfully copied in the $6.60 Regal Reproduction, even to the real hand sewn vamp and broad comfortable last.

And this is only One Style of the greatest line of Sport Shoes in America. White, Brown and Grey Buck—Black, Tan and Natural Calfskin—Smoked Elk and Soft Norwegian Grain—Rubber, Leather, and spike soles—60 different Styles—All One Price $6.60.

YALE, PENN TO ROW COLUMBIA TODAY

Will Meet in Derby Day Regatta for Blackwell Cup on the Housatonic River.

ELIS, LIONS ARE FAVORED

Rated as Chief Contenders in the Varsity, Jayvee Races—40,000 Likely to Line Course.

By ROBERT F. KELLEY.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 2.—With a hot sun burning down from overhead and a pretty stiff breeze blowing up the course, the twelve eight-oared shells which tomorrow will race in Yale's Derby Day regatta held their final workouts this afternoon from the Bob Cook boathouse in Derby, twelve miles from this city, where Yale crews train.

For two of these navies, Yale and Pennsylvania, tomorrow's racing will be the first of the season; for the third, Columbia, it will be the second batch of races, following two weeks after the season's opening against Navy at Annapolis.

The Yale boathouse was jammed with shells and oarsmen this afternoon as first Columbia, then Penn and finally Yale sent away their racing boats for paddles over the course. With racing starts, from 3 o'clock until almost sunset, the banks of the river echoed with coxswains shouting and the banging of oar locks. Then the two visiting college fleets racked their shells and retired to the Clark Hotel in Derby for the night and Yale came back to New Haven.

Penn Rated Outsider.

Of the trio of racing colleges, Yale and Columbia are regarded most seriously in the varsity event. Pennsylvania is regarded as having only the slimmest of chances with two very fine eights in the race, which is for the Blackwell Cup and the climax of the four races which form this most picturesque of the early season regattas.

This race alone of the early ones is followed along the bank by an observation train, and this year the largest train the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad has ever run for this event is to rattle up and down for each race.

In addition, there is a grand stand at the finish, and it is likely that 30,000 or 40,000 persons will line the banks if Summer weather prevails.

The racing is to start at 5:30 o'clock, Daylight Saving Time, with the race for the lightweights at a mile and five-sixteenths. At half-hour intervals, if the schedule is adhered to, the junior varsities, freshmen and varsities of all three colleges will follow over the course, the last three races all being at two-mile distances.

The railroad today announced the final arrangements for the train. This is to leave the Derby station at 5 o'clock, Daylight Saving Time, for the first race, returning afterward to make connections with the New York special which is to leave Grand Central at 2:45, Daylight Time, and return immediately after the races.

New Haven Crowded.

There is also to be a special train service from New Haven and, with New Haven crowded tonight with house parties the outlook is for a gala crowd at the races.

For this setting there is the prospect of some very fine boat racing. Not in several years has the issue seemed more closely drawn for this Blackwell regatta. Among the rowing figures the consensus seemed to be that the varsity and junior varsity races were apt to rest between Yale and Columbia and the two others with all three very much in the picture.

Don Grant has a good-looking lightweight varsity rowing for Yale this season and the Elis have high hopes for this division, but in both Hubert Glendon's Columbia boat and Jim Matthew's Pennsylvania crew, there is plenty of opposition. As they rowed today they were three good-looking boatloads, with Columbia, which has been bothered badly by illness this season, seeming just a shade below the others.

The freshmen race finds all three colleges with crews above the ordinary for first-year men. Pennsylvania has one of the best freshmen crews it has had in years. Columbia has come along very fast since it was defeated by the Navy plebes two weeks ago and Yale has a big, strong boatload of youngsters. Penn ranked a slight favorite for this event, but with every evidence of close fights ahead.

Yale Juniors Favored.

Yale, with Art Palmer, last year's varsity stroke, and Bill Mosee, also of the past year's varsity, aboard, seems a shade the better in the junior race. Columbia's juniors have been an uncertain crew, not always at top form, and Pennsylvania does not seem to have the power present in the other boats.

The varsity race has attracted a tremendous amount of interest. Last season, in this race, Alastair MacBain's great Columbia crew broke Yale's string of victories in the Blackwell Cup race, giving the Blue its only defeat of the season and Columbia its first victory over Yale under Leader.

There are two different strokes this year. Bill Sanford, who stroked Columbia to victory over Navy, was further forward in the boat last year. Woodruff Tappen, Yale's pace setter, stroked the juniors in 1929. Two years ago Tappen stroked Yale to victory over Columbia and in every other race Yale rowed until the final of the Olympic trials in Philadelphia, when California stopped the Elis.

Columbia proved itself a good crew at Annapolis on April 19. Yale has yet to be tested under fire. But it is a very good looking boat made up of good looking material. It is a very heavy boat, the unofficial averages being 185, Yale not giving out any weights.

Leader had his difficulties in picking it, but it has been together for the past ten days, and Tappen has been working ever since the first Fall turnout. Yale is going to be very hard to stop tomorrow.

No Odds Offered.

There were no odds offered anywhere by any one. In both camps there is a quiet, fighting confidence, but also the realization that the varsity race, at any rate, is almost certain to produce a desperate, slashing fight.

The Eli varsity has drawn the favored east lane on the Housatonic, but not enough water is supposed to count there was running in the river today, which is so low that it barely drops over the falls below the boathouse and this can be discounted to a great degree.

Austin Still on British Team; Will Stay Idle at Own Request

LONDON, May 2 (AP).—H. W. Austin, the young and somewhat erratic British tennis ace, has not been dropped from the Davis Cup team, it developed today, but is only resting and remaining out of Great Britain's second round match against either Poland or Rumania at his own request.

Austin, in a letter to the English Lawn Tennis Association, said he did not desire to play in the next series, feeling the need of a respite.

"I told them," Austin said, "that I did not think I could do either my country or myself justice in my present form, and that I needed at least a fortnight's rest from strenuous lawn tennis. The team selectors agreed and that is the reason I shall not be on the next team."

THREE EIGHTS TO RACE AT ANNAPOLIS TODAY

Browne and Nichols Crew Will Compete With Navy Plebes and 150-Pounders.

Special to The New York Times.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 2.—Interest in tomorrow's race between the eights of Browne and Nichols School, Henley victors last year, and the Naval Academy plebes, has been increased by the addition of the Academy 150-pound crew to the contest. The light varsity will be an unofficial entry, but that will make little difference as the three crews will start together for the race over the Henley distance of a mile and five-sixteenths.

The crews made final preparations today, with the Naval varsity and junior varsity also having a short practice. High winds prevailed and the crews had to seek sheltered portions of the river, confining their work to starts and short sprints.

Boatings of the crews which will compete tomorrow follow:

Browne and Nichols.

Bow, Dowse; 2, Bowe; 3, Johnson; 4, Adams; 5, Maguire; 6, Whitehead; 7, Tenney; stroke, Tarlton; coxswain, White.

Naval Academy Plebes.

Bow, Monroe; 2, Hartley; 3, Klinsman; 4, Easton; 5, Weeks; 6, Anderson; 7, Espenas; stroke, F. J. Peterson; coxswain, Unmacht.

Naval Academy 150-Pounders.

Bow, Butterfield; 2, Wackwitz; 3, Shields; 4, Engleman; 5, Chambers; 6, Tucker; 7, Payson; stroke, Bush; coxswain, Brannon.

SOHL DIVIDES WITH CUE.

Beats Ward, but Loses to Weiner in Class B 18.2 Play.

Henry Sohl broke even in two games played last night in the national amateur Class B 18.2 balkline championship tournament, which is being conducted by the National Association of Amateur Billiard Players at Cranfield's Academy.

Sohl defeated Jacob Ward, 200 to 194, in thirty-nine innings and lost to David Weiner, 200 to 174, in thirty-nine innings. Sohl's high run against Ward was 38 and against Weiner 18. Weiner's best cluster was 55 and Ward's 21.

Wrestling Bout Claims Interest.

The ticket sale for the wrestling card featured by a clash between Richard Shikat and Hans Steinke at the Seventy-first Regiment Armory on Monday is progressing satisfactorily, it was announced yesterday by Jack Curley. The semi-final will pit Jim Clinkstock against George Hagen.

PRINCETON CREWS MEET M. I. T. TODAY

DEBUT FOR NASSAU EIGHTS

Tigers Hold Edge in Series, Having Won Two Previous Regattas and Lost One.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., May 2.—Princeton and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology will engage in four races—varsity, junior varsity, 150-pound and freshman—tomorrow afternoon on Lake Carnegie. This is the fourth meeting in as many years between crews of the two institutions, with the M. I. T. varsity boasting one victory and the Tigers two.

The regatta tomorrow will open the season for the Nassau crews, while three of the Tech eights already have raced on two Saturdays.

The M. I. T. varsity has failed to win, but the other eights were victors in fast races. Navy, Columbia and Harvard have taken the measure of Captain Phil Holt's Scarlet crew, but all of these eights are among the top-notchers in this Spring's Eastern crop.

Four Sophomores in Shell.

The inexperienced Nassau varsity shell, with four sophomore sweep-swingers rowing, will be handicapped by the fact that this is its initial engagement. Princeton counts heavily on the headiness of Stroke Johnny Clingerman, who is setting the pace for the second year and who stroked a championship freshman crew.

M. I. T. rowed once yesterday and twice today, so that it might become used to the water of Lake Carnegie and to help the coxswain get accustomed to the course.

The varsity race is scheduled for a mile and three-quarters, with the jayvees rowing the same distance. The lightweights row the Henley, while the freshman eights pull only a mile and a half.

Men in Good Condition.

Coaches Logg and Sikes of Princeton and Bill Haines of M. I. T. expressed themselves today as satisfied with the condition of their oarsmen and hoped only for fair weather and good rowing conditions for tomorrow's tilt.

Wisconsin to Honor Old Rival With Minnesota Day on May 17

In recognition of more than forty years of harmonious athletic relations between the University of Wisconsin and the University of Minnesota, Minnesota Day is to be established at the Madison (Wis.) institution on May 17.

The Minnesota track team will engage the Badgers in a dual track meet at Camp Randall on that date. Tom Jones, coach of Wisconsin's indoor conference champions, suggested that the event be made a special occasion, and the suggestion was received enthusiastically by George Little, director of intercollegiate athletics.

Invitations to all high schools within a radius of fifty miles of Madison to attend the meet as guests of the Wisconsin athletic department have been issued. The invitation is not limited to this group, however. The Wisconsin authorities will welcome any high school whose students desire to attend.

COLGATE TRIUMPHS OVER MICHIGAN NINE

Wins First Game of Scheduled Double Bill, 8 to 1, Rain Halting Second Contest.

Special to The New York Times.

HAMILTON, N. Y., May 2.—Colgate outplayed Michigan in every department of the game to win, 8 to 1, in the first game of a scheduled double-header today. The second contest was stopped by a rainstorm during the first inning.

George Purple was steady through the full seven innings. Michigan threatened only once, in the last inning when Truskowski singled. Dorauk followed with another single and Truskowski scored on Butler's sacrifice.

Colgate scored twice on a hit and two errors in the third and clinched the victory by scoring six runs on seven singles in the next inning. Dashner was passed to start the inning. Cottrell and Enoch singled and Litster, running for Dashner, scored. Callan's hit sent Cottrell home, Purple singled, scoring Enoch, and Dowler drove Callan home. Bonacker bunted, filling the bases. Two Michigan errors and Hagy's slow bunt allowed Purple and Dowler to tally. Bonacker was nipped at the plate in an attempt to steal home.

HIGH SCHOOL BOY SETS RECORD IN POLE VAULT

Leap of 13 Feet 4 Inches By Wonsowicz at Ohio Relays Breaks Interscholastic Mark.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, May 2 (AP).—Paced by the performance of John Wonsowicz of Froebel High School, Gary, Ind., who broke all high school records for the pole vault, high school athletes from a dozen States and runners from Ohio colleges started the seventh annual Ohio relays in a record-breaking manner today.

Two thousand watched the equaling of the national interscholastic record for the one-mile relay and the breaking of six records for the meet in addition to Wonsowicz's wonderful vaulting.

Leaving seven competitors tied for second place at 11 feet 6 inches, Wonsowicz mounted steadily upward, finally clearing 13 feet 4 inches. The Gary boy, who broke the prep indoor record with a leap of 13 feet 2 inches in Iowa City last month, today established a new vault record for the Ohio relays by nearly one foot.

A great team of quarter milers, representing Newark (N. J.) Preparatory School, took the one-mile preparatory school relay in 3:26 7-10, equalling the national interscholastic record. Ashkenas, Bobertz, Keller and Sears, running in that order, left Kiskiminetas Academy of Saltsburg, Pa., 30 yards behind after Bobertz had opened a big gap.

Davis, from Cleveland East Tech, came within 4 inches of Bud Houser's national interscholastic record for the 12-pound shot, tossing the ball 51 feet 2¼ inches and establishing a new record for the relays. The other star individual performer, Juseks of John Adams High School, Cleveland, broke the meet record for the high jump with a leap of 6 feet ¾ inch.

In addition to the four broken records in high school events, Ohio college athletes smashed marks in two events especially for them. Norman Lambacher, Ohio Wesleyan's sprint star, hustled down the 100-yard straightaway in 0:09 9-10, breaking the record of 0:10 1-10 he established last year. Miami University's sprinters and middle distance men ran the sprint medley relay in 3:36 2-10, taking one-fifth of a second off the record they set last year. Ohio Wesleyan was second.

AMHERST GOLFERS SCORE.

Defeat Wesleyan Team, 8 to 1—Halligan Shoots 79.

Special to The New York Times.

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., May 2.—Amherst won the golf match from Wesleyan, 8 to 1, on the Cromwell course today. Captain Eldridge of Wesleyan and his partner won the first foursome from his Amherst opponents, 2 up, for the only Wesleyan victory.

Halligan of Amherst played the course in 79 against a strong wind. James of Wesleyan, his opponent, carried him to the 19th hole to lose, 1 up.

HARVARD TRACKMEN GAIN LEAD IN MEET

FRESHMEN ALSO IN FRONT

Score 49½ Points in Field Events to Tufts' 19—Place 18 in Finals, While M. I. T. Has 13.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 2.—Harvard's varsity and freshman track teams garnered the major share of honors in the opening day of the Greater Boston intercollegiate track and field meet at the Harvard Stadium today.

At the conclusion of the trials in the varsity events Harvard's forces had qualified thirty-six men, while M. I. T. unexpectedly finished second with fourteen. Boston College was in third place with twelve qualifiers, while Northeastern had nine to take fourth place. Fifth went to Boston University with one qualifier, while Tufts failed to place.

Field Events Concluded.

In the freshman competition all of the finals in the field events were concluded. The Harvard yearlings collected a total of 49½ points and it gave the Crimson cubs a 30-point lead over Tufts in second place with 19. Third went to M. I. T. with 14 and fourth was taken by Northeastern with 9. Boston College was fifth in the standing with 7 and Boston University last with 4½.

The Crimson cubs also led in qualifiers for the finals tomorrow. Harvard totaled eighteen men, while M. I. T. had thirteen, Boston College seven, Northeastern three and Boston University and Tufts two each.

Cobb Comes From Behind.

Dave Cobb, veteran Harvard middle distance runner, had a severe battle in winning the first semi-final heat of the half-mile run. It was the feature event of the afternoon and Cobb had to come from a poor second place in the final fifty yards to overhaul James McCrudden of Northeastern.

The Northeastern runner took the lead at the start with Captain John O'Brien of Boston College in second place and Cobb third. Cobb came up to second place with 200 yards to go and he fought his way past McCrudden in the last ten yards.

Women's Westchester and Fairfield Inter-Club Golf Series Led by Greenwich

GREENWICH WOMEN LEAD IN TEAM GOLF

Take 9 Out of 10 Points in Second of Westchester-Fairfield Series.

WESTCHESTER C. C. SECOND

By LINCOLN A. WERDEN.

Special to The New York Times.

GREENWICH, Conn., May 2.—By capturing nine out of a possible ten points the Greenwich Country Club team assumed the lead today in the second day's play in the interclub competition of the Women's Westchester and Fairfield County Golf Association.

The Greenwich team's aggregate now is 15½ points, leading the Westchester Country Club players by the slim margin of a point.

When the series is continued next week it will be held over the Sleepy Hollow links. Today, playing over its home club course, Greenwich compiled the best team score of any of the nine taking part in Class A as well as those participating in Class B.

Apawamis Forges Ahead.

The Apawamis Club forged ahead in Class B to tally seven credits for a grand total of 12, placing it ahead of Greenwich and the Westchester Country Club, each of whose teams has scored 10½ points to date.

Westchester started the day with the 8½-point total acquired last week, while Greenwich and Sleepy Hollow were tied for second place with 6½ each.

The Greenwich team, however, with Mrs. John D. Chapman, Mrs. Joseph Quirk, Miss Alice Warner and Miss Helen Silleck each contributing two points over their respective opponents on the Woodway and Fairview teams, and Mrs. Edgar Arnold adding a point, passed the Westchester players, who returned an aggregate of 6. The Sleepy Hollow players totaled seven, to gain third place with 13½.

Leewood, Sleepy Hollow Tied.

Westchester's team in Class B led in the day's play, winning 8 points, but started this afternoon with only a credit of 2½. Leewood, last week's leader, increased its 8-point total by only a single credit and now is deadlocked with Sleepy Hollow.

YALE WINS AT TENNIS FROM LEHIGH RIVALS

Triumphs by 7 to 2 at New Haven—Seligson Turns Back Luce in Straight Sets.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 2.—Yale defeated Lehigh at tennis by 7 to 2 today, taking five of the six singles and two of the three doubles.

The Julius Seligson-Frank Luce match evoked the most brilliant tennis of the day, and the Lehigh star conquered Luce, the Yale No. 1 player, in straight sets. Captain Wright and Holloway of Yale, however, defeated Seligson and Snitkin in the doubles.

THE SUMMARIES.

Singles—Seligson, Lehigh, defeated Luce, 6—2, 6—3; Wright, Yale, defeated Montenecourt, 10—8, 6—8, 6—4; Holloway, Yale, defeated Epstein, 6—2, 6—2; Pitman, Yale, defeated Spangler, 6—3, 7—5; Mears, Yale, defeated Snitkin, 6—1, 6—3; Holly, Yale, defeated Engelman, 6—3, 5—7, 6—4.

Doubles—Wright and Holloway, Yale, defeated Seligson and Snitkin, 6—2, 3—6, 6—2; Montenecourt and Epstein, Lehigh, defeated Mears and Melville, 2—6, 7—5, 9—7; Bascomb and Andrews, Yale, defeated Spangler and Engelman, 6—1, 7—5.

SEABACK INCREASES LEAD.

In Front in Cue Match With St. Jean, 1,251 to 1,077.

Charles Seaback increased his lead over Andrew St. Jean in their twelve-block, 1,500-point pocket billiard match, as a result of the ninth and tenth blocks played at the Fourteenth Street Billiard Academy yesterday. Seaback now is ahead, 1,251 to 1,077, in the match, which is being contested on the point basis.

Prior to the ninth block Seaback was leading and he gained 62 points more by turning back St. Jean, 112 to 50 in six innings, in the afternoon. Seaback's high run was 57 and St. Jean's 14. At night St. Jean regained some lost ground, outscoring Seaback, 179 to 125 in fourteen innings. St. Jean's best cluster was 54 and Seaback's 36.

RAIN HALTS TILDEN MATCH.

Leads Prenn, 4-0, When Contest in Italian Tourney Is Stopped.

MILAN, Italy, May 2 (AP).—Rain interrupted play for the tennis championship of Italy today and all matches were postponed until tomorrow. When the elements intervened William T. Tilden was leading Daniel Prenn, 4—0, in their first set, while Baron de Morpurgo and Jacques Brugnon were fighting out a furious match at 7—7.

Cochet Loses to Irish Player In Biarritz Tourney Upset

BIARRITZ, France, March 2 (AP).—Henri Cochet, France's No. 1 tennis player, was defeated today in a sensational upset by the Irish Davis Cup player, Lyttleton Rogers, in the final round of the Biarritz tournament, 6—1, 6—2, 0—6, 9—7.

Cochet's defeat, while not regarded as more than a temporary setback, nevertheless aroused some alarm in French tennis circles, following the withdrawal of René Lacoste from all international competition and the recent defeat of the bounding Basque, Jean Borotra.

Cochet afterward declared he felt the need of harder practice and might change his mind about withdrawing from the hand-court championships starting in Paris May 17.

BOURN GAINS FINAL IN ENGLISH GOLF

Puts Out Layton at 17th Hole in Native Amateur Championship at Burnham-on-Sea.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 2.—Bernard Darwin, writing in The London Times, says that as the result of the fourth day's play at Burnham-on-Sea, T. A. Bourn will meet C. E. Hardman in the final of the English native amateur golf championship.

"Hardman," writes Darwin, "is a Manchester golfer and is no relation to the better known R. H. Hardman. He is not an impressive player, but, subject to his limitations, he is a sound and steady one and has a nice touch on the greens.

"He has done wonderfully well in reaching the final, but that he can hold a golfer of Bourn's class over thirty-six holes is doubtful. Those two rounds make such a big difference.

"Hardman beat William Sutton, titleholder, 1 up, in the sixth round after a fierce struggle. Sutton does not carry quite enough guns in the long game to crush an enemy in the same way some people can do and Hardman proved himself fully his match on the greens.

"Sutton went down gallantly and has shown himself a most resolute fighter. Bourn beat E. Noel Layton in the semi-final at the seventeenth hole. His score was two over fours.

"A. D. Cave of the Royal and Ancient Club was generally expected to win the other semi-final against Hardman. However, when two up at the sixth, he began to falter and three putts played their share in the disaster and all the time Hardman pegged away steadily and accurately and snapped up the chances so generously offered him. He went right away to win at ease, 4—3."

MRS. JESSUP GAINS WOMEN'S NET FINAL

Beats Miss Page, 6-2, 6-1, While Miss Townsend Defeats Miss Andrus, 6-1, 5-7, 6-3.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, May 2.—Mrs. Marion Zinderstein Jessup of Wilmington, Del., former national indoor champion, and Miss Anne Townsend of Merion reached the final round of the women's Pennsylvania indoor tennis championship at the Arena today.

Mrs. Jessup disposed of Miss Anne Page of Merion in straight sets, 6—2, 6—1, while Miss Townsend played brilliant tennis to eliminate Miss Dorothy Andrus of Stamford, Conn., in a hard-fought three-set march, 6—1, 5—7, 6—3. The final round will be played tomorrow.

Herbert Bowman of the New York A. C. was extended but won from Harold MacGuffin of Cynwy, 7—5, 8—6, to reach the semi-final round of the men's singles.

THE SUMMARIES.

Special to The New York Times.

KUTZTOWN, Pa., May 2.—The Lafayette freshmen scored a 13 to 10 baseball victory over the Kutztown Teachers College this afternoon in a seven-inning tilt featured by Cirillo's triple in the second inning with the bases filled.

MRS. HODGES WINS IN ONE-DAY GOLF

MRS. DECKER 2D WITH 95

Victor and Runner-Up Also Capture First Two Net Prizes—Miss Dubey Third.

Special to The New York Times.

SUMMIT, N. J., May 2.—Fifty-two competitors started in the opening one-day tournament of the women's New Jersey Golf Association today, but so difficult was the south course of the Canoe Brook Country Club that only sixteen returned cards.

The outstanding performer was Mrs. Edward N. Hodges of Raritan Valley. Her 90 was low gross by a margin of five strokes and her net score of 87 led the field by four shots.

Mrs. Richard F. Decker of Baltusrol, who is champion of the W. N. J. G. A., was runner-up in both gross and net scoring with a return of 95—4—91. Third net prize went to Miss Gertrude Dubey of Essex Fells on a score of 98—6—92.

Mrs. Courtland Smith of Glen Ridge, a scratch player and a former State champion, won the prize for the selected twelve-hole gross score.

Mrs. Smith's score was 66. Three were better, these being Miss Dubey, 55; Mrs. Hodges, 57, and Mrs. Decker, 65, but the rule prohibiting a player from taking more than one prize kept the net score winners from being eligible for the selected score award.

The south course, the newer of the two eighteen-hole layouts of the Canoe Brook Club, was stiffened considerably last year and is considered one of the hardest courses in the metropolitan district.

Mrs. Hodges played excellent golf on the first nine, scoring a 42, which included a 2 on the seventh hole. She started back with three 6s and totaled 48 for the incoming nine.

ALLISON AND VAN RYN WIN PRACTICE MATCH

Defeat Lott and Doeg, 6-3, 7-5, in Tuning Up for Davis Cup Contests.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, May 2.—The doubles team of Wilmer Allison and Johnny Van Ryn defeated George Lott and John Doeg, 6—3, 7—5, in a practice match at the Huntingdon Valley Country Club today.

The four players are tuning up for the Davis Cup zone matches with Canada at the Philadelphia Country Club, May 15, 16 and 17.

Although Allison and Van Ryn captured the two sets chiefly through their superior team work, the playing of Lott, the Chicago youth, stood out. Doeg's service was working well, but the Santa Monica (Cal.) player appeared to be slower in his movements around the court than usual. Doeg and Van Ryn played twenty-seven holes of golf in the forenoon.

64 PLAYERS TO OPEN TENNIS SEASON TODAY

Fourth Annual Greater New York Title Tourney Will Start at Staten Island Club.

From Staten Island to Forest Hills is but a short distance as the crow flies, but for the sixty-four players who assist in ushering in the local season this afternoon the start of the fourth annual Greater New York championship at the Staten Island Cricket and Tennis Club marks the beginning of a long and tortuous trail beckoning on to the Long Island Mecca of tennis.

There will be no "veteran internationalists" or Davis Cup hopefuls in the field that will assemble today on the grounds of one of the oldest tennis clubs in the country, but there is hardly a player among the sixty-four to whom the tournament does not mean the beginning of a bigger and more successful year, in which he may add the half 15 or 15 to his game that will make him a Doeg or a Lott and a figure to be reckoned with on the classic turf of the West Side Tennis Club.

So, for better or worse, Dr. Lawrence Kurzrok, the defending champion; Percy L. Kynaston, Kenneth B. Appel, Marold MacGuffin, Russell Phillips, Arthur S. Fowler, Richard Lewis and Edward W. Burns will launch a new season of endeavor this afternoon. These eight players constitute the seeded array in the draw for the tournament, as announced yesterday by Chairman D. P. Reid. Vying with them, among others, will be Thomas B. Donohue, Selden Noyes, Lincoln Helberstadt, E. Ralph Martin, Stephen V. Brubans, J. B. Greer and Martin Buxby.

Upper Half.

Percy L. Kynaston vs. James S. Free; George A. Parsells vs. David A. Jacobs; Dan Hoagland vs. W. D. Quail; Bill Reich vs. C. C. Packer; Russell Philips vs. Carl Jansen; Donald Hawley vs. Edward Richardson; Chester A. Muller vs. Rev. Benjamin M. Denniston; George Bijur vs. William M. Clines; Harold MacGuffin vs. R. Rose; Edward Grasing vs. Donald A. Allen; Donald MacLauchlan vs. F. K. McCune; H. M. Kritzik vs. William Bergida; Edward W. Burns vs. T. T. Mattmann; I. B. Cohen vs. MacJacobs; Frank Bert vs. Milton Lambert; Melville Hicks vs. Edward Reese.

Lower Half.

KRETSCHMAN BEST AT TRAVERS ISLAND

Canadian Wins Preliminary to Annual National Title Clay Target Event.

TRIUMPHS IN SHOOT-OFF

Outscores Payne and Williams to Break Triple Tie at New York A. C. Traps.

J. H. R. Kretschman, a Canadian gunner, was the winner of the preliminary handicap to the twenty-fifth annual amateur championship of America at clay targets that was decided over the Travers Island traps of the New York Athletic Club yesterday. In the original shoot Kretschman, G. Payne of Philadelphia and F. O. Williams of New Haven all finished with 195 out of a possible 200 targets. In the shoot-off the gunners took first, second and third prize in the order named.

The winner of the fourth cup was Fred Plum of Atlantic City. Then came B. M. Higginson of Newburgh, N. Y. These gunners finished with 193 targets each, as did also E. B. Springer, C. W. Phellis, S. B. Masten, J. H. Wantling, E. S. S. Carroll and W. G. Warren. In the shoot-off the cups went to Plum and Higginson.

In addition to the high-over-all cups, there were three trophies in each of the five regular classes. The winner in Class A was J. H. Wantling. Class B was taken by C. W. Phellis. In Class C the winner was S. B. Masten. J. H. Otis was the winner in Class D. In Class E the winner was A. F. Rice.

In the aggregate, 129 gunners took part in the shoot. It was the largest number that ever has taken part in a preliminary handicap.

Following the singles there was a shoot at 100 doubles targets. The shoot carried with it the title of amateur championship of America at doubles targets. The winner was J. F. Bonner, who finished with 186. Then came T. H. Lewis with 185. The third cup was won by W. G. Warren, who had 184. There were three gunners each with 181. After the shoot-off they finished with G. Payne winning fourth prize. Then came A. C. Schwarz, followed by Fred Cauchois.

In the doubles, the winner of the handicap cup was W. C. LaBonarde. Then came E. B. Horwath, L. F. Sanman, J. G. Cuccio, H. L. Ferguson, H. H. Sheldon, T. C. Stapleton, C. B. Thomas, D. L. Taylor, R. C. Edson, W. D. Monroe and F. O. Williams in that order.

AUSTRALIA TAKES LEAD IN DAVIS CUP PLAY

Japan and Yugoslavia Also Go Ahead—Even Breaks in 2 Other Matches.

ZURICH, Switzerland, May 2 (AP).—Australia's Davis Cup team got off to a flying start today by taking both opening singles contests from Switzerland in first round European zone competition. E. F. Moon defeated H. Chiesa, 4—6, 6—2, 6—1, 6—1, and Jack Crawford disposed of Charles F. Aeschliman, 6—0, 6—3, 6—1.

ANTWERP, May 2 (AP).—Spain took the first match today in its Davis Cup series with Belgium, E. Maier defeating André Lacroix, 3—6, 6—1, 3—6, 6—2, 6—3, but Belgium evened matters with A. Eubank's defeat of A. Juanico, 6—4, 7—5, 2—6, 2—6, 6—1.

WARSAW, Poland, May 2 (AP).—Rumania and Poland divided the opening Davis Cup matches today. N. Mishu of Rumania defeated Max Stolaroy, 6—3, 4—6, 6—4, 6—1, and Tloczyinski of Poland conquered Ponlieff, 6—3, 7—5, 6—4.

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, May 2 (AP).—Yugoslavia's Davis Cup team took the lead over Sweden. Only one of the two singles matches was completed, Friedrich of Yugoslavia defeating Hambert, 6—3, 1—6, 6—4, 5—7, 6—4. In the other match Soeffel of Yugoslavia was leading Cederstrom, 2 sets to 1, when play was suspended because of darkness. The scores were 4—6, 6—3, 6—1.

BUDAPEST, Hungary, May 2 (AP).—Japan took a 2—0 lead over Hungary in the first two singles matches of their Davis Cup tie today.

Ohta defeated Takacs, 6—1, 6—4, 6—4, and Takeichi Harada conquered the Hungarian ace, Baron von Kehrlin, 2—6, 6—3, 8—6, 6—2. Von Kehrling suffered an ankle injury in the first set and was handicapped in his attempts to cover court thereafter.

YALE BEATS BROWN IN GOLF MATCH, 8-1

Forrest Conquers Rival Captain to Lead Team to Intercollegiate League Victory.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 2.—The Yale golfers today defeated Brown, 8 to 1, in an Intercollegiate League match, taking five of the six singles and all three foursomes. The scores were close in the majority of the matches.

The contest between Captains Forrest of Yale and Bosquet of Brown provided some of the best shots of the day. George Appell defeated Bob Wilson, Yale football and hockey star, for Brown's only victory.

The summaries:

Singles—Marshall Forrest, Yale, defeated K. T. Bosquet, 3 and 2; W. Swoppe, Yale, defeated Robert M. Hutton, 4 and 2; George Appell, Brown, defeated Bob Wilson, 2 and 1; J. Reese, Yale, defeated W. CROWELL'S HORSE VICTOR IN NEWARK

Fourth Estate Takes the Jumping Stake, Feature Event of Third Session of Show.

FAIRFAX FINISHES SECOND

Shea Has Mount on First Two Prize Winners, Accounting for $450 in Awards.

By HENRY R. ILSLEY.

H. Hollon Crowell's chestnut gelding Fourth Estate, after a jump-off, carried off the highest award in the jumping stake, the feature event of the third session last night of the tenth annual Newark horse show under the auspices of Essex Troop in the 102d Cavalry Armory ring.

Many of the best jumpers of the East were in the competition, and Danny Shea not only put Mr. Crowell's gelding over to take the blue, but he jumped the chestnut gelding Fairfax to take second money. In all he accounted for $450 in prize money.

In the jumping sweepstakes, which carried the interest of a big gallery early in the evening, the Army horse show team took the honors, Major Chamberlin jumping the veteran bay gelding St. Paul to win first money. The red ribbon and second money went to Mr. Crowell's bay gelding Chantry, jumped by Dan Shea. Third was won by the Army team's Tan Bark and fourth by the Rice brothers' bay gelding Prince.

There was a large entry in the class for model saddle horses, which were shown in hand, not being required to move. Mr. Wilson selected the chestnut mare Gladys Glad, owned by the Boxwood Farm of Spring Lake, N. J., as the winner, the red ribbon being given to Mello Glo, the black gelding shown by G. Berry Beaumont by Bryn Mawr, Pa.

The Polka Dot Farm of Scarborough-on-Hudson carried off another blue ribbon when the chestnut gelding Whoopee was placed first in the class for saddle geldings over 14.2 hands, scoring over the Boxwood Farm's chestnut gelding Mountain Red Bud. Third ribbon went to Perry B. Strassburger's chestnut gelding Lucky Lindy.

Four showed in the class for five-gaited saddle horses, the blue going to the Boxwood Farm's bay mare Rhododendron, which scored over the chestnut horse Beau King, owned by G. Berry Beaumont.

In the saddle division for horses up to carrying 200 pounds there was a nice entry and it resulted in another victory for the chestnut gelding Whoopee of the Polka Dot Farm string, which was going at top form. Second money was won by Edmund C. Mayo's bay gelding Clearview Cavalier.

Six Favorites Beaten at Jamaica, Clearance, 7 to 1, Winning Feature

CLEARANCE SCORES OVER WU BY NECK

7-to-1 Shot Holds On After Flying Start to Win Boulevard Handicap at Jamaica.

ALL SIX FAVORITES BEATEN

Infinitus, 1-to-2 Choice, Runs 4th in Musketeer Purse as Mordine Triumphs at 7 to 1.

By BRYAN FIELD.

The balmy zephyrs which wafted across the Jamaica course yesterday became cyclonic in force when they hit the favorites with the result that the six public choices were knocked galley west.

The Boulevard Handicap, best offering of the day, found Clearance, absolute outsider in the field of five, the winner, and Flaming, the favorite, next to last. Clearance paid 7 to 1 and has his very bad temper to thank for the victory which was gained by a neck over Wu, the heavily played second choice. Sun Forward was third and Please brought up the rear back of Flaming.

Clearance has been notorious as a bad post actor for years and the poor starts usually resulting from his cutting up have generally ruined his chances in the races. But the kicking and wheeling that went on yesterday worked the opposite way for once. After a vicious fling of the head Clearance wheeled, and then swung back with his legs gathered under him and headed the right way. Just at that moment George Cassidy sprang the barrier. Clearance catapulted out his legs and the jump carried him clear of all the others, and around the clubhouse turn he was nicely in front of the field.

Wu and Flaming Trail.

Wu was away slowly and brought up the rear, swinging into the back stretch with Flaming just ahead of him. In the long straightaway Tommy Malley rated Clearance at an even pace and kept him at the head of the procession without using pressure.

Flaming and Wu used the long straightaway to close ground on the leader. They were within striking distance of the end, but here Flaming was folding up. Wu, however, carried on and raced to the saddle girth of Clearance. The latter now was running his level best and held on to win by a neck in 1:47 2-5. He carried 125 pounds as against 115 for Wu.

The worst blow to form players was the defeat of J. H. Louchheim's Infinitus, 1 to 2 favorite in the Musketeer Purse at six furlongs. When Ramoneur, which was counted on to give Infinitus his greatest competition, was scratched the race looked like a cakewalk for the son of Infinitude. But the walking was done by Frank E. Brown's Mordine, a 7 to 1 shot, which ran on top from start to finish to win by a head from Black Mammy. Keep On was third, while Infinitus was lucky to get fourth.

McKeechnie Scores Double.

Young Arthur McKeechnie scored a riding double, and the second one of his winners was his fifteenth since he has been riding, thus eliminating him from the "double bug" class, where he enjoyed a weight allowance.

McKeechnie won with the Dorwood Stable's Westerner in the curtain-raiser and the Eastland Farm's Mint Sauce in the third. By a coincidence McKeechnie won each race by eight lengths. But he took no chances and rode out each horse for all he was worth. Westerner was a 9 to 2 shot with his stable-mate Maximum. Fuss Budget, the favorite, was out of the money.

Mint Sauce ran out on McKeechnie and so he put the colt to a drive and kept him there, as he knew that Jack Biener, the 8 to 5 public choice, was right behind him. But Mint Sauce had speed enough to run all over the track and still beat Jack Biener eight lengths.

W. R. Coe's Maya, which always was running with the first flight juveniles last season without getting into the winning column, made his first start of the season in the Achievement Purse and won by four lengths from Dunellen, which got up to push Romany Baw, the favorite, into third position.

Broadcast on Kentucky Derby By Lord Derby to Reach Europe

Lord Derby will be honored by a Jockey Club dinner on May 8 at the home of William Woodward, and his broadcast May 17 on the Kentucky Derby will be international, Joseph E. Widener announced yesterday. Mr. Woodward is vice chairman of the Jockey Club, and guests at the dinner will include members of that organization. The radio broadcast will reach England, the Continent of Europe and Australia, according to Mr. Widener. Before the expansion only a national coast-to-coast hook-up had been provided. Lord Derby will return to England in time for the Epsom Derby, named after his family and first run in 1780.

HAPPY SCOT TAKES PIMLICO FEATURE

Ross Entry Shows Heels All the Way to Field, Finishing Four Lengths in Front.

BALTIMORE, Md., May 2 (AP).—The Pimlico Nursery, a test for juveniles of the best class, was the feature number for the fifth day of the present term of racing at the Maryland Jockey Club course today. Only eight were seen under silks for this particular number and it proved to be just a gallop for Happy Scot from the Samuel Ross Stable of Washington.

Happy Scot sprinted into a three-length lead shortly after the start, and for the remainder of the journey coasted along in advance of his nearest pursuer, Up, from the J. N. Crofton stable. He registered his triumph by four lengths and by so doing earned for his owner the amount of $5,920.

In earning second award Up, always in the first flight, was five lengths clear of Mrs. W. M. Jeffords's St. Agnes, while Gigantic led the remainder.

Form players supported H. P. Whitney's Equipoise into favoritism, but they had little to shout for when the Whitney youngster, after breaking fast, stumbled suddenly, tossing his rider, R. Workman, to the ground.

It was a big throng that turned out, and some of the best sport furnished at the Hilltop course was in store for those who braved the heat and thunder showers.

Sports of the Times

By JOHN KIERAN.

FOR followers of college rowing this is Derby Day. There will be a gathering of the clan along the banks of the Housatonic and in due time the varsity eights of Yale, Columbia and Penn will come sweeping down the river.

There are some who think they will finish in the order named, but the sentence was written without malice aforethought or advance information of any real value. One reason why some rowing followers think that Yale will lead is that Yale made something of a habit of beating Columbia on the Housatonic. It was in the nature of an old New England custom.

But habits can be broken and customs can be evaded. Columbia won last year and, by the later victory over the fleet at Poughkeepsie, closed out a great year on the water. Columbia has another good crew, perhaps not quite as good as the eight of last year, but a good crew nevertheless. Rich Glendon is still coaching the Blue and White, and that means something.

It also brings up another point mentioned by those who think that the nose of the Yale shell will be first over the line. Speaking of coaches, it is said by those who keep track of such things that no Leader-coached crew has been beaten two years in succession by the same opponent. That puts the discussion back where it started.

The Third Boat.

Listening to the arguments over Columbia and Yale, the average bystander would never guess that there was to be a third boat on the water and possibly in the race. Rusty Callow will have his Penn crew in the competition for the Blackwell Cup.

Just why rowing should have reached such an ebb at Penn is a mystery. All hands seem to agree that Rusty Callow is a great coach, and his record on the Coast bears out the general opinion. Penn turns out fine teams in practically every other intercollegiate sport. The athletic material is there but it no longer appears at the boathouse.

It seems to this observer that just one fine crew, gathered by accident or design, would revive a real interest in rowing at Pennsylvania. It has been thirty years since Penn won at Poughkeepsie. Taking the wash for that length of time is just a little bit discouraging.

There was the case of one of last year's regulars in the varsity boat. In the Fall he went out for the football team and toward the end of the season earned a varsity jo at tackle. Now he is all for football and didn't even report for rowing this Spring. He went out for Spring practice at football instead. The comparative prospects being what they are in the two sports at Penn, who could blame the lad who left the boat for the gridiron? After trailing Columbia on the water, it must be some satisfaction to run over the same opponent on terra firma.

Boats to Rent.

Rusty Callow could hang out a sign "Boats to Rent" at the Penn boathouse. There are shells on the racks and not half enough men to carry them out to the float and put them in the river.

It's true that the rowing squads at Columbia are not large, but Rich Glendon had nine crews, counting freshmen, on the water early in the Spring. At Columbia the rowing candidates have the great records of recent crews to fill them with ambition and enthusiasm. The effect is cumulative. As one good turn deserves another, one good crew is a help in producing more good crews.

Perhaps that's what Penn needs to turn the tide. One winning crew would revive enthusiasm for the old game. It happened at Columbia. It may happen at Penn. It may be in the process even now. A Penn crew finished third in the varsity race at Poughkeepsie last year. Under the horrible conditions, that was a fine performance. It is the hope of all those interested in rowing that Penn will have that winning crew this year or next year or any year not too far in the future.

Along the River.

This may cause old oarsmen to reach for thick cudgels, but the thought occurs that among big sports events boat races must be comparatively placid spectacles for many of the onlookers. There is no swift action and reaction such as a good football game provides. There is no sudden reversal of fortune on the river. There is no melodrama such as the world's series produced when the Athletics scored ten runs in one inning after being helpless before Charley Root. There is not the bitter prejudice and the strange enthusiasm that surround a battle for the heavyweight championship.

That's for the average spectator, of course. Real rowing enthusiasts see more in a boat race than two or more shells moving ahead through the water. A man who has been an oarsman himself finds far more than that in the contest. To him it may be a contest of strokes, of styles in rowing. It may be a matter of college loyalty or rowing tradition. He may know that one coach had labored under this or that handicap and another coach has had a streak of luck. He may watch the No. 6 in the leading boat, knowing that the boy built up his muscles through the Winter by pumping up auto tires with a hand pump. Blesse of the Columbia crew did that.

He may be watching the stroke who succeeded him in the varsity shell. He may have a brother in the jayvee crew. It may be an old oarsman watching his son pulling a sweep in the old college boat.

A Possible Explanation.

There are hundreds of ways in which a spectator may have a vital interest in the progress of a race, but there are thousands of spectators whose enthusiasm still remains something of a mystery. They can't all have sons, brothers or cousins in the boats. Comparatively few of them ever sat in a shell or pulled on an oar. They have only a casual knowledge of rowing tradition or the history of a crew or a race. What brings them out on their yachts, on observation trains, on the river banks or perched mile after mile on the hillsides overlooking the rowing course? They are there by the thousands.

For one thing, a boat race is a beautiful spectacle—in fine weather. But there are many beautiful spectacles that are left unregarded by millions. It must be more than that. The question was put to one former sweepswinger, grown perhaps a bit cynical, and his answer was: "You mean all those people who go to the regattas and never know anything about rowing? Why, some of them have yachts and all of them have new hats. That's why they go."

Scratched—Ramoneur.
Mordine handled his weight well, rushed into the lead, drew away around the turn, tired suddenly in the stretch, but held on gamely. Black Mammy got away slowly, worked her way up on the inside and, closing with a rush, was wearing the winner down. Keep On was well up from the start and ran a good race. Infinitus broke slowly, lacked speed and ran away below his best form. Quick Step showed a flash of speed. Sir Johren had no mishap.
Owners—1, F. E. Brown; 2, Ramapo Stable; 3, W. R. Coe; 4, J. H. Louchheim; 5, Newtondale Stable; 6, Catawba Stable; 7, Quincy Stable.

Clearance was mean at the barrier and finally wheeled and broke running. He rushed to the front, was nicely rated along, saved ground and held on gamely. Wu was pinched back just after the start was made, trailed the field to the far turn, moved up fast on the outside and closed gamely. Sun Forward was kept close to the pace, saved ground and had no mishap. Flaming was caught in a jam at the start and knocked back. He went up fast on the outside, but weakened badly at the end. Please was well up for six furlongs, then stopped.

PATRICIA ANN WINS LEXINGTON FEATURE

Carries Wallace Stable Colors Home in Front in Mundy's Landing Purse.

HONEY LOCUST IS SECOND

LEXINGTON, Ky., May 2 (AP).—the John S. Wallace Stable, accountfilly, by Whiskaway—Vision, from the John S. Wallace Stable accounted for the Mundy's Landing Purse, the feature attraction today. Honey Locust, from J. N. Camden's string, was second and Stop Gap, from O. W. Lehmann's string, was third.

It was an allowance affair for 3-year-olds and upward over the Futurity Course and drew a field of seven starters.

Honey Locust closed strongly to take the place by a head from Stop Gap. The race was worth $650 to the Wallace Stable, and Patricia Ann, the favorite, paid $5.24 for a $2 mutuel ticket.

Figures in Double for Mikel & Son Stable as Lucky Drift Also Shows the Way.

AURORA, Ill., May 2 (AP).—Mrs. J. W. Smith's 4-year-old Alto captured the featured number today. Bob Rogers, from J. Lee's stable, finished second and Tanish, from B. Creech's string, was third.

The race was a gallop of a mile and seventy yards for 3-year-olds and upward, and drew a field of six starters. Alto covered the distance in 1:46 2-5. Alto rewarded his backers at $10.72 for a $2 mutuel ticket.

The summaries:

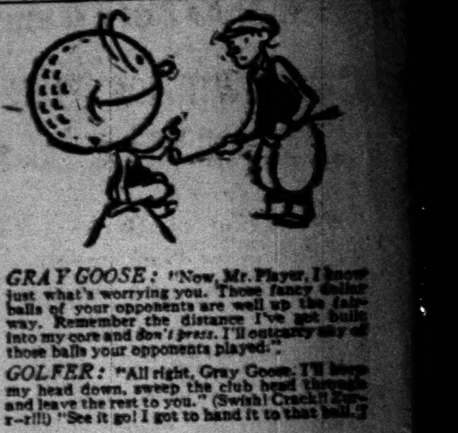
Officials to Discuss Lacrosse.

A lacrosse discussion by officials of the United States Intercollegiate Lacrosse Association, Crescent A. C. and New York University will constitute today's lecture in the P. S. A. L.'s Wingate Memorial Lecture series. The discussion will take place in Schermerhorn Hall, Columbia University, starting at 10 A. M.



GRAY GOOSE: "Now, Mr. Player, I know just what's worrying you. Those fancy dollar balls of your opponents are well up the fairway. Remember the distance I've got built into my core and don't press. I'll outcarry any of those balls your opponents played."

GOLFER: "All right, Gray Goose. I'll keep my head down, sweep the club head through and leave the rest to you." (Swish! Crack! Zur-r-rill) "See it go! I got to hand it to that ball."

TEE OFF with a Gray Goose. You won't have to press. The distance is in the ball. Learn this fact for yourself. Taking it easy will become a habit. Your shots will be cleaner, straighter and longer. What could be sweeter than that?

MR. HOOVER BIDS US HOPE.

President HOOVER's address before the United States Chamber of Commerce at Washington was plainly intended for a wider audience than his immediate one. This enabled him to ignore the sharp attack upon one of his own main policies, in the form of a resolution adopted by the Chamber in condemnation of the operations of the Farm Board. About this, Mr. HOOVER said nothing. He left it to the Secretary of Agriculture and to the Chairman of the Farm Board, Mr. LEGGE, to resent the action of the Chamber, and to accuse it of failure to cooperate with the Government. The President had a larger theme. It involved a survey of what happened in the financial and industrial world last year, and of the outlook for the future. He used plain language, frankly speaking of the "crash" which had inevitably followed the preceding and insensate "boom." Yet he properly found reason for congratulating the country that the effects were no worse. Acknowledging the fine cooperation which the Government received from leaders of finance and industry and transportation in its plan for limiting the crisis, and surmounting it as soon as possible, the President put a cheerful courage on, exhorting his fellow-countrymen to believe that the worst is now behind them, and that the great forces and resources in this country making for prosperity are certain to restore it soon in full measure.

It will be said that these are the words of a political leader, not of a disinterested economist. But it must not be forgotten that for years, especially while he was Secretary of Commerce, Mr. HOOVER has given keen attention to the whole movement of our industrial life. Years ago he started inquiries, and had researches conducted to discover ways of stabilizing production, manufacture and merchandising so as to prevent violent fluctuations. The favorite phrase was to "flatten the curve," whether of boom or depression. The devices recommended were not successful last year, perhaps because they were not intelligently applied, but no doubt was left that a great many things were sufficiently "flattened" in the stock market. To discover just what happened, and why, the President now proposes a new fact-finding commission to pursue exhaustive researches. To many victims of last year's collapse this will seem to carry many of the unpleasant connotations of a post mortem.

Some of the signs of improvement to which the President points are undeniable. He has gathered from official sources many facts going to show that the strain of unemployment is less, and that many lines of business are planning renewed activity. It is right for him to point out these encouragements. He does not do it to promote a foolish optimism but to stimulate confidence in the future and to strengthen the resolution to press forward hopefully.

Whether he is justified, or politically wise, in predicting an early end to the inevitable sequels of the financial crash may be doubted. If his prophecy is not fulfilled by the time the November elections roll around, it will be thrown in his face. And the question will occur to many whether a President who feels it his duty to cheer us up when bad times have come should not also have felt it his duty to warn us solemnly in advance when he saw the bad times coming and understood perfectly the causes which were bringing them on.

LADY BOUNTIFUL.

Mrs. MCCORMICK was the successful candidate in the Republican primary in Illinois. The largest vote ever mustered for a Republican candidate for office in that State was 1,769,141, and this was cast for HERBERT HOOVER. Therefore, defending her expenditure in a primary of $252,572 on the plea that she was addressing an electorate of 3,000,000, Mrs. MCCORMICK was premature. That is the vote of Illinois in a bumper Presidential year. She was really only addressing herself to a maximum of 1,769,141, and as a matter of fact approximately only 1,200,000 actually voted in the primary. If she felt obliged to spend so much in a primary contest, her expenditures by the time the Fall election is held may reach and even surpass FRANK L. SMITH'S record of $458,792.

The first woman ever to be nominated for Senator by a major political party in this country thus takes her place as a lavish spender in politics along with the best her own State and Pennsylvania can produce. In her behalf it is pointed out that, at any rate, the money used was all her own. So was TRUMAN H. NEWBERRY'S $190,000, spent in a much smaller State than Illinois, but the Senate rebuked him for that and eventually his prodigality forced him out of public life. He said in defense of himself that he believed the amount was necessary. The size of Mrs. MCCORMICK'S majority over Senator DENEEN would seem to indicate that the same was not true of the Illinois primary. Her lead was almost as much in votes over Mr. DENEEN as her expenditures over his were in dollars. The Chicago city organization was behind her candidacy; the State machine was unofficially friendly; and the two largest morning newspapers in the State were backing her because of her opposition to the World Court. Outsiders were led to believe that Mrs. MCCORMICK'S arguments against the perils of our adherence to that court had swept the prairies like a fire. Now it is to be noted that there was ample fuel.

In 1928 Illinois, in the election, was intensively canvassed by both national committees. They spent what was considered, even after FRANK L. SMITH, a great deal of money in behalf of SMITH and HOOVER. Yet the Republicans put only $220,509 into Illinois and the Democrats $257,789, covering an electorate of 3,082,958. In 1926, which was an exciting Senatorial year, only about as many voters came to the polls for all parties as voted for HOOVER two years afterward. Mrs. MCCORMICK might note this for the protection of her pocketbook; her opponent doubtless will when he comes to discuss that defense about the "3,000,000 voters" in the primary. But it grows increasingly obvious that, no matter what the standing and sex of the candidate, no matter how many are the Senate committees of inquiry, the plethoric use of money in campaigns in this country has neither been checked nor shamed.

CANADA ANSWERS CONGRESS.

It is hard not to sympathize with those Canadians who have proposed what is euphemistically termed a "countervailing tariff." They disclaim all thoughts of "reprisals" and deny any wish to start a tariff "war." In fact, no mention is made of the United States by name, nor of its efforts to exclude Canadian products. It simply lays down the principle that there shall be reciprocal duties when any other country imposes on Canadian products rates higher than those in the Canadian tariff.

That some such reply to America's recent tariff increases would be made in Canada was expected. It fixes attention on the shortsightedness of those members of Congress who have fought for such rates. Until the formal statement of the Canadian Minister of Finance, the net result of the tariff agitation in Congress was to heighten the resentment against the United States among Canadians. But the government's pronouncement hits both ways. Not only is it a threat of tariff reprisals but it provides for new concessions to Britain avowedly made so as to encourage trade with the empire at the expense of trade with the United States.

For years Canada and the United States have been more closely connected commercially than any other two nations. The United States has furnished more than two-thirds of Canada's imports and taken between a third and a half of her exports. Shipments to Canada have furnished a large share of America's total exports, and the imports from Canada have been greater than the proportion of the trade of any other nation with the United States. Moreover, Americans and Canadians hold each others' securities valued at billions of dollars.

That the United States will be seriously affected by Canadian tariff reprisals is unlikely. But, as the Canadian spokesmen before the meeting of the United States Chamber of Commerce pointed out, the commercial losses to either country are insignificant compared to a decline in good-will. A light disregard of the sensibilities of Canadians is as unpardonable as the failure to realize the tremendous importance of Canada in America's foreign relations. Not only as our nearest neighbor and best customer, but as the intermediary between ourselves and other portions of the British Empire, friendship with Canada, based on fair play and sympathetic understanding, is vital to all concerned. There is danger that Americans will assume toward their Canadian neighbors the attitude of complacent ignorance once shown by the English toward Americans. Friendship with Canada is as important to the United States in the coming decades as was friendship with the United States to Britain in the last half century. In the name of "protection" Congress is doing what it can to drive a wedge between the United States and Canada.

THE TELEPHONE CASE.

When the Federal Statutory Court handed down its decision in the telephone rate case last December, neither side could claim a decisive victory. The company had valued its property at $727,000,000. The special master held that it was worth only $518,109,584. The court cut the valuation down still further, to $397,207,295 as of July 1, 1926, and allowed a return of only 7 per cent instead of the 8 per cent which the company had asked. Nevertheless, it held the rates fixed by the Public Service Commission some years before to be confiscatory, and authorized the company, pending the promulgation of new commission rates, to increase its charges to insure the allowed return.

When the company announced its schedules, the ancient controversy entered a new phase, since the court had carried the valuation forward only to July 1, 1928. How should it be brought up to date? The company added $133,000,000 to the rate base for capital expenditures to July 1, 1930; the city protested. On Jan. 23 the public Service Commission announced that it would hold hearings of its own to determine "just, reasonable and lawful rates," and a few days later ordered a temporary reduction of 20 per cent in the increases proposed. At the subsequent hearings, concluded a fortnight ago, capital charges, depreciation reserves, operating costs and rates were all in dispute. The company made much of the business slump and demanded even higher rates than those originally proposed; the city asked for a reduction below those temporarily in force.

The outcome is again a compromise. On residence phones the commission fixes a rate half-way between the old rates and those proposed by the company last January: $4.25, for example, as compared with $4 and $4.50. On business telephones it accepts the company's rates. The net effect will be to reduce present revenues about $900,000. That is not a very large sum, and the city, having contended for huge reductions in the company's valuation of its property of $590,438,142, must make the best of a mere $35,185,658. Even that deduction may be challenged in the courts. For the company contends that the depreciation reserve in question is a legitimate part of the rate base. Nor is that its only grievance. It has maintained that even the present rates, now about to be still further reduced, will not come within $13,000,000 of yielding the minimum annual return decreed by the court. It contends that it should be allowed a return not merely non-confiscatory, but "just and reasonable," with due allowance for past losses.

The company announces that it will, under protest, give the rates a public test to prove by actual operation that they will fall short of yielding a fair return. If this eventually leads to a review of the case by the Supreme Court the future course of utility regulation may have a new chart provided.

A PORTRAIT.

Freed from official inhibitions, Mr. COOLIDGE'S excursions into literature have a mellower and richer quality. In the article on Mr. WILLIAM MORGAN BUTLER which The Boston Herald was thoughtful enough to solicit some months ago and fortunate enough to obtain the other day, he tries his hand at that old and, if skillfully done, marrowy genre, the "character," or portrait. Thirty-five years ago, interested by the characteristics of Mr. BUTLER, then President of the State Senate, he inquired into their origin. He has since had many opportunities to study the subject at first hand. The reflections of a philosophic observer and the reminiscences of long personal and political association are blended. The result is a firm and solid portrait, making allowance for the artist's tendency to idealization.

Our own first thought at seeing it was that Mr. COOLIDGE ought to make a gallery of such pictures, sure to give pleasure to the artist, the sitter and the public. Of Mr. BUTLER, as portrayed, one could only get the impression that, as CLARENDON said of JOHN SELDEN, he is a "Person whom no Character can flatter." Inevitably, there were references to past politics. Of contemporary politics there was not a word. It is depressing to the lover of pure literature to see a specimen of it degraded by a strange misunderstanding into an immediate political intention. From all parts of the country the echoes of this error come. Thus The Montgomery Advertiser believes that Mr. COOLIDGE has made "a personal appeal" in behalf of Mr. BUTLER as a candidate for the Republican nomination for Senator. The Manchester Union speaks of Mr. COOLIDGE'S "endorsement" of Mr. BUTLER'S candidacy.

Yet in the text not Mr. COOLIDGE but Mr. BUTLER appeals:

> There is something about him that is as appealing as the impression that is made by a strong and substantial edifice.

His massive moral strength is compared, in terms of architecture which every reader is competent to fill out, to that of a great office building, a cathedral, a town hall, a State house, a cotton mill. Mr. COOLIDGE is painting Mr. BUTLER as a moral entity, his enduring and essential substance, independent of accidents such as Senatorial campaigns. By a bold but happy swoop of the imagination he becomes a sort of quintessence, a delegate-at-large of the ideal virtues of his State:

> He represents the dignity, the candor, the character and the moral fiber of the Commonwealth.

Whereas a candidate for Senator must represent the preponderant opinions of his party. With proper discrimination The Boston Herald lauded Mr. COOLIDGE generously and justly, taking no more thought than he did of Mr. BUTLER'S political aspirations. The contrast between durable moral grandeur and a primary canvass is so monstrous that one finds it hard to forgive the common misinterpretation of Mr. COOLIDGE'S design, so admirably carried out.

THE CATHOLIC CHARITIES.

In the annual report of the Catholic Charities of the Archdiocese of New York full and instructive details are to be found of the work of this great charitable agency during 1929. Its scope and beneficence are well known. THE TIMES has special reason for interest in it, since it is one of the organizations sharing in the Neediest Cases Fund. The report itself acknowledges receipt of more than $39,000 on that score, and refers with commendation to the Fund, as also to the appeal of The New York Evening Post in behalf of aged couples. Emphasis is rightly laid on the "generosity" of the readers of THE TIMES in giving this money, which is spoken of as "one "of the most hopeful things in the "whole field of social work today."

Large sums, wisely expended, are yearly required for the work of the Catholic Charities. For a reason which everybody will understand, the demands for relief this year have been greater than ever, so that the need for larger gifts is also greater. Those who make contributions may rest assured that they are giving needed help in a great variety of ways to families and orphans and the destitute poor. Protective and preventive work, as well as remedial, is done. If for nothing else than health services and care for children, the agencies of the Catholic Charities would have made a great and useful place for themselves in this city of mingled races and many creeds.

TRENCHES AGAINST WAR.

At Geneva the League of Nations committee on arbitration and security is debating ways and means to strengthen the hands of the Council in preventing the outbreak of war. War in the future may come without breaking out. Quarrelsome nations with an eye to what the Covenant of the League and the Kellogg pacts have to say about aggressors will take care not to declare war and so avoid exposing themselves to the penalties against aggression. There will be warlike situations without war and hostile acts without hostilities. One of the delegates at Geneva foresaw a twilight zone between war and peace in which a State might invade a neighbor and otherwise act as a belligerent without formally proclaiming itself one. He might have cited out of the not very distant past of his own country an instance exceedingly pat.

No one will deny the importance of devising all possible safeguards against acts of war, whether officially proclaimed or not. There is a menace to peace in those border "instances" which have so often served to inflame national passions and fears. To that end Geneva is considering the proposal to establish neutral zones between the armed forces of two nations engaged in a dispute. M. MASSIGLI agrees in behalf of France to obey any Council order to keep its army or navy behind a certain line, and even to permit the presence of a Council representative on the military or naval front to see that its "recommendation" is being executed. It is a sacrifice of sovereignty to which the French delegate would have the nations consent in the interest of peace; this despite the pungent remarks dedicated by GEORGES CLEMENCEAU to the late Premier VIVIANI'S action in keeping the French Army ten kilometers back from the frontier in 1914.

There is a stronger safeguard against the outbreak of gun-play than by neutral zones or by ingenious anticipatory definitions of what constitutes war. It is by applying the test of "Cease firing." A government may manoeuvre to attack without seeming to be the aggressor, but its ingenuity will be of no avail if the principle is established that an aggressor is one who refuses to suspend hostilities and abide by arbitration. Better than a neutral zone between two armies is acceptance of the principle that an exchange of shots between patrol guards or some similar incident must not automatically mobilize national honor and prestige. In a sense, the discovery of a method to discourage the continuance of fighting is more important than a method to prevent the outbreak of fighting. Revision is needed of the old rule of "Too late." When mobilization is ordered it is too late to prevent a declaration of war. When war is declared, it is too late to stop until certain "objectives" have been attained. But if through the League of Nations, the Kellogg pacts, or any other agency, the definition is established that an aggressor is one who insists on fighting, declarations of war or no declarations will cease to matter. If another rule declares that when fighting has been suspended, there must be a return to the status quo, nations will be less tempted to get the jump in mobilizing.

UNIFORM TRAFFIC REGULATION

Uniformity and standardization of traffic laws and ordinances should interest everybody who uses an automobile. Congestion on streets and highways could be considerably diminished by uniform State and municipal "rules of the road." Never was the reform more urgent in the judgment of the National Conference on Street and Highway Safety. At a meeting in Washington of the Committee on Uniform Traffic Regulations not long ago, Colonel A. B. BARBER, director of the conference, said that the question of uniformity was "one of the most pressing in the field of traffic handling." Already the conference's motor vehicle code and model ordinance proposals have been adopted in part in many cities of the country. But the need is that the same control of traffic should prevail universally. Dr. H. C. DICKINSON of the Bureau of Standards said that no regulation works perfectly in congestion:

> The man at the wheel must look out for the other fellow. Common courtesy is the most necessary requisite in safe use of the highways. Safe and careful driving is not limited to a speed limit in miles, but to existing conditions of the road and of traffic at the time.

A discussion of the speed limit brought out the fact that in North Carolina and in a few other States, anybody "regardless of physical condition or ability" is allowed to drive an automobile. "I feel," said Captain C. D. FARMER of the State highway patrol "that "until a driver's license is required "in all States, the fixed maximum "speed limit should not be aban-"doned." Obviously, the States in which no such license exists are in greatest need of uniformity and standardization.

Employment of traffic lanes on country highways was urged, the lanes to be marked by continuous lines or by placing "mushroom" tacks at given intervals along the road. Thus the inclination of many drivers to gravitate toward the middle of the road would be held in check. It was the general opinion of members of the committee that lanes would serve to relieve traffic congestion "on many heavily traveled roads."

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Punishing a Radio Pest. The fifty-dollar fine imposed on the proprietor of a Bronx music store for operating a radio loud-speaker so as to give offense to his neighbors, is the first case in which the new city ordinance to regulate obnoxious noises has been applied to broadcasters.

It is encouraging for two reasons: it shows that the new law can be made effective, and it holds the hope that other offenders may be coerced into showing greater regard for the rights of the people next door. Fortunately, few turn on their loud-speakers with as much magnifying as did the music dealer in question—witnesses testified that even the rattle of the street cars was insignificant in comparison. But neighborhood pests may take warning.

How the law is going to be enforced against two other of the principal creators of din—the elevated railroad and motor trucks—is not yet known. The automobile horn is now being studied with a view to curtailing the use of those which are needlessly strident. At least, distinct efforts are being made to give life to the anti-noise campaign.

Humane Use of Leisure. American prosperity has produced, among other things, wives of busy men who look constantly about for something to do with their minds and hands. The babies are in the competent care of nurses and governesses; the housework is done by servants and labor-saving devices; bridge and teas pall. Some of these unemployed women dabble in the fine arts; many of them open shops.

The New York Chapter of the American Red Cross has made public a statement which proves, however, that there are more practical and useful things for leisured people to do, things which give direct aid and pleasure to society. During the first four months of this year fifty volunteer workers copied fourteen books for the blind.

When printed in braille from the plates made by the Red Cross workers, these books made seventy-one volumes. One assumes from the account that the volunteers were recruited from the normal population of the city, since only a brief training is required before the copying can be done. Of course, it is work, and there is no glamour in it. But also there is no shop "overhead" and no heartache following realization that amateur portraits and sculptures, toilsomely wrought, are of no artistic consequence. Beyond all that, there is the consciousness that time which has hung heavily on the hands has been magically transmuted into golden hours for the sightless.

Twilight of the Proverbs. Science and civilization are hard on old proverbs. Some of them cut a sorry figure in the modern world. It is a wonder that the cynics and realists have not noted their demise.

"Two's company, three's a crowd." There's a mid-Victorianism for you! We moderns recognize the triangle as part of the accepted order.

"Rain before seven, clear before eleven." A very loose and inaccurate statement. It all depends on whether you are talking of Standard Time or Daylight Saving.

"As honest as the day is long." But how honest is that if the earth slows up a little sometimes, as the astronomers maintain? Perhaps a man who stole only a few hundred dollars a year would qualify.

Even tempus fugit has fallen on evil days. Some of the experts say it just slips around the corner and comes back again.

If that is so, there is at least one proverb that should continue in good standing. Two-way time is certain to give new meaning and force to "All's well that ends well."

Peiping Is Now Peking. Peking is no longer Peiping, but Peking once again. At least, so say the war lords now in control of that city who hope to displace the Southern faction in Nanking. Doubtless if the old imperial city falls once more into the hands of the Nanking Nationalists, its name will again "suffer a sea change."

In this instance there would seem to be much in a name. Peking is the Europeanization of the Chinese characters for "Northern capital." Peiping means "Northern outpost." When the government was removed from Peking to Nanking it was partly pride and partly strategy that led the Nationalists to rechristen Peking.

If ever the real reason could be discovered it would probably show that the Nationalists changed the name of Peking in an effort to undermine the imperial city's glamour. For most Chinese, as for foreigners, Peking exercises a strange fascination. So long as the Forbidden City of the Manchus remains in Peking, there is always the danger that a "strong man" will dream of mounting the dragon throne and establishing a new imperial dynasty.

COLE SYSTEM HAS FAULTS

But Malingering by British Workers Is Held to Be Negligible.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

THE TIMES editorial on British unemployment insurance, which, as you say, is often inaccurately termed the "dole," ought to clarify the viewpoint of many Americans who are unacquainted with the fact that both employers and workers, as well as the government, contribute to the unemployment insurance fund. But when you say that "it is undeniable that in the case of thousands of individual English workers unemployment relief is exercising a demoralizing effect," there is room for difference of opinion.

Sample studies and investigations made by responsible bodies in Great Britain have disclosed a negligible amount of malingering in relation to unemployment insurance. As for demoralization, it would be more true to say that long-continued unemployment, and not unemployment insurance and relief, is causing demoralization. Workers who have suffered long periods of unemployment through no fault of their own cannot be allowed to starve, and the only alternative to unemployment insurance would be poor relief. This latter method of relieving destitution due to unemployment has been tried through the centuries, and found wanting.

There has been no unsatisfied demand for labor in Great Britain since the war, and the British colonies and dominions do not welcome industrial workers from Great Britain to add to their own unemployment problems. These two facts and many others which are disclosed by a thorough study of the British situation may dispel the criticism of those who think the British worker is inclined to lack initiative in pushing into new fields.

Model Assembly League's Vote.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The report in THE NEW YORK TIMES on Sunday of the Model Assembly League of Nations held at Lafayette College last week stated that the Model Assembly adopted a resolution "expressing its deep satisfaction with the action already taken by the United States with a view toward accession to the World Court." Although this resolution was passed by the committee which dealt with constitutional and legal questions, it failed to gather enough support to be adopted by the last final plenary session.

Hell might have for grating.
Israfel for harp strings
Winds such corded heat.
Pobby-tangled dreamers
Dangle from such streamers. . . .
Overhead the tubes proclaim:

CENSUS TROUBLES.

One Ignored Seeks to Be Included Among the Enumerated.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

One hears a good deal these days about the census dodger and the iniquitous attitude of the great uncounted. All of the reports printed seem to emanate from census headquarters, and the jokes are always at the expense of those they would count.

Now that the campaign is about to end, perhaps it may be interesting to look on the other side of the page.

I happen to be one of the numerous tribe who has not been enumerated. Not because I have not been willing, even anxious to assist in the matter, but because no enumerator, so far as I am able to ascertain, has made an attempt to see me nor any of the fifty household heads in the apartment in which I live. I do not know the name of the district supervisor or the address of his office—if any. And none of the facetious reports I have read in the papers mentions the location of the office of the chief enumerator for New York. I have enough general intelligence to know that if I sent to the Federal office in Washington I might obtain a blank, but I have assumed that it was the duty of the enumerators to seek out the citizen, put the questions to him and make his own report on the forms provided.

After waiting for three weeks for some one to come to our apartment, I finally made inquiry of the superintendent. He told me that blanks for census information had been dumped down in a dark corner of our front hall, where, with advertising matter thrown out from individual mail boxes, it had lain for two weeks, after which, presumably, the unlettered and unsuspecting cleaning woman had swept them out as rubbish—all except a few that had been discovered by eagle-eyed residents searching for mail. Some of these had filled out the blanks and asked the superintendent what should be done with them. He advised their being mailed, even though it was expressly printed on the face of them that this was not to be done—that they would be collected by the official enumerator. This same kind of distribution was made in a large apartment house in a different section of the city. I have no means of knowing how general it was.

It looks as though the blame for incomplete census, should, in all fairness not be laid upon the citizenry. It has even been suggested that it was regarded as a good "racket."

As for the superior intelligence of the enumerator, in contrast to the congenital dumbness of the object of his search, here are two examples—experiences of friends of mine: One young woman, approached by a pair of lusty female enumerators carrying huge books, was asked but six of the thirty questions. To one of these: "Where were you born?" she replied, "St. John, New Brunswick." Whereupon the government's representatives inquired: "What State is that in?" Another friend was asked: "What are your martial relations?" With visions of the god of war in hot pursuit, she said she inquired, "My what?" "Oh, that means 'Are you married?'" was the satisfying reply.

After which long preamble I write to inquire: How does one go about being transferred from the uncounted to the counter column?—my radio is protesting against being thus ignored.

ONE OF THE UNCOUNTED.

Dilatory Census Takers.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Much has appeared about the negligent, recalcitrant, even criminally liable persons who evade the obligations of the census. But what of dilatory, delinquent census-taking folk?

For five weeks on my desk has reposed an envelope for use in case the census man might appear in my absence—in which envelope are meticulously set forth all the "true facts." Each day I ask hopefully, "Has he been here?" But he comes not.

Is the block on 116th Street from Morningside Drive to Amsterdam not part of these United States? Whom should I sue to recover my rights, as native child of Columbia, to be entered in the eleventh census? Is there no redress for one thus deprived of constitutional right to "count for something"?

WOULD-BE CENSUSEE.

Stabilizing Industry.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

May I be counted among the many employers who, I feel sure, will applaud the notable address of President Hoover before the Chamber of Commerce last night, and particularly his remarks relating to the stabilization of industry? So far as I know, this is the first time in the history of the United States that a President has had the courage to admit that booms and depressions are not blind acts of Providence, but are problems to be met and solved like many other solvable problems that confront industry today. This point of view is especially heartening because, now that we have admitted that unemployment is a disease, we can go about curing it and preventing in part its repeated recurrence.

Curiously enough, it is interesting to note that such an attitude has evidently been in the mind of Governor Roosevelt for some time, and bore fruition several months ago when he appointed a Committee on the Stabilization of Industry for the Prevention of Unemployment. The appointment of this committee, plus the effective work of the Industrial Commissioner of New York State, Miss Frances Perkins, is evidence that the State of New York is in the vanguard in attacking the problem of unemployment. Let us hope that other States in the Union will be equally farsighted.

ARE HIGH SCHOOLS FAILING?

Father Finds Decided Let-Down in Son's Work and Wonders Why.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have a boy 15 years old, now closing his second year of high school. As far as I can ascertain, not only has he not acquired anything of practical value, but he has actually retrogressed during the high school period.

As a grammar school student he was, if not brilliant, at any rate able to maintain an average around 95 per cent and to pass two grades in one year. As a high school student he is apparently a total loss, with an average down in the low 80s and in some subjects even lower. Naturally I am worried, particularly as I find my experience is by no means unique among parents of high school pupils.

Careful analysis reveals the following among other possible reasons for this vital change in his personality and lack of interest in his work:

1. A poor selection of subjects, taught in so uninteresting a manner as to totally lack all merit in the eyes of the pupils.
2. A poor grade of instructor, temperamentally unable to command the respect, and mentally only a small degree above the pupil.
3. Lax discipline and total absence of all practical methods of disciplinary enforcement suitable for adolescents.
4. "Mushy" co-edism, due to close association of boys and girls at the most susceptible age.
5. Absence of male leadership suitable for older boys.
6. Neglect of manual or vocational training.
7. Lack of athletic training except in the case of a favored "team," to the training of whom all the energies of the athletic instructor are devoted, while other students are totally neglected.
8. A "compartment" system of subjects whereby certain courses are restricted to certain "years" without recapitulation.

In his two years my boy has acquired a small smattering of Latin, a worse hodge-podge of French, some "civics," history and what have you. His writing is illegible and his spelling has gone back to about fourth grade. He has practically forgotten much of his grade teaching, simply because he gets no "credits" for it in high school. In other words, his sole object is to scrape through by doing as little as may be of the unpalatable but compulsory subjects. He has no pride in his work and no anticipation of his future. He has two more years of this to go through before he "graduates"—when he will have to begin his education in real earnest.

Pedagogues will probably blame the parent. I would willingly shoulder the responsibility but for the fact that with the decline of scholastic authority comes a corresponding resentment of parental authority—what "we moderns" would probably call the "growth of independence." I have tried my uttermost to penetrate this jungle of educational undergrowth, but the most satisfactory reply I can get is that "the Board of Regents" sets up the regulations and the faculty has nothing to do but enforce them. If this is the real reason, isn't it time we overhauled this sacred board and put a few business men into it?

A MERE PARENT.

Cost of the Barge Canal.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

May I have the privilege of commenting upon your editorial "Spring on the Waterways"?

The Erie Barge Canal, twelve feet deep, has never competed with either the railroads or the St. Lawrence ship canal, and deepening it to thirteen feet will not make the slightest difference. It's built to carry 30,000,000 tons of freight and it has never carried over 2,500,000 tons.

When the Welland (Canadian) Ship Canal, thirty feet deep, is opened this season it is questionable if the Erie Canal will carry 1,000,000 tons, as Lake Erie freight for New York City will go through the Welland Canal to Oswego on Lake Ontario and by the Oswego Canal to New York City. The Oswego Canal carried only 90,000 tons of freight in 1929. The Erie Barge Canal's days are finished and so is the Oswego Canal, unless the Welland Canal freight for New York City comes through the Oswego Canal.

New York State can't deliver the Erie Barge Canal to the Federal Government until 1931, and the Federal Government won't take it over unless it is delivered free and clear of all indebtedness, which can't be done. The Erie Barge Canal is costing the taxpayers of New York State $11,000,000 a year, and the thing to do is to abandon it. As a transportation system it is a huge joke.

Newark Museum's American Art.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In a letter to THE TIMES dated April 18, Miss Anna Wetherill Olmsted says that the Newark Museum was opened in 1926. This is an error, as the Newark Museum was founded by Mr. Dana in 1909; 1926 was the date of the opening of the new building. Mr. Dana began in a small way to collect American art almost from the time the museum was founded. As early as 1913 he showed the work of American artists who were then creating a great deal of controversy, but who have since been accepted by the authorities. Miss Olmsted's list includes none of the American painters about whom there has been controversy. The collection made by Mr. Dana for the Newark Museum and the Public Library includes 150 American artists of all schools, from the most conservative to the most modern; his collecting of American art was always characterized by courage and far-sightedness. He was not afraid to acquire works by men who were condemned in 1913 and who today are among the leaders of American art.

NEW ZONING UPHELD IN MORGAN BLOCK

APPEAL OF RULING LIKELY

Highest State Court Expected to Pass on Board of Estimate Action Involving Millions.

The Appellate Division upheld yesterday the validity of the retail district zoning resolution adopted by the Board of Estimate in April, 1929, in adding to a new midtown retail zone part of the Murray Hill restricted district, including the west side of the Madison Avenue block between Thirty-sixth and Thirty-seventh Streets, opposite the J. P. Morgan property.

The decision affirmed without an opinion the judgment by Supreme Court Justice Sherman, now a member of that court, dismissing a suit by the Morrell Realty Corporation against the Rayon Holding Company to invalidate the purchase by the plaintiff of the block front in question, and for the return of a payment of $50,000, on the ground that the property to be purchased could not be used for business purposes as the defendant-seller represented.

The Morrell company was supported in its contention by the Murray Hill Association, representing Mr. Morgan and other residents of the section, which filed a brief to prove its allegations that the west side of the Madison Avenue block was not only protected from business by restrictions, but that the new retail district zoning law was void because it was not passed by a unanimous vote of the Board of Estimate.

House, Grossman & Vorhaus, representing the rayon company; Corporation Counsel Hilly for the city and attorneys for other realty owners interested in upholding the validity of the new retail district asserted that the property was not restricted and that by the nature of the new zoning law one opposing property owner could not defeat it by insisting that the law be passed unanimously.

Justice Sherman's opinion, which the Appellate Division accepted as the law in its affirmance, said that the plea of a required unanimous vote might have force if the property had been transferred from one district to another, which was not the case here.

"The Board of Estimate for upward of five years has been concerned with the creation of an entirely new district, in order adequately to meet changing conditions in the midtown section of Manhattan," said Justice Sherman. "During all that time the board was not heeding the individual preferences of a particular block owner, but rather the wider purpose of devising and erecting for the general good a new district which as an entirety would answer the need in the midtown section of Manhattan."

It is expected that the case will go to the Court of Appeals for a ruling because of the need for a final ruling on the validity of the law before an investment of millions of dollars in the new retail district zone can be planned with safety.

PLANS BANANA LAW CHANGE.

Costa Rican Congress Elects Its Chief Executives.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SAN JOSE, May 2.—Congress opened its regular session here yesterday and began organization with the election of Oscar Rohrmoser as President and Dr. Calderon Muñoz as Vice President.

The government has a comfortable majority, and it is reported that among the first legislation will be reformation of the banana law passed by the last Congress which resulted in near-paralysis of banana planting.

It is understood that the law will be amended in a manner acceptable to both the government and the planters, which should go far toward restoring public confidence and easing the present business depression and unemployment.

JUSTICE CROWNHART OF WISCONSIN DIES

Member of State Supreme Court, 67, Had Practiced Law for More Than Forty Years.

Special to The New York Times.

MADISON, Wis., May 2.—Justice Charles H. Crownhart, 67 years old, a member of the Wisconsin Supreme Court since 1922, died in the Wisconsin General Hospital today after an illness of several days.

Justice Crownhart was appointed in 1922 by Governor John J. Blaine and the next year was elected to a ten-year term without opposition.

Justice Crownhart had been a member of the bar for more than forty years and had practiced in Wisconsin until his appointment to the Supreme Court bench eight years ago. He was born in Fond du Lac, Wis., on April 16, 1863, the son of Napoleon and Mehitable Burgess Crownhart. After studying at the River Falls Normal School he decided to become a lawyer and entered the University of Wisconsin law school, from which he was graduated in 1889.

That year he began practice at Ellsworth, Wis., moving two years later to Superior. He remained there for twenty years, until he established his home in Madison in 1911.

In the first four years after his removal to the State Capital Justice Crownhart was chairman of the Wisconsin Industrial Commission. In 1921 and 1922 he revised the statutes of the State.

Earlier in his career, in 1901-05, Justice Crownhart had served as District Attorney of Douglas County. He was a member of the Board of Normal School Regents from 1905 to 1912.

In 1895 he married Miss Jessie E. Evans of Superior. They had a son and a daughter.

EX-JUDGE S. W. SMITH JR.

Cincinnati Jurist Dies at 70—Friend of Hughes.

Special to The New York Times.

CINCINNATI, May 2.—Samuel W. Smith Jr., former Common Pleas and Circuit Court judge and father-in-law of Mayor Russell Wilson, died at his home here today. He was 70 years old. His son, Watson Smith, is at sea on his way back from Athens, Greece, where he was about to begin archaeological explorations when called home by cable.

Judge Smith was born here on Aug. 24, 1859. He was graduated from Brown University in 1880 and Cincinnati Law School in 1882. While at Brown he was a classmate of W. H. P. Faunce, later president of that university, and was in the class ahead of Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes, who was a close friend of the Cincinnati jurist.

After being admitted to the bar, Mr. Smith joined the firm of Stephens, Lincoln & Smith. He soon won his political spurs in the then rising Republican organization. He was a member of the Cincinnati board of legislation from 1891 to 1892. He was elected judge of Common Pleas Court in 1896 and served until 1902. He was elected judge of the Circuit Court, now the Court of Appeals of the First Ohio District, in 1906 and served from 1907 to 1913, when he retired.

LOUIS BROWN DIES AT 68.

PITTSBURGH, May 2 (AP).—Louis Brown, former head of the Oil Well Supply Company, died here today. He was 68 years old. Mr. Brown served as president of the company for seventeen years and retired as chairman of the board on Jan. 1, 1929.

Louis Brown was born in New York City and educated in the public schools of Oswego, N. Y. His early business experience was obtained with the John E. White iron firm and H. F. Taintor & Co. of this city and the National Tube Works Company. He joined the Oil Well Supply Company in 1891 as assistant treasurer, having married Lulu Eaton, daughter of John Eaton, his predecessor as president of the company.

ERASMUS BOY WINS ORATORICAL ROUND

Max Rapaport Is Second to Enter Semi-Final Event in Regional Championship.

GIRL TAKES SECOND HONORS

Adelaide Whitford of Curtis Discussed Same Subject—Six Speakers in Contest.

The second high school orator to qualify for the Town Hall regional championship of the National Oratorical Contest on the Constitution, conducted locally by THE NEW YORK TIMES, was selected last night. He was Max Rapaport of Erasmus Hall Evening High School, who won the regional semi-finals held at Jamaica High School for the public high schools of Queens, Richmond and part of Brooklyn.

Second place went to Adelaide Whitford of Curtis High School, Richmond.

Charles H. Vosburgh, principal of Jamaica High School, was chairman. The judges were Robert W. Higbie of the State Board of Regents, Mary K. Smith of the Jamaica Training School, William M. Halloran, principal of Port Richmond High School; William F. Hofman, publisher of The Long Island Daily Press, and William E. Kennedy, former city magistrate.

The contestants and the topics of their prepared orations were as follows:

HENRY JACOBSSON, Newtown High School, Queens, "Daniel Webster and the Indestructibility of the Union."
WILSON LEHR, Jamaica High School, Queens, "John Marshall and Federal Supremacy."
BABETTE LIEB, Far Rockaway High School, Queens, "Shall We Scrap Our Constitution?"
MAX RAPAPORT, Erasmus Hall Evening High School, Brooklyn, "John Marshall and Federal Supremacy."
ROBERT TILOVE, Boys' High School, Brooklyn, "The Constitution and the Individual."
ADELAIDE WHITFORD, Curtis High School, Richmond, "John Marshall and Federal Supremacy."

The feature of extemporaneous talks at the conclusion of the prepared orations, which has been made compulsory this year in the regional semi-final and final contests, was carried out successfully at last night's competition. The committee, delegated by Harold G. Campbell, associate superintendent in charge of New York City public high schools, which assigned the extemporaneous topics at last night's meeting, included M. M. Dodge of Curtis High School, Staten Island, chairman; Mrs. Vivian Kennedy of Richmond Hill High School, Queens, and Dr. George Leutscher of Jamaica High School.

The extemporaneous talks of the six contestants were on the following subjects: Babette Lieb, "Recent Laws of Congress Showing the Flexibility of the Constitution;" Adelaide Whitford, "In What Ways John Marshall's Decisions Were a Nationalizing Influence"; Robert Tilove, "The Manner in Which an Individual May Return in His Daily Life for that Which He Receives Under the Constitution"; Max Rapaport, "Is the Supreme Court an Indispensable Institution in Maintaining Our Union or Federal Supremacy?" Henry Jacobsson, "What Proof Could Webster Offer to Calhoun to Contradict the Latter's Idea that the Nation is a Compact of States?" Wilson Lehr, "How Marshall's Principle that the Needs of the Time Should Affect the Interpretation of the Constitution Has Been Followed in Our Later Judicial Decisions."

Music was furnished by the Jamaica High School orchestra, under the direction of Seth Vanderverg.

HUGH A. DINSMORE.

Former Arkansas Representative and Diplomat Dies.

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., May 2 (AP).—Hugh. A. Dinsmore, former Representative in Congress and for three years, 1887-90, United States Minister to Korea, died today in a hospital at St. Louis, Mo., according to messages received here. The body will be brought to Bentonville, Ark., for burial. His widow survives. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Dinsmore, were pioneer Arkansas residents.

Mr. Dinsmore was born in Benton County, Ark., on Dec. 24, 1850. He practiced law in Fayetteville, and from 1878-84 was Prosecuting Attorney of the Fourth Judicial District. He was regent of the Smithsonian Institution from 1899 to 1903 and a member of the House of Representatives from 1893 to 1905. His home was in Fayetteville.

DR. E. L. PARTRIDGE DIES AT 77 YEARS

Prominent Physician and Teacher of Medicine Was Stricken at Dinner to Dr. D. Bryson Delavan.

Dr. Edward L. Partridge of 19 West Fifty-fourth Street, well-known New York physician and teacher of medicine for half a century, died at 7 o'clock last night in the Fifth Avenue Hospital. He was removed to the hospital Thursday night after he became seriously ill at a dinner in honor of Dr. D. Bryson Delavan at the New York Academy of Medicine. He was suffering from a blood clot over the heart. He was 77 years old.

Dr. Partridge was born in Auburndale (Newton), Mass., in 1853. He was graduated from College of Physicians and Surgeons, Columbia University, in 1875. He received an honorary degree at Williams College in 1880. Four years later he married Gertrude Edwards Dwight. He was a member of the New York Academy of Medicine and of the alumni societies of several New York hospitals.

Dr. Partridge took an active interest in civic development of New York and was a pioneer in the creation of the Interstate Park, the Storm King Highway and other Hudson highland developments. He wrote several manuals of obstetrics for students and instructors.

In his lifetime he had been president of the Washington Square Home for Friendless Girls, commissioner of Palisades Interstate Park, honorary president of the New York Nursery and Childs Hospital, trustee of the American Scenic and Historic Preservation Society and the Grant Monument Association, president of the New England Society of New York, president of the Society of Colonial Wars, president of the Huguenot Society of America, vice president of the New York Tree Planting Association, president of the Knox Headquarters Association, the Martlaers Rock Association and the Washington Square Association. He was also a member of the Century Club and the University Club.

DR. FLAVIUS PACKER, PSYCHIATRIST, DIES

FOUNDED TWO SANATORIA

Sold Riverdale Institution in 1926, Then Started Second One—Close Friend of Dr. Gregory.

Dr. Flavius Packer, a noted psychiatrist, died yesterday morning at Doctors' Hospital, Eighty-seventh Street and East End Avenue, where he had been a patient for ten days suffering from a heart ailment and complications. He was 63 years old and was Mayor of Pawling, N. Y.

At Dr. Packer's bedside were his wife, Mrs. Maude Packer; a sister, Mrs. W. A. Thomas of Pawling, and a brother, Jesse H. Packer of Albany. Funeral services will be held in Pawling at 2 P. M. tomorrow. Interment at the Baptist Central Church will be private.

Born in Mexico, N. Y., Dr. Packer was graduated from Albany Medical College in 1893. Soon afterward he became assistant superintendent of Kings Park State Hospital. Later he became assistant superintendent of the State Hospital for the Criminal Insane at Matteawan, N. Y.

In 1902 he went to Bellevue Hospital to head the psychopathic division, remaining for two years. His assistant and later his successor there was Dr. Menas A. Gregory. Their friendship continued from that time on. In 1904 Dr. Packer founded the Riverdale Sanatorium, which he sold in 1926, and several years later he founded his sanatorium in Pawling, which he maintained until his death. He had been a resident of Pawling for twenty years. He also had a residence at 120 East Thirty-ninth Street, Manhattan.

Dr. Packer was a member of the American Psychiatric Society and the Bellevue Hospital Alumni Society and a fellow of the Academy of Medicine. He was elected Mayor of Pawling last Fall. His election was unusual, as it marked the first time in years that a Democrat had been elected to that office.

GEORGE DEEKS DIES; RAILROAD BUILDER

Canadian Laid Many Important Lines in Dominion and the United States.

TORONTO, May 2 (AP).—George Deeks, railroad builder in the United States and Canada, died yesterday at the age of 72, his relatives announced today.

He laid the rails for the Michigan Central from New York to Chicago and the Illinois Central from Chicago to New Orleans. He had just finished for the Canadian Government the laying of track giving Canada a rail outlet to the Hudson Bay in Northern Manitoba.

A letter which he left stipulated that no public announcement of his death should be made and no obituaries published, but the silence of kinsfolk was broken in deference to his achievements as a rail builder.

He was a native of Canada and president of the Dominion Construction Company.

WANAMAKER WEEK OF SALES

QUALITY FASHION LOW PRICES SERVICE SATISFACTION

FROM THE FOUNDER'S WRITINGS

In the Choir of the Morning or the Evening Concert

whoever singeth, must sing his part well, be he rich or poor, high up or low down, eminent or obscure in the musical ranks. Whether he singeth bass, tenor or treble, it is nothing if he doth not do it well. It is not the loftiness of the place nor the thousands in the audience that make the occasion great, nor is it the beauty or wealth, poverty or reputation of the singer, that saves the day. Each of the singers favored by the opportunity must rise on time to fulfill the exact score of the great Master's writing, of the splendid pieces he or she has undertaken to render. So it is for us all to be true and do our part right in the score of duty, rather than merely sit by favor in the seats of the mighty.

AIR PARADE TODAY OPENS SHOW HERE

Emergency Fleet of 85 Planes Gathered on Short Notice When Federal Plans Fail.

BROADCAST FROM CLOUDS

Rickenbacker, as Pilot, to Tell of Flight Over City—Exhibits Fill Garden Arena.

STRESS AVIATION ADVANCE

Government, State and City Show Progress in Displays—Battle Fleet to Fly Wednesday.

Ushered in by a parade of eighty-five planes the New York Airshow for 1930 will open its doors tonight at 6 o'clock at the Madison Square Garden. The eight-day exposition brings together the six largest air transport manufacturers in the United States and the products of 130 other manufacturers in the aircraft field.

The air parade is to be put on by a single organization, the Curtiss Wright Corporation. Plans had been made to send up a fleet of forty army fighters over the city in the early afternoon, but, too late to recall the announcement, the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce which is sponsoring the show, received word from Washington that the planes would not be available for the display on time owing to the manoeuvres in California last week. C. S. (Casey) Jones, president of the Curtiss Wright Flying Service, offered the facilities of his company and the aerial armada was gathered on 24-hours' notice.

To Demonstrate Quick Action.

"The feature of the display tomorrow," Mr. Jones said last night, "is, I think, the fact that a fleet this size of commercial aircraft can be gathered on such short notice. It will be a demonstration of what the commercial industry of the country could do in a national emergency."

Today's display will take place between noon and 1 o'clock. The manoeuvres will be broadcast from the air in the flying laboratory of the Western Electric Company by Captain Eddie Rickenbacker, vice president of the Fokker Aircraft Corporation. He will be connected by a two-way telephone with Casey Jones and Captain Frank Hawks at the Madison Square Garden. The public will be enabled to listen in through a combined chain of the Columbia and National Broadcasting systems.

If the weather today should interfere, the Curtiss-Wright fleet will be held at the Valley Stream airport for another demonstration tomorrow.

The show itself emphasizes commercial air transport. The central exhibit consists of six of the largest transports built in the United States. This great fleet fills the floor of the Garden arena. Forty other planes of various types are distributed about the building, a number slung from steel cables, high above the planes on the ground level.

Wide Scope of Exhibits.

In the exhibitions the United States, New York State and city governments have occupied space. New York will show a large scale model of Floyd Bennett Field, the new municipal landing field and airport at Barren Island. This airport model was constructed by the pupils of the Brooklyn Technical High School. The State exhibit includes a large scale lighted map showing every airport in the State, prepared under the direction of the State Aviation Commission.

Representing the Federal Government are exhibits sponsored by the Postoffice, Commerce, Army and Navy Departments, including planes, models of airways, an air-mail postoffice and other features illustrating the government's active interest in aviation.

The show will be open tomorrow as an educational exhibit and speeches will be made in the afternoon at the Garden by Professor Roland Spaulding of New York University, Lieut. Commander John Iseman, U. S. N. R., and others.

Battle Fleet Planes to Fly Here.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—One hundred and twenty-five planes of the battle fleet attached to the aircraft carriers Saratoga, Lexington and Langdon will fly over New York City and other cities of the North Atlantic Coast Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, giving the people of the East an opportunity to view naval aircraft usually based on the West Coast. The planes recently participated in the fleet manoeuvres in the Caribbean.

The squadrons will fly over New York three times during the air show there and at the request of Representative Edith Nourse Rogers of Massachusetts, will extend the flight to Boston, Lowell, Hartford and Providence, and as many other cities and towns as practicable on the way.

Two squadrons of thirty-six torpedo and bombing planes, five squadrons of fifty-seven fighting planes and three squadrons of twenty-four scouting planes will take part in the display. These will be accompanied by three amphibian transport planes, three tri-motor transport planes and two staff planes. About 100 officers and 150 enlisted men will operate the planes.

THREE GLIDER EVENTS WON BY TEST PILOT

Atwater Gets Prizes in Bayside Meet—Two Women in Special Contest.

The final events of the first glider meet held in New York or its vicinity were run off from the hilltop of the Queensboro Golf and Country Club links at Bayside, Queens, yesterday, and eight cups were awarded to the five winners of the two-day tournament. William Atwater, test pilot of the American Motorless Aviation Corporation, became the leader among local gliders by winning three of the eight first prizes.

The longest official flight of the two-day contest was made by W. Hawley Bowlus, who designed his own soaring sailplane and was gliding instructor to Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh recently in California. Bowlus covered a distance of more than a half mile on Thursday in 44.10 seconds, according to the official timers.

The one special event of the tournament was a women's contest in primary gliding. Only two women entered, both commercial airplane pilots. Mrs. Betty Huyler Gillies carried off first honors closely, followed by the other entrant, Mrs. Keith Miller. Mrs. Gillies is a pilot of the Curtiss-Wright Flying Service at Valley Stream, L. I., while Mrs. Miller is a veteran of British aeronautics and now a test pilot of the American Aeronautical Corporation at Port Washington.

The summaries of the events of the two days were announced as follows:

MAY 1.

EVENT 1 (Duration contest for all pilots in primary and secondary gliders)—Won by Lieutenant Ralph Barnaby, U. S. N., 33.35 seconds; Captain W. Newton Lancaster, American Aeronautical Corp, second, 19.63 seconds.

EVENT 2 (Duration for advanced pilots in primary gliders only)—Won by Richard Atwater, American Motorless Aviation Corp., 27.01 seconds; Lieutenant Ralph Barnaby, U. S. N., second, 24.02 seconds.

EVENT 3 (Duration for senior pilots in soaring gliders)—Won by W. Hawley Bowlus, San Diego, Cal. (only entrant). Time—44.10 seconds.

May 2.

FINAL EVENTS.

EVENT 4 (Duration for senior pilots in primary gliders)—Won by Richard Atwater, AMAC, 25.7 seconds; Frederick Pipig, AMAC, second 20.12 seconds.

EVENT 5 (Duration for second and third class pilots in secondary and soaring gliders)—Won by W. Hawley Bowlus, San Diego, Cal., 34.17 seconds; Richard Atwater, AMAC, second, 33.60 seconds.

EVENT 6 (Women's duration contest)—Won by Mrs. Betty Huyler Gillies, Curtiss-Wright Flying Service, 22.5 seconds; Mrs. Keith Miller, American Aeronautical Corp., second, 19.50 seconds.

EVENT 7 (Landing to a mark within a twenty-five foot circle, open to all pilots)—Won by Frederick Pipig, 18.2 feet from centre; Richard Atwater, second, 20.21 feet from centre.

At the conclusion of the tournament the prizes were awarded on the lawn outside the clubhouse by the officials of the National Glider Association.

Army Flier Killed in Crash On Home Farm in Missouri

Special to The New York Times.

FULTON, Mo., May 2.—Attempting a landing on the farm of his uncle, Robert Brown, Lieutenant Harold Brown of the Army Air Service, was killed this morning three miles north of Hatton, when his Curtiss plane crashed. Lieutenant Brown had been born and reared on the farm and had flown there for a visit on his way from California where he had taken part in government air manoeuvres, to Selfridge Field, at Mount Clemens, Mich., where he was stationed. He leaves a wife and a 3-month-old son.

Lieutenant Brown had been a star football player of Westminster College in Fulton, and was captain of the polo team at West Point during his senior year. He was graduated from West Point in 1928, spent a year at Kelly Field, Texas, perfecting himself in flying, and was regarded as one of the best fliers in the service.

FIGHT OVER ESTATE OF FLIER LOST AT SEA

Mrs. Ethel E. Hill, 419 East Fifty-seventh Street, widow of James Dewitt Hill, one of the pilots of the ill-fated Old Glory, monoplane, which attempted a non-stop flight in 1927 from Old Orchard, Me., to Rome, and Hill's sister, Mrs. Nellie H. Stauffer, 12 East Ninety-seventh Street, are engaged in a dispute over $5,000 in Surrogate's Court. This was disclosed yesterday when Surrogate O'Brien reserved decision on the sister's objections to an accounting filed by Mrs. Hill in which the latter credited the estate with $5,000 which Mrs. Stauffer says was presented to her as a gift from William Randolph Hearst, who financed the flight.

Mrs. Hill, whose husband perished at sea with Lloyd Bertaud and Philip A. Payne, told the court that Carl Helm, Mr. Hearst's attorney, gave the $5,000 to Mrs. Stauffer in payment of a bequest in the pilot's will. The testament left $5,000 to Mrs. Stauffer and the residue to Mrs. Hill.

Mrs. Stauffer, however, contends that the money was a gift from Mr. Hearst and should not be charged against the estate. Mr. Helm, named an executor in the will with Mrs. Hill, renounced his appointment after Hill's death.

The papers in the case disclosed that Mr. Hearst, through Mr. Payne, promised each aviator $25,000 in the event of their death, and that, through Mr. Helm, he settled their claims later for $10,000 each. Hill and Bertaud, as pilots, were to get $200 weekly for their services.

TO HONOR BYRD AT CANAL.

Army, Navy and Civic Authorities Plan Welcome for Explorer.

PANAMA CITY, May 2 (AP).—It is understood here that when Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd reaches Panama on May 16 the entire personnel of the Byrd Antarctic Expedition, except those who already are in the United States, will be assembled here for the triumphant return to the United States.

Admiral Byrd is expected to remain here from two to three weeks for that purpose. He will be fêted by Admiral J. R. Y. Blakeley, Commander of the Fifteenth Naval District; Major Gen. Malin Craig, Commanding General of the Panama Canal Department; Colonel Harry Burgess, Governor of the Canal Zone; President Florencion Arosemena, of Panama, and many local organizations.

Positions of Admiral Byrd's Ships.

Wireless to The New York Times.

ON BOARD THE BARK CITY OF NEW YORK, at Sea, May 2.—The City of New York, together with the steamship Eleanor Bolling which has her in tow, made 136 miles in the twenty-four hours ending at noon today. Their position, 1,056 miles from Disappointment Island, was Lat. 5.48 degrees S., Long. 125.38 degrees W. A wireless dispatch from the steamship Rangitiki, bearing Admiral Byrd and the main contingent of his Antarctic expedition, gave her position yesterday noon as Lat. 35.04 degrees S., Long. 130.28 degrees W. Her day's run had been 352 miles.

LINDBERGH AT MIAMI ENDING MAIL FLIGHT

SENDS OWN RADIO MESSAGE

Only Faster Planes Will Now Reduce Air-Mail Time Between the Americas, He Says.

MIAMI, Fla., May 2 (AP).—Completing his round trip for the opening of a seven-day air-mail service between the Americas, Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh arrived here at 5:03 P. M., Eastern Standard Time, after an 899-mile flight today from Puerto Cabezas, Nicaragua. He carried 211 pounds of air mail sent from Buenos Aires to points in the United States.

His average speed for the day's flight, which started at Puerto Cabezas at 5:55 A. M., Eastern Standard Time, was 97 miles an hour. With Basil Roe, co-pilot, the flier averaged 92 miles an hour from Puerto Cabegas to Havana, a water flight of 638 mile across the Caribbean Sea, and maintained an average speed of 110 miles an hour from Havana to Miami, northern terminus of hte Pan-American Airways, Inc., which has the mail contract.

In today's flight Colonel Lindbergh, completing his third opening of an air mail service between the Americas, brought another novelty to his record as an aviator. He sat at the plane's radio and tapped out his own location message to the Pan-American Airways radio control station here. The message was sent from a point approximately 280 miles south of Havana and 60 miles west of Grand Cayman.

Flies at High Altitude.

Radio messages received by the Pan-American Airways from Lindbergh's plane described his progress throughout the day.

Colonel Lindbergh spent some time in the morning checking the plane's chronometer and the hydrographic chart for his course. At 8:15 A. M. the radio operator, B. A. Denickey, reported that everything was "ail right." Colonel Lindbergh took the controls again about 8:30 and on receiving a radio weather report from Havana climbed to a higher altitude for better flying conditions.

The plane climbed to an altitude of 11,500 feet to a point where the cool atmosphere led to the donning of coats by the crew. As the plane plunged into the north the co-pilot dropped a smoke bomb over the side to gauge wind direction and velocity.

The fliers had luncheon at 9:30 A. M., when they ate several sandwiches from a three-pound package which had been deposited with the 201 pounds of mail.

Colonel Lindbergh sent his radio message soon after he had "shot the sun" with a bubble sextant, Roe being at the controls, and when the plane was approximately 380 miles south of Havana and sixty miles west of Grand Cayman. The message read:

"10:10 A. M.—Dead reckoning position, 19 degrees 38 minutes north, 82 degrees 44 minutes west.

"LINDBERGH."

Then the following message was received from the regular radio operator, B. A. Denickey:

"The Colonel reported yesterday afternoon that he could send about fifteen words a minute and receive about ten, so today he decided to try it out over our system personally."

Coming North Today.

As the morning went on Colonel Lindbergh dropped the plane down from its chilly altitude to between 2,000 and 4,000 feet above the Caribbean as he flew toward Cuba. In a radio message sent at 11:30 o'clock Denickey reported that "we have crawled back to the cabin to measure the gas in the cabin tanks, which hold 100 gallons each."

Colonel Lindbergh sighted the southern coast of Cuba at 11:55 A. M., Eastern Standard Time, just six hours from the time he started from Puerto Cabezas. He compared the coast line and smaller cays which dot the end of the southern coast of the island with his charts while Roe handled the controls.

The plane landed at Havana at 12:50 P. M.

The trip from Havana to Miami was uneventful, Colonel Lindbergh told newspaper men.

"As far as I know, only faster airplanes now will reduce the time for air mail between the United States and South America," he said.

He expected to leave Miami for the North some time tomorrow but he did not know his probable time of departure or his probable stopping place tomorrow night.

By sending a radio message himself yesterday while his plane was flying to Havana from Puerto Cabezas, Colonel Lindbergh demonstrated that he alone is a one-man flying crew, pilot, navigator and radio operator, says The Associated Press.

MAIL REACHES DESTINATIONS.

320 Pounds Delivered at Buenos Aires Ahead of Schedule.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BUENOS AIRES, May 2.—The air mail which left New York at 8 o'clock last Friday night arrived at Buenos Aires and Montevideo this afternoon, inaugurating the new seven-day service between the United States and Argentina and Uruguay. The plane covering the last lap from Chile arrived at the Moron aerodrome at 3 o'clock, 1 hour and 30 minutes ahead of schedule, and departed at 3:30 for Montevideo, where it arrived 1 hour and 15 minutes later.

The 320 pounds of mail for Buenos Aires was carried in eleven planes operated by eleven crews and maintained a new schedule throughout the trip.

Two large mail bags delivered to the Argentine postoffice contained a large amount of diplomatic mail and greetings from North American newspapers to Argentine editors, including the first page and the editorial page of THE NEW YORK TIMES of last Friday addressed to La Nacion.

Because of the safety and regularity with which schedules are being maintained, banks have decided to use the air mail for transferring drafts and other commercial papers which formerly were sent only by steamer. This will mean an important saving to business men, since all exchange operations by mail have hitherto carried twenty-one days' interest charges. The air mail will cut these costs by 65 per cent.

French Aviatrix Sets New Endurance Mark; In Air 35 Hours 46 Minutes and 55 Seconds

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, May 2.—Mlle. Lena Bernstein, French aviatrix, landed at Le Bourget shortly after 7 o'clock tonight, having set a new feminine world's endurance record with 35 hours, 46 minutes and 55 seconds in the air. It was her fifth attempt this season to better the mark of Mlle. Maryse Bastie of 26 hours, 47 minutes and 30 seconds.

Though she had attained her object and had broken the record at 10:30 this morning, Mlle. Bernstein continued flying all day, determined to advance the mark to the limit of possibilities. Her landing tonight was forced by the exhaustion of her fuel supply rather than the strength of the aviatrix, who made a fine landing and smilingly responded to the cheers of a large crowd.

Some idea of the remarkable demonstration can be had when it is recalled that she remained two hours longer in the air than Colonel Lindbergh in his flight from New York to Paris.

Captain Cartier of the Thirty-fourth Aviation Regiment at Le Bourget presented Mlle. Bernstein a large bouquet, and a representative of the Minister of Air presented official felicitations.

Mlle. Bernstein has an excellent flying record and her trans-Mediterranean flight of 1,416 miles last year was one of the most notable efforts of feminine aviation. In her flight today she piloted a Farman Salmson 230 horsepower plane loaded with 2,000 litres of gasoline. She had great difficulty at the take-off in raising the heavy load from the ground yesterday and gave observers a fright when her plane dipped down four times, but once she gained altitude she remained in perfect command of the plane throughout her performance.

FREEPORT, N. Y., May 2 (AP).—Miss Elinor Smith, holder of the American solo endurance record for women fliers, today wired congratulations to Mlle. Lena Bernstein, who set a new world mark today at Le Bourget, France.

She immediately announced that she would prepare to attempt in June to break Mlle. Bernstein's mark.

WORKER DIES, 8 HURT IN PLANE EXPLOSION

CAUSE OF BLAST UNKNOWN

Foreman Insists Tank Was Empty While Crew Was Servicing the Plane at Teterboro.

Special to The New York Times.

HASBROUCK HEIGHTS, N. J., May 2.—Nine men were burned, four of them critically, late this afternoon, while servicing a tri-motored airplane in the Fokker Company's main plant at the Teterboro Airport, when one of the plane's fuel tanks exploded, showering them with flaming gasoline. One of those critically burned died later in the Hackensack Hospital.

The Dead.

WILLIAM McQUINN, 25 years old, of 25 Central Avenue, Hasbrouck Heights.

Critically Hurt.

WILLIAM H. SMITH, 28 years old, of Camden Street, Hackensack.

Less Seriously Hurt.

EARL BIGGS, 32 years old, of Morsemere, N. J.

The victims were rushed to Hackensack Hospital. Two other men who were slightly burned were treated at the hangar.

All of the men burned were employes of the Fokker Company. The plane they were servicing was an F-10-A de luxe model, owned by the McMillan Oil Company of Los Angeles, Cal. Although workmen are reported to have been soldering about the cowling of the plane when the flare-up occurred, Earle Biggs, the foreman, said later at the hospital that he was unable to explain what caused it. There is an ironclad rule in the Fokker plant, he said, that the gasoline tanks of each plane must be emptied before it can be taken indoors. This, he insists, was done in the case of the McMillan plane.

Biggs said he was standing near the plane about 5:30 P. M., when he heard an enormous roar. Almost instantly he was surrounded by flames. It was like some one setting off an enormous charge of flashlight powder, he declared, and the whole thing didn't last more than thirty seconds.

He and Bennett and Brockelbank, less seriously burned than the others, went to the aid of McQuinn, Webber, Eberle and Smith. They were burned black from head to foot, Biggs said, and their clothing was burned from their bodies. Biggs said he and Bennett and Brockelbank shouted for aid and other workmen in the plant rushed to help them. One of these workmen, J. C. Anderson of Brooklyn, N. Y., tripped over an impediment while running and struck his head. He was badly injured.

Meanwhile a call was sent to Hackensack for ambulances. When they arrived the four seriously injured cases were bundled inside and rushed to the hospital. The others were taken there in private automobiles.

Officials of the plant started an investigation immediately, but late last night declared that as yet they had been unable definitely to fix the cause of the flare-up. They said the plane's gasoline tanks are in the wings and not near the soldering operations. The flare-up, they said, was not followed by a general fire, and though the emergency fire apparatus was called immediately the whole thing was over when the apparatus arrived. The McMillan plane was scorched, they said, but otherwise undamaged and other planes in the plant were uninjured.

WARNED BY M'ADOO ON COURT DISCIPLINE

Magistrates Get Letter Asking Reports if Bureaus and Employes Err in Duties.

CITES HIS NEW POWERS

Points Out He Can Now Punish the Attaches and Urges Conduct Above Just Criticism.

Chief Magistrate William McAdoo in a letter to the clerks of the magistrates' courts and the bureau heads reminded them yesterday that they are "public servants" and called upon them so to conduct themselves in office that it would be "beyond the power of any one justly to complain against or criticize you in the performance of your duties." He also asked the magistrates to report to him any actions warranting complaint by the employes of the courts.

These letters were sent as a reminder of the new law recently signed by Governor Roosevelt which places the power of discipline and removal of employes of the magistrates' courts in the hands of the chief magistrate instead of the Board of Magistrates. Magistrate McAdoo said that formerly the entire board of fifty magistrates decided disciplinary measures.

"I believe now that it is fixed in the minds of all connected with these courts," he explained, "that any misconduct or avoidance of duty is to be equally, promptly and justly disposed of will have a very good effect. Of course, so far as I am concerned, the law will be administered in letter and spirit effectively, justly and impartially."

Reciting the substance of the new law in his letter to the magistrates, Mr. McAdoo continued:

"I am quite sure you will understand, gentlemen, that under these conditions it will not be unreasonable to ask you to report to me any case coming under your observation in which you feel that complaint should be made against any one connected with these courts. I am also quite sure that you will understand that these charges should be specific and capable of proof. Aside from that, I solicit your earnest and sympathetic cooperation in the enforcement of this law to the end that we may in these courts have the highest possible standard as to the conduct of every one connected with them."

To the bureau chiefs Magistrate McAdoo also explained the law and told them that he would hold them to strict accountability for supervision of those under them. He added:

"Report to me promptly any conduct on the part of any employe connected with the courts which would make him or her the subject of official investigation, keeping in mind that we are all of us public servants engaged in the most important work in connection with the administration of justice and making for the public safety and peace, and that through these courts pass in a single year over 500,000 persons charged with offenses and crimes from spitting on the sidewalk to murder and that, therefore, we are justly held by the public to the strictest accountability."

GENEVA GREETS ZEPPELIN.

Several Hurt in Rush to Streets as Aircraft Flies Low Over City.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, May 2.—The Graf Zeppelin, coming from Friedrichshafen, flew over Geneva at 11:40 this morning, so low and so slowly that passengers waving could be seen distinctly. In the rush to the streets, several persons were injured by motor cars.

The Zeppelin, after doubling over the cathedral, continued its return journey above Lake Geneva, Berne and the Alps.

COOLEY AND 2 AIDES FACE PROSECUTION

Hastings Says He Will Seek to Indict 3 in Probation Bureau for Fraud and Conspiracy.

FALSE AUDIT IS ALLEGED

Employment of Mrs. Lawler and Borrowing of Office Cash Seen as Basis for Charges.

Assistant District Attorney Hastings announced yesterday that he would seek indictments next week against Edwin J. Cooley, suspended chief of the General Sessions Probation Bureau, and at least two other attachés of the bureau as an outcome of the investigation the April grand jury has been conducting into the management of the department.

The indictments will be sought for two offenses on evidence obtained at the grand jury investigation, which will be continued next week, Mr. Hastings said. This evidence will be presented to another grand jury for action.

Mr. Hastings declared he will charge that Cooley violated Section 1863 of the penal law by making an allegedly fraudulent audit of the books of his bureau by which his sister, Mrs. Marguerite F. Lawler of Buffalo, received pay as provisional chief clerk for seven months last year, although giving services to the bureau for only two months, while she, at the same time, was on the payroll of the Buffalo public school department as a teacher.

Conspiracy is the second charge on which the prosecutor said he will seek indictments against Cooley and two others in the bureau.

April Grand Jury Continued.

Before the prosecutor's announcement the April grand jury handed up a presentment to Judge Donnellan in General Sessions on which its services were continued indefinitely. The grand jury then resumed its inquiry, questioning three more witnesses and announcing an adjournment until next Tuesday.

The presentment reads:

"At the request of the District Attorney of New York County, we, the regular grand jury for the April, 1930, term of the Court of General Sessions, have conducted a general inquiry into the willful and corrupt misconduct in office of public officers connected with and attached to the Probation Bureau of the Court of General Sessions.

"This inquiry is still pending and unconcluded, and for the completion of such inquiry we respectfully ask to be continued by order of the court.

"Some of the testimony taken before us is legal, relevant and material on the question of the finding of an indictment or indictments against one or more of such officers. On the other hand, some of the testimony taken, while properly receivable in connection with our said general inquiry, might be irrelevant and incompetent, and might possibly be regarded as prejudicial were it heard by a grand jury considering the question as to whether it would or would not find an indictment against a given person charging a given crime.

"Because of the presence thereof of such irrelevant testimony we do not pass upon the question as to whether or not indictments should be found on the evidence adduced before us, but pursuant to a suggestion of the District Attorney we leave to his discretion the presentment of such testimony to another grand jury."

Crain Gets Higgins Report.

District Attorney Crain and Attorney Hastings had conferred with the grand jurors before the presentment was handed up. Later the District Attorney announced he had received a communication from Commissioner of Accounts Higgins on the examination of the books of the Probation Bureau, which attachés of the commissioner's office have been conducting for more than seven weeks at the request of Cooley.

This report was understood to have dwelt on the report that some of the high officials of the bureau borrowed money from the "prisoners' restitution fund," sometimes through substituting promissory notes and at other times by cashing checks. While all of the money was returned, it was reported, the use of the money under such circumstances, it was alleged, was a violation of the law.

District Attorney Crain said that he had not had time to go over Commissioner Higgins's report, but indicated that he would do so by Tuesday, when, it is expected, the entire report will be read to the grand jury by Mr. Hastings.

The three witnesses yesterday were understood to have been questioned in connection with Mrs. Lawler's employment. Two of them, one a girl telephone operator and another an investigator for the Western Union Telegraph Company, were understood to have been questioned about telegrams sent to Mrs. Lawler in Buffalo, her home, from the Probation Bureau before and during her employment as chief clerk.

The third witness was said to have been the manager of the Alamac Hotel, where Mrs. Lawler and her mother, Mrs. Anna O'Leary, were alleged to have stopped during the two months she was employed in the bureau. He was said to have been questioned about checks from the Controller's office which Mrs. Lawler cashed with him.

RITES FOR DE LA VAULX.

Ambassador Edge Puts Wreath on Bier of French Air Pioneer.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, May 2.—Impressive services were held today in the Church of St. Louis des Invalides for Count Henri de la Vaulx, who was killed in an airplane crash in New Jersey. His body was brought back to France yesterday. President Doumergue and Foreign Minister Briand were represented at the services, and Ambassador Edge attended and laid a wreath on the bier. Among the pallbearers was Santos Dumont, Brazilian air pioneer.

M. Flandin, Minister of Commerce, who is president of the Aero Club of France, delivered the funeral oration on the man whose life was full of heroism and who was imbued with the purest faith for aviation. Laurent Eynac, Minister of Air, also spoke in praise of Count de la Vaulx's fine ideals.

The burial will take place tomorrow at Rozoy Bellevalle in Aisne.

Will Rogers Says We Suffer From Too Many Organizations

To the Editor of The New York Times:

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., May 2.—Of all the things that this country is suffering from, the greatest is overproduction of organizations organized to help somebody that don't need the help as bad as the organization itself. It's not taxes that keeps us flat. It's dues. When a failure, form something.

When the judgment day comes half of America will be on their way to some convention and the other half will be signing application blanks.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

AXTELL DISBARRED BY HIGH COURT HERE

"Brazen Effrontery" of Lawyer for Seamen Denounced in Opinion as Unethical.

HIS ADVERTISING CRITICIZED

S. A. Langfur and Harry Rosenbaum Also Disciplined—M. J. Greenwald Receives Censure.

Silas B. Axtell, a lawyer who has specialized in negligence cases for injured seamen, accused of ambulance chasing as a result of the inquiry by the bar associations before Supreme Court Justice Wasservogel, was disbarred by the Appellate Division yesterday for soliciting cases and because of the unethical methods he used in advertising for business. The court dismissed charges against David M. Fink and Jacquin Fink, as partners, on the admission of Isidor J. Kresel, chief investigator, that the report of a referee in their favor was justified.

The Appellate Division also disbarred Samuel A. Langfur, found guilty in the Federal Court on March 11 of conspiracy to violate the bankruptcy laws in the cases of the F. & W. Silk Company of Paterson, N. J., and sentenced to Atlanta penitentiary for two years. Harry Rosenbaum, found guilty of withholding money due a client, also was disbarred.

Greenwald Is Censured.

Ambulance-chasing charges against Manley J. Greenwald, many of whose negligence cases were investigated and prepared by his father, Harry Greenwald, long an investigator for traction companies, resulted in a censure. The court found no proof of solicitation of the cases named in the charges against him, although the court said that his own testimony before Justice Wasservogel constituted an admission that he made payments to individuals for recommending cases to him.

Justice Dowling's opinion in the Axtell case covered twenty-three typewritten pages of scathing arraignment. It includes a number of letters signed by Mr. Axtell seeking to prosecute claims for persons injured in seamen's accidents. The court told of accounts in The Seamen's Journal, published by the Seamen's Union, of the Axtell cases and of the circulation by Axtell of "Windlass," a paper supposed to have been published by the Seafarers' Thrift and Protective Cooperation Company, of which he was the attorney and vice president, containing a biography of himself and pictures of his office and staff.

"That this organization was intended entirely for the betterment of seamen is doubtful," says the opinion. "It is clear that the respondent [Axtell] made use of it as a medium for contact with prospective clients."

Concluding his opinion, the presiding justice said:

"The attempt to interfere with the orderly procedure of the investigation into the ambulance-chasing evil, ordered by this court, is reprehensible. Taking the most charitable view of respondent's professional conduct, he has been impressed with an exaggerated view of his own importance, which has led him to think he was authorized to do things, which in an ordinary practitioner would have been regarded as highly improper.

"To some extent he may have been misled by the number of seamen's organizations he represented into the belief that he had some official status which put him into a privileged class and allowed him to disregard so many ethical rules. But his solicitation of business was brazen in its effrontery and his self-glorification in print of his professional ability was nauseating.

"Making every allowance for respondent's undoubted ability and earnestness we think he has pursued these practices too long and too often to escape punishment for his continued violations of the ethical requirements of his profession."

Heimsoth Criticized.

In another decision yesterday the Appellate Division censured Joseph W. Heimsoth, charged with unethical conduct in a matrimonial case and with permitting a Supreme Court Justice to be deceived in the hearing of an undefended annulment suit. The court expressed disbelief that he knew of the deception.

The Appellate Division appointed Official Referee John Proctor Clarke, former Presiding Justice of the Court, to hear disciplinary charges against Nash Rockwood, for thirteen years county judge of Saratoga County, who has practiced here for several years. The nature of the charges was not made known. Judge Rockwood, who has represented many persons tried on criminal charges in the Federal court, including George Graham Rice, pleaded guilty a year ago to failing to file income tax returns, and was sentenced to three months in the Westchester County penitentiary and fined $5,000.

Mr. Axtell said last night that he would appeal the disbarment to the Court of Appeals at once because he believes the decision was unjustified by the evidence and was due to something "that didn't appear." He said he believed the "shipping interests" were behind it. Former United States Senator O'Gorman, who was referee in the case, decided in his favor, he said.

STOCK PRICES SUFFER WORST BREAK IN YEAR

Whole List Is Staggered by Selling Drive That Brings Losses of From 5 to 16 Points.

HEAVIEST IN LAST HOUR

2,000,000 Shares Traded in Fifty Minutes With Total for Day at 5,986,330.

WEAK MARGINS A FACTOR

President's Statement on Trade and Cut in Bank Rates Fail to Check Decline.

Stocks broke violently again yesterday under the heaviest liquidation since Nov. 13, the day on which the disastrous decline of last Autumn culminated. The whole market was staggered by the whirlwind of selling, while issues which bore the brunt of the pressure lost from 5 to 16 points. The total turnover on the New York Stock Exchange was 5,986,330 shares, with more than 2,000,000 shares of that volume concentrated in the last fifty minutes of trading.

Yesterday's break, which compared in size with some of the worst declines of last year, came on the heels of important overnight news which Wall Street had hoped would restore confidence in the market. This news included a reduction in the rediscount rate of the New York Federal Reserve Bank from 3½ to 3 per cent and a reassuring address by President Hoover on the state of business.

Drive in Last Hour.

For a few minutes, at the opening, the market showed strength, but this was followed swiftly by acute unsettlement as the selling movement of the day before was resumed. The pressure was lifted to some extent around midday, only to be re-applied in more determined fashion in the afternoon. Selling orders poured out in steadily mounting volume from every brokerage house in the city, reaching such proportions at the beginning of the fifth hour that trading became demoralized.

It was in that hour that the market sank to the lowest levels of the day, with many stocks going into new low ground for the year. Trading between 2 and 3 o'clock was at the rate of 10,000,000 shares for a full five-hour day. In the last half hour brokers on the floor of the Stock Exchange and on the Curb were overwhelmed with selling orders. Dealings during that period were, for the most part, in huge blocks, for which reason the ticker facilities were not as congested as might have been expected. The tape showed no more than the normal tardiness after the close.

While the heaviest selling was in fifteen or twenty "big stocks," the whole market felt the force of the liquidation. United States Steel, which had wavered uncertainly in the morning, as if uncertain as to whether it would lead the market upward or downward, dipped sharply in the late trading, as did General Electric, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Westinghouse Electric, Allied Chemical, J. I. Case, Eastman Kodak, Warner Brothers Pictures, Electric Power and Light and a number of others. A feeble rally just before the close, apparently due to short covering, lifted stocks slightly above their low levels of the day.

Average prices, as shown by THE NEW YORK TIMES's compilation, indicated that the break was one of the widest of the year. Twenty-five representative industrial issues declined $9.03, while fifty issues, including industrials and rails, declined $4.85. The average price of twenty-five rails showed a decline of only 68 cents, although this group touched the lowest levels of the year. As compared with the day before, however, the rails were relatively firm, a few of them showing some gain on the day. It was in the industrial and utility stocks that the liquidation was heaviest and the declines sharpest.

Impaired Margins a Factor.

Various explanations were offered for the decline. Brokers reported, for one thing, that many margin accounts had been badly impaired as a result of the recent steady declines, and where such customers failed to meet the demand for additional funds, stocks held in their names were in a great many instances thrown upon the market. The selling of this character was heavier yesterday than on any other day since the decline started. It was also apparent, brokers said, that professionals operating for the decline were becoming bolder, and short selling was an important factor in the day's operations. Many Wall Street traders who had been holding stocks in the face of repeated breaks were said yesterday to have become discouraged because of the market's failure to resume the rise in the morning on the strength of President Hoover's optimistic remarks and the reduction in rediscount rates. At the same time, the view was expressed in brokerage circles that the reduction in bank rates, although ordinarily accepted as an encouraging development, failed to arouse enthusiasm in this instance because of the opinion held by some that such action may have been a recognition of unsatisfactory conditions in trade and industry.

Market interests were comforted in a measure by the emphasis which some brokers placed on the fact that yesterday's volume of trading was the heaviest since the day on which the break of last year ended, the hope being expressed that yesterday's break might prove to be the culmination of the current unsettlement. Yesterday's turnover of 5,986,330 shares compares with 7,761,450 shares on Nov. 13, the day the last break ended.

Bank stocks participated in the general decline in share prices. Net losses of from 2 to 100 points in the bid prices of leading bank and trust company stocks were revealed. The 100-point break was in the shares of the Fifth Avenue Bank, the bid price of which was 3,300 yesterday. Shares of the First National showed a decline of 273 in their bid price. The Guaranty Trust Company was off 45 points in its bid price, the Corn Exchange 26 and the Bankers Trust Company 15 points.

CENSUS DRIVE AIMS TO LIST FOREIGNERS

Advertisements in Residents' Native Languages to Call on Them to Be Counted.

3 DISTRICTS ARE REPORTED

18th Assembly Population Drops 31,873 in Ten Years—6th Area Decreases 35,797.

Beginning Monday, "foreigners' week" will be observed in the Twenty-third Census District by Edward F. Corsi, supervisor. This step will be taken as a result of the "clean-up day," last Thursday, when 600 of Italian descent in response to an advertisement in a newspaper of their native language, presented themselves at his office to be enumerated.

Monday will be Jewish day, and advertisements will be inserted in papers of that language. Tuesday will be Latin-American day, Wednesday will be Polish and Hungarian day and Thursday will be general "clean-up" day.

Last Thursday the Italians came from as far away as Long Island and New Jersey, only 200 of the total 600 coming from Mr. Corsi's district. All were counted, however, and the slips were sent to the proper offices. Carmelo Amoruso, one of Mr. Corsi's clerks, reported yesterday that he had enumerated a man 51 years of age who had been a citizen of four countries. He was born in Brazil of a French mother and an Italian father. He subsequently was naturalized as an Italian, then a Canadian, and finally as an American citizen.

Complete census figures for the Eighteenth Assembly District, made public yesterday by Mr. Corsi, show a decrease in population since 1920 of 31,873 residents. The district, which includes the territory from Ninetieth Street to 117th Street, from the east side of Lexington Avenue to the East River, now has 109,917 persons, as compared with 141,790 ten years ago.

The population is made up of 50 per cent foreign born, of which 30 per cent is Italian. The district is made up of 69 enumeration districts.

Lester Friedman, supervisor of the Twenty-first Census District, announced yesterday the total figures for the Sixth Assembly District as 63,368, as compared to 99,165 in 1920.

Samuel Hullman, special census agent, served warning upon twenty-two recalcitrant roomers of 230 East Twenty-sixth Street and at 207 East Twenty-fifth Street that if they have not been enumerated by 1 o'clock this afternoon he will turn over their names to the United States Attorney for prosecution.

Letters to 600 persons who have either refused to answer questions or who have failed to send in the census slips left at their homes are being sent out today in the Bronx, giving them only five days more before taking action with the Federal authorities. No figures will be made public in the Bronx until these have been disposed of.

Both George N. Jesse of 11 West Forty-second Street, supervisor of the Twenty-fourth District, and Bruno B. Saloschin of 841 Broadway, supervisor of the Twenty-second District, stated yesterday that it will take them two weeks more to complete their work.

Mortimer H. Michaels, supervisor for the twenty-ninth census district in Brooklyn, announced the population in the Sixth Assembly District in Kings to be 74,496. The population ten years ago was 85,895.

"I think we can account for this decrease," said Mr. Michaels, "by the fact that there are a lot of old tenement houses in the district which have not been replaced by up-to-date apartments. There are a good many vacancies in the district. Many people have moved where they may enjoy better living conditions."

Joseph F. V. Christopher, assistant supervisor, said he expected the Fifth Assembly District would be completed today.

Garwood's Population 3,344.

Special to The New York Times.

ELIZABETH, N. J., May 2.—The population of Garwood is 3,344, compared to 2,084 in 1920, Supervisor Peter J. Olde revealed today. Garwood is all urban, the borough having no farms.

789,921 IN BALTIMORE.

BALTIMORE, May 2 (AP).—Baltimore has a 1930 population of 789,921, according to the enumeration, which was completed today.

The figures give the city a gain of 56,095 in the last ten-year period, the 1920 census placing the population at 733,826. The gain was 7.1 per cent.

Other population figures issued yesterday in The Associated Press report of the census included the following:

Elmira, N. Y.—47,381; increase, 1,988, or 4.3 per cent.
Lockport, N. Y.—23,370; increase, 4,062, or 19.06 per cent.
Corning, N. Y.—15,684; decrease, 136, or .8 per cent.
Ilion, N. Y.—9,878; decrease, 291, or 2.86 per cent.
McKeesport, Pa.—54,443; increase, 7,652, or 16.37 per cent.
Easton, Pa.—34,382; increase, 569, or 1.7 per cent.
West Chester, Pa.—12,321; increase, 614, or 5.24 per cent.
Somerville, Mass.—103,604; increase, 10,513, or 11.3 per cent.
Chicopee, Mass.—43,899; increase, 2,011, or 4.81 per cent.
Pawtucket, R. I. (revised)—77,203; increase, 12,955, or 20.2 per cent.
Joliet, Ill.—41,753; increase, 3,311, or 8.61 per cent.

Minority Endorses Stock Issue.

An article in THE NEW YORK TIMES of Thursday reported a letter from Milo R. Maltbie, chairman of the Public Service Commission, on the application of the New York Steam Corporation to issue 112,000 additional shares of common stock, stating that Thomas Chadbourne appeared in behalf of the minority stockholders in opposition to the stock issue. William M. Chadbourne writes THE TIMES that he is attorney for the minority stockholders on the stock, but that he is not opposing but approving the company's application to issue additional shares.

PHILHARMONIC HAILED IN PARIS AS GREATEST

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, May 2.—Members of the New York Philharmonic Symphony Society, arriving in France on the liner De Grasse today, were acclaimed in the Paris press tonight as the greatest orchestra in the world.

"We are really a cosmopolitan group," Arturo Toscanini, famous conductor of the orchestra, told interviewers in the Gare St. Lazare, "for out of the 108 there are thirty-four Americans and seventy-four of European origin, including fourteen Italians, seven Frenchmen, ten Germans, twenty-nine Russians, five Hungarians and nine Hollanders.

"This is our first European tour, the culminating point in nearly a century of the orchestra's existence, and for us it will be in reality a sort of vacation."

The Philharmonic will give two concerts in Paris, the first tomorrow night and the second Sunday night, both in the Paris Opera. All reserved seats have been sold.

The orchestra's trip around Europe lists Zurich next, then Turin, Milan, Rome, Florence, Munich, Vienna, Budapest, Prague, Leipzig, Dresden, Berlin, Brussels and London.

PARAMOUNT BUYS 58 PENNSYLVANIA MOVIES

Acquires Houses in 25 Places From M. E. Comerford at Reported Price of $20,000,000.

Confirmation of the outright purchase by the Paramount-Publix Theatre Corporation of fifty-eight motion picture houses in twenty-five cities and towns in Pennsylvania controlled by Michael E. Comerford was given last night by Charles E. McCarthy of the Paramount interests.

The deal, completed Thursday at a reported price close to $20,000,000, gives Paramount-Publix control of the Comerford houses in Pennsylvania and also the interest Mr. Comerford held in several theatres in New York State.

It was announced that no change would be made in the personnel of the theatres acquired nor in their administration. Mr. Comerford, it was said, will continue to have an active part in the management of the chain, which will be known as the Publix-Comerford Theatres. The larger theatres of the chain are in Scranton, Wilkesbarre, Williamsport, Hazelton, Northumberland and Sunbury.

Mr. Comerford started his career as a theatre owner in Scranton twenty-five years ago.

WAGNER CHORUS SUNG.

Down-Town Glee Club Offering of "An Die Kunst" Called First Here.

The Down-Town Glee Club, Channing Lefebvre, conductor, gave an unusually interesting choral program last night in Carnegie Hall which included, according to the program, the first American performance of an early chorus of Richard Wagner, "An die Kunst." In style this chorus bears a considerable resemblance to one of the choruses in the second act of "Tannhäuser," and would appear to date, like that opera, from the '40s. The writing is melodious and effective in the early Wagnerian manner, and the chorus made much of this score.

The remainder of the program contained music by Palestrina, Morley, Gay (Drinking song from "Beggar's Opera"); Schumann (hunting songs for chorus with four horns); Cecil Forsyth, Channing Lefebvre, Philip James, Johann Strauss (waltz, "Wine, Women and Song"); Sullivan (trios from "The Mikado" sung by John McElroy, Henry Thompson and Walter Schiller and the entrance and March of the Peers from "Iolanthe"); the Wagner chorus, "The Musical Trust," by Clokey, and Sullivan's "Lost Chord."

The chorus sang with manly spirit, good tonal balance and diction which drove home the text. There was obviously a special rapport between audience and performers. Mr. Lefebvre and the singers received just recognition of their work.

SCHOLARSHIP FOR A SINGER

Elizabeth Rethberg Gives Fund for New Musicianship School.

Elizabeth Rethberg of the Metropolitan has given a scholarship in the newly organized School of Musicianship for Singers, which Milton V. O'Connell said yesterday would open its offices and studios this month in the new Barbizon-Plaza art and music centre at Sixth Avenue and Central Park South. Anna E. Ziegler will be the executive director of the new school.

Among professional groups which have promised their endorsement and support are the American Guild of Organists, the Guild of Vocal Teachers, the New York Singing Teachers' Association, the National Music League, the Little Theatre Opera and the American Opera Company. The school also has an artists' advisory committee of twenty members, including Pasquale Amato, Edward Johnson, Beniamino Gigli, Artur Bodanzky, Frances Alda, Margaret Matzenauer and Louise Homer.

MAY CLASH ON AIR TODAY.

WGBS and WICC Plan to Broadcast on Same Wave.

Confusion may reign today on the 600 kilocycle wave in this area if WGBS and WICC broadcast simultaneously in that channel as announced by representatives of the stations last night. The Federal Radio Commission recently ordered WGBS to vacate the 600 kilocycle wave and go back to its old position of 1,180 kilocycles, but the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia overruled the order, allowing WGBS to remain on the wave until further notice. In the meantime the Radio Commission gave the 600 kilocycle channel to WICC of Bridgeport, Conn.

The Bridgeport station's representative said that by the advice of his attorney, WICC would broadcast full time on the 600 kilocycle wave today inasmuch as a telegram had been received from the Radio Commission saying that the license for that wave was on the way to the station. Both stations expect to be on the air today full time, with the exception that WGBS is not scheduled to broadcast between 3 and 5:45 P. M.

AIR DEATH HERE LAID TO PUBLICITY STUNT

PASSENGER DISPUTES HIM

The airplane crash in which Charles I. Reid, booking agent and aviation enthusiast, lost his life when his plane hit the roof of the new Y. M. C. A. building at 10 West Sixty-fourth Street last Nov. 20 was termed the outcome of "a publicity stunt" by Police Commissioner Whalen when he addressed the convention of the New York City Federation of Women's Clubs at the Astor yesterday. Robert J. Baillie, youthful lion tamer, who was the passenger on the fatal ride, jumped out of the plane before it crashed and floated down with his parachute to the roof of another building in West Sixty-fourth Street.

"The animal trainer who was the passenger," Commissioner Whalen said, "was soon to have gone on a lecture tour and was to have jumped with his parachute and landed among the lions in the Central Park Zoo. He jumped too soon and his jumping caused the publicity agent, who was a better publicity agent than he was a pilot, to lose control of the plane and crash.

"If we had had Police Department planes as we have them today the crash wouldn't have happened. They were circling for a half an hour, looking around, and would have been driven away."

Passenger Disputes Charge.

When Mr. Baillie was informed of the Commissioner's remarks he said: "I don't know what to say except that there's nothing to it. I'd like to know what made him say it. There was nothing like a publicity stunt intended. It was merely a pleasure flight over the city. Mr. Reid had never flown over the city before, although he had been piloted over, and he thought it would be a fine thing. We'd been planning a week to fly over and take some photographs.

"In view of the case pending, I'm not going to say anything more now, but there will be more coming out later. I hope Mr. Whalen has something to back his statement up with. If he has, let him say it." He explained later that his remarks about the pending case referred to a suit being brought by the Reid family against the owners of Roosevelt Field, from whom the plane had been hired.

Seth Low, president of Roosevelt Field, Inc., refused to comment on Commissioner Whalen's charges that the flight had been planned as a publicity stunt. But he said:

"I know no pilot who, 8,000 feet over Queens with a missing motor, would keep on over New York. And I don't believe for a second that the motor was missing."

Mr. Baillie said that "a man over a park the size of Central Park with something wrong is going to circle over it for a landing."

May Day Tactics Extolled.

The "foresight and generalship" of the commissioner's handling of Thursday's May Day demonstrations were commended by Mrs. Frank J. Shuler, president of the Federation of Women's Clubs, when she introduced him as a speaker.

The rest of the commissioner's address was largely a review of his aims and accomplishments during his time in office. He said that the Police Department is today a real service department.

"We have tried to inculcate into the minds of the force," he said, "that they have been appointed to exercise the police power of the State in the service of the people and that they are not to have a false sense of superiority to the people they serve. If we have done anything in the past year it is that we have impressed on them that their service is appreciated and that they in turn are expected to give the highest type of service."

He said that "you can't help having an efficient and well running department when you find an esprit de corps that exists because promotions are made solely on the basis of merit and service." Under Mayor Walker's administration, he continued, "this same spirit of service is manifested in every department of the city government."

He said that the police parade had been "resurrected for one single purpose, to know if we could mobilize an army on short notice." The men were trained in six weeks to march in the review, he said, and "if one thing has happened in the past year in your Police Department, it was that the spirit of preparedness was instilled."

District Attorney Crain said "no law ought to fix a minimum punishment. Only a maximum ought to be fixed and the rest ought to be left to the judge who tried the case."

Prisons, he asserted, should have basic rules painted on the cell walls, so worded that the most illiterate prisoners could understand them, and the prisoners should know that if they obey these rules they will automatically gain their liberty at a certain time.

Other speakers included Commissioner of Correction R. C. Patterson, Miss Virginia Murray, director of the Police Department's Crime Prevention Bureau, and Dr. Thomas Darlington, former Health Commissioner.

MONJAR INJUNCTION TERMS.

Court Outlines Conditions Under Which Stock May Be Sold.

The report of the permanent injunction obtained by the Attorney General of New York against Hugh B. Monjar, his company and others printed in THE NEW YORK TIMES April 24, which was based on information supplied by the Bureau of Securities of the Attorney General's office, stated that the defendants had been enjoined from further sales of stock.

Regarding this permanent injunction, which superseded a temporary one and to which the defendants assented, Assistant Attorney General Watson Washburn said yesterday:

"It restrains the defendants from selling any securities in the State of New York unless they comply with a number of specific requirements, including a complete disclosure to the purchasers of stock of the profit to be made by the seller, the exact financial condition of the company whose stock is being sold, and various other provisions which in our opinion make it impossible for any purchasers to be misled in the slightest degree."

47 YOUNG PILGRIMS VISIT MONROE HOME

James Monroe High School Pupils From Here Attend 'Ash Lawn' Dedication.

Special to The New York Times.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., May 2.—If the fifth President of the United States is elected to the Hall of Fame, the James Monroe High School of New York City will buy a bust of Monroe, costing $3,000, to be placed at Ash Lawn, home of the author of the Monroe Doctrine, recently purchased by Mr. and Mrs. Jay W. Johns, of Pittsburgh, Pa., and converted into a national shrine.

Dr. Martin L. Wilson, professor of history at the James Monroe School, who made the announcement, accompanied a delegation of forty-seven pupils from that institution here to attend exercises at Ash Lawn in connection with the formal dedication of the new shrine.

Dr. Wilson expressed confidence that the Hall of Fame electors would pass favorably on the selection of Monroe. He stated that the committee of tweny-one, appointed to select names to go before the electors, had already sent in their ballots, and that the result would be made known by the middle of May.

"There seems to be a feeling," said Dr. Wilson, "that Monroe's name will be selected by May 15th."

The New York school children put in a busy afternoon here today. Arriving over the Southern Railway shortly after noon, they were taken to the Monticello Hotel for luncheon and thence to Monticello, home of Thomas Jefferson, where an hour was spent in inspecting the mansion and going over the spacious grounds, with their rare trees.

From Monticello the children proceeded to the Monroe home, where they were cordially welcomed by the new owners, Mr. and Mrs. Johns. On hand, also, to greet the pupils were the members of the senior class of Lane High School, this city.

Brief addresses welcoming the young pilgrims were made by Dr. James G. Johnson, superintendent of the public schools of Charlottesville, and by A. L. Bennett, head of the public schools of Albemarle County.

After a visit to the grounds and buildings of the University of Virginia, the party departed at 5:30 P. M. for Washington.

HARVARD SCRUBWOMEN TO RECEIVE 'BACK PAY'

Corliss Lamont Says University Will Give Each $280—Plan to Raise Fund Here Held Up.

The governing boards of Harvard University will pay $280 in "back wages" to each of twenty scrubwomen employed at the Widener Library at Harvard, who were discharged last December after it was disclosed that they were getting less than the minimum prescribed by the Massachusetts Minimum Wage Commission, it was learned here yesterday.

In consequence of this decision the Harvard alumni group here, headed by Corliss Lamont, instructor in philsophy at Columbia and son of Thomas W. Lamont, who had planned to raise funds by alumni subscription with which to pay the women the difference between the Harvard wage and the minimum wage, will abandon its plans.

Young Mr. Lamont nearly two months ago protested to the university authorities. Fifty-two alumni, many of them prominent, signed the letter, which suggested payment of "back wages" and requested an explanation of the policy of the university toward its scrubwomen.

It was said that the scrubwomen had been paid at the rate of thirty-five cents an hour, whereas the prescribed minimum rate was thirty-seven cents an hour. This rate, it was said, had been paid for nine years to the Widener Library scrubwomen, who were regularly employed for five hours a day. The $280 recommended for each woman would reimburse her for the two-cent shortage over the nine-year period.

It is understood that since the announcement of the alumni plan, a representative of the governing boards has been in New York and consulted with the group. According to the report, the local group agreed to abandon its subscription plan on the representation that the authorities in Cambridge would issue a statement within the next few weeks to the effect that it had been decided, after an inquiry, to reimburse the women.

Mr. Lamont, however, would say yesterday only that the subscription plan had been "indefinitely postponed." His formal statement was:

"The project of raising a fund among Harvard alumni for the Widener Library scrubwomen has been indefinitely postponed because of hope that the whole scrubwomen affair can be satisfactorily and justly settled through other and better methods."

SUSPENDS FREQUENCY RULE

Radio Board Also Abandons Hearing Plan After Court Order.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—The Federal Radio Commission today suspended until July 31 its recent order changing the frequencies of twenty-six radio stations. At the same time it abandoned the plan to grant any dissatisfied station a hearing on June 17. This action was the result of the stay order issued by the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia in the case of KYW, Chicago, which stated that no hearing should be held until the appeal is disposed of by the court.

The commission today approved the incorporation papers of Aeronautical Radio, Inc., a new public utility established by various aviation companies to take over the communication work. At present various aviation companies hold station licenses, but in the future this business will be handled by the new public utility.

Radio Show at Atlantic City.

More than 30,000 dealers, jobbers and manufacturers are expected to attend the Sixth Annual Convention and Trade Show of the Radio Manufacturers' Association the week of June 2 at Atlantic City, at least 200 manufacturers of radio products, according to an association representative, will display their wares in the new Municipal Auditorium. At the annual dinner of the event, to be held on June 4 in the ballroom of the Municipal Auditorium, an entertainment and musical revue will be given under the sponsorship of Radio-Keith-Orpheum.

SEES THE AMERICAS FORGED IN PEACE

Ambassador Alfara Calls Pan-American Treaties Most Advanced in World.

ARBITRATION IS KEYSTONE

This Shunts Clashes to Adjustment by International Law, He Tells Relations Institute.

Special to The New York Times.

JACKSONVILLE, Ill., May 2.—The second day of the Institute of Pan-American Relations in session at Illinois Women's College and fostered by Chester De Witt Pugsley, philanthropist of Peekskill, N. Y., was featured tonight by an address delivered by Señor Dr. Don Ricardo Alfaro, Ambassador of the Republic of Panama to the United States. Dr. Alfaro discussed "The progress of conciliation and arbitration on the American Continent." The address was heard by 700 deleagtes and guests.

"The Pan-American treaties are unquestionably the most advanced multilateral treaties in existence today," declared Señor Alfaro. "The Pan-American treaties were signed in Washington Jan. 5, 1929, and provided for the obligatory arbitration of all disputes among the larger Commonwealths in the American Continent. The basis of arbitration is found in international law. Civilized nations live within international law. The result of the violation of this general principle must needs be war or arbitration. We have condemned the former and want to organize the latter.

"The Pan-American treaties form a composite structure responding to one single purpose of peace founded upon justice. The spirit of the treaty was conceived in honesty and its provisions drafted with accuracy. We can have faith and cherish the hope that there will be no attempts to avoid arbitration."

Other speakers on today's program were Professor J. Fred Rippy of Drake University, who discussed "problems involved in our relations with Mexico"; H. C. Herring, "The Elements of a Constructive Policy Toward Mexico"; Professor Isaac Cox of Northwestern University, "The Future of the Latin-American Policy," and Professor William S. Robertson of the University of Illinois, "Problems Involved in Our Relations with South America."

Paying tribute to Ambassador Morrow, Mr. Herring said:

"He did not go to Mexico and begin to talk about property rights; he let the people there know he was interested in their art, culture and great men."

Other elements of a constructive policy toward Mexico, Dr. Herring declared, are redefinition of the Monroe Doctrine, clarification of the principle of intervention, interchange of professors and students, and building up an American public opinion favorable to Mexican progress.

Professor Rippy, discussing the problems involved in our relations with Mexico, said that Mexican fear of annexation by the United States had been one cause of anti-American sentiment there, which European nations had been quick to capitalize.

Professor Cox said that America's entry into the World Court would promote friendly relations with all Latin America, while increasing our naval strength at this time would add to the feeling of distrust. He said that Latin America now has ten to twelve thousand students studying here, many of them as beneficiaries of the Guggenheim Foundation.

Dr. William S. Robertson of the University of Illinois declared that ignorance of American business men of conditions in Latin America is responsible for decreased trade. There are four times as many British banks there as American, while Germany is making greater progress in developing commercial aviation, he said.

College Music for Byrd Tonight.

A special college music program will be broadcast to Rear Admiral Byrd tonight at 11:10 o'clock, Eastern Daylight time, over KDKA, by the Red Arrow Quartet and the Golden Arrow Orchestra of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, at Pittsburgh. Following this, messages will be transmitted to other members of the Byrd Expedition, and to other exploration parties now absent on trips.

AESCHYLUS DRAMA STAGED.

Athens Observes Second Day of Its Three of Delphic Festivals.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ATHENS, May 2.—Today, the second of three days of Delphic festivals in honor of the centenary of Greek independence, saw the production of Aeschylus's drama "The Suppliants" before the same audience which attended yesterday's performance. Fifty daughters of Danaus, dressed in costumes of old Egypt, sang in the chorus, performing meanwhile intricate movements.

The music was written by the Greek composer Pachos and is supposed to be a revival of classic melodies. The performance, which is the first since the days of ancient Greece, is a result of the long study and careful production of Angelos Sikelianos and his American wife, Eva. The audience expressed its delight by enthusiastic demonstrations at the close of the play.

Angelos Sikelianos made a speech urging support of all the human race in his endeavors to revive the Delphic spirit of creative love awakening the conscience of humanity. He urged as the most valuable step toward creating a spirit of world unity the establishment of a great world university at Delphi.

Tomorrow Pythian athletic games will be performed in the stadium. Subsequently there will be Macedonian war dances and torchlight processions. The Delphic festivals will end with speeches by Greek and foreign literary personalities.

Hunter Circolo to Give Plays.

The Circolo Italiano of Hunter College will present two one-act plays this evening at the MacDowell Club, 166 East Seventy-third Street. The plays are "Tredici a Tavola," by Giovanni Salvestri, in which Concetta Dragotta, Mary E. Todaro, Connie Licari, Grace Esposito, Lucretia Araneo and Ines Romeo will appear, and "La Giara," by Luigi Pirandello, the cast of which will include Laura Passanese, Vincenzina Schiavi, Rose Cavallaro, Sadie D'Orio, Rose Sottollaro, Violet Nocito, Anna Marno, Bettie Poretto, Vincenza Badalamento, Elizabeth Titterton and Mary Bruno.

THE SCREEN

By MORDAUNT HALL.

A Sparkling Extravaganza.

KING OF JAZZ, with Paul Whiteman, John Boles, Laura La Plante, Jeanette Loff, Glenn Tryon, Merna Kennedy, Kathryn Crawford, Stanley Smith, William Kent, Grace Hayes, Sisters G, the Brox Sisters, George Chiles, Jacques Cartier, Frank Leslie, Charles Irwin, the Russell Markert dancers and others, with songs and lyrics by George Gershwin, Mabel Wayne, Milton Ager and Jack Yellen, music score by Ferdie Grofe, directed by John Murray Anderson, produced by Universal Pictures Corporation. At the Roxy Theatre.

John Murray Anderson's initial contribution to the audible screen, "King of Jazz," with the rotund Paul Whiteman, reveals this director to be a magician of far greater powers than one imagined, even from his stage compositions. This Technicolor potpourri of songs, dancing and fun is a marvel of camera wizardry, joyous color schemes, charming costumes and seductive lighting effects. The only adverse criticism to be offered is that some of the sequences are a little somber, but even in these stretches Mr. Anderson's highly artistic and imaginative mind is constantly apparent.

It is one of the very few pictures in which there is no catering to the unsophisticated mentality, for all the widely different features are of a high order and yet one can readily presume that they will appeal to all types of audiences.

This "King of Jazz," referred to as an extravaganza, is something to be expected only from a director well versed in motion pictures, and the wonder that it should be Mr. Anderson's first film impresses one with the value of stage training in making vocalized films. For even in photographic tricks it is apparent in this picture that Mr. Anderson has ruled the roost. Also there is nothing imitative, all the various turns being blessed with originality. Dance numbers on the screen have invariably been tedious, but in "King of Jazz" they are never on the screen too long, and while they are on exhibition they are thoroughly diverting.

This sparkling piece of work has the audacity to commence with a remarkably clever cartoon series of jocose scenes telling how Mr. Whiteman wos crowned king of jazz. No sooner is that over than a giant Whiteman appears on the screen, and he is asked by Charles Irwin, the master of ceremonies, as to the whereabouts of the jazz king's band. Mr. Whiteman has a small box, and he informs Mr. Irwin that the forty musicians are in it. The tiny men are produced from the box and mount the elaborate stand, and soon they assume the same proportions as the image of Mr. Whiteman. Several of the musicians are introduced individually, and finally there is presented an opulent number called "The Bridal Veil," during the course of which Jeanette Loff is heard rendering a pleasing song. The charm of this number, like many of the others, reveals that Mr. Anderson has visualized the full possibilities of the camera in connection with his flights of fancy.

As each number vanishes from the screen there comes to view Whiteman's huge scrapbook, another page of which is turned for the forthcoming feature. One of the witty interludes, as brief as some of Noel Coward's scintillating shafts, shows Laura La Plante as a city editor of a sensational feminine newspaper. She wants alacrity from her staff. A girl reporter comes in and reports that a building in Forty-third Street has been burned to the ground. The city editor wants to know when it happened, and the reporter says: "Ten minutes ago." Another reporter announces that a big bank has been robbed five minutes before. A third member of the staff dashes up to her chief, declaring: "Woman shoots her husband." Miss La Plante requests to know when it happened, and the reporter, with a staying hand, says:

"Wait, listen." And then a pistol report is heard!

John Boles, a far better John Boles than was seen in "Captain of the Guard," sings something about a romance on the Rio Grande, and then there are dainty ballads from several girls. There is Jack White, who is described by Mr. Irwin as a "fellow of infiniate jest, but just a little nutty." White sings a dream about a fish fight. The Brox Sisters also render a melody in a skit called "Bench in the Park," and then follows an amusing parody called "All Noisy on the Eastern Front."

An impressive conception of George Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue" is set forth with much artistry. The primitive musical elements are registered by the rhythmic beating of a drum, and gradually this grows into the playing of jazz on the usual instruments.

If anything, the "Melting Pot" number, the last of the series, is the most elaborate and impressive of all. William Kent, a comedian who appears in all the skits and does exceptionally able work, receives the opportunity at this latter stage of events to recite a comic bit about his intense affection for two goldfish. It is something that has to be seen to be appreciated and it aroused gusts of laughter yesterday afternoon.

The climax to this beautiful and artistic series of scenes is the rendering of tunes and songs from many nations that are finally blended into a whole.

There is no sequence that isn't worth witnessing and no performance that is not capable in this fast-paced picture.

Mr. Whiteman appears in person and conducts the orchestra. George Gershwin is also to be seen in the flesh, playing his "Rhapsody in Blue."

"The Living Corpse."

REDEMPTION, with John Gilbert, Renee Adoree, Conrad Nagel, Eleanor Boardman, Claire McDowell, Augustin Borgato, Charles Quartermaine and George Spelvin, based on Leo Tolstoy's drama, "The Living Corpse," directed by Fred Niblo; overture, "Selections of the Ballet"; "Japanese," a stage revue, with Nell Kelly and others. At the Capitol.

In the talking pictoral version of Leo Tolstoy's drama, "The Living Corpse," John Gilbert essays the difficult task of impersonating Fedya, the man who arranges matters so that his wife and friends imagine that he is no longer in the land of the living. This chronicle comes to the screen under the title of "Redemption." It is hardly a successful venture, for much of the time Mr. Gilbert and the other players are given to declaiming their lines.

As it has been arranged for the screen, it is not an intriguing work. The passage of time is denoted by a few subtitles, which in this particular instance are by no means really helpful. It is a picture wherein the characters are seldom real, and added to this coincidences occur in a surprising fashion.

As Fedya, Mr. Gilbert undertakes to be a light-hearted ne'er-do-well who, in spite of the pleading of his wife, cannot cure himself of the fever of gambling. Mr. Gilbert's cheerfulness is not natural and his habit of smiling and laughing strikes one as though he did so to conceal his own nervousness.

Eleanor Boardman plays Lisa, the charming girl whom Fedya wins after she had become engaged to Victor Karenin. Miss Boardman's acting is decidedly more life-like than Mr. Gilbert's, but she is handicapped to some extent by the direction and by the dialogue.

To Renée Adorée falls the lot of playing Masha, the gypsy, with whom Fedya becomes infatuated. Fedya tells the dark-eyed wench that she has turned his soul inside out by her singing and Masha, being at the time extremely mundane, informs Fedya that he had better turn his purse inside out. This is the sort of thing that crops up all too frequently and it results in the watching of the scenes being hard work rather than entertainment.

Lisa is a long-suffering wife, so much so that the spectator becomes not a little tired of her forgiving constantly the inhuman selfishness of her husband. There will be but few persons who see this picture that regret Fedya's finally taking his own life. Possibly many will breathe a sigh of relief that the halting and artificial account of Tolstoy's work has come to an end.

OLD AND NEW, a Soviet production directed by S. M. Eisenstein and George V. Alexandrov; Russian news reel; Pathe sound news; Charlie Chaplin's old comedy, "Shoulder Arms." At the Cameo.

S. M. Eistenstein, the young Russian who produced "Potemkin" and whom Douglas Fairbanks hopes to engage to direct his next picture, is responsible for an enlightening cinematic study called "Old and New," which is to be seen now at the Cameo. In this film, a silent one, Mr. Eisenstein ridicules the Greek Church and also pokes fun at the Soviet bureaucracy. It is another production in which Bolsheviks blow their own horn for their efforts in introducing modern agricultural and other machinery in the near and remote areas of Russia.

Although this picture possesses in most of its scenes a fund of interest, there are times when Mr. Eistenstein dilates too long on some of his sequences, and consequently they become a trifle tedious. Throughout this film, however, this producer reveals his keen observation and his marvelous faculty of stressing his points by means of photography.

In quite a number of instances he delights in extravagances, either in portrayinig the abject poverty of the people or in depicting the greed and laziness of the more fortunate farmer. One is impelled to think as these scenes are shown that Mr. Eisenstein has selected isolated cases to make his film impressive.

His ability to show the expanse of country on a relatively small screen is marvelous, and so is his work in close-ups. As in "Potemkin," which was infinitely more dramatic, the director in this current work is usually careful in the choosing of his types. There are never two persons alike among those who appear in this film. The woman, Martha, who, following starvation and disappointment because she cannot borrow a horse to work on her tract of land, turns out to be a kind of Joan of Arc of the soil, one who urges revolution against the prevailing conditions during the Romanoff régime. She encourages the acceptance of new inventions, the first of which is a separator. There are some remarkable views portraying the hopeful persons and the doubting ones watching the working of this machine.

It is during a stretch in which the priests and peasants are praying for rain that Mr. Eisenstein makes a target of the Church. There are the men and women on their knees with their heads bent low and the priests holding ecclesiastical banners leading the populace in prayer. Rain is expected after the service, but disappointed persons raise their eyes to the skies and perceive no welcome clouds. The priests mop their perspiring faces and eventually leave the spot.

Mr. Eisenstein goes on to show the wonderful improvement wrought by the agricultural machinery, and finally brings his production to a close with the performance of a tractor pulling a long train of carts, much to the wonder of many of the peasants, who had fancied that no machinery could take the place of the horse in the work on the soil.

In directing this film Mr. Eisenstein was assisted by George V. Alexandrov.

DOROTHY MACKAILL IN FILM.

She Plays Role of Novelist in "Strictly Modern" at Strand.

STRICTLY MODERN, with Dorothy Mackaill, Sidney Blackmer, Julanne Johnston, Warner Richmond and others, directed by William A. Seiter, based on the play by Hubert Henry Davies; program of sound shorts and sound news reel. At Warners' Strand.

Dorothy Mackaill in "Strictly Modern," the photoplay at the Warners' Strand, plays the rôle of a popular novelist who writes on the finer passions. By her own admission she is lonesome because of many experiences with men, none of whom she could bring herself to love. It is not until she meets and falls in love with an ideal man that she discovers him to be the one who left her cousin waiting at the church, a matter she is on her way to remedy at the moment.

The situation is solved by having the judge, who performs the marriage ceremony, and who is secretly in love with the girl, faint at the climactic moment so that the wedding is halted and the proper persons may fall into each other's arms.

It is all very obvious from the start, but contains a few entertaining moments.

DR. FU MANCHU RETURNS.

New Series of Adventures Less Exciting Than Predecessor.

That charmingly insidious Oriental, Dr. Fu Manchu, whose Eastern complacency so completely baffles Inspector Nayland of Scotland Yard, is on the screen of the Paramount in a new series of adventures.

In this episode he dies, is resurrected, is shot and heals, is operated upon and is cured; in fact, one would never imagine that the revenge-seeking doctor could ever survive the gamut he runs. It is presumed that this chosen of celestials, whose devilish concoctions can effect anything from mental paralysis to the elimination of rust on iron, applies the same measures for his own safety and it is only when he is thrown bodily over a balcony ledge into a pool many feet below with a bomb in his hand that explodes as he strikes the water that one feels sure of his extermination. But who can tell? In the last episode he took poison and was embalmed.

The events this time concern the last of the generation Dr. Fu is trying to obliterate. Dr. Petrie, a young physician, is about to marry Lia, whom Manchu once held in his power. Dr. Fu tries to capture Petrie, but suceeds only in dragging off his fiancée. Inspector Smith and Lady Agatha. Many ruses are attempted by the Chinese to gain his ends, but they are all futile.

The picture drags too much and is handicapped at the beginning by one of the characters who at various times is required to explain what has gone before. Dr. Fu is too consistently successful and no allowances are made for his possible frustration according to the law of averages. Melodramatic as the film is, it is not quite as exciting as its predecessor, "The Mysterious Dr. Fu," in which Warner Oland did better work. O. P. Heggie as the Inspector, Neil Hamilton as Petrie and Jean Arthur in the rôle of Lia are acceptable.

MARKET CRASH IN TALKIE.

"Clancy in Wall Street" at Colony Contrasts Scot and Irish.

CLANCY IN WALL STREET, with Charles Murray, Lucien Littlefield, Aggie Herring, Edward Nugent, Miriam Seegar and others; newsreel; short sound films. At the Colony.

"Clancy in Wall Street" is a medley of Irish optimism and Scottish caution, tinted by a pale and somewhat ineffective romance, and is brought to an obvious conclusion by the inevitable market crash.

For twenty years Michael Clancy and Andy MacIntosh were close friends and business partners, when capricious fate and the ticker tape tempted Clancy into stock speculation. Opposed by cautious MacIntosh in using the firm's money for margin purposes, Clancy dissolves their partnership in the plumbing business. Andy is crestfallen, but Clancy is apparently nonchalant.

For a while Clancy rides on the crest of Wall Street fortune. To humiliate his old pal, he calls MacIntosh to repair a pipe in his pretentious home.

He fails, however, to impress his daughter Katie, who refuses to marry Freddie Saunders, financial adviser of her father, preferring young Donald MacIntosh, her childhood sweetheart.

The situation is conveniently solved by the market crash, which wipes out all paper profits. Poorer but wiser, Clancy is welcomed back to the heart and business of his old pal, just in time to bless the young couple.

The plot is somewhat the worse for wear, and the execution helped little to bolster up the weak structure. Charles Murray is his old self, perhaps a little too much the same. Mr. Littlefield appears somewhat more convincing in his characterization of the Scot, who can't help being "tight, despite his natural generosity."

"SECOND STORY MURDER."

Weak Mystery Film Carricature Is Flat and Uninteresting.

THE SECOND STORY MURDER, with Grant Withers, Loretta Young, Claude King, John Loder and Crauford Kent, based on the novel "The Agony Column," by Earl Derr Biggers, directed by Roy Del Ruth; newsreel; Ann Pennington in "Hello Baby"; Eddie Buzzell and Lou Holtz in Vitaphone varieties. At Warner's Beacon.

"The Second Story Murder" is best described as an attempt at humorous carricature of the hyper-modern wholesale-murder melodramas. It has an oddly woven plot, which begins innocently enough with grapefruits and strawberries and closes with the inevitable embrace. In between runs a nightmare, lasting 58 minutes, which has a jerky theme and is illogical and uninteresting.

The mystery of two murders, with the same victim doomed twice, for no apparent reason, creates little of the promised thrills and leaves none in its wake. Contrary to detective story traditions, the characters look innocent but insist upon pleading guilty.

In the middle the fragile plot-balloon collapses just to be blown up again, this time producing conspirators, infernal mechanism and a dread assignment for the hero to kill or die. As anticipated, however, he escapes with the heroine, but only to find, as did the audience, that the game wasn't worth the candle.

Poor photography further detracted from the picture. The lifeless, unconvincing acting of the cast may be due partly to the unplausible situations they had to portray.

Fox Film Promotes Grainger.

James R. Grainger, formerly general sales manager of the Fox Film Corporation, was elected vice president in charge of sales and distribution in the United States and Canada of that company, it was announced yesterday by Harley L. Clarke, president of Fox.

"SHIP AHOY" AT C. C. N. Y.

Musical Comedy Written by Students to Open Tonight.

"Ship Ahoy," a musical comedy written and performed by undergraduates at the City College, will open tonight in the Academic Theatre of the Commerce Centre, Twenty-third Street and Lexington Avenue. The book and lyrics were written by Bert Cotton, '30; music by Harry Wilner, '30, and Al Lebidinsky, '33; musical interpolations by Irving Samuels, '30; Sam Kurtzman, '30, and Charles Hayman, '31.

The play deals with the activities of a student body aboard a floating university.

Principals in the cast are Sam Kurtzman, Hal Alexander, Travis Levy, Irving E. Schwartz, Jack Slonim, Charles Phinney and Misses Helen Weill, Annette Fass, Gertrude Mayer and Alice Lerman, students of Hunter College. The rehearsals were directed by Jack Pearl of the "International Revue."

Performances will be given on Friday and Saturday evenings of next week.

Sidney Harris Quits Theatre Field.

Sidney Harris, manager of the George M. Cohan Theatre for ten years and widely known in theatrical circles, will resign as manager of the house on Monday to become associated with his brother's Curb brokerage firm. As a parting gift Mr. Harris's colleagues and attachés of the theatre will present an automobile to him. Before assuming the managership of the George M. Cohan Theatre Mr. Harris was connected with Charles B. Dillingham for fifteen years and with Louis F. Werba.

Theatre League to Meet Monday.

The next meeting of the New York Theatre League, which is bringing theatre men and ticket brokers together in an effort to curb speculation, will be held next Monday afternoon at the office of Gilbert Miller. It had been scheduled for yesterday, but was postponed until a final draft of the incorporation papers could be prepared. It is expected that an executive secretary will be selected on Monday.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

"Room 349" will close at the National Theatre tonight and "Penal Law 2010" will be withdrawn from the Biltmore.

Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne will arrive in New York next Wednesday from Jamaica. They will spend the Summer in Wisconsin.

Heywood Broun's week at the Palace Theatre will begin on Saturday, May 17.

THE PLAY

By J. BROOKS ATKINSON.

Dramatic Ailment.

THE TRAITOR, a play in three acts by Charles H. Brown, adapted from a short story in Robert Louis Stevenson's "New Arabian Nights," entitled "The Pavilion on the Links." Staged by Maurice Barrett; produced by Mr. Brown. At the Little Theatre.

Frank Cassilis	Frank Henderson
Beppo	Guglielmo D'Rosa
Donald	John Lott
Agnes	Vera Fuller-Mellish
Robert Northmour	Charles Penman
Clara Huddlestone	Don Currie
Bernard Huddlestone	Fuller Mellish

The drama ailed more than usual at the Little Theatre last evening, where Charles H. Brown was producing "The Traitor," which he had written himself. Taking Robert Louis Stevenson's romantic mystery story, "The Pavilion on the Links," as the substance of his drama, Mr. Brown has tempered its mystery considerably but indulged its literary flavor to excess. The story, as you may remember, shows how the Carbonarri, who never forget, track down a banker who has defaulted with their liquid assets and kill him among the lonely dunes and quicksands of Northern Scotland. The action transpires, as the program puts it, about 1830.

All the suspense is lost in the play, but Mr. Brown has outdone himself with the romance. One of his young heroes he describes impressionistically as a "rover, rogue and misanthrope." The other, Frank Cassiles, is of fairer complexion. "I am just a lonely wanderer, Agnes," he says, straining ardently toward the audience. He follows his fancy, hither and yon. "Will you share with me my Vagabondia?" he implores Agnes, who is something in the hot-blooded way herself. Before she can answer fairly they are interrupted. "Oh, it was a mad moment!" she explains, drooping demurely. Well, as Frank whimsically declares later on in the play, "Dame Fortune is a fickle jade, sir." Perhaps it was that fickle jade who lured into the theatre last evening a sleepy reveler who woke up when the play was becoming skittish and roared "Bang!" in no uncertain terms. Representatives of law and order immediately rushed him outside. But it is to be feared that he had spoken for most of the people in the audience. "Bang" is as intelligent a comment as such a play, badly acted, can spontaneously inspire.

PRIZE PLAY GETS R.K.O. BID.

Mount Vernon Group Asked to Give Synge Work in Vaudeville.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., May 2.—The Community Players of Mount Vernon, three times winner of Westchester County little theatre tournaments, have been asked to present their current prize-winning production, John M. Synge's "The Shadow of the Glen," in a series of performances for Radio-Keith-Orpheum, according to George Pendleton, president of the Community Players.

It was announced on the final evening of the tournament, held here the week of April 21, that for the first time since the tournament was started five years ago a vaudeville company had offered to book the winning play if it was judged suitable for circuit purposes. Mr. Pendleton announced today that R. K. O. has decided to use the one-act play produced in the tournament this year.

Two factors enter into the question of whether the Mount Vernon players can accept the offer. One, Mr. Pendleton said, is the difficulty the three business men in the cast may have in obtaining sufficient time from their work to play the required number of circuit performances. A second factor is whether the play can be run on the circuit without damaging the amateur standing of the players. Anthony Seitz, a member of the cast, said he did not believe the standing of the players would be affected if they played gratis. It is expected that any funds derived from the booking would be deposited in the organization's treasury.

Mr. Pendleton said he would know on Monday if the vaudeville offer will be accepted. The cast consists of D. E. Wheeler, Mrs. Florence Aitken Tompkins, Anthony Seitz and Robert Wilkinson. The production was directed by Donald Willson.

JED HARRIS SAILS TODAY.

To Engage in London Several Actors for His Next Season's Plays.

Jed Harris, who is currently represented on the Broadway stage by "Uncle Vanya," will sail on the Leviathan this morning for a short stay in London, the object of which will be to engage several players for his next season's productions. It is understood that Mr. Harris has been negotiating with a prominent player to appear in the title rôle of "Othello," opening here about Christmas time. The producer has already mentioned Lillian Gish for the part of Desdemona and Osgood Perkins as Iago.

Preceding "Othello" will be a dramatization by Frank Elser of the Liam O'Flaherty novel, "Mr. Gilhooley." Further details concerning Mr. Harris's plans will soon be announced.

MUSIC NOTES.

"La Juive" will be sung tonight by the Royal Grand Opera Company at Gabel's Public Theatre, Fourth Street and Second Avenue.

The Little Theatre Opera Company is continuing its auditions for new singers next season, with more than 125 applicants up to date.

Harold Friedell has begun a series of organ recitals on Tuesdays at 12:30 P. M. at Calvary Church, Fourth Avenue and Twenty-first Street.

James Wolfe, bass-baritone, will assist Jane Manner in a recital next Thursday evening at the New Little Theatre, 6 West Sixty-fourth Street.

"COMPLETE, WELL-BALANCED PUBLICATION"
• • Publishers throughout this country and particularly those directing newspapers in smaller communities, regard The New York Times as the model for a complete, well-balanced and nearly ideal publication. The Times has never gotten away from the idea that a newspaper is essentially a portrayer of the world news and in no journal is the reading public presented a more complete survey daily than in The New York Times.

CHURCH STRIFE END SOUGHT BY COUNCIL

Presbyterian Assembly Will Get a Report on Dissensions Between Sessions and Trustees.

CARE IN ELECTION URGED

"Tactless and Domineering" Persons Should Not Be Put in Office, It Is Declared.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, May 2.—Causes of dissension and strife between the sessions and boards of trustees of Presbyterian Churches and suggested remedial measures are to be reported to the General Assembly at Cincinnati late this month by the General Council, headed by the Rev. Dr. Cleland B. McAfee, the Moderator.

When the issue came up on the floor of the General Assembly last year it was suggested that the two governing bodies of every church, session and trustees be merged as a step toward unity and efficiency. Establishment of a single board was the step taken in an effort to solve the Princeton Seminary controversy between the directors and the trustees.

Contending that such amendments would be so radical that their approval by the presbyteries was doubtful, it pointed out that the effect of a single board could be obtained in any church by the simple expedient of electing the same group of members to both bodies.

"The origin of dissension and strife as between session and trustees," the council says, "is not infrequently due to the presence in one or both bodies, by reason of our human frailties, of misinformed, or tactless, or domineering individuals.

"A church should, for the sake of its own peace and prosperity refrain from electing to or continuing in office persons possessing any of these characteristics.

"No laws or regulations, ecclesiastical or civil, can take the place of or afford a remedy for the absence of Christian courtesy, consideration and cooperation."

DOCTORS HONOR JACOBI.

Centenary Observed at Dinner of Academy of Medicine.

Dr. William H. Welch, known as the "dean of American medicine," was the principal speaker last night at a dinner at the Academy of Medicine, Fifth Avenue and 103d Street, in commemoration of the centenary of the birth of Dr. Abraham Jacobi, one of Dr. Welch's teachers and coworkers in the development of American medicine. Dr. Welch, who recently celebrated his eightieth birthday, paid tribute to Dr. Jacobi as a "notable contributor to the art and science of pediatrics."

Referring to the elements of German science and culture brought to the United States by Dr. Jacobi, who was born in Westphalia, Dr. Welch said that his teacher's career was an example of the "revolt against the melting pot," and the advantage of the retention of the elements of national cultures in the life of America.

Other speakers were Dr. Fielding H. Garrison, Miss Lillian D. Wald of the Henry Street Settlement, George McAneny, head of the Regional Plan Association and son-in-law of Dr. Jacobi. Dr. Mary Taylor, a niece, also was present.

The toastmaster was Dr. John A. Hartwell, president of the Academy of Medicine.

PARK GROUP IN APPEAL.

Straus, Making Plea for Members, Reviews Association's Work.

Nathan Straus Jr., president of the Park Association, with headquarters at 71 West Twenty-third Street, has issued an appeal for extended membership in the organization.

In his announcement, made public yesterday, Mr. Straus said that the association was now cooperating with the city authorities in evolving a financial plan for the purchase of 2,700 acres of additional park lands, as recommended by the Metropolitan Conference on Parks. Achievements of the organization in the past few years, he said, include the protection of the city parks from commercial encroachments, campaigns for the appropriation by the city of adequate sums to maintain and develop city parks, and agitation which has resulted in the purchase of more than 2,750 acres for parks in the Greater City in the past four years.

Life members in the association pay $1,000; founder members, $100; sustaining members, $25; acting members, $10; contributing members, $5; and community and junior members $1.

Other officers of the association are Lawrence Craner, executive secretary; Amos L. Beaty, vice president; Mrs. Arthur H. Sulzberger, vice president, and William H. Williams, treasurer.

Hospital Children Confirmed.

Fifty boys in the State reformatory and a large class of boys and girls at the Children's Hospital on Welfare Island were confirmed in the Protestant Episcopal Church yesterday afternoon by Bishop Hugh Latimer Burleson of South Dakota. The service at the reformatory was at three o'clock, and that at the hospital an hour later. The classes were prepared by the chaplains which are maintained by the City Mission Society at both institutions.

Dr. Butler to Speak From London.

Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, President of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, and of Columbia University, is scheduled to be heard on May 7 at 12 o'clock, noon, Eastern Daylight Time, over WABC's network, as he speaks from the Richard Cobden Club in London on "Nation Building—and Beyond." The talk will be carried across the Atlantic by short-wave radio telephony, following Dr. Butler's introduction by Viscount Cecil.

PLANS ARE APPROVED FOR ROOSEVELT SHRINE

Memorial Group Says $3,500,000 Building at West 79th St. Will Be Ready in 1932.

Final plans for the $3,500,000 Roosevelt memorial building and arch, which the State is now erecting at Central Park West and Seventy-ninth Street adjoining the American Museum of Natural History, were approved yesterday by the trustees of the Roosevelt Memorial Commission at a meeting at the museum, Dr. Henry Fairfield Osborn, chairman of the board of trustees, announced. The structure should be finished by the Autumn of 1932, Dr. Osborn said. It will commemorate the life of the late Theodore Roosevelt.

The building, which will be five stories in height, has been designed by John Russell Pope, the architect, who won a State-wide competition. Work on the building began last Fall under the direction of State Commissioner of Architecture William E. Haugaard, who advised the trustees that the superstructure would be completed by Sept. 1. The sum of $250,000 has already been expended for the competition and for the construction of the foundations of the building and the steel superstructure up to the first floor.

The original appropriation, made at the time former Governor Smith appointed the commission, was $2,500,000, but this year's Legislature, at the request of Governor Roosevelt, added $1,000,000. The total sum, Dr. Osborn said, would be sufficient for the erection of the memorial. He added that the plans will be transmitted to Colonel Frederick Stuart Greene, Superintendent of Public Works for the State, who is expected to approve them in time for contracts to be let by Aug. 1.

The building will be shaped in the form of an arch, more than sixty feet high and flanked on either side by huge granite columns supporting figures representing the phases of Roosevelt's life. The arch will be crowned by a solid, simply inscribed parapet wall.

A paved granite terrace, 350 feet in length, with huge pedestals at both ends carved in bas-relief, will supply a setting for the façade. It will be reached by a short run of steps from the sidewalk. Adjoining the terrace at both ends and encircling it in the rear, a vehicular driveway will lead up a gentle slope to the first floor.

In the centre of the terrace, immediately in front of the great arch, will rise a polished granite pedestal bearing an equestrian statue of Colonel Roosevelt, now being sculptured by James E. Fraser, with two accompanying figures on foot, one representing the American Indian and the other the primitive African. This group will be thirty feet above the sidewalk.

Within will be a trustee's room, a memorabilia room, lecture study and class rooms, offices and laboratories, rest rooms and a cafeteria.

MUSEUM GETS FAUNA FROM SOUTH AMERICA

Six Months Expedition Crosses Andes Six Times in Search for Species for Collections.

Extensive collections of South American fauna have been brought back to this country by the Ottley-Anthony South American Expedition of the American Museum of Natural History, the museum announced yesterday. The expedition has just returned here after six months in the field, during which the Andes were crossed six times. It was financed by Gilbert Ottley, who acted as field assistant to H. E. Anthony, curator of mammals at the museum, who headed the expedition.

The expedition arrived in Peru last November and made its first collections at Macchu Picchu. After more collecting at Lake Titacaca, it proceeded into Bolivia, where collections were made at La Paz and Sorata. After a return to civilization, the party set out again, this time into Argentina, where camps were established and further collections made in the coast mountains of Nahuelbuta, on the shores of Lake Llanquihue, and at Puerto Montt.

The field work was interrupted again while the party traveled south 300 miles by coastal steamer. Then, after crossing the cordillera, collections were made in the great forests of southern beech, in Patagonia. Penetrating still further south, the party visited Punta Arenas, near the Straits of Magellan, recrossed the Andes to the cave of Mylodon, and there officially ended the field work of the expedition.

PLANT OAK FOR MISS LOEB.

Children Honor Social Worker at Central Park Dedication.

The dedication of an oak tree to the memory of Miss Sophie Irene Loeb took place yesterday afternoon under the auspices of the Community Councils of New York at the Hecksher Children's Playground in Central Park. Several hundred children from Public School 94 and a large group of citizens attended the ceremony in celebration of Arbor Day.

August Hecksher, Dr. Louis I. Harris, former Health Commissioner, and John Tenant, managing editor of The Evening World, were speakers.

John Kirkland Clark, president of the Community Councils, presented the memorial tree, and its custody on behalf of the city was assumed by J. V. Burgevin, landscape architect of the park. The Rev. Dr. B. A. Tintner delivered an invocation and Miss Irene Wiegand, bugler of Girl Scout Troop 110, sounded "taps." Mrs. Lionel Sutro, chairman of the committee in charge of the ceremony, read "My Creed," which was written by the late Miss Loeb and distributed during her life to many of her friends.

The oak tree was a donation of the Lewis & Valentine Nurseries.

Grant's Birthday Exercises.

When the 109th anniversary of the birth of General U. S. Grant is held tomorrow afternoon at Grant's Tomb, on Riverside Drive, station WOR will broadcast the proceedings beginning at 3 o'clock. The exercises will follow a birthday memorial parade. Among the speakers listed are Brig. General O. B. Rosenbaum, Colonel Robert Starr Allyn, Major Monroe Curtis, Lieut.-General Robert Lee Bullard and Patrick Dowd. The invocation will be by the Rev. Dr. Emanuel J. Jack. The Rev. Dr. Resley Megaw will give the benediction. A musical program will be played by the 16th Infantry, United States Army Band.

TOPICS OF INTEREST TO THE CHURCHGOER

Rev. Dr. Palmer Will Observe His Fortieth Anniversary in the Ministry.

BILLY SUNDAY COMING HERE

Cardinal Hayes to Preside at the Meeting of Women Workers for the Charities Drive.

The Rev. Dr. James Palmer will observe his fortieth aniversary in the ministry on Sunday evening, May 11, by preaching at a special service arranged by friends in his honor in the Manor Reformed Church, 350 West Twenty-sixth Street, of which he was pastor for twenty-three years. Dr. Palmer for the last eight years has been a professor and director of community service in the Biblical Seminary, 239 East Forty-ninth Street. From 1913 to 1922 he was associate pastor of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church, at Fifty-fifth Street, with the late Rev. Dr. John Henry Jowett and the late Rev. Dr. John Kelman. Dr. Palmer has a wife and six daughters, three of whom are married.

"Billy" Sunday, the evangelist, will preach Monday evening in the Cornell Methodist Church, 231 East Seventy-sixth Street, of which the Rev. Lincoln Caswell is the pastor. It will be the first time Mr. Sunday has spoken in this city in thirteen years, when he conducted a twelve weeks' revival in a tabernacle built for him at Broadway and 168th Street, on which the Medical Centre now stands. He will be accompanied to New York by his wife, from Mount Holly, N. J., where he is preaching nightly. They will have dinner at the home of Mrs. J. E. L. Davis, 1,170 Fifth Avenue, who was the head of Bible classes for young women during his Manhattan campaign and has continued this work ever since.

Cardinal Hayes will preside this afternoon at 2:20 o'clock in the Hotel Plaza at the twenty-eighth annual conference of the Ladies of Charity of the Catholic Charities of the Archdiocese of New York.

Twelve hundred cadets of St. Francis Xavier's College are scheduled to parade up Fifth Avenue this morning and attend the 10 o'clock mass of the Sodality of the Blessed Virgin. The students will be led by the Rev. F. X. Delaney. The sermon will be preached by the Rev. Charles V. Connor, for many years spiritual director of the college.

Nearly 4,000 members of the New York Postoffice Holy Name Society will attend the annual corporate communion at the 8 o'clock mass tomorrow in St. Patrick's Cathedral. Cardinal Hayes will be the celebrant of the mass, and it is likely he will make a brief address. A breakfast will follow at the Hotel Astor. Speakers will be the Rev. Joseph P. Turner, the Rev. John A. McClorey, David J. O'Connell, Charles McLaughlin, John M. Blake and Michael F. Walsh. The president of the society is Clarence F. De Witt. The toastmaster will be the Rev. John J. Kiernan, the spiritual director. The program at the breakfast will be broadcast by WGBS.

A special service and reception in honor of the Rev. Dr. Harlan G. Mendenhall, stated clerk of the Presbytery of New York, will be held tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock in the First Magyar Presbyterian Church, 233 East 116th Street. This will be in recognition of his having received last Tuesday at New York University the honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity from the University of Debrecen, Hungary.

The New York Archdiocesan Union of the Sodalities of the Blessed Virgin Mary will attend a corporate communion tomorrow at the 9 o'clock mass in St. Patrick's Cathedral, and will afterward hold its tenth annual communion breakfast in the Hotel Pennsylvania. About 1,000 are expected at the breakfast. Miss Mary Alice Deegan is the president and the Rev. W. J. B. Daly is the spiritual director.

The Rev. Dr. William Carter, pastor of the Throop Avenue Presbyterian Church, Brooklyn, has been made national chaplain of the Reserve Officers' Association of America. He has long been chaplain of the Brooklyn chapter.

A meeting by Catholic, Protestant and Jewish leaders will be held Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock at 23 East Fifty-first Street. Its aim will be to get 500,000 children in this city who are receiving no instruction as soon as possible into a week-day religious school of their own faith. The chairmen for the respective faiths are Mgr. Michael J. Lavelle, rector of St. Patrick's Cathedral, Catholic; the Rev. Dr. David De Sola Pool of the Spanish and Portuguese Synagogue, Jewis; the Rev. Walter M. Howlett, a secretary of the Greater New York Federation of Churches, Protestant.

The Rev. Dr. Samuel Trexler, president of the United Lutheran Synod of New York, will tomorrow rededicate St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Hartford, Conn. Monday Dr. Trexler will make the principal address at the annual Spring meeting of the New England conference of the synod, which will be held in Immanuel Church, Meriden, Conn.

Cardinal Hayes will tomorrow afternoon officiate at the solemn blessing of the new parochial school of the Church of the Holy Family, Castlehill Avenue and 177th Street, the Bronx, of which the Rev. Urban C. Nageleisen is the pastor. The building is four stories and will accommodate 1,500 pupils.

The observance of the fortieth anniversary of the Bedford Park Congregational Church, 201st Street and Bainbridge Avenue, the Bronx, of which the Rev. A. Norman James is pastor, will begin this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock with a parade and flag-raising. The children will be led by Fife and Drum Corps of Public School No. 45. A feature of the service tomorrow morning will be the dedication of a new organ.

The Good Shepherd Auxiliary of Villa Loretto will attend a mass at 9 o'clock tomorrow in the Lady Chapel of St. Patrick's Cathedral. A communion breakfast will follow at the Hotel Roosevelt. The toastmaster will be Lady Armstrong, wife of Sir Harry Gloster Armstrong, British Consul General. Lady Armstrong is chairman of the advisory board of the auxiliary, the purpose of which is to aid the nuns of that order.

The 102d anniversary service of the American Seamen's Friend Society will be held tomorrow morning in the First Presbyterian Church, Henry Street, near Clark Street, Brooklyn. There will be addresses by the Rev. Morgan Phelps Noyes, the pastor, and the Rev. Dr. George Sidney Webster, secretary of the society. The 102d annual meeting will be held Monday at 2:30 o'clock in the offices, 72 Wall Street.

PROFESSOR THOMAS HUXLEY on THE ESSENTIAL BASIS OF CONDUCT
Professor Huxley, the Scientist and Agnostic, was more positive about the Bible's place in civilization than many know. In 1870 he spoke before the London School Board in support of the proposal to have the Bible read in the schools. (See full address in his Essays and Addresses.) Here is one of his sentences:
"I have been seriously perplexed to know by what means the religious feeling in mankind, which is the essential basis of conduct, is to be kept up without the use of the Bible."
And here is one of his questions: "By what other means can children be so much humanized?"

ARMY EXPERT BACKS ERIE CANAL PROJECT

COPELAND IN SHARP DEBATE

He and Vandenberg Clash as House Rivers and Harbors Bill Is Taken Up.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—Brig. Gen. Herbert Deakyne, assistant chief of engineers of the army, stated today that development of the Erie and Oswego Canals in New York by the Federal Government would present no obstacle to a deep waterway between the Great Lakes and the sea by way of the St. Lawrence River. He was testifying before the Senate Commerce Committee.

The committee met to consider the $111,000,000 river and harbor bill recently passed by the House and General Deakyne was questioned by advocates of the St. Lawrence seaway to determine why the army engineers had recommended Federal acquisition of the New York canals in view of former adverse reports on the proposal.

The hearing was enlivened by frequent clashes between Senators Vandenberg and Allen, advocates of the St. Lawrence waterway, and Senator Copeland, a supporter of the all-American route to the sea.

Their interruptions and rejoinders became so pointed that Chairman Johnson of the committee requested the disputants to "restrain" themselves.

Reversal of Opinion Alleged.

Senator Vandenberg said that on Feb. 6 Colonel Hoffman of the Engineer Board had reported that "even the moderate improvements now proposed for the New York canals should not be undertaken," and that all the department's recommendations on the project up to April 3 last had been adverse.

"What happened to upset these previous reports?" Mr. Vandenberg asked.

"The last report advocating changing the control from the State to the Federal Government was the result of a study made by the engineers wherein we decided that if the canal was deepened it should be deepened as a Federal and not a State highway," General Deakyne replied.

"You will find out what you want, and I will do the same," the Michigan Senator retorted.

Senator Vandenberg asked General Deakyne if his decision, favorable to Federal acquisition of the New York canals, was "an engineering or a political decision."

"An engineering one, so far as the engineering board was concerned," General Deakyne answered.

"Just why do you advocate this transfer?" Chairman Johnson asked.

Deakyne Denies Duplication.

"Because," replied General Deakyne, "it will be a link with the old system of waterways. With the Welland Canal open and the lake channels improved, it seemed to us it would be an anomaly to have a State-operated canal forming such an important link. The Federal Government does take over canals whenever it finds them necessary, you know.

"There would be no duplication of service were the barge canal to be maintained and the St. Lawrence waterway to be built," General Deakyne said. "There would be business of a different kind for both."

SUES TO SEIZE FARMS WHICH HAD BIG STILLS

Dry Chief Yellowley Invokes Old Revenue Act Following Illinois Raids.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 2.—Prohibition Administrator E. C. Yellowley tday invoked a six-year-old revenue act in an effort to confiscate the homes and large farms of two down-State families. This action followed the raiding of an alcohol still on each of the farms.

One of the farms is a 520-acre tract near Spring Valley, in Putnam County, owned by Joseph Engelhaupt, and the other consists of 208 acres near Ladd in Bureau County, owned by Elmer Flaherty. Dry agents Wednesday night wrecked a still, which they valued at $50,000, on the Engelhaupt farm, and one valued at $20,000 on the Flaherty place.

Legal action to confiscate the farms and all property on them was suggested by Yellowley to Walter M. Provine, United States Attorney at Peoria, who immediately drew up the actions to be filed in the Federal District Court.

Both Engelhaupt and Flaherty will be prosecuted on charges of misprision of felony, an offense known as countenancing law violations without reporting them to authorities. The old statute is directed against the operation of unlicensed stills and is considered exceptionally broad.

URGES ELEVATED REMOVAL.

6th Av. Group's Head Says Property Owners Would Pay Assessment.

The Sixth Avenue Association has received agreements from the owners of more than 60 per cent, by assessed valuation, of the owners of property along the route of the Sixth Avenue elevated line between Morris Street and Fifty-third Street, indicating their willingness to pay an assessment if the elevated structure is torn down at once, V. Clement Jenkins, manager of the association, declared yesterday.

The announcement was made in a letter to the Board of Estimate, replying to a recent letter to the board from the Citizens' Union. That letter, Mr. Jenkins said, "has furnished your board with a wealth of misinformation." The Citizens' Union contended that there was no insuperable engineering difficulty in the way of building the new Sixth Avenue subway with the elevated in place. The elevated, it declared, could be underpinned safely for about $2,000,000.

Mr. Jenkins wrote that the method indicated by the Citizens' Union would mean serious disruption of all surface traffic on and near Sixth Avenue and would ignore the interests of property owners, business men and residents in favor of a relatively small number of users of the elevated line.

MAN AND WOMAN SLAIN IN JERSEY ROADHOUSE

Police Believe Bank Guard Shot Companion and Then Himself at Resort in Arbor.

Special to The New York Times.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., May 2.—Revelers at a roadhouse in Arbor, Piscatawney Township, heard two pistol shots early this morning. When they had recovered from their fright they investigated and found on the restaurant floor the bodies of Rutherford B. H. Dalley, 55 years old, of 44 Darrow Street, and Mrs. Ida Gekis, 30, of 113 East Fifth Street.

After a day of investigation the local police were convinced that Dalley had shot Mrs. Gekis and then himself. But the police were unable to find any reason for it, except possibly that the man was temporarily unbalanced.

According to the police, the man and woman had been friends for some time. Last evening they went out together, taking with them Walter Gray of New Market. They sat in the roadhouse for several hours. At 2 o'clock Gray stepped out to buy some cigarettes. While he was away he heard the shots. When he returned the bodies were lying on the floor.

Chief of Police Elmer Barrett of New Market, who is in charge of the case, said that some time ago Dalley's son had been in an automobile accident and the father had been forced to pay heavy damages. Then Dalley's wife became unbalanced, according to Barrett, and was taken to the State hospital at Greystone. The police chief said that Mrs. Gekis had been separated from her husband and was the mother of two children. She had been living with an uncle.

The police made several arrests at the roadhouse. One prisoner, Joseph Gassler, one of the proprietors, was fined $200 later in the day for keeping a disorderly house. He was also ordered to close the house at once.

Dalley was a guard attached to the Plainfield Trust Company bank.

URGES CURB ON DRIVERS.

Jersey Manufacturer's Head Favors Compulsory Auto Insurance.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., May 2.—Compulsory liability insurance for automobile owners, policies to be presented before the issuance of license plates and the elimination of al lpersonal liability in case of automobile accidents was advocated by J. Philip Bird, president of the manufacturers Association of New Jersey at the opening session of the convention of that organization which began in the Hotel Traymore today.

More than fifteen hundred delegates applauded their president's plea for protection against drunken and careless drivers. Mr. Bird held his plan would lessen congestion in the courts, stop unethical legal practices and jury corruption, and assure for every person injured in an automobile street accident reasonable recompense without regard as to who was negligent.

"It would certainly cost the State less to adjust automobile claims by means of a separate court functioning similar to the Workmen's Compensation Bureau," said Mr. Bird, "and there would be an immense saving of time to claimants, witnesses and automobile owners."

Mr. Bird was re-elected president of the association for his eighteenth consecutive term. Other officers reelected were: Vice president, John W. Ferguson, Paterson; treasurer, Harry D. Leavitt, Trenton; secretary, and assistant treasurer, W. C. Billman, Trenton.

WILKINS PLANS POLAR DIVE.

Explorer Tells of Submarine Project Set for July, 1931.

WASHINGTON, May 2 (AP).—His plans for a submarine trip through the top of the world to seek the meteorological secrets of the polar sea were unfolded today by Sir Hubert Wilkins, the Arctic explorer, to the American Geophysical Union.

Dr. H. U. Sverdrup, the Norwegian oceanographer, joined other scientists at the meeting in agreeing that the projected undertaking was feasible.

Leaving Spitsbergen during July, 1931, in a specially equipped 115-foot submarine, Sir Hubert plans to go through the North Pole to Alaska, about 2,000 miles away. The trip is expected to last two months.

The vessel will have battery strength to run 125 miles without replenishing, and will be topped with a flexible trolley to graze the ice above, forcing the ship to the surface upon reaching thin ice.

Should the vessel get caught under the ice, Sir Hubert said, electrically driven drills, a revolving saw, a pressure apparatus for forcing the core from the drilled ice, a sleeve with hot electrical points and melting chemicals would be used.

STRESSES INFANT TRAINING.

Dr. Gesell Here Says Babies Can Be Taught Almost at Birth.

The importance of mental training of children before the age of 6 was stressed yesterday by Dr. Arnold Gesell, Professor of Child Hygiene at Yale University and author of several books on infant mentality. He gave the Susan E. Blow Memorial Lecture at the New York Kindergarten Association, 524 West Forty-second Street, before a group of kindergarten teachers.

Dr. Gesell, who has been making studies of young children, said that infants showed "a most amazing mental growth in their first year," and that an analysis of mental growth through observation of behavior indicated a growth of behavior patterns just as tangible as physical development. His lecture was illustrated with lantern slides showing the reactions of infants from two weeks to a year old to objects placed before them.

Dutchess Bar Honors Justice Young

Special to The New York Times.

OSSINING, N. Y., May 2.—Supreme Court Justice Frank L. Young of Ossining, at the close of his last session of court in Dutchess County, received today a silver platter, presented by the Dutchess County Bar Association. Judge Young is approaching the age limit of 70 and will retire from the bench on Dec. 31, but he will not hold court in Dutchess County again. John E. Mack, president of the Dutchess Bar, made the presentation.

ADMIRAL PRATT GETS OPERATIONS POST

Arms Parley Adviser Will Take C. F. Hughes's Place on Latter's Retirement in October.

CHASE TO SUCCEED HIM

Will Assume Command of United States Fleet—Other Biennial Changes Announced.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—Selection of Admiral William V. Pratt, Commander-in-Chief of the United States Fleet and chief naval adviser of the American delegation to the London naval conference, to succeed Admiral Charles F. Hughes as chief of naval operations was announced today by Secretary Adams, who at the same time announced the biennial changes in fleet commands.

Rear Admiral J. V. Chase of the General Board will succeed Admiral Pratt in command of the United States Fleet; Rear Admiral Frank H. Schofield, commander of Battleship Division 4 of the Battle Fleet, will become commander of the Battle Fleet, relieving Admiral Louis M. Nulton, and Rear Admiral Arthur L. Willard, commandant of the Washington (D. C.) Navy Yard, will take command of the Scouting Fleet, relieving Vice Admiral W. C. Cole.

Rear Admiral Thomas J. Senn, commander of the destroyer squadrons of the Battle Fleet, and Rear Admiral Henry V. Butler, commander of the aircraft squadrons of the Battle Fleet, are assigned to the General Board.

Rear Admiral Harris Laning, commander of Battleship Division 2 of the Scouting Fleet, becomes president of the Naval War College at Newport, R. I., succeeding Rear Admiral Joel R. P. Pringle, who is assigned to command Battleship Division 3 of the Battle Fleet in place of Rear Admiral Harley H. Christy.

ENGINEERS MEET AT LEHIGH

Educational Society Inspects Steel Plants During Convention.

Special to The New York Times.

BETHLEHEM, Pa., May 2.—With forty-five engineering professors in attendance from twenty colleges and universities in the Middle Atlantic district, the annual Spring meeting of this section of the Society for the Promotion of Engineering Education opened at Lehigh University here this afternoon.

The delegates took an inspection tour of the local plants of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, followed by a visit to the Saucon Valley Country Club.

The annual dinner of the society was held in the Hotel Bethlehem this evening. President Richards of Lehigh University, the chairman of the section, was the toastmaster. Several addresses were made by leading professors present, followed by general discussion. The general topic was the recruiting of engineering graduates by industries.

Tomorrow's program includes an inspection of the grounds and buildings of Lehigh University. A symposium on the improvement of employment of college men by large industries will be held in the afternoon, with delegates representing six large Eastern industrial concerns.

SCHOOL BIBLE SUIT OPENS.

Freethinkers File Action to Bar Scripture and Hymns.

Joseph Lewis, president of the Freethinkers of America, filed a petition in the Supreme Court yesterday asking that the Board of Education be enjoined from permitting the reading of the Bible and the singing of hymns in public schools. Lewis, who brought the action as a taxpayer, was represented by Arthur Garfield Hays, Joseph Wheless and Stephen B. Vreeland, with Clarence Darrow as counsel.

Although section 1,151 of the City Charter permits the reading of the Bible, Lewis asserted, the section is "repugnant" and violates two sections of the State Constitution: section 3 of Article I, defining religious liberty, and section 4 of Article I, headed "Denominational schools not to receive State aid."

The complaint recites that the King James version of the Bible and the hymns sung in public schools are "distinctly Protestant," and therefore repugnant to Catholics, Jewish children or other religious denominations.

Announcement that the suit would be brought was made on March 27 at a luncheon of the Freethinkers of America.

LIONS ATTACK KEEPER, ESCAPE, TERRIFY CROWD

Animals of Circus Stranded at Haverstraw, Unfed 3 Days, Go Wild at Sight of Food.

Special to The New York Times.

HAVERSTRAW, N. Y., May 2.—Two hungry lions of the Kent Wild Animal Circus today attacked their keeper, William Stutz, clawing him badly, and then crashed through the bars in their wagon drawn cage to temporary freedom, causing a near-panic among the crowd on the circus field here.

The spectators milled over each other in a rush for safety while one lion was chased back in the cage and the second stood at bay crouched under the wagon, with keepers and police drawing in on it.

William Jones, a Negro onlooker, was bruised on the arm when one of the lions attacked him as rescuers were beating the beast off of the keeper.

The lions had not been fed for the last three days, and following a complaint to the Rockland County Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, officers of that association brought food this morning to the beasts. When the lions scented the fresh meat they became unmanageable and all efforts of the keeper to calm them were in vain.

The unruly lion that refused to be driven back into his cage was fed all the meat he could eat in an effort to quiet him. He furiously gnashed the food for more than a half hour while police and keepers stood around with guns ready to fire if the beast made an attempt to escape. Finally, his appetite satisfied, the lion calmed down and responded to the wounded keeper's command.

The Kent show had been on the road only a short time and the owners of the circus was unable to pay his men and feed his animals, it was said. Performances planned in Nyack and in Pearl River were canceled today. Parts of it began to move out of town this afternoon.

GEN. MORGAN'S HOME NOW KENTUCKY SHRINE

House Restored as in War Days When Confederate Raider Rode Through It to Elude Foes.

LEXINGTON, Ky., May 2 (AP).—The home of General John Hunt Morgan, famed Confederate Civil War leader, restored to its antebellum appearance, was opened to the public today. Firearms he carried and the saddle he rode while leading his band of raiders through Kentucky and adjoining States have been collected and placed in the home, as well as other relics of the intrepid General.

Constructed in 1811 by John W. Hunt, and until now the home of his descendants, the residence is said to have often furnished an avenue of escape for General Morgan when he was being pursued by Federal troops. Galloping through Lexington, with his pursuers close at his heels, General Morgan would guide his mare, Black Bess, through the front door of the mansion, ride over the polished floors and woven rugs, through the back door and into the beautiful garden and away. [illegible] did he fail to elude the Federal horsemen in this manner.

PROF. MacINTOSH APPEALS.

He Fights Denial of Citizenship for Refusal to Take Arms Oath.

HARTFORD, Conn., May 2 (AP).—The appeal of Douglas Clyde MacIntosh, professor in the Yale Divinity School, who was denied citizenship when he refused to swear to bear arms in time of war, has been filed in the United States Circuit Court of Appeals in New York and will be argued during the week of May 19.

The question raised by John W. Davis, one-time Democratic candidate for President and counsel for MacIntosh, is whether an applicant for citizenship [illegible] take an oath to fight in defense of the nation, [illegible]

Dean Charles Clark of Yale Law School and Allen Wardwell of Mr. Davis's law firm are associated with the latter in the appeal.

United States District Attorney John Buckley and his assistant, George H. Cohen, will present the case of the government.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 2.—The northern disturbance is advancing eastward with centre tonight over Western Quebec with a trough extending southward to Virginia. Pressure remains high over Northern Greenland and it is relatively high but falling from Georgia and Northern Florida east northeastward over the ocean. The temperature has risen in portions of New England and from the Northern Rocky Mountain region eastward to Minnesota and Manitoba and it has fallen in the plateau region, the Pacific States and from Arkansas and Missouri northeastward to Ontario and Quebec.

Mostly fair weather will prevail Saturday east of the Mississippi River, but the eastward advance of the Western disturbance will likely cause showers as far east as the Appalachian region Sunday and in the Atlantic States by or during Sunday night and on Monday.

The temperature will be lower in the Northeastern States Saturday, but it will rise slightly during Sunday in the Ohio Valley, the lower lake region and the interior of the mid-Atlantic States.

Ten Years Of Progress

The production of electricity by public utility power plants in the United States has increased from 38,921,000,000 kilowatt hours in 1919 to about 97,294,000,000 kilowatt hours in 1929. With the exception of 1921 which showed a decrease of 5.9%, gains were recorded each year ranging from 6% in 1924 to 16.8% in 1923. The gain in 1929 was 10.7% and the average gain for the ten-year period was 9.76%.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Decline in Stocks Increasingly Rapid, Heaviest Trading of Year—Time Money Lower.

On the largest transactions of any day this year, the total reaching nearly 6,000,000 shares, yesterday's stock market again fell rapidly, many of the declines equaling or exceeding those of the day before. The day's losses in half a dozen active shares ranged from 10 to 16 points, and a long list of stocks declined 5 to 9 points. There were practically no net advances, and little regaining of lost ground in the late transactions. Signs of professional liquidation were quite unmistakable; the market was in that respect the exact converse of the excited rise in a string of 5,000,000-share days around the end of March.

But aggressive "bear selling" was also plainly in evidence, both yesterday and the day before. Naturally, neither process can go on indefinitely. What commonly happens, after so extremely violent a consecutive decline, in the simultaneous decision of the "bear party" to cover their contracts quickly and of calm outsiders with long purses to put in their bids. The result, at some stage of the progressive readjustment—usually when all hope seems to have vanished—is apt to be a sharp overnight marking-up of prices, a day or two of reasonably brisk recovery, and then the subsiding of stock market activity into a pace which it never ought to have relinquished.

There was not much news. The President's assurances regarding the general situation were read with due recognition of a proper wish to stay the progress of reaction, but with a certain impatience also, and with a feeling that to fix an arbitrarily definite period for a reactionary movement is at least taking chances in the field of prophecy. Reductions formally announced by producers in the price of certain steel products fulfilled the expectations generally expressed earlier in the week. As a result of the lower bank rate, money was easier for bankers' acceptances and for secured time loans, but open-market commercial paper rates changed very little, remaining much further than usual above the bank rate. The Stock Exchange's monthly report on outstanding brokers' loans at the end of April showed increase of $406,800,000 last month and of $1,078,300,000 since the end of January. April's addition had been exceeded by only half a dozen other months; the three-month increase was considerably more than double what have ever been reported by the Stock Exchange for the corresponding period.

Week-end reports of the mercantile agencies strike a cautious note. Restriction of wholesale buying is ascribed by them this week to continued unsettlement in prices, restriction of retail buying to the public's reduced purchasing power. The compilation of April business failures is somewhat impressive. In number, they were less than in any of the three preceding months, but in liabilities involved, as stated by Bradstreet, they foot up the largest total of any April since the war.

Dun's monthly index of wholesale prices, published yesterday, shows nearly 1 per cent decline in the general average for April, 7½ per cent since Oct. 1 and 13 per cent from Feb. 1, 1925, the high point reached on recovery from the deflation year. But the various "index numbers" are beginning to diverge from one another. Dun's comparisons indicate that the present average is the lowest since October, 1922, but 11 per cent over July, 1921, the low point of that period. The Labor Bureau's compilation, even for March, made that month's average the lowest since September, 1916.

WOMEN BANKERS MEET.

Seven States Represented at the Spring Conference Here.

The National Association of Bank Women held the spring conference of the Middle Atlantic division yesterday in this city. Seven States were represented—Maine, Massachusetts, Connecticut, New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Maryland.

Miss Mina M. Bruere of New York City, the national president, and assistant secretary of the Central Hanover Bank and Trust Company; Mrs. Lena Duncan Stilzer of St. Louis, national vice president, and Miss Martha L. McScally and Miss Lillian Bachus, regional vice presidents of the New England and Middle Atlantic divisions, respectively, head the list of bank women attending the conference.

Delegates met yesterday morning at the Chase National Bank to view the Chase collection of the money of the world. They visited the Banker's Trust Company and the Stock Exchange.

Miss Bruere was hostess at luncheon at the Central Hanover Bank and Trust Company, 70 Broadway. A meeting with an address and discussion in charge of Miss Jean Arnot Reid was held yesterday afternoon, and the conference closed with a dinner and informal discussion at the Park Lane last night.

BANKERS TO HEAR MORROW.

Ambassador to Address New Jersey Financiers on May 16.

Dwight W. Morrow, Ambassador to Mexico, will be the main speaker at the banquet closing the annual meeting of the New Jersey Bankers Association in the Chelsea Hotel, Atlantic City, on May 16. His subject has not been announced. Governor Morgan F. Larsen of New Jersey also will speak.

At the business sessions speakers will be Craig B. Hazlewood, vice president of the First National Bank of Chicago; O. Howard Wolfe, cashier of the Philadelphia National Bank, Philadelphia, and John J. Driscoll Jr. of Driscoll, Millet & Co., Philadelphia.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

News, Comment and Incident, On the Stock Exchange and in the Financial Markets.

Fresh weakness developed on the Stock Exchange yesterday, the main body of stocks being depressed to the lowest levels of the current decline. Net losses of 2 to 16 points were recorded in many active issues. The trading was the heaviest of the year, the turnover closely approaching the 6,000,000-share mark. Of this volume more than 2,000,000 shares changed hands in the last fifty minutes of trading. It was in that period that the unsettlement became most acute. The market opened firm, but quickly became reactionary and remained so until the close in spite of repeated attempts to check the selling. Trading was somewhat demoralized in the last hour, when stocks of all kinds were thrown upon the market, apparently without regard for what they might bring. As on the day before, the stock market community seemed at a loss for an explanation, although an opinion frequently expressed was that the concerted reduction in rediscount rates by the central banks had caused uneasiness in some quarters. The selling on the stock exchanges appeared to be more aggressive than at any time since the decline got under way.

A Wave of Liquidation.

Brokers who have seen many "waves of liquidation" break upon the New York Stock Exchange confessed yesterday that they were surprised at the suddenness and violence of the selling which began about fifteen minutes before the Exchange closed. Selling seemed to converge on all the leading issues at one instant, as if emanating from one source. Owing to the fact that the tickers were running late, the public had practically no knowledge of what had happened on the floor of the Exchange until after the market had closed. Its ignorance of conditions was heightened by the fact that the bond tickers, which had been sending floor stock quotations at ten-minute intervals through most of the morning, failed to furnish this information in the afternoon.

How the Pools Stand.

Although it was reported that several pools wound up their affairs not too brilliantly yesterday, it was learned that some of the larger groups were standing by with plenty of cash to accumulate new blocks of stocks at attractive levels. This, it was said, will be an important factor in the future trend of prices, as a cushion will be provided for the high grade shares. The pools that were inconvenienced were relatively of minor importance and had been formed only recently, it was explained.

Money Responds to Rate Cut.

The chief readjustment to the lower rediscount rate was the reduction in bill rates which was made on Thursday before and after the announcement of the Federal Reserve Bank. Call money made its response yesterday in the renewal rate of 3½ per cent posted by the Stock Exchange, the lowest price for standing loans in more than a month, and in a minor relaxation of time money. It normally takes several days for the open money market to feel the full effects of a reduction in the bank rate. At present the response is likely to be a little sluggish since there has been an expansion of currency demand and some transfer of funds out of this district. The prospect is clearly for exceptional ease in credit over the next few months, bankers say.

Rail Decline Slackens.

It was noted that while the rail issues led in the movement which culminated in yesterday's market, they provided some of the few strong spots in that market. Yesterday Pennsylvania gained 1⅛ points, Atlantic Coast Line 3, Lackawanna 2, Delaware & Hudson 1⅝, Rock Island 1¼, Southern Pacific 1 and Southern Railway 1. Union Pacific gained fractionally. The greatest declines were made by Missouri Pacific, down 4¼ points; Chesapeake & Ohio and Nickel Plate, each down 2; New York Central, down 1, and New Haven, down 2¾. There were fractional declines in Santa Fé, Great Northern preferred and Erie, which were sufficient to bring them to new lows for the year.

Stock Exchange Loans.

The advance of $406,829,020 in the total of brokers' borrowings during April, as reported by the Stock Exchange last night, was in line with expectations. During the nearest comparable period, that from April 2 to April 30, the total of brokers' loans as compiled by the Federal Reserve Bank advanced $306,000,000. Since the scope of the Stock Exchange figures is more comprehensive, changes in their totals are generally wider than in those of the Reserve. The latest increase in "Street loans" brings the advance since the low point of the reaction in loans was reached last Jan. 31 to $1,078,363,294. In the space of three months the figure has gone up more than $1,000,000,000, which rivals the pyrotechnics of last Fall.

Relining the Strong Boxes.

Judging from the brisk buying of railroad bonds in the last two days, it is evident that many high-grade issues which have been lodged in one broker's vault one day and in that of another the next are going into individual strong boxes where the period of sojourn will not be so brief. In other words, not a little of the present buying is believed to be for strictly investment account, and it is on such buying that the bond market thrives. The domestic bond averages were again pushed substantially higher yesterday and the foreign loans were not far behind, with the notable exception of several of the more active convertibles.

MONEY.

Friday, May 2, 1930.

Easier conditions were evident in all sections of the money market, somewhat as a sequel to a drop in rate at the local Reserve bank and several central banks abroad. On the Stock Exchange day loans were off ½ from former quotations, renewals commanding 3½ and new money 3, while 2¾ was reported paid for a small amount in the counter market. Curb Exchange money was 4 per cent, then 3½. There was a fractional dip in long term money, four months' lending and trading at 3¾@4, five months at 4, with short periods 3½@3¾. Acceptances were unchanged. Commercial paper was quiet and unchanged, but some paper was offered at 3½, although none moved at that figure.

$406,829,020 RISE IN BROKERS' LOANS

GAIN EQUAL TO PREDICTIONS

Compares With $306,000,000 Shown by Federal Reserve Bank for Four-Week Period.

An increase of $406,829,020 in the total of brokers' loans was reported by the New York Stock Exchange yesterday for the month of April. The expansion brings the figure for brokers' borrowings as of April 30 to $5,063,131,359, compared with $4,656,302,339 on the last day of March. Since the volume of such loans reached the low point of the reaction following last Fall's liquidation in the stock market on Jan. 31 last, there has been an uninterrupted rise of $1,078,363,294.

The rise in loans was in accordance with general expectations in Wall Street. In the nearest comparable period, that from April 2 to April 30, the total brokers' loans as compiled by the Federal Reserve Bank advanced $306,000,000, from $3,968,000,000 to $4,274,000,000. Since the scope of the Stock Exchange compilation is wider than that of the Reserve Bank, a correspondingly larger increase had been looked for.

The detailed tabulation given by the Stock Exchange as of the close of business on April 30 follows:

	Demand Loans.	Time Loans.
(1) Net borrowings on collateral from N. Y. banks or trust companies	$3,819,476,750	$589,587,018
(2) Net borrowings on collateral from priv. bankers, brokers, foreign bank agencies or others in city of N. Y.	543,442,591	110,625,000

Combined total of time and demand loans, $5,063,131,359.

The major part of the month's increase was contained in the figures for demand loans which went up $310,758,002. Time loans advanced $96,071,018. Combined time and demand loans by New York banks and trust companies showed an expansion of $383,477,068, while the combined loans from private bankers and others expanded $23,291,952.

INCREASE FOR WEEK IN BANK CLEARINGS

A further slight expansion appears in bank clearings this week, although the amount continues somewhat smaller than that for the corresponding weeks of both preceding years. The total of $11,422,911,000 at twenty-three leading cities in the United States for the week up to Thursday shows a decline of 8.5 per cent from the heavy amount of the week last year. New York City's clearings of $8,106,000,000 are 7.7 per cent lower, while the aggregate of $3,316,911,000 for the principal centres outside of New York is 10.3 per cent below that of a year ago.

A part of the reduction this week compared with the record for the preceding two years is because only one day of the large monthly settlements incident to May 1 is included, whereas last year there were two days and two years ago three days. A substantial increase appears this week at Pittsburgh and at Richmond. Losses, however, continue quite large at most Southern and Western centres.

Clearings for the week, as reported to R. G. Dun & Co. and average daily bank clearings for the year to date, with the comparable figures from last year follow:

OIL-STOCKS TRUST APPLIES FOR LISTING

The Petroleum Corporation of America Is First in Its Line to Aspire to Big Board.

ASSETS ARE $103,506,880

The Petroleum Corporation of America, a $100,000,000 investment trust, is applying for listing on the New York Stock Exchange, it was learned yesterday. Granting of the application will increase the number of investment trusts listed on the Exchange to twenty, but this company will be the first one there that specializes in oil stocks.

The corporation holds principally stocks of the Prairie Oil and Gas Company and the Prairie Pipe Line Company, but it has also stocks of virtually all the members of the Standard Oil group. It was formed in January, 1929, to acquire stocks and other securities of representative foreign and domestic oil companies and affiliated industries.

It has authorized capital stock of 10,000,000 no-par shares, of which 2,937,900, not including 312,100 held in the treasury, were outstanding on Dec. 31 last. At the end of the year it reported assets of $103,506,880, including capital surplus of $45,500,000 and profit and loss surplus amounting at cost to $2,646,880. This last item, however, if adjusted to the market price of investments on Dec. 31, would be reduced to $119,880.

From the time of organization until the end of the year the company reported net income of $3,752,530, equivalent to $1.28 a share. Net asset value of stock outstanding, after payment of an initial quarterly dividend of 37½ cents a share on Dec. 31, was estimated at approximately $31.75 a share.

The company has not yet detailed its holdings, although it has announced the companies in which it holds stock. At the end of last year these companies were:

Columbia Gas & Electric, Humble Oil & Refining, Imperial Oil, Ltd., Mid-Continent Petroleum, Ohio Oil, Phillips Petroleum, Prairie Oil and Gas, Prairie Pipe Line, Shell Union Oil, Sinclair Consolidated Oil, Standard Oil of California, Standard Oil of Indiana, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Standard Oil of New York, Texas Corporation, Union Oil of California, Vacuum Oil.

The securities owned at the end of the year were carried on the balance sheet at cost, or $93,824,332. This included 312,100 shares of its own stock, bought at an average price of $23.96 a share. The report stated that the market value of investments in other companies was approximately $2,527,000 less than cost at Dec. 31 closing prices.

TO LIST TWO BIG UTILITIES.

Exchange Likely to Get Pleas From Niagara Hudson and American Gas.

Two of the principal utility stocks on the New York Curb Exchange, Niagara Hudson Power and American Gas and Electric, will soon appear on the New York Stock Exchange, it was reported in financial circles yesterday. Both companies are understood to be preparing applications for listing.

The companies are, respectively, among the youngest and oldest of utility holding companies in the country. American Gas was formed in 1906 and through successive acquisitions has built up a system operating in Indiana, Michigan, Ohio, West Virginia, Kentucky and Virginia. The parent company reported assets of $148,000,000 at the end of 1929, which does not indicate the consolidated value of the system as a whole.

Niagara Hudson Power was formed last June to merge the three principal water power companies in New York State, two of which have since been eliminated in carrying out a policy of simplification that will place all operating companies directly under control of the parent company. Consolidated assets of the system were $757,000,000 at the end of last year. Niagara Hudson's electric output last year was larger than that of any other public utility company in the United States. Niagara Hudson relies on water power for 71 per cent of its output, while American Gas produces 85 per cent of its electricity in fuel-burning plants.

Addition of the stocks of these utilities will increase the lead in market value the utility group holds in the New York Stock Exchange over any other industrial group. On April 1 the market value of all stocks on the New York Stock Exchange was about $76,000,000,000, with that of the utility group exceeding $15,000,000,000.

NEW JERSEY BANKS REPORT.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, May 2.—According to a statement issued today by the State Department of Banking and Insurance, the 266 banks under State supervision had combined resources of $1,698,625,564 at the close of business on March 27. Surplus and undivided profits aggregated $155,082,584, while the combined capital of the institutions was $86,630,000. Deposits in the banks that reported totaled $1,400,505,074.

Twenty-six savings banks reported combined resources of $332,692,108. One savings institution reported capital of $1,000,000. The remaining twenty-five are mutual savings banks and have no capital to report. Their surplus and undivided profits totaled $31,683,799, while their debits aggregated $299,803,464.97.

The nineteen trust companies had $1,267,956,663 resources and combined capital of $79,780,000. Their surpluses and undivided profits were $114,574,357, and their deposits $1,019,879,397.

Thirty-six State banks reported total resources of $94,750,837, capital of $5,850,000, surpluses and undivided profits of $8,123,436 and deposits of $78,001,459.

Insurance Agents to Meet.

The $250,000 Field Club of the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York will hold its annual convention in Atlantic City on May 8 and 9. David F. Houston, president, will address the members, who are men who have written $250,000 or more life insurance on at least ten lives in the last year.

TEN-MONTH DEFICIT EXCEEDS $145,000,000

Government Spent $144,000,000 More Than in 1929—Receipts Up $101,000,000.

SURPLUS IN JULY LIKELY

Practically Every Department Showed an Increase in Expenses in Present Fiscal Year.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—Figures for ten months of the current fiscal year issued by the Treasury today showed receipts of $3,201,203,000 and expenditures of $3,346,355,000, or a deficit of $145,151,000. A small surplus, however, was predicted for the entire fiscal year. The deficit on April 30, 1929, was $102,075,244.

Receipts represented a gain of $101,000,000 and expenditures an increase of $144,000,000 over the same period of the fiscal year 1929.

The gross public debt April 30 was $16,393,734,000, a decrease of about $802,000,000 in a year and $10,200,000,000 since the debt was highest, Aug. 31, 1919.

With the exception of customs receipts the important sources of revenue showed gains over last year. Income and corporation taxes netted $1,850,245,000, for an increase of $118,000,000, and miscellaneous internal revenue $514,272,700, an increase of $16,000,000. These latter taxes include those on tobacco and cigarettes, which were substantially larger than last year. Customs receipts were $463,108,300, a drop of $38,000,000.

On foreign obligations to the United States there was paid in principal $51,066,708 and in interest $70,877,000, the total being slightly more than the year before. Repayments from the railroads were $5,348,440, a drop of $9,000,000. The railroads have virtually liquidated the war-time borrowings from the Treasury.

Most Expenditures Rose.

With the exception of interest and refund of internal revenue receipts, all items of expenditures showed increases. General expenditures, which take in the operation of the departments, bureaus and establishments, were $1,901,265,900, an increase of $181,000,000. The Federal Farm Board contributed heavily to larger costs.

Total ordinary expenditures, taking in everything but the public debt, were $2,833,924,900, a gain of $101,0000,000. Interest costs were $545,038,100, a decline of $22,000,000, and refund of internal revenue taxes $107,954,400, a drop of $61,000,000. The large decrease in internal revenue refunds was in contrast with the abnormally heavy refunds of last year, which led to a request for a deficiency appropriation, and brought the order compelling the Treasury to make public all refunds, credits and abatements in excess of $20,000.

The postal deficiency the first ten months of this year was $67,074,000, an increase of about $5,000,000.

Deposits for the sinking fund in ten months were $388,369,000, compared with $369,025,000 for the same period last year.

Issues of new securities amounted to $3,062,923,107, a decrease of $1,405,000,000, while retirements were $3,600,277,421, a decline of $1,276,000,000. In both new issues and retirements the major portions were certificates of indebtedness. Nearly a half billion dollars in Treasury notes was retired.

Heavy Refunding Due Soon.

The reduction in the rediscount rate of the New York Bank to 3 per cent, and the probability that other Reserve banks will drop their rates from the 4 per cent level, thus creating easier money, will be of advantage to the Treasury, it was stated, in the heavy refunding issues planned for the rest of the year. A total of $1,384,689,000 in Treasury certificates will be retired in June, September and December.

In June an issue of certificates amounting to $549,707,500 and bearing 4⅛ per cent interest must be retired. There will be a substantial new issue of securities at much lower rates, but in what form has not yet been determined.

There is a possibility of another issue of Treasury bills before June, since on May 19 an issue of bills amounting to $56,108,000 falls due. Another bill issue of $51,516,000 matures July 14.

There are three issues of 3½ per cent Treasury notes maturing in 1932, which may be called this year. They amount to $1,771,115,500. The first block was callable March 15, another in September and a third in December.

Of the total public debt, interest on $28,477,080 has ceased and investors are losing hundreds of thousands of dollars annually. A varied selection of bonds, some antedating the Civil War, interest on all of which ceased prior to April 1, 1917, are still outstanding. The principal outstanding issues on which interest has ceased are $10,552,900 of the Third Liberty Loan of 1928, $6,377,100 in Treasury certificates, $5,977,850 of the Second Liberty Loan of 1927 and $1,826,200 in Treasury saving certificates.

The Treasury has made every effort to get this outstanding debt redeemed, in the case of the Liberty bond retirements having arranged nation-wide radio hook-ups to advise investors that interest would cease.

STOCK INCREASE VOTED.

Missouri State Life Insurance to Add $1,000,000 New Shares.

Approval of the proposal of the directors of the Missouri State Life Insurance Company to increase the capital stock from $4,000,000 to $5,000,000 has been given by the stockholders, it was announced yesterday by Hillsman Taylor, president.

The increase, which is subject to the approval of the Insurance Commissioner and the Secretary of State of Missouri, will be effected through the issuance of 100,000 shares of $10 capital stock. Rights to purchase these additional shares will accrue to stockholders at the rate of one new share for each four shares held. They will be issued on May 24 and expire on June 28.

35,000 Stockholders in Trust.

There were 35,000 stockholders in North American Trust Shares on May 1, according to an announcement yesterday. In April these shares to the value of $11,089,000 were distributed throughout the country, bringing total distribution to $70,-,675, the announcement said.

BUYS GAS UNIT IN TEXAS.

United Company Pays Above $1,000,000 for the Moran System.

The United Gas Company has purchased the natural gas system of the Moran Gas Corporation, which transports natural gas from the White Point field, in San Patricio County, Texas, and distributes it in the towns of Taft, Gregory, Portland, Arkansas Pass and Ingleside. The price was above $1,000,000.

The Moran Corporation at present is delivering about 4,500,000 cubic feet of natural gas daily to domestic and industrial consumers, including the Humble Oil and Refining Company's refinery and ocean loading terminal at Ingleside.

Kansas City Southern Gains.

The balance sheet of the Kansas City Southern Railway shows total assets of $149,445,000 on Dec. 31, against $147,123,000 a year previously. Cash increased from $3,638,000 to $6,813,000. Profit and loss surplus increased from $18,950,000 to $19,539,000. Income account was previously published.

$45,660,692 SOUGHT BY MUNICIPALITIES

$19,775,000 Bond Issue for Westchester County Leads Offerings Next Week.

FIRMER TONE IN MARKET

Improvement Due to Cut in the Rediscount Rate, but Few Prices Advance.

New municipal financing on the calendar for next week will reach $45,660,692, representing the requirements of 112 communities throughout the country. The revised total for this week was $25,131,010, and the weekly average for the year to date, $28,880,255. By far the largest piece of financing to be done in the municipal field next week is that of $19,775,000 Westchester County (N. Y.) bonds on Wednesday, of which $10,500,000 may be bid for as 4s, 4¼s or 4½s, and the balance as 4s.

Other important financing to be done next week includes $3,500,000 State of South Carolina six months' notes on Wednesday, $1,743,000 Miami Beach (Fla.) and $1,000,000 Baltimore County (Md.) bonds on the same day, $1,500,000 City of Montreal (Que.) Catholic School Commission bonds on Tuesday, and $3,196,000 Hudson County (N. J.) 4½s and $2,000,000 City of Providence (R. I.) 4s on Thursday.

The municipal bond market finished the week with a much firmer undertone than at the start, due to the buying impetus given by the cut in the rediscount rate of the Federal Reserve Bank. There was, however, very little actual marking up of prices, because some issues had been admittedly obtainable at lower levels than those quoted on dealers' lists. With the improvement in the undertone of the market concessions from the list prices were virtually unobtainable.

Three Important Future Issues.

As far as future municipal sales are concerned, only three important issues have actually been scheduled. They are $20,350,000 City of Detroit, $9,050,000 Allegheny County (Pa.) and $5,451,000 City of Pittsburgh (Pa.) bonds, coming on May 12, 13 and 14, respectively. Dealers point out that Allegheny County, which includes the City of Pittsburgh, will enjoy a certain advantage over the city's sale since it will be sold a day earlier, or, conversely, the city's bonds may not receive as good a price as if they were sold at some other time.

New financing is expected to be done shortly by the city of Baltimore and by the Lincoln Park (Chicago) District, but official announcements have not yet been made. In addition, there are several short-term note issues coming which will be chiefly in the nature of bank loans.

OTHER MUNICIPAL LOANS.

Offerings and Awards of New Bond Issues to Bankers Are Announced.

State of South Carolina.

The State of South Carolina issued yesterday a call for bids to be opened on May 7 for a new issue of $3,500,000 tax anticipation notes. The issue will be dated May 12, 1930, and will mature in six months. Late in March the State awarded an issue of $4,000,000 one-year notes as 3.84s to a New York banking group. This followed by a few days an issue of $10,000,000 long-term 4½ per cent bonds.

Spartanburg County, S. C.

Spartanburg County, S. C., has awarded a new issue of $660,000 4¼ per cent bonds, due on May 1, 1931, to 1950, to C. F. Childs & Co., Inc., and G. L. Crawford & Co. of Columbus, Ga., at their joint bid of 99.41. This price is equivalent to a 4.57 per cent basis. The second highest bid was 97.93, made by Harris, Forbes & Co. and associates.

Bessemer, Ala.

The city of Bessemer, Ala., will sell at auction on May 6 a new issue of $324,000 public improvement refunding bonds. Of this amount $264,000 will mature on July 1, 1933 to 1960, and $60,000 on Sept. 1, 1933 to 1960. The interest rate, to be bid, is limited to 5¾ per cent.

Olympia, Wash.

The city of Olympia, Wash., capital of the State, will be in the market on May 20 with an issue of $225,000 water bonds, due serially in from seven to twenty years. Bidders are required to name the rate of interest at not to exceed 6 per cent. The city's assessed valuation is reported as $5,285,089 and the net bonded debt as $385,180.

Hampden County, Mass.

R. L. Day & Co. have obtained the award of a new issue of $150,000 Hampden County (Mass.) 4 per cent court house bonds, due on May 1, 1931 to 1950. The price paid was 100.399.

Chicago Park $1,800,000 Issue Of 4 Per Cents Set for May 14

Commissioners of Lincoln Park, Chicago, will market a new issue of $1,800,000 4 per cent bonds, due serially in from one to twenty years, on May 14, it was learned here yesterday. The proceeds will be applied toward the construction of the $10,000,000 outer drive bridge being built jointly by the Lincoln and South Park Districts.

This financing will be the first by the Lincoln Park District Commissioners in more than a year. On April 3, 1929, an issue of $2,000,000 4½s was sold to a Chicago banking syndicate at 99.10, or about a 4.61 per cent basis. Early last month an issue of $2,650,000 South Park District 4s was awarded and reoffered to investors at prices to yield 4.20 to 4.40 per cent.

CHICAGO TAXES SEEN AS EQUAL TO DEBTS

Holders of Bonds and Warrants Appear Safe as Result of 1928 Reassessment.

FUNDS WILL FLOW IN SOON

Returns Expected to Be Reduced 10% Through Losses and Cost of Collection.

Any apprehension felt by holders of bonds or warrants of the city of Chicago as to whether the reassessment for 1928, just completed, would be sufficient to take care of these issues, was relieved here yesterday when the figures on the reassessment became available. The taxes on the city of Chicago, exclusive of its various tax-spending districts, will amount to $63,835,645, and those of the school districts to $55,810,592, or a total of $119,646,237, compared with the 1928 warrants outstanding of about $80,000,000.

The Chicago Sanitary District, which has $12,000,000 in warrants outstanding, will receive $19,442,870 in taxes. All 1928 bills of the city and of its various districts have been paid through the sale of these warrants. It is expected, however, that the total taxes received will be diminished by about 10 per cent, owing to losses through non-payment and by virtue of the cost of collection.

State	$0.30	$0.30
County	0.46	0.45
City	1.75	1.63
Schools	1.53	1.52
Forest Preserve Dist.	0.10	2.08
Sanitary District	0.46	0.40
South Park District	0.66	0.47
West Park District	0.58	0.48
Lincoln Park District	0.45	0.43

The full assessed valuations with the maximum revenues are:

	Valuation.	Tax Income.
State's portion	$4,338,889,297	$13,016,667
County	4,338,889,297	19,958,870
Forest Preserve Dists.	4,338,889,297	4,338,889
Sanitary District	4,226,710,940	19,442,870
Lincoln Park District	608,320,658	2,859,107

The first of the tax bills for 1928, as previously reported, was sent out on May 1, and it is expected that the operation will be completed within a few weeks, so that payments in volume are expected early in June.

Appalachian Gas to Borrow.

An additional issue of $6,700,000 Appalachian Gas Corporation 6 per cent convertible debentures, Series B, will be marketed soon by a syndicate headed by P. W. Chapman & Co. This financing will be in connection with the purchase of a substantial stock interest in the Memphis Natural Gas Company. Operations of Appalachian Gas are supervised by the Union Management and Engineering Corporation.

$171,743,000 BONDS MARKETED IN WEEK

Second Successive Increase in Volume of New Financing Is Reported.

INDUSTRIALS IN THE LEAD

Four Issues Total $84,000,000—Two Foreign Loans Floated—Prices Firmer.

New bond financing increased this week, issues aggregating $171,743,000 being placed on the market. This compares with $144,527,000 in the previous week, $96,537,000 two weeks ago and $192,530,000 three weeks ago. A year ago new bonds in the amount of only $58,777,500 were offered. This week's volume was the third largest weekly total for the year to date.

Industrial financing again led the list with $84,000,000, comprising four issues, one of which consisted of $55,000,000 Fox Film Corporation 6 per cent one-year notes priced at par. The next largest issue, $15,000,000 United States Rubber Company 6s, carried a three-year maturity. The issue of $12,000,000 Houston Oil Company of Texas 5½s will mature in ten years.

Foreign financing this week consisted of two issues, the larger of which was the $35,000,000 State of Sao Paulo (Brazil) coffee devalorization loan 7s, which were offered on a 7.56 per cent basis. This was the American portion of the £20,000,000 international loan for the Sao Paulo coffee industry. It was reported more than 90 per cent subscribed on the first day of offering. The issue of $10,000,000 Piedmont Hydro-Electric Company 6½s, which was brought out on a 7.20 per cent basis, was the first Italian financing done here in about two years.

The largest of the public utility bond issues placed on the market was that of $9,000,000 Puget Sound Electric Power and Light Company 5s, which was priced to net 5.37 per cent. This was quickly sold. All of the municipal and railroad issues were for relatively small amounts.

The new offerings of bonds this week and last by groups follow:

	This Week.	Last Week.
Industrial	$84,000,000	$52,000,000
Foreign	45,000,000	25,000,000
Public utility	17,000,000	1,000,000
State and municipal	13,212,000	9,378,000
Railroad	12,531,000	11,849,000
Investment corporation	......	45,000,000
Finance corporation	......	300,000
Total	$171,743,000	$144,527,000

The rise in bond prices that took place at the end of the week may have the effect of influencing investment bankers to bring out various issues which have been held back, awaiting better market conditions. However, it is notable that in recent weeks there have been fewer announcements of oversubscriptions of new issues, which is taken to mean that sizable blocks of recent offerings of bonds still remain undistributed.

A table of bonds offered this week, compiled by THE NEW YORK TIMES, appears on this page.

Puget Sound Power Issue Sold.

Stone & Webster and Blodget, Inc., on behalf of the syndicate which marketed an issue of $9,000,000 Puget Sound Power and Light Company first and refunding mortgage 5s yesterday, announced that all of the bonds had been sold, applications having been received for an amount in excess of the offering.

Otis Steel Increases Output.

The Otis Steel Company announced yesterday that its eight open-hearth furnaces at the Riverside works in Cleveland, Ohio, had been put in operation and that present plans called for continued full time. E. J. Kulas, president, said there had been some improvement in the volume of releases of orders from important automobile producers.

ADVANCE CONTINUES IN PRICES OF BONDS

High-Grade Railroad Issues Are in Large Demand, Some Reaching Tops for 1930.

The advance in bond prices continued yesterday on the Stock Exchange and domestic and foreign averages were again substantially higher. The brisk bidding for high-grade railroad bonds was a feature, and although gains individually were not large, they were general. As on the previous day, when the upward movement started, convertible issues, in many instances, suffered setbacks.

United States Government bonds were bid up rapidly to levels not far from the best prices of the year to date, which were reached a few weeks ago. Yesterday's gains ranged from 1-32 to 19-32. The exception was the issue of Treasury 4¼s, which slipped back 6-32 on light trading.

Losers in the convertible list included American Telephone and Telegraph 4½s of 1939, off 2¼ points; International Telephone and Telegraph 4½s of 1939, off 3½ points; Colon Oil convertible 6s, off 1½; General Theatre Equipment convertible 6s, off 1¾, and Warner Brothers Pictures convertible 6s, off ⅜ point.

In the railroad group several issues established new high marks for the year. Pennsylvania Railroad 4½s of 1970 in heavy trading touched a fresh top at 96¼.

The public utility group was marked by heavy dealings in Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit 6s, which closed with a net gain of a point. Third Avenue refunding 4s were up 1½ points on much smaller trading, but other New York traction issues were dull.

Aside from a few weak spots in the South American list, foreign bonds were generally higher. United Kingdom 5½s of 1937 led foreign loans in activity, duplicating the previous high of 105.

HYDE ADVOCATES NEW POWER BOARD

He Tells House Committee Present Commission of Cabinet Members Fails Utterly.

"ALWAYS IN GRAND FUSS"

Accounting System Far in Arrears, He Says, Urging an Independent Body of Five Members.

WASHINGTON, May 2 (AP).—A sweeping change in the Federal Power Commission was recommended today by Secretary Hyde testifying before the House Interstate Commerce Committee in support of President Hoover's plan to set up an independent organization.

Asserting that the present members of the commission, who are the Secretaries of War, Interior and Agriculture, were unable to give adequate consideration to the problems of regulating the nation's water power resources, Mr. Hyde said a commission of five with a new personnel should be established for that purpose.

Mr. Hyde was the only witness before the committee at a hearing on the Parker bill to set up a commission of three. He suggested that the growing importance of regulating the nation's power resources in the various sections of the country would be more adequately represented with five members. A thorough reorganization of personnel was needed, he said.

Questioned by Representative Hoch, Republican of Kansas, whether the present law governing the accounting system and keeping track of amounts of investments were adequate, Secretary Hyde said that the accounting was far in arrears. He said he did not know whether it was due to insufficient funds, an inefficient force or dissension in the commission.

"There has been a grand and glorious fuss on the commission ever since I've known anything about it which has hampered things," Hyde said. He added he was dissatisfied with the present method of accounting, saying, "It might be said that we have none because it is so far behind."

Secretary Hyde endorsed the Parker bill.

"The part of the bill providing for an independent commission is vitally necessary," he said.

The interests of government agencies which would be affected by the setting up of a new organization and personnel, he said, would be protected at hearings on applications for permits to construct power projects. He referred to the War Department, which is charged with the responsibility of maintaining navigable streams, and the Forestry Service, the Geological Survey, the Public Lands Office and the Office of Indian Affairs.

FREE STATE TO PAY BONDS.

Suit Here Reveals Deal With Washington on Irish Republic Issue.

A decision by the Appellate Division yesterday revealed that negotiations have been conducted between the State Department in Washington and the Irish Free State by which the latter has agreed in principle "to pay the balance due on the bond certificates issued when the fund was raised by Eamon de Valera for the defunct Republic of Ireland. The court heard an application in behalf of the bondholders that the receivers for the bond funds be required to retain the bond certificates sent in by claimants to the fund instead of returning them by registered mail when the 58 per cent payments to the claimants are made.

The Appellate Division approved the contention of the claimants that if the bonds are to be taken up by the Irish Free State it would be to the advantage of the claimants to have the certificates presented "in block," whereas it would cost $20,000 to mail the certificates back to the owners. The receivers reported that 131,000 claimants for $3,643,000 have demanded a share in the $2,538,000 held by the receivers, and that 117,200 sent in bond certificates. About 80,600 are for $10 each, 5,830 for $20, 20,463 for $25 and 12,245 for $50.

LOFT OFFICERS GET WRIT.

Miller and Associates Restrained From Interfering With Guth.

Justice James C. Cropsey signed yesterday the final order restraining Alfred Miller and his associates, who were formerly officers of Loft, Inc., from purporting to be officers of the company, from interfering with Charles G. Guth and his associates, who were recently elected as officers of the company, in the conduct of the company's business and directing Miller and his associates to turn over to Guth all the properties of the company which they may possess. The motion on the order was to have been argued before Justice Cropsey in special term of the Supreme Court, Queens, Thursday morning, but the Miller faction defaulted.

This is the final step in a series of actions which establish that Guth, as president, and other officers elected in March legally replace Miller as president and his associates as officers of the corporation.

CAB SIGNAL SYSTEM ON JERSEY CENTRAL

Railroad Abolishes Wayside Lights Between Matawan and Atlantic Highlands.

PROFITS SHOW INCREASE

Net Income for Last Year Up $1,008,000 to $5,042,000—Year's Outlook Good.

The Central Railroad of New Jersey has installed a signal system on its single track between Matawan and Atlantic Highlands which operates in the engine cab instead of beside the track, according to the annual report issued yesterday. Other railroads have used cab signals in combination with wayside signals, but the Central of New Jersey is one of the few lines to dispense with the wayside signals.

Color light wayside signals are used at the head blocks of passing sidings, but without intermediate wayside automatic signals. The installation was started in 1928 and completed Jan. 28. It cost $86,558.

The report shows an increase in passenger revenues from $8,450,000 in 1928 to $8,749,000 in 1929, or $299,000. R. B. White, president, attributes this gain to increased commutation and local passenger travel as well as to the running of specially equipped trains and improvement in schedules.

Revenue from transporting merchandise increased $1,259,000 to $28,619,000. Mild weather caused a decline of $1,629,000 to $12,552,000 in revenue from the anthracite traffic. Waterways competition resulted in a decline of $150,000 to $3,871,000 in bituminous traffic revenue. Net income increased $1,008,000 to $5,042,000.

The balance sheet shows total assets of $218,160,000 on Dec. 31, against $217,289,000 a year previously. Profit and loss surplus increased from $23,766,000 to $26,116,000.

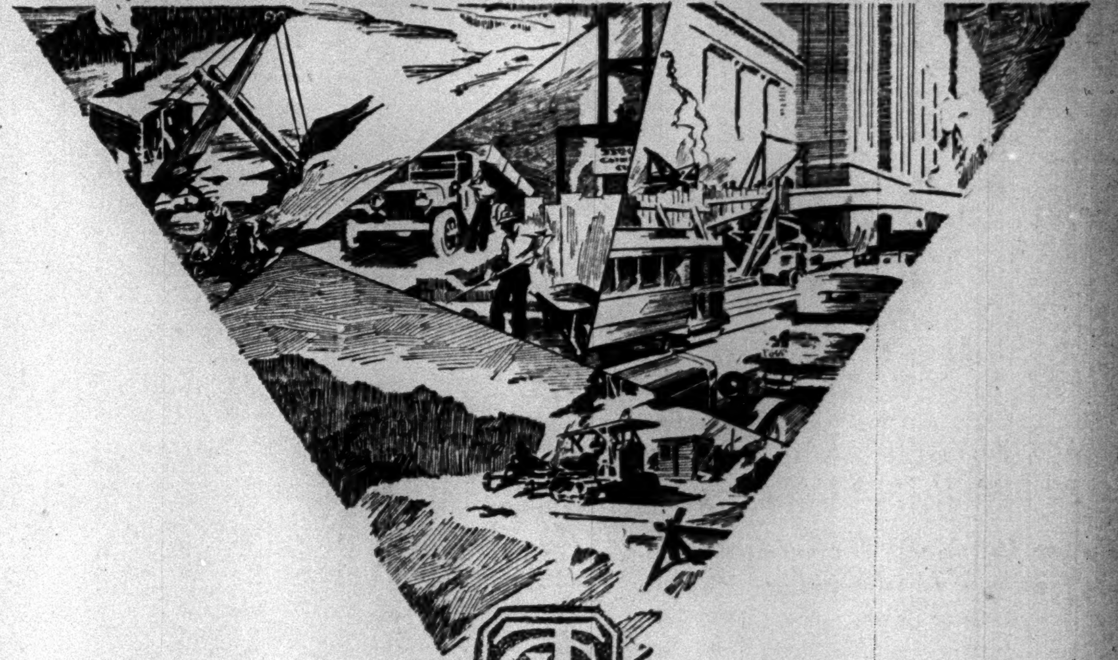
BANKERS TO INDUSTRY EVERYWHERE



CONSTRUCTION . . . A Perpetual Industry

For highway improvement alone this year our states and counties plan to spend a quarter of a billion dollars more than in 1929.

Much of the country's construction work is carried on by local builders and contractors who use the time payment plan to purchase needed equipment. Thus construction is another of the country's great industries which the C. I. T. organization serves.

Steam shovels, cranes, concrete mixers, tractors, gas engines, etc., are widely sold on long term credit and sales financed by C. I. T. companies.

To manufacturers of these and similar types of equipment, C. I. T. offers a dependable source of long term funds plus the special advantages of a nation-wide system of local offices equipped to give service at close range in matters of credit information and collections.

C. I. T. cooperates with merchants and manufacturers in financing credit sales of aircraft, automobiles, machinery, radios, commercial and factory equipment, household appliances and many other products.

OTHER DECLINES PREDICTED

Statement Explains Present Action as Bringing Quotations Nearer General Current Levels.

The American Steel and Wire Company, a subsidiary of the United States Steel Corporation, announced yesterday reductions of $2 to $3 a ton in the prices of wire rods, wire nails and plain wire. The reduction follows a recent cut of $4 a ton in steel pipe prices by the Steel Corporation and other manufacturers. Recently there have been persistent rumors of further cuts in pipe prices and other steel products. A reduction in the price of steel sheets is considered a possibility, as a result of price-shading reported to be practiced by independents.

Although the demand for steel pipe has improved recently, the Spring demand for steel wire is said to have been disappointing, while the demand for steel sheets has passed the Spring peak.

The new prices for steel wire are $36 a ton for wire rods, $2.15 a hundred pounds for wire nails and $2.30 a hundred pounds for plain wire, f. o. b. Pittsburgh and Cleveland. At Chicago the base is $1 a ton above these figures, while at Worcester prices are $2 a ton higher.

Announcement of the reduction was made by J. S. Keefe, president of Steel and Wire, who said:

"To conform with trade paper quotations, which represent prices being generally made by other manufacturers, the American Steel and Wire Company has revised selling prices.

"These prices represent a reduction of about $2 to $3 a ton from the American Steel and Wire Company's schedule, which it has been maintaining. The general market having settled down to a lower base, the above revision more nearly approximates the prices now current."

Heavy scrap steel was quoted yesterday in Chicago at $12.75 to $13.25 a ton, or 25 cents less than the previous quotations.

PHILLIPS PETROLEUM GIVES STOCK RIGHTS

An offering of 675,709 shares of stock of the Phillips Petroleum Corporation to stockholders of record of May 15 on the basis of one share for each four shares of stock held at $32 a share, was announced yesterday by Frank Phillips, president. The offering, which has been underwritten by a group headed by Bancamerica Corporation and Chatham Phenix Corporation, will provide funds for extending the gas, public utility, manufacturing, transportation and marketing divisions of the company.

The offering will provide the company with more than $21,000,000 in additional capital. It was approved by the directors on April 28.

Mr. Phillips announced the offering in a letter to stockholders in which he said:

"The purpose of this issue is to reimburse the treasury in part for capital expenditures heretofore made and to provide additional funds for the company's program of extending its activities in the manufacturing, transporting, marketing, gas and utilities divisions; thus attaining a position to participate further in all departments of the business and to take advantage of the changing economic conditions which at times throw the major profits into one or another of its divisions. The partial development of this program which has been accomplished up to the present time has shown very gratifying results; the income of the company having become so diversified that more than 50 per cent of net earnings in 1929 were derived from activities other than production of crude oil.

"As of April 15, after giving effect to the net proceeds from this new issue, net cash and other current assets were approximately $40,000,000, or considerably more than the entire funded debt. The statement also reflects over $194,000,000 invested in the properties, against which a reserve of over $78,000,000 has been set up."

CHECK PAYMENTS FAIL TO REACH 1929 MARK

Volume Last Week Was Under the Previous Week—Steel Plants Activity Gains.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—The volume of business as indicated by check payments was lower last week than in the previous week and also below the same week in 1929, the Department of Commerce said today in its weekly statement on business conditions.

Operations in steel plants were higher than for the previous week, but less than a year ago. Production of bituminous coal was nearly 2 per cent less than last week and 6 per cent below what it was a year ago. Petroleum production remained the same as the previous week but was 4 per cent lower than in 1929.

The value of building contracts declined from last week and was much below a year ago.

The general index of wholesale prices was slightly below the previous week and nearly 7 per cent lower than for 1929. Composite iron and steel prices remained practically the same as last week and were 7 per cent lower than a year ago.

"Bank loans and discounts at the end of the week," the department said, "were slightly higher than in either period. Prices for stocks were about 2 per cent lower than last week and 3 per cent below what they were in 1929."

New Zealand Borrows in London.

LONDON, May 2 (Canadian Press).—Arrangements have been completed for the issue on Monday of £5,500,000 (about $27,500,000) in New Zealand 5 per cent bonds at a price of 99. The bonds will mature in 1949. The last New Zealand loan in London was in September last, consisting of £5,000,000 in 5 per cent bonds at 98, largely taken for conversion purposes.

BANKSHARES TRUST IN RECEIVERSHIP

Stockholder Charges Assets of New Jersey Investment House Have Been Dissipated.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., May 2.—Upon petition of Isadore Colton, holder of 100 shares of its Class A stock, the Bankshares Corporation of the United States, with offices at 11 West Forty-second Street, New York City, was placed in the hands of a receiver today. Vice Chancellor John Backes appointed Samuel I. Kessler of Newark to take charge of the affairs of the corporation and ordered him to post a bond of $50,000.

In his complaint Colton set forth that the corporation had been organized in Newark in April, 1928, as an investment trust, that its present assets were $759,973.56 and its liabilities $1,911,153. Colton alleged that it advertised stock for sale on April 25 last, giving the corporation's assets at $2,431,545. Last June, the complainant asserted, a dividend of $25,700 had been declared and later paid out of the capital stock, not out of the concern's earnings. He alleged that the corporation's net losses amounted to $1,250,000 and that it had invested $225,000 in unsuccessful business enterprises. Its present condition, Colton declared, was due to inefficiency on the part of employes and illegal acts.

Vice Chancellor Backes also issued an order requiring the officers of the corporation to show cause on May 6 why they should not be restrained from further conduct of the affairs of the concern. Frank C. Thomas is president and H. Harrison is treasurer of the corporation.

Was Taken Over by New York Group.

The Bankshares Corporation of the United States was organized in Newark in April, 1928, by William Harris, a New York attorney, but was taken over in December, 1929, by a New York group headed by Frank C. Thomas, now its president. Its main office is now at 11 West Forty-second Street, New York, and its corporate office has been moved from Newark to Jersey City.

BANK STOCKS DROP IN COUNTER TRADING

Several Issues Close Near Lows for Year to Date—Insurance Shares Down.

After opening near the level of Thursday's close, prices in the over-the-counter securities market yesterday receded slightly and then held firm until the last hour of trading, when heavy offerings with few bids carried several of the more volatile issues in the bank shares down close to their lows for the year to date, with City Bank at a new low level. First National of New York and Fifth Avenue were off heavily and Guaranty, Brooklyn Trust, Corn Exchange, New York Trust, Bank of New York and Trust, Bankers and several others dropped off.

Insurance stocks followed the trend of the bank stock group and were generally lower, with Sun Life Assurance, Travelers, Kansas City Life, Aetna Casualty and Surety, Providence-Washington, Maryland Casualty, Franklin Connecticut, General Life, Aetna Life, Home Insurance, Northwestern National and others ending on lower levels.

Industrials were softer, but losses and gains were about evenly divided with trading fairly active. Among the issues scoring gains were Bowman Biltmore first and second preferred, Scoville Manufacturing, Woodward Iron common, West Virginia Pulp and Paper, Columbia Baking common, Graton & Knight preferred and Wheeling Steel preferred. Losses were sustained by Dry Ice Holding, Rolls-Royce preferred, Roxy A, Wheeling Steel common and Crowell Publishing.

The preferred issues in the utility groups were firm and steady, with common stocks in this group soft for the entire session. Chain stores, communication stocks, sugars and bonds were dull, with few price changes of note.

UTILITY EARNINGS.

Statements for Various Periods Issued by Public Service Corporations.

General Gas and Electric.

Gross income of $9,822,546 is reported for the year ended on March 31, 1930, by the General Gas and Electric Corporation and subsidiaries, compared with $9,278,426 in the previous like period. The balance for dividends, after interest, preferred dividends of subsidiaries and minority interests, was $7,404,439, which is nearly double the balance of $3,883,989 for the preceding year. The surplus after dividends, which were $5,494,382, against $2,422,697 the year before, amounted to $1,910,057, against $1,461,293 for the year ended on March 31, 1929.

New Jersey Power and Light.

Operating revenue of the New Jersey Power and Light Company in 1929 was $3,199,006, an increase of $313,303 over 1928. Net income was $745,703, a gain of $90,999. Construction work on the new Holland generating station continued last year, and the station will be placed in operation soon. About 150 miles of transmission and distribution lines were built. The Easton Gas Works were purchased from Metropolitan Edison, an affiliate, during the year.

Northern Pennsylvania Power.

The Northern Pennsylvania Power Company reports for 1929 an operating revenue of $1,070,566, an increase of $122,174. Net income increased $39,425 to $209,819. Net additions to the property last year amounted to $481,713.

To Restrict Capitalization.

Stockholders of the Crocker-Wheeler Electric Manufacturing Company have been called to vote on May 14 on a plan to limit its authorized capital stock to 400,000 shares of no par value common stock. The company now has authorized 10,000 shares of $100 par value preferred stock, of which all that was outstanding has been redeemed.

YOUNGSTOWN STOCK PUT IN 2 CLASSES

Steel Company Suspends Transfer on Exchange of 330,000 Dissenting Shares.

PROBABLY EATON HOLDINGS

New Move in Fight Over Sale to Bethlehem Results From Price Set on Shares.

A sudden change of tactics in the contest between the management of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company and stockholders who oppose its merger with the Bethlehem Steel Corporation was disclosed yesterday. The first move by the Youngstown management was to file notice with the New York Stock Exchange that it had suspended transfers of about 330,000 shares of its dissenting stock until further notice. Last night the management issued through its authorized press representatives a statement that it would recommend to directors on Monday that dissenting stock be transferred subject to notation on the certificates.

After the Stock Exchange received the first notice, it notified members that, for their own protection, they should accept delivery of Youngstown shares only by transfer. The effect of the company's decision would be to divide stock into assenting and dissenting classes. This, apparently, would meet the ruling of the Stock Exchange, to which it called attention following receipt of the first notice.

The 330,000 shares named in the first notice represent the holdings of Cyrus S. Eaton and associates, according to report.

Section 2 of Chapter 8 of the rules adopted pursuant to the constitution of the New York Stock Exchange provides that the receiver of shares of stock shall have the option of requiring the delivery to be made either in certificates or by transfer, except that in cases where personal liability attaches to the ownership, the seller shall have the right to make delivery by transfer. The right to require receipt or delivery by transfer shall not obtain while the transfer books are closed, the rule provides.

The notice of the Youngstown company that it would not transfer the dissenting shares was sent over the ticker yesterday morning by the New York Stock Exchange, as follows:

"The Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company has informed the Stock Exchange that the holders of approximately 330,000 shares of its common stock have filed with it what purports to be objection to and dissent from the sale of the assets of Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company to Bethlehem Steel Corporation and its merger therewith, and demands for the payment of the so-called fair cash value thereof.

"Upon advice of counsel, Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company has suspended further transfers of so-called 'dissenting stock' until the directors shall determine the proper course to pursue in relation thereto. Until further notice, members, for their own protection, should accept delivery only by transfer."

CHANGES IN COMPANIES.

F. G. Coburn Heads American Airways—A. Bossak With Wade Bros.

James F. Hamilton, who was elected president of American Airways, Inc., three months ago, has resigned that position, and Frederick G. Coburn, president of the Aviation Corporation of Delaware, has been elected to succeed him.

E. V. Moncrieff has been elected president of the Swan-Finch Oil Corporation to succeed William G. Moncrieff, deceased, and H. F. Moncrieff has been elected senior vice president, succeeding E. V. Moncrieff. D. J. Kenefick was elected a director of the same corporation.

William V. Griffin, president of the Brady Security and Realty Corporation and one of the executors of the estate of James C. Brady, has been elected a director of the Bank of Manhattan Trust Company.

Alvin Bossak has been admitted to partnership in Wade Brothers & Co., members of the New York Stock Exchange.

Joseph Glass, president of the Middle States Petroleum Corporation, has become a member of the law firm of Olcott, Holmes, Glass, Paul & Havens, which represents a consolidation of the firms of Olcott, Olcott & Glass and Holmes, Paul & Havens.

FOX FILM DECLARES APRIL 15 DIVIDEND

Directors Order $1 Quarterly Payment, Overdue on Class A and B Stocks.

SCRIP WILL BE REDEEMED

Management Reports Obligations of $102,000,000 Cleared Away by New Financing.

Directors of the Fox Film Corporation yesterday declared the regular quarterly dividend of $1 on the Class A and Class B shares, which has been due on these stocks since April 15. The directors also voted to redeem the scrip which was issued in lieu of cash in payment of the quarterly dividend of $1 on May 20, the same date on which the dividend declared yesterday is payable, to stockholders of record on May 12.

It also was reported to the meeting, it is understood, that all the obligations of the corporation, which totaled $102,000,000, had been cleared away by the present financing under the plan prepared by Halsey Stuart & Co. Inability to pay these obligations plunged the old management of the corporation into a series of lawsuits, including several applications for receiverships, which made the Class A stock listed on the New York Stock Exchange a spectacular feature of trading for the last four months.

It is understood that it was the consensus at the directors' meeting that it was advisable to restore the old dates of payment of the regular quarterly dividends on Jan. 15, April 15, July 15 and Oct. 15. The only interruption in payments on these shares since this class of stock was put on the annual basis of $4 on Oct. 15, 1925, was for the quarter ended on March 31 this year, the payment due on April 15. This interruption was caused, it was explained yesterday, by the fact that at the time the declaration was due the old management of the corporation had become practically inactive and the new management had not yet assumed control.

Pursuant to the announcement of Harley L. Clarke, president of the corporation, that the regular rate would be resumed at once, and the statement from the directors that the dividend declared yesterday was the "regular quarterly dividend for the quarter ended March 31," it is expected that the next dividend will be declared payable on July 15 for the quarter ended on June 30.

NEW OIL WELLS INCREASE.

Completions East of Rockies in April Totaled 1,924, Gain of 158.

OIL CITY, Pa., May 2 (AP).—The Derrick's oil report shows that oil well completions east of the Rockies increased 158 in April, there being 1,924 new wells.

New production was 807,347 barrels, an increase of 262,559 over the total in March. New production in Oklahoma was 556,808 barrels from 380 completions. At the end of the month there were 941 rigs building and 3,406 wells drilling, both representing increases over March.

Financing for Paragon Refining.

Permanent financing of the purchase of the Valvoline Oil Company, which was acquired in September, 1929, is expected to be arranged at a meeting of the stockholders of the Paragon Refining Company to be held at Cincinnati on May 6. The Paragon Company holds 32,227 shares of the Valvoline Company out of a total outstanding of 38,600 at an average price of about $200 a share. The purchase was originally financed by temporary loans of $6,400,000. It is expected that the permanent financing will take the form of a stock issue.

Advances Corning Oil 10 Cents.

The South Penn Oil Company yesterday advanced the posted price for Corning crude oil 10 cents a barrel to $1.75. On Thursday the company cut the prices for Pennsylvania grade crude oil 25 cents a barrel, making the top price $2.55. The cut was ascribed to overproduction in the Pennsylvania district.

Skelly Oil Company's Plan.

Stockholders of the Skelly Oil Company will meet on May 14 to pass upon the issuance of $12,000,000 6 per cent preferred stock which recently was announced as having been underwritten by a banking syndicate.

GASOLINE RESERVES SHOW FURTHER CUT

265,000 Barrels Reduction in Week Ended April 26 Reported by Petroleum Institute.

RISE IN CRUDE OIL OUTPUT

29,200 Barrels Increase in Daily Average Announced—Imports Also Larger.

Refinery statistics of the American Petroleum Institute for the week ended on April 26 show the progress that has been made in reducing gasoline in storage despite increased operations at refineries in the last few weeks. The report shows that refineries representing 95.6 per cent of the refining capacity of the country reduced their reserves of gasoline by 265,000 barrels last week, following a reduction of 431,000 barrels in the preceding week. Total reserves of these refineries were 53,212,000 barrels on April 26, compared with 53,477,000 on April 19.

Crude runs to stills, and gasoline, gas and fuel oil stocks for the week ended on April 26 follow:

The report of the institute says:

"The American Petroleum Institute estimates that the daily average gross crude oil production in the United States for the week ended April 26 was 2,590,100 barrels, as compared with 2,560,900 barrels for the preceding week, an increase of 29,200 barrels. The daily average production east of California was 1,959,300 barrels, as compared with 1,933,000 barrels, an increase of 26,300 barrels.

"The estimated daily average gross production for the mid-continent field, including Oklahoma, Kansas, Panhandle, North, West Central, West, East Central and Southwest Texas, North Louisiana and Arkansas, for the week ended April 26 was 1,540,250 barrels, compared with 1,508,800 barrels for the preceding week, an increase of 31,450 barrels.

"Imports of crude and refined oils at the principal United States ports for the week ended April 26 totaled 1,908,000 barrels, a daily average of 272,571 barrels, compared with 1,791,000 barrels, a daily average of 255,857 barrels for the week ended April 19, and a daily average of 262,143 barrels for the four weeks ended April 26.

"Receipts of California oil, crude and refined, at Atlantic and Gulf Coast ports for the week ended April 26 totaled 442,000 barrels, a daily average of 63,143 barrels, compared with 195,000 barrels, a daily average of 27,857 barrels for the week ended April 19 and a daily average of 44,071 barrels for the four weeks ended April 26."

To Be Individual Broker.

Through an error made by the New York Stock Exchange, it was announced yesterday that William J. Brandenburg, who has purchased a seat on the Exchange for $479,000, would be an associate broker for M. J. Meehan & Co., if elected to membership. Mr. Brandenburg will be an individual broker.

CHRYSLER EARNS 4C A SHARE IN QUARTER

Net Profit Is $180,717, Against Net Loss of $2,828,251 in Preceding Three Months.

TO PAY REGULAR DIVIDEND

Company, Says President, Benefits From Trend Toward Lower-Priced Automobiles.

Unfavorable conditions in the automobile industry in the first quarter of the year, which have been illustrated in recent reports of earnings, were emphasized yesterday in the quarterly return of the Chrysler Corporation. This showed for the three months ended on March 31 a net profit of $180,717, equivalent to 4 cents a share on the outstanding 4,470,456 shares of common stock after taxes, interest charges and depreciation. The company reported a net loss of $2,828,251 in the preceding quarter and a net income of $8,838,173, or $2 a share, on 4,411,990 shares in the first quarter of 1929. Earnings for this year's first quarter were in line with Wall Street's expectations.

Walter P. Chrysler, president and chairman of the board, said conditions in the automobile line now were more stabilized and the industry probably had turned the corner for the better. He noted a marked shift toward lower-priced models and said the trend had benefited the Chrysler Corporation.

The directors declared the quarterly dividend of 75 cents a share on the common stock, payable on June 30 to stockholders of record on June 2. It will be the corporation's eighteenth consecutive cash dividend.

Report of the Corporation.

The corporation's report said in part:

"Net current assets as of March 31 were $71,764,873.95, an increase of $379,795.87 for the quarter. Compared with March 31, 1929, net current assets decreased only $6,642,731.49, notwithstanding the retirement since that date of $9,639,500 of debt and the payment of dividends amounting to $10,041,453.

"The ratio of current assets to current liabilities, after providing for first quarter dividends, was 4.05 to 1, compared with 2.77 to 1 on March 31, 1929.

"During the first three months of 1930 the corporation's net investment in permanent assets decreased $2,463,720.28.

"Net operating profit for the twelve months ended March 31 was $13,244,711.87. Despite the current recession in business the corporation, during the past twelve months, has earned its dividend, reduced its debt and maintained its net current asset position.

"Admittedly conditions in 1929 were abnormal and, therefore, to gauge, in their true light, current conditions, comparison should be made with average conditions in 1927, 1928 and 1929.

Deliveries Compared With Average.

"Domestic registrations for March, 1930, compared with the average of 1927, 1928 and 1929 indicate that the number of units delivered in March, 1930, was 101.25 per cent of the previous three years' average. The figures show that if Plymouth, Ford and Chevrolet, the three lines of cars selling in the lowest price field and largest volume, are eliminated, sales of all higher priced units in the industry were approximately 64 per cent of the previous three years' average. Sales of Chrysler Motors units on this comparative basis amounted to 80 per cent of the previous three years' average."

The corporation's income statement for the quarter, compared with the first quarter of last year, follows:

	Three Months Ended Mar. 31, '30.	Mar. 31, '29.

Surplus on March 31 was $53,648,657, compared with $50,445,398 on the corresponding day of last year.

HEAVY SALES LOWER MOST ISSUES ON CURB

Down-turns Are Led by Leading Stocks of Utilities, Oils and Industrials.

With few exceptions, prices on the New York Curb Exchange moved to lower levels yesterday under renewed selling of utility, oil and industrial leaders. Gains were recorded in Cooper Bessemer, Noma Electric and Zonite Products in the general list and in Public Utility Holding and Rockland Light and Power among the utilities.

Nearly all utility leaders showed heavy losses, among them Electric Bond and Share, American Gas and Electric, American and Foreign Power warrants, American Light and Traction, United Gas, United Light and Power A, Cities Service, Brazilian Traction, American Superpower, Niagara Hudson Power and Baltimore Gas.

The heavy oils included Houston, Gulf, Vacuum, Humble, Standard of Indiana and Standard of Kentucky. Goldman Sachs, Central States Electric, Eastern States B, Securities Corporation General and Hydroelectric Securities were depressed in the trust group.

Among the industrials losses resulted in American Cyanamid B, Crocker-Wheeler, Deere & Co., Dresser Manufacturing, Driver Harris, Stein Cosmetics, Taggart Corporation, St. Regis Paper and Fox Theatres.

TO PASS ON GLASS MERGER.

Stockholders of Libbey-Owens to Vote on May 20.

A special meeting of stockholders of the Libbey-Owens Glass Company has been called for May 20 to pass upon the questions of a merger with the Edward Ford Plate Glass Company and a change in the name of the corporation to the Libbey-Owens-Ford Glass Company.

James C. Blair, president of Libbey-Owens, in the letter calling the meeting, said the company would exchange 475,000 shares of its common stock for the assets of the Ford Company. This makes the cost of the Ford property approximately $13,300,000. The company had net profits of $477,000 in 1929, after depreciation and taxes, and its current assets on March 31 were above $2,900,000, against current liabilities of about $250,000. No increase in the Libbey-Owen authorized stock will be necessary to make the purchase.

FRENCH TRADING IMPROVES

Discount Reductions Ease the Credit Situation—Tone Firmer on German Boerse.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 2.—The stock markets responded well during the forenoon to yesterday's bank rate reduction, but later in the day a reaction occurred. Gilt-edged securities closed with impressive gains, notably the 5 per cent war loan, which rose 11s 6d to £102, and the funding loan, which jumped 1⅜ to £90⅞.

Anglo-American issues were depressed, except General Electric, which rose 9d to 47s 9d. Hydro-electric declined 1½ to $48¾, while International Nickel fell 1⅛ to $34⅞, International Holding ¼ to $6½ and Brazilian Traction 1 point to $52. Canadian Pacific lost 1½ to $206½, but British Railways showed all-around improvement.

His Master's Voice Gramophone reacted ⅛ to £5 5/32 and Columbia Graphophone fell 9/16 to £6¾. Tobaccos and automobiles tended to improve. Oils weakened on lack of support, Royal Dutch falling to £33¾ and Shell Transport to £4 27/32.

Rhodesian coppers hardened on good news from the properties, Bwana M'Kubwa touching 17s 3d. Rio Tinto, however, declined a point to £40¼.

Money was abundant in Lombard Street, where the overnight loan rate fell to 1 per cent, the lowest in years. The discount market was weak, with three-month bills quoted at 2¼ per cent. Sterling declined to $4.86 1/16 after a firm opening. The Bank of England today received £1,000,000 in sovereigns from Australia, while £6,000 in sovereigns were exported and £5,172 of bar gold sold.

Paris Session Fairly Active.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, May 2.—After a fairly active session the Bourse closed today for the week and until October will hold no Saturday sessions. Despite unfavorable reports from the New York and other world markets, trading was somewhat improved.

Action of the Bank of France and the Bank of England in reducing the discount rates further ameliorated the monetary situation.

With the exception of the 5 per cent issue of 1920, French rentes were active and closed as follows: The 3 per cents, 87.50; 1918 4s, 100.05; 1920 amortizable 5s, 132.95; 1928 5s, 102.35; 1920 6s, 105; 1927 amortizable 6s, 104.05.

General Advance in Berlin.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, May 2.—Today's session of the Boerse was dominated by dyes trust shares, which suddenly jumped to 186 following an announcement that the company would pay an extra bonus of 2 per cent besides the 12 per cent dividend. The dyes trust boom, in addition to the reduction in the discount rate in New York, London and Paris, stimulated the market and caused general improvement.

It is expected that the Reichsbank will follow the example and reduce the discount rate to 4½ per cent, which would be the lowest since the end of the war.

All stocks connected with the dyes trust profited by the firmness and advanced 4 to 5 points. Mansfeld Copper Mines, Stolberger Zinc and Hirsch Kupfer were much sought and several points higher. Lorenz advanced 7 points, but later eased slightly.

Shipping stocks, Thueringer Gas and Conti Gummi also were firmer. The electricals were neglected but steady. The Boerse closed firm but slightly below the highest quotations of the day, with dyes trust still in demand.

Economic and financial circles here express the hope that the bankers' meeting next week in Paris to decide the rate of interest for the German reparations loan will take into consideration the reduction in the official bank rates. More than 3 per cent above the discount rate of the Federal Reserve Bank and the Bank of England is considered wholly unjustified. It is held here that the rate of interest should be adapted to the present rates of the world.

BARS CIGARETTE SALES.

City Council at Cedar Rapids, Iowa, Acts Against Chain Stores.

Special to The New York Times.

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa, May 2.—The passage of a resolution by the City Council here last night, depriving chain stores of the right to sell cigarettes after their licenses expire on June 1, has precipitated a fight which may finally be taken to the Supreme Court of the United States to decide just how far a council may go in determining what a merchant shall charge for his wares.

The chain stores here have been selling two packages of cigarettes for 25 cents plus the 2 cents tax on each package. Regular cigar stores have asked the council to insist that the chain stores sell at the established price. Pressure on the council led to adoption of the resolution.

The chain stores have announced they would appeal the case to the highest Federal court, if necessary, on the ground that the City Council had no right to seek to fix the price of a commodity.

DIVIDEND BY DYES TRUST.

German Company Declares 12% and Several Bonus Distributions.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

FRANKFORT, May 2.—A dividend of 12 per cent was declared today at a board of directors' meeting of I. G. Farben, or German Dyes Trust. Shareholders will also get a special bonus of 2 per cent from an amount of 21,000,000 marks which the company received on released German property sequestrated during the war. Holders of partial indentures of 1928 will receive a 1 per cent bonus. Other firms connected with Dye Trust receive bonus ranging from ½ to 2 per cent.

The annual report shows net profit of 104,597,746 marks, against 118,450,169 marks. While the reserve fund received 11,000,000 marks last year, nothing will be set aside this year. Five million marks were placed in the pension and social welfare funds and 5,941,995 marks carried forward.

$25,000,000 MERGER OF DYE COMPANIES

NEW CONCERN PLANNED

Will Operate Under a Delaware Charter—Newport to Continue Wood Distilling.

Arrangements for the formation of a new company through the consolidation of the dyestuffs and chemical division of the Newport Company and the International Printing Ink Corporation were announced yesterday by Dillon, Read & Co., bankers for both companies.

The consolidated company will have assets of more than $25,000,000 and an authorized capitalization of 350,000 shares of cumulative preferred stock, $100 par value, and 2,000,000 shares of common stock without par value, of which there will be outstanding 119,239 shares of preferred and 657,844 shares of common stock. Net earnings of the combined properties available for dividends totaled $3,500,000 last year.

The Newport Company, formed in 1929, produces a diversified list of organic and inorganic chemicals. It has three plants producing more than 375 products. The International Printing Ink Corporation is one of the largest manufacturers of printing ink and allied products. It has nine plants in this country.

Terms of the Merger.

The terms of the consolidation call for the acquisition by the new corporation of all or the major part of the outstanding securities of the International Printing Ink Corporation and all of the stock of the Newport Chemical Corporation, which is to be formed under the Delaware laws and all of the assets of the dyestuffs and chemical division of the Newport Company. The latter will continue in existence, retaining its wood-distilling division. Dillon, Read & Co. announced that the consolidation will be effected by exchanging the outstanding common and preferred shares and warrants of the International Printing Ink Corporation for preferred and common stock and warrants of the Newport company and by issuing to common stock and warrants in exchange for the outstanding shares of the Newport Chemical Corporation.

Basis of the Exchange.

One share of 6 per cent cumulative preferred stock, series A, of the new company for each 6 per cent cumulative preferred share of International.

1.4 shares of common stock of the new company for each common share of International.

A detached warrant for the purchase of 1.4 shares of common stock of the new company at $45 per share, expiring June 1, 1935, for each subscription warrant (now or originally attached to International preferred shares) for one common share of International at $60 per share, expiring June 1, 1931.

"The Newport Company will receive in exchange for outstanding shares of the Newport Chemical Corporation 46,688 shares of preferred stock, 255,645.8 shares of common stock and warrants for 32,677.2 shares of common stock of the new company.

"A. A. Schlesinger, now president of the Newport Company, will head the consolidated company as chairman of the board of directors and John M. Tuttle, now president of the International Printing Ink Corporation, will become president of the new company."

This compares with $469,279, or $1.04 a share on 450,000 shares in the first quarter of 1929.

American Colortype.

The report of the American Colortype Company and subsidiaries for the year ended Dec. 31, 1929, shows net profit of $644,242 after depreciation, interest, Federal taxes and other charges, equivalent after 7 per cent preferred dividends amounting to $58,384 to $4.50 a share on 130,000 no-par shares of common stock. This compares with $694,133, or $4.85 a common share in 1928. During the year the company retired for sinking fund purposes $128,000 of its 6 per cent debenture bonds due 1942. On Dec. 31, last, there was in the treasury $147,000 of the 6 per cent debenture for future sinking fund requirements. The company also retired last year $118,400 of its 7 per cent preferred stock.

Butte and Superior Mining.

The Butte and Superior Mining Company reports for the three months ended on March 31 loss of $87,111 after expenses and taxes, but before depreciation and depletion, against a loss of $43,870 in the three months ended Dec. 31, 1929. In the first three months of 1929 the company reported a loss of $15,623 after expenses and taxes, but before depreciation and depletion.

The report states that "operations are being conducted on a reduced scale, pending completion of scheduled development work. Nothing noteworthy has occurred in connection with these developments. Increased deficit for the quarter is due both to decreased production and lower prices for metals."

Skelly Oil Company.

The Skelly Oil Company reports for the first three months of this year net income of $547,510, equivalent to 50 cents a share, after all charges, including interest, depletion, depreciation, other capital extinguishments and provision for Federal income tax. This compares with $1,170,208, equivalent to $1.07 a share, in the first quarter of 1929.

The decline in earnings is attributed by the company to the lower prices obtained in the industry for crude oil and refined products. Since the quarter ended, it is stated, material improvement in this condition has been realized and improvement is expected to continue.

Income and surplus account as of March 31 shows surplus of $13,650,319. Gross earnings from operations for the first quarter were $6,511,796. The company charged off $1,563,588 for depletion, depreciation and other capital extinguishments during the quarter.

Mortgage Bank of Colombia.

The Mortgage Bank of Colombia reports an increase of 9 per cent in earnings for the first three months of 1930 as compared with the corresponding period of 1929, according to cable advices received yesterday by Baker, Kellogg & Co. and Ames, Emerich & Co., Inc. The earnings for the quarter were given as 231,117.94 pesos, compared with 211,836.97 pesos for the same period in 1929. These earnings are equivalent to earnings on the American shares of $1.12 and $1.03, respectively.

Thompson Products, Inc.

Thompson Products, Inc., reports for the three months ended on March 31 a net profit of $202,180 after depreciation, Federal taxes and other charges, equivalent, after dividend requirements on 7 per cent preferred stock, to 74 cents a share on 263,160 no-par shares of common stock to be issued upon exchange of certificates for Class A stock and Class B stock now outstanding. This compares with $377,673 in the first quarter of 1929, which, computed on the same share basis, was equal to $1.41 a share.

Seeman Brothers.

Seeman Brothers, Inc., wholesale distributers of food products, report for the three months ended on March 31 a net profit of $130,770 after charges and Federal taxes, equivalent to $1.04 a share on 125,000 no-par shares of stock. This compares with $202,888, or $1.62 a share in the quarter ended on March 31, 1929. Indicated net profit for the nine months ended on March 31 was $567,551, equivalent to $4.54 a share on 125,000 shares, against $639,778, or $5.11 a share in the corresponding period of the preceding year.

City Ice and Fuel.

Profit of the City Ice and Fuel Company for the three months ended on March 31 was $532,238 after interest but before depreciation and Federal taxes, against $527,564 in the first quarter of 1929. Sales were $4,945,276, against $4,955,338.

Liquid Carbonic Corporation.

The Liquid Carbonic Corporation reports for six months ended on March 31 a net profit of $291,027 after interest, depreciation, Federal taxes and other charges, equivalent to 85 cents a share on 342,406 no-par shares of stock. This compares with $283,116 or $1.06 a share on 266,683 shares in the same period of 1929. Net sales for the six months were $5,459,756, against $4,751,800 the year before. Current assets on March 31 were $10,347,106 and current liabilities $3,367,339.

Louisiana Oil Refining.

The Louisiana Oil Refining Corporation and subsidiaries report for the three months ended March 31 net loss of $63,798 after interest, depreciation, depletion, amortization and other charges, contrasting with profit of $239,035 before Federal taxes in the first quarter of 1929. To stockholders of record of May 3 will receive rights to subscribe to one share at $11 for each ten shares held. The rights will expire on May 29.

Walworth Company.

The Walworth Company and subsidiaries report for the three months ended on March 31 a net profit of $340,757 after interest, depreciation, Federal and foreign taxes, equivalent to earnings of $1.02 a share, after preferred dividend requirements, on the outstanding common stock. In the first three months of 1929 the net profit was $401,946, equivalent to $1.26 a share on the common stock then outstanding.

American Commercial Alcohol.

The American Commercial Alcohol Corporation reports for the three months ended on March 31 net earnings of $175,349, after all charges, including provision for Federal taxes, equivalent to 45 cents a share on the stock outstanding. This compares with net earnings of $290,449 for the first three months of 1929, equivalent to 74 cents a share on the same number of shares.

Follansbee Brothers Company.

The Follansbee Brothers Company reports for the quarter ended on March 31 a net loss of $99,072 after interest charges. This contrasts with a net income of $402,572, equivalent to earnings of $1.98 a share on the common stock in the first three months of 1929. The report says: "There was a slight gain in the profits for March, although business early in the quarter was generally poor."

ASSAILS VAN NAMEE IN GAS RATE HEARING

Citizens' Group Counsel Seeks to Remove Him From Case as Unfair to Public.

SAYS HE INSULTED WOMAN

Charging that the public was without protection at the rehearing before George R. Van Namee, Public Service Commissioner, on the application of the Brooklyn Union Gas Company for a change in its rate schedule yesterday, Robert J. Schneider, representing the Ridgewood Taxpayers' Association, assailed the commissioner's conduct, accused him of insulting a woman member of the civic group and Corporation Counsel Arthur J. W. Hilly, and demanded that Mr. Van Namee be excluded from the case.

The hearing was proceeding with Cornelius M. Sheehan, representing the People's Civic League and other organizations, questioning Edward J. Cheney, expert engineer witness for the company, on a cost analysis made by Mr. Cheney. Mr. Sheehan's habit of looking toward the spectators as he questioned the witness brought a suggestion from Commissioner Van Namee that Mr. Sheehan "address the witness and not the audience." This precipitated the outburst from Mr. Schneider.

"You have directed Mr. Sheehan to address the witness," said Mr. Schneider. "Why don't you direct the witness to answer questions?" Mr. Schneider had previously charged Mr. Cheney with being evasive.

"Witness, I ask you to answer," said Mr. Van Namee.

Mr. Schneider objected to what he termed a "smart" attitude on the commissioner's part, declaring that he (Schneider) was "serious."

"I'm serious, too," remarked Mr. Van Namee.

"Well, I don't think you are," returned Mr. Schneider, "and I don't think we are being protected here. I now make a motion to exclude you from this case. I don't think the public is being protected by you."

Mr. Schneider then referred to a newspaper article of April 23 in which, he said, Mr. Van Namee had been classed "in the same school as former Chairman William A. Prendergast." He further moved to exclude Mr. Van Namee on the ground that "on April 7 you insulted one of our ladies here."

Mr. Van Namee, aroused now at the accusations, demanded to know what person Mr. Schneider referred to.

"Here she is," shouted Mr. Schneider, and Miss Helen Kinbacher of 13 Grattan Street, Brooklyn, secretary of Mr. Schneider's organization, arose.

Mr. Van Namee ordered Mr. Cheney from the stand and called Miss Kinbacher to testify. She was sworn and seated.

"Now, what was it I said to you that was insulting?" Mr. Van Namee asked Miss Kinbacher.

Miss Kinbacher then recalled an interview with the commissioner following an adjournment at a previously scheduled hearing.

"You are referring to a private conversation in my office," reminded Mr. Van Namee. "That can not be admitted here, but go ahead and tell. What did I say?"

"Well, you began by saying you wondered what I was doing, was I working for a living," said Miss Kinbacher.

"Now here's what happened," interrupted Mr. Van Namee. "You asked why the meeting was adjourned. We discussed the affair without any heat and we mentioned the length of time the hearing was taking. I asked in a facetious way why you spent so much time here and whether you were employed. Was that insulting?"

"Yes," replied Miss Kinbacher.

"You consider it insulting if I ask you if you are employed?"

"I don't think it was a proper question to ask me," Miss Kinbacher said.

The hearing was adjourned shortly afterward until Thursday at 10:15 A. M.

RENT NEAR DOUBLE FOR NEW TICKERS

High Speed Service of Stock Quotations Is Figured to Cost $57.50 a Month—$30 Now.

CHANGE IN 3 OR 4 MONTHS

Nearly All Parts of New York City Have Improved Machines Installed.

When the Western Union Telegraph Company in three or four months puts into high-speed operation its new stock tickers it will announce a schedule that will provide for a maximum monthly charge not quite double that now prevailing for the old-fashioned slower tickers, it was learned yesterday.

The base charge, to be increased by about 30 per cent, will be made to apply to stock ticker service furnished if monthly stock trading is 50,000,000 shares or less, or, on an average, 2,000,000 shares a day.

For every additional million shares a surcharge will be made, limited to 100,000,000-share trading a month, or on an average 4,000,000 shares daily.

As trading for some months has, with few exceptions, exceeded 100,000,000 shares on the New York Stock Exchange, it is expected that the volume of trading in future months nearly always will bring about the billing of a surcharge of $17.50 over and above the base rate. For instance, if the base rate is $30 a month for present stock ticker service, the fast rate will be $40 a month. With a $17.50 surcharge for 100,000,000-share months, the maximum cost of high-speed ticker service will be $57.50.

The cost of the faster service to the company is said to be about five times that of operating the old-fashioned ticker. Then, new tickers cost more to manufacture, install, supervise and maintain than the old.

New tickers have been installed in nearly every part of New York City and will be replaced in all sections of the country to which stock quotation service is furnished. It will not be possible to operate the new tickers at their high speed until every low-speed ticker has been replaced.

The new tickers, at maximum speed, will probably keep abreast of quotations in 8,000,000 to 9,000,000 share days.

Party for Hayden, Stone & Co.

More than 560 employes of Hayden, Stone & Co. will have their annual dinner and dance in the Plaza Hotel tonight. A special train will be run from Boston this afternoon to bring the employes of the company from Boston, Springfield and Portland. Edgar A. Dunn, Amy Edling, Edward E. Ziegler and John J. Ferris will receive gold watches from Charles Hayden, head of the firm, they having completed twenty-five years in the employ of the company.

8,313 FORD AUTOS DAILY.

Output of Cars and Trucks for Quarter Was 400,070.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, Mich., May 2.—Cars and trucks produced in all plants of the Ford Motor Company totaled 400,070 for the first quarter of 1930, it was announced today. Of these, 346,350 units were manufactured in the United States. The total for March was 174,585, of which 148,322 units were made in this country.

The daily average on a basis of a five-day week reached 8,313, and during April it was even greater.

REALTY SECURITIES.

Prices advanced yesterday on the New York Real Estate Securities Exchange, with an increased turnover. Twenty-five bonds and a $3,000 block of mortgage certificates were sold. Bond issues covering several Philadelphia structures, including the John Wanamaker store, and buildings in Chicago and St. Louis were quoted for the first time.

May 1, 1930.

To the Holders of Common Stock of The United Gas Improvement Company

The United Corporation has acquired an additional 500,000 shares of the Common Stock of The United Gas Improvement Company, and it has issued therefor 500,000 shares of its Common Stock on a share for share basis.

Holders of an additional 200,000 shares of the Common Stock of The United Gas Improvement Company have expressed the desire to exchange their shares of Common Stock on the same basis for shares of Common Stock of The United Corporation, and The United Corporation is proceeding to make this exchange.

If any other holders of Common Stock of The United Gas Improvement Company should desire to exchange their stock on the same basis, The United Corporation will, for the period from this date until three o'clock P. M. standard time on May 12, 1930, receive tenders for the exchange of shares of the Common Stock of The United Gas Improvement Company for shares of the Common Stock of The United Corporation on the basis of one share of the Common Stock of The United Gas Improvement Company for one share of the Common Stock of The United Corporation and subject to the following conditions—

1. Any one who desires to avail of this offer should make tender of his Common Stock of The United Gas Improvement Company by depositing his shares thereof with J. P. Morgan & Co., 23 Wall Street, New York, N. Y., or Drexel & Co., 15th and Walnut Streets, Philadelphia, Pa., on or after May 1, 1930. On the acceptance of any tender there will be delivered certificates of the Common Stock of The United Corporation or pending approval of application to list such shares on the New York Stock Exchange, interim receipts of J. P. Morgan & Co. or Drexel & Co. entitling the registered holder to receive certificates of the Common Stock of The United Corporation, called for by the exchange basis as above provided, when listed and upon authority to issue. Application to list will be made immediately after May 12, 1930.

2. Each share of the Common Stock of The United Gas Improvement Company so deposited shall be duly endorsed and the signature thereon shall be appropriately guaranteed by a New York or Philadelphia bank or trust company or by a firm having membership on the New York Stock Exchange or the Philadelphia Stock Exchange, and each such share shall be accompanied by a duly signed transmittal blank addressed to J. P. Morgan & Co. or Drexel & Co. authorizing the exchange in this notice provided. Such transmittal blanks will be supplied to any depositor by J. P. Morgan & Co. or Drexel & Co.

3. It is understood that any tender for exchange may be accepted in whole or in part or rejected in whole or in part.

COVERING SLACKENS, WEAKENING COTTON

CERTIFICATED STOCKS RISE

With weak sugar and stock markets covering operations on the Cotton Exchange slackened yesterday and prices for both near and distant deliveries ruled easier than early in the week. A less aggressive demand for July carried that month off $1 a bale but premiums on the old crop were maintained around recent high levels.

A steady increase in certificated stocks brought the total to 333,000 bales at the six delivery points, with a large block of recent arrivals in New York still being classed by government agents. Final quotations were 8 to 12 points lower than on Thursday.

Quotations in Liverpool, usually $4 to $5 a bale above those here, fell sharply, the July delivery being $2 under the New York price. At the same time July sold 160 points above October, all months easing under selling pressure and a diminished demand for contracts.

A further falling off in spinners' takings and unfavorable week-end figures influenced sentiment. Spinners' takings for the season are now 1,467,000 bales behind those at the corresponding date last year, while exports decreased 1,088,000 bales, the heaviest deficiency so far this season.

Yesterday's quotations here follow:

	Open.	High.	Low.	Close.	Prev. Day.
May	16.40	16.45	16.31	16.38	16.49-50
July	16.53	16.57	16.40	16.50-51	16.60
Oct., old	14.92	14.94	14.83	14.88-90	14.96-15.00
Oct., nw	14.62	14.64	14.54	14.57-59	14.68

Mch.	14.91	14.95	14.83	14.92-93	14.98

The local market for spot cotton was quiet at 10 points decline to 16.60c for middling upland.

Southern spot markets were: Galveston, 16.06c, 4 points decline, sales 297 bales; New Orleans, 15.90c, 15 points decline, sales 172 bales; Savannah, 15.66c, 9 points decline, sales 119 bales; Augusta, 14.56c, unchanged, sales 205 bales; Memphis, 15c, 10 points decline, sales 1,211 bales; Houston, 15.85c, 10 points decline, sales 1,070 bales; Little Rock, 14.90c, 22 points decline, sales 352 bales; Dallas, 15.75c, 10 points decline, sales 12 bales.

Yesterday's cotton statistics, in bales, were:

	Yesterday.	Last Week.	Last Year.
Port receipts	4,785	21,847	6,067
Exports	11,979	16,130	17,999
Exports, season	6,275,556	6,230,319	7,365,591

AUTO ACCESSORIES GAIN.

Report for April Show Further Increase in Sales.

March business in the automotive accessory industry ran well ahead of February, and preliminary reports for April show a further favorable increase, according to the Motor and Equipment Association. Original equipment, service parts, accessories and service equipment shipments were all heavier in March than in February.

The greatest increase was reported by suppliers of original equipment to the car and truck manufacturers and garage repair equipment and tools to the trade. A moderate but consistent improvement in operations can be expected for the near future, according to the association report.

Liverpool Could Ship Cotton Back Here Without Loss

An unusual situation developed on the New York Cotton Exchange yesterday when a sharp decline in Liverpool carried the differences in prices between the two markets so far from their normal relations that it became possible to bring cotton from Liverpool back to New York without loss.

PROGRESS INDICATED IN GENERAL TRADE

Weekly Reviews Emphasize the Vast Reserve Power That Business Is Showing.

RETAIL LINES IMPROVE

Reports on Steel Are Optimistic as to Output, but Prices Exhibit Weakness.

With warmer weather and an abundance of rain in most sections that needed moisture there has been a slight speeding up in retail buying, according to the business reviews of the week, issued yesterday. The surveys indicate that business is exhibiting a vast reserve power and optimism for the future is widespread.

R. G. Dun & Co. say, in part:

"With the beginning of the fifth month of the year some additions to business recovery appear, although a general return of activity is still deferred. Appraisals of the situation stress the many contrasts which exist and sentiment in the different trades varies according as the immediate trend is favorable or otherwise. Confidence in the longer outlook is widespread, but current restraints and the problems of readjustment impede the expected revival, as statistical records demonstrate.

"The commercial mortality, while lower than in earlier months this year, continues above the seasonal average, railroad freight traffic does not increase progressively, the rate of manufacture in important industries is either rising only slowly or is being curtailed to conform more nearly with actual demands, and profit margins in many instances are narrowing. Evidence accumulates that commodity price uncertainties operate to restrict new commitments, and the compilation of Dun's Index Number shows that the decline which gathered momentum last Autumn has not yet been definitely checked.

"An encouraging feature appearing in the general textile situation this week was the evidence of a steadier basis in primary channels. The markets were still far from being without price irregularities, but the more stable conditions which developed were regarded as a promising indication.

"With the passing of the month which included Easter, conclusive evidence of a broad revival in the shoe trade is still lacking. Signs of betterment have appeared at intervals, but nothing has occurred to show that a general upturn is under way."

Bradstreet's review says, in part:

"In iron and steel, while optimistic reports continue to come as to proportion of capacity employed, this seems to be somewhat at the expense of prices, which have been lowered noticeably alike in crude and finished lines.

"In non-ferrous metals tin and zinc show weakness, while lead and copper are reported quiet, with talk of possible further price reductions tending to hold back buying. Automobile factories, those making smaller cars especially, are showing slightly more activity and steel men catering to this line and to pipe making report more doing.

"In machine tools there is slightly more doing. Aside from public building and heavy construction, such as highways, there are few signs of expansion in this line of industry. Another attack of overproduction in lumber is reported in parts of the Pacific Northwest.

"With few exceptions, Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas and Nebraska have had fair to heavy rains, relieving the drought, benefiting the Winter wheat and helping all small grain crops, placing them in condition to go several weeks without deterioration and generally improving conditions.

"Cotton planting made good progress in all sections, and rains in Texas and Oklahoma were timely and beneficial.

"Primary movement of wheat and corn was larger, mainly from terminal markets to Chicago and Northwestern centres. Oats also moved rather more freely than a year ago."

WOOL MARKET QUIET, HOPING FOR TARIFF

Demand Not Heavy and Mill Requisitions Discouraging—Foreign Prices Firmer.

BOSTON, May 2 (AP).—The Commercial Bulletin of Boston will say tomorrow: "Summer Street has been quiet again this week. The demand favors fine wools, which are in very light supply, while medium wools are neglected. Demand is not heavy in any direction and the reports from the mills are still very dispiriting, with some large units closed entirely and others operating on very light schedules.

"Foreign markets are firmer, especially on the finer wools, as indicated by a 5-to-10 per cent advance at the resumption of the sales in Australia this week.

"With the tariff bill evidently near a settlement and prospect of amendment of the Federal farm act along sounder economic lines, the wool trade is feeling encouraged. Buying in the West is proceeding slowly. However, in view of the uncertainties injected into the picture by the present set-up of the National Wool Marketing Corporation under the Federal Farm Board plan, prices paid in the West have been very close to, if not quite up to, Eastern market parity."

TRADING IN WHEAT DULL AND NARROW

Finish Is ¼ Cent Up to ½ Cent Down—May Is Only 2 Cents Under July's Price.

CORN OFF, LACKING SUPPORT

Oats Close Irregular, May Going to Discount Under July—Rye Quotations Mixed.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 2.—Trading was slow today on the Chicago Board of Trade. Prices held within a range of about a cent, with the finish ¼ cent higher to ½ cent lower, the former on May, which was bought by cash interests against sales of July and September. May closed only 2 cents under July, compared with 3¼ cents difference earlier in the week. Part of the day's buying was laid to local elevator interests that yesterday expressed the belief that they would deliver large quantities of grain on track.

Private crop reports showed an average exportation of 543,000,000 bushels of Winter wheat, compared with the government's April returns of 550,000,000 bushels and with 578,000,000 harvested last year. Abandoned acreage was placed at 10.5 per cent, against 6.4 per cent last year and was just equal to the average of the last ten years. About 39,100,000 acres are expected to be harvested, against 40,162,000 last year.

Sees Lower Spring Wheat Acreage.

Murray's report suggested a decrease of 7.3 per cent in Spring wheat acreage, indicating 19,448,000 acres, against 20,979,000 in 1929, while the three Canadian Provinces are expected to decrease planting by 4.3 per cent, indicating 23,248,000 acres, or 1,172,000 under last year.

Export sales were reputed at 500,000 to 600,000 bushels, mainly Manitobas sold by the Canadian pool.

Winnipeg closed ¾ to 1⅛ cents lower, with trade dull. Gossip indicates considerable liquidation to come in that market. Liverpool was ⅜d higher to ¼d lower, while Buenos Aires finished 1 to 1⅛ cents lower compared with Wednesday.

Late weakness in the stock market in New York created a decidedly bearish feeling in wheat late in the day.

Primary receipts were 507,000 bushels, a week ago 564,000 and a year ago 667,000. Shipments were 847,000 bushels, a week ago 614,000 and a year ago 485,000.

Scattered Liquidation in Corn.

Scattered liquidation was on in corn, with locals selling from the start and finding the market poorly supported. The finish was at net losses of ⅞ to 1¼ cents, December reaching a new low for the season.

The East purchased 167,000 bushels of cash corn. Country offerings were small.

Primary receipts were 632,000 bushels, a week ago 538,000 and a year ago 410,000. Shipments were 643,000 bushels, a week ago 772,000 and a year ago 436,000.

Oats closed ⅛ cent higher to ⅛ cent lower, with May going to ¼ cent discount compared with the July after being a fraction over at the start.

Rye finished ¼ cent higher to ⅜ cent lower, the former on May, which was taken by spreaders. Longs were the best sellers of the May delivery.

Prices for the principal grains were as follows:

FILENE LOSES APPEAL.

Massachusetts Supreme Court Sustains Directors in Merger.

BOSTON, May 2 (AP).—The full bench of the Supreme Court today affirmed a superior court decree sustaining a demurrer of the defendants in a bill in equity brought by Edward A. Filene against his fellow directors, Louis E. Kistein, Edward J. Frost and A. Lincoln Filene, of the William Filene Company.

Edward A. Filene sought to enjoin the respondents from merging the stock of William Filene Company with Abraham & Straus, Inc., of Brooklyn, N. Y., and F. and R. Lazarus Company of Columbus, Ohio. The full bench also affirmed a decree of the lower court dismissing the bill of Edward A. Filene.

Auburn Warden Ousts Guard.

AUBURN, N. Y., May 2 (AP).—Warden Frank L. Heacox of the State prison announced today that he had dismissed Edward Drake, a guard, on charges of inefficiency and allowing convicts in his charge to obtain drinks and mail uncensored letters. Drake, who denied the charges, was suspended several weeks ago.

Foresee Retail Gains This Month.

Reports indicate that retail turnover showed a gain beginning with the arrival of warmer weather a few days ago. The increase has not been particularly noticeable in actual figures as yet, retail executives said yesterday, but consumer interest has dispelled the slowness which featured post-Easter selling. Turnover today is expected to show up well, while sales for the month are held likely to forge ahead of May a year ago by a good margin. One element in this calculation is that the month has five Saturdays as against four a year ago. Official opening of the Summer season at retail takes place Monday.

March Woolen Billings Gained.

A slight rise in production, with a substantial gain in billings, featured woolen activity during March, according to figures issued yesterday by the Wool Institute. "The trend of activities is now in the right direction," according to comment accompanying the report. Production during the month totaled 4,842,980 yards, as against 4,732,946 in February. Billings in March rose to 5,315,792 yards from 4,848,869 in the preceding month. Stocks on hand May 1 were slightly smaller, totaling 7,006,153 yards, as compared with 7,031,348 at the end of February.

Resident Buyers to Meet.

A review of the resident buying situation since the veto of the Williams-Peters bill to license resident buyers will feature the meeting of the Resident Buyers' Association to be held on Thursday at the Hotel McAlpin, it was announced yesterday by Executive Chairman John W. Hahn. He indicated that plans covering possible lines of future action, following the veto of the measure by Governor Roosevelt, will be discussed. Attention will also be given suggestions for improving the operation of the stagger plan for interviewing salesmen at the local offices, he said.

Survey Uncovers Old Rug Stocks.

Over 10 per cent of the floor coverings stocks in many retail stores is more than two years old while from 20 to 30 per cent has been carried for more than a year, according to a report by the Bigelow-Sanford Carpet Company in its survey of rug and carpet merchandising. The report made public yesterday is entitled "Maintaining a Balanced Stock" and is the fourth of a series of ten reports, based on the company's nation-wide survey among retailers. Faulty balance between the quantity carried and the demand accounts for the failure of many floor coverings departments to show a profit, it is claimed. One store visited in the survey was found to be carrying from 50 to 200 per cent more of certain items than was justified by the sales.

To Confer on Store Hours Bill.

Assurances have been given department store representatives that no changes will be made affecting hours of women employes as provided by the recently enacted Mastick bill until the end of next week. This was stated yesterday by Nelson Street, vice president of the Retail Dry Goods Association, who said that the labor department officials have indicated they are studying the bill carefully and will take no action until after conferences with the retail interests affected. It is hoped, Mr. Street said, that a conference of a delegation of department store representatives will meet with Commissioner of Labor Frances Perkins on next Wednesday.

Huth Fur Sales Total $3,400,000.

Closing the first week of their annual Spring fur auction, Frederick Huth & Co., announced yesterday that sales during the week had totaled $3,400,000. Collections of wolf, wolverine, lynx, wild cat and otter skins were offered yesterday. A good collection of wolf sold well with a high of $28. Prices on wolverine advanced 10 per cent over those at the last sale and brought a "top" of $17.75. A poor collection of lynx sold very well bringing a high price of $62. High prices for wild cat were $14.50 and for otter $37. Both collections sold well.

Beach Bag Novelty Offered.

A beach bag with sun-shade to match and made of canvass in awning stripe effects has been put on the market by a local manufacturer. The bag, which measures approximately 14 by 16 inches, has a rubberized interior to accommodate bathing suits and a separate compartment at the bottom in which the sun-shade is carried. In addition to the shade, a mirror and comb are furnished. The article is designed to retail at $7.50, and is offered in a wide variety of color effects.

Cheap Raw Silk a Fall Factor.

While the general attitude of leading firms in the silk trade is toward a more cautious policy of production for the Fall season, to avoid the excess stocks which marked Spring output, the low level of raw silk will be a most important factor to contend with in efforts to keep production within bounds, it was pointed out yesterday. It has been the experience of the trade in the past that with raw silk at low levels, output of finished fabrics has been stimulated, particularly on a price basis. Thus far there has been no indication of any hurry to proceed with Fall plans, the exception being the early featuring of velvets by some houses.

Anthracite Cut Brought Order.

Anthracite collieries are now operating on almost a full capacity basis as a result of the flood of orders which followed the recent price reduction on domestic sizes of anthracite, Saward's Journal will say today. The reduction released many orders which had been held up in anticipation of new prices. With the business now in hand, operators are expected to hold to the present pace of production for the next two weeks and they are confident that additional buying will provide sufficient business to keep them busy throughout the month. The bituminous market at present is inactive.

Gray Goods Market Still Quiet.

Buyers of printcloths and sheetings confined themselves to small quantities for immediate requirements in their trading in the gray goods market yesterday. There was little to vary the inactive tone which has marked trading here throughout the week. Prices held firm despite the limited sales. Mills asked 5⅛ cents for 38½-inch 60-48s and 6⅛ cents for 38½-inch 64-60s. Orders for 39-inch 68-72s were filled at 7 cents. Small orders for 36-inch 5-yard sheetings were sold at 5⅞ cents and of 37-inch 4-yard goods at 6⅞ cents.

AVERAGE PRICES DOWN 1% FURTHER IN APRIL

Dun's Compilation Shows 7½% Decline Since October—Lowest May Average Since 1924.

The monthly index of wholesale prices published by Dun's Review, covering the average as of May 1, shows decline in the general index of nearly 1 per cent during April. As compared with the index number of Oct. 1, the average shows a consecutive decline amounting to over 7½ per cent. It is lower than the index number of May 1 in any year since 1924, and with that exception the lowest of any since 1916. Dun's average is 11 per cent above the low average of the deflation period, reached in July, 1921, and 47 per cent above the pre-war average of August, 1914.

The separate index numbers for all of the seven classified groups of commodities declined during April except that for meat and for dairy and garden products. The important changes are in the breadstuffs group, whose average declined 4 per cent for the month and 5⅝ per cent for the year; in textiles, whose decline for the month was 7 per cent and for the year 9¾ per cent, and in metals, which declined slightly less than 1 per cent for the month and 4⅞ per cent for the year.

The following table, giving a record of Dun's index number for a series of months and years, shows the course of the movement:

ATTACK RAIL COKE RATE.

Mid-Western Steel Makers Tell I. C. C. Southern Rate Is Discriminatory.

WASHINGTON, May 2 (AP).—The Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company, the Central Alloy Steel and a number of mid-Western industrial enterprises which use coke, complained to the Interstate Commerce Commission today against the railroad freight rates now applying on this fuel.

They contended that steel producers in the Birmingham (Ala.) territory have a better rate on coke shipments than the mid-West furnaces and that the failure of the Northern roads to meet the Southern scale constituted a discrimination.

Emery Insurance Case Settled.

WILMINGTON, Del., May 2 (AP).—The suit to decide whether the United Investment and Securities Corporation of Delaware or Grace Hartley Emery, widow of Archibald C. Emery of Pasadena, Cal., should receive the insurance of $253,360 on Emery's life was settled out of court today. Charles Topkis, president of the corporation, said the settlement was in its favor.

LIVE STOCK IN CHICAGO.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 2.—Hogs were in good demand and 10 to 15 cents higher here today, with prices above the best in two weeks. Some shipping orders were not filled owing to scarcity of desirable kinds. The top was 10 cents higher at $10.30, with the average up 10 cents at $10.05. Most sales were at $9.85 to $10.25, with 250 to 350 pound butchers $9.65 to $10.15, 160 to 250 pound averages $9.85 to $10.30, and packing sows $8.85 to $9.50. Packers bought 12,700 and shippers 5,500, with 2,000 left over. Receipts were 16,000, with 7,000 estimated for tomorrow.

Offerings of cattle were small in a dull and steady market. Few sales were above $11, the bulk of beef cattle being at $10 to $11. Receipts were 1,500.

Fat lambs sold 15 to 25 cents higher, most of the wooled at $10.75 to $11, with shorn at $9.25 to $9.75. Sheep were steady at $4.50 to $5.75. Receipts were 15,000.

LIVE STOCK AND MEATS.

These prices were reported yesterday in the New York and New Jersey markets by the United States Department of Agriculture:

SUGAR, COFFEE, COCOA.

Sugar.

In the futures market in sugar the July contract touched 1.51 yesterday, 3 points lower than on Thursday, a new low for all time for any contract. No sales in actual raw sugar were reported at that figure. Aside from this break, the market was almost featureless, spot sugar being quoted at 1 17-32, with plenty readily available at this figure to May 15. One large lot was reported as available at the same figure toward the end of May.

Traders generally, however, were holding off. The prospective vote in the House of Representatives last night inclined both buyers and sellers to a waiting attitude. Confirmation of the 2.20 tariff on sugar is expected to bring about a slight recovery, and it is expected that there will be a heavy demand for raw in near-by positions at a price of around 1⅝.

There was no change in refined sugar, which remained at 4.90.

LATEST DEALINGS IN THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

REVIEW OF THE DAY IN REALTY MARKET

Tenement Houses Are in Demand on the West Side South of 59th Street.

MORTGAGE LOANS GAIN

Suburban Market Is Active Again—Many Leasehold Transactions in Manhattan.

Real estate trading in Manhattan yesterday centred chiefly on the west side, south of Fifty-ninth Street. Tenement properties there west of Eighth Avenue were in fair demand.

An interesting deal showing the rise of land values in the Second Avenue area was announced by brokers who sold a dwelling for the American Christian Missionary Society.

Suburban activity was not as strong as on Thursday, although there was a fair amount of trading in the outlying sections. There was evidence of continued increase in new mortgage financing with the Equitable Life Assurance Society's report that in the first four months of this year it had approved construction loans on apartment house properties in New York City and vicinity totaling more than $7,000,000.

Railroad Buys Tenements.

Among yesterday's west side deals was another purchase by the New York Central Railroad in connection with its track removal plans. Through its subsidiary, the New York State Realty and Terminal Company, the railroad bought tenement houses at 504 West Forty-ninth Street from Patrick J. Cronin; 537 West Fifty-fourth Street from William F. Laneberg; 519 West Fifty-second Street from Charles L. Krundieck and 507-509 West Forty-ninth Street from Herman Schmonsees. Brown, Wheelock: Harris, Vought & Co. arranged the sales.

A four-story dwelling, 18 by 100 feet, at 329 West Fifty-first Street, was bought by J. P. Finneran, operator, from Vietro Boleso. The property is between Eighth and Ninth Avenues and was sold through Charles De Favre, broker.

The Schulte Real Estate Company gave title to the 227-229 East Forty-fourth Street Company to the property at the northeast corner of Ninth Avenue and Fiftieth Street. The property consists of four and five-story buildings under net lease to the United Stores Realty Corporation. Slawson & Hobbs were the brokers in the sale.

The sale by the American Christian Missionary Society involved the four-story dwelling occupied by the Disciples Community House at 149 Second Avenue. The house is on a plot 32 by 125 feet and has been purchased by H. Weisner, who now controls a frontage of 158 feet on the west side of Second Avenue between Ninth and Tenth Streets. The Leonard Morgan Company, Inc., acted as broker.

The same broker sold this property in 1919 to the seller at $1,150 a front foot, and the sale yesterday was made at $2,000 a front foot. The house was occupied about fifty years ago by the Jaffary and Major family.

The premises at 178 and 180 Pearl Street, 55 feet 7 inches north of the northeast corner of Pine Street, 56 feet 2 inches front, with an outlet on Water Street 12 feet wide, were sold by the United States Trust Company as trustee of the will of Adele Livingston Sampson to the Liberty Place Holding Corporation, of which John A. Stoehr is vice president, the consideration being $550,000.

Upper West Side Lease.

The three-story house at 517 West 185th Street was leased by Gerda and Thekla Nilson to Tillie Dutt through the Houghton Company.

The property at 150 East Thirty-ninth Street was leased by 148 East Thirty-ninth Street, Inc., Joseph A. Moller, president, to the Dryden Hotel Corporation, of which Walter Guzzardi is president, for twenty-one years from March 1, 1930, with provision for two twenty-one year renewals, the rental being reserved.

The following three leases have been surrendered to Augustus Van Horne Stuyvesant Jr. and Anne W. Stuyvesant: 135 East Twelfth Street, 20 by 51 feet, by the 135 East Twelfth Street Corporation; 137 East Twelfth Street, 20 by 51 feet, by the 137 East Twelfth Street Corporation, and 90 Third Avenue, 26 by 60 feet, by the Rogdalis Realty Company, Inc.

The eighteen-year lease of 34 East Ninth Street held by George H. Masten of Middletown, N. Y., has been surrendered by him to the owners, the trustees of the Sailors Snug Harbor.

The United Cigar Stores Company has leased to the Nadis Corporation, E. H. Golding, president, the northwest corner of Third Avenue and Eighty-sixth Street, 50 by 100 feet, for twenty-three years from April 15, 1930, at a reserved rental, with the right of renewal for twenty-one years additional.

Cooperative Suites Bought.

A member of the Stock Exchange has bought a penthouse suite of fourteen rooms and seven baths in the cooperative being erected at 895 Park Avenue, southeast corner of Seventy-ninth Street, by Thomas O'Reilly & Son, Inc., from plans by Sloan & Robertson. Talman Bigelow, Inc., and Pease & Elliman, Inc., arranged the sale. Miss Katharine N. Rhoades bought a suite in the cooperative under construction at 340 East Seventy-second Street through Culver Associates, Inc.

Music Professor Acquires House.

Charles M. Hughes, a professor of music in Hunter College, has bought a six-room and bath house at 26 Ralph Avenue, White Plains, from Mrs. Cecille O. Robinson. The plot is 87 by 196 feet. Mr. Hughes intends to occupy the dwelling after his return from Vermont in the Fall. The Rostenberg Realty Company, Inc., arranged the sale.

Gets Parochial School Contract.

The T. J. Waters Company has received a contract for erecting a four-story parochial school at 164th Street and Walton Avenue, to cost $450,000, according to Brown's Letters, Inc., construction reports. O'Connor, Delaney & Schultz designed the structure for the Christian Brothers of Ireland.

Sells Far Rockaway Parcel.

Joseph Brodsky has sold a parcel at 1,026 Rose Street, Far Rockaway, to Mrs. Fannie Steiner. The Lewis H. May Company was the broker.

Sterling Bank Leases Floor In Bricken Casino Building

The Sterling National Bank and Trust Company has leased for its first branch the banking floor in the thirty-three-story Bricken Casino Building, being erected at Broadway and Thirty-ninth Street by the Bricken Construction Company. The lease is for twenty years at a rental of about $1,000,000, S. M. Hirsch & Co., Inc., the brokers, report.

The bank has its headquarters in the Chanin Building at Forty-second Street and Lexington Avenue. The officers include Samuel H. Golding, chairman, and Joseph Pulvermacher, president.

BRONX PROPERTIES SOLD

New Dealings in Improved and Unimproved Holdings.

The estate of John Rau sold to an investor the five-story apartment house at 227 Willis Avenue, between 137th and 138th Streets, on a lot, 25 by 100 feet, through the Julius Trattner Company, broker.

William F. Kurz sold for Elizabeth Hauser a plot of five lots at the northwest corner of Neil and Mulliner Avenues, 138 by 105 feet.

Patrick J. Quinn, broker, sold the two-family brick house on the east side of Lurting Avenue, twenty-eight feet south of Poplar Street, and the vacant lot, 25 by 100 feet, on the east side of Paulding Avenue, 100 feet south of Van Nest Avenue, to a builder for improvement with a one-family brick dwelling.

The same broker sold a plot, 50 by 100 feet, on the southeast corner of Boston Post Road and Wilson Avenue. A resale of this plot is pending.

BROOKLYN TRADING.

Dean Street Residence Sold to an Investor.

The E. Cutter estate has sold a brownstone residence at 1,170 Dean Street, between Nostrand and Bedford Avenues, to an investor. The lot is 20 by 107 feet. The Bulkley & Horton Company, the broker, also leased for V. J. Wahlstrom his brick and stucco house at the southwest corner of Ridge Boulevard and Seventy-seventh Street, on a plot 40 by 100 feet.

Molla Dress Shops, Inc., leased for more than fifteen years the building at 910 Flatbush Avenue. The total rental is $175,000, the McInerney-Klinck Company, the broker, states. The same company leased the store parcel at 1,220 Flatbush Avenue to the Lutecia Variety Shops, Inc.

NASSAU TRANSACTIONS.

Plots in Great Neck Are Bought for Improvement.

Berkley Homes, Inc., bought three plots in Nirvana Gardens, Great Neck, for improvement with dwellings. John J. Meenan, Inc., was the broker.

GILLESPIE BUILDING SOLD TO BENENSON

Investor Extends Downtown Holdings by Acquiring Dey Street Property.

The purchase by Grigori Benenson of the fifteen-story Gillespie Building, at 5-7 Dey Street, just west of Broadway, together with the leasehold at 187 Broadway, a six-story building forming an "L" around the southwest corner, is indicated by a transfer recorded in the Register's Office. Mr. Benenson owns the Benenson Building, at 165 Broadway, in the block to the south.

The Gillespie Building was bought by Mr. Benenson through his Municipal Properties Corporation from the Dey Street Realty Corporation, representing the Gillespie family. The structure is on a plot 52 by 90 feet, and the building at 187 Broadway is 25 by 100 feet.

Mr. Benenson gave to the seller a mortgage for $326,254.44, due Dec. 31, 1933, at 6 per cent, which also covers the leasehold at 187 Broadway. It is subordinate to a first mortgage of $500,000 and a second mortgage of $350,000, both held by the Bankers Trust Company and Thomas H. Gillespie, as trustees.

By these purchases Mr. Benenson has rounded out ownership to the entire Dey Street frontage with the exception of the Broadway corner. He recently acquired 177 and 179 Broadway.

WESTCHESTER ITEMS.

Deals in Yonkers, Bronxville and Mount Kisco.

The Irving Trust Company, as executor of the Robert Caterson estate, has sold a plot 50 by 100 feet on Glover Avenue, Yonkers, through William J. Sherry.

Noel Kilby bought a large plot in Ridgecroft, in the Bronxville area, upon which he intends to erect a residence from plans by Hall & Pauve. Fish & Marvin were the brokers.

Dr. W. B. Brinsmade leased Meadowside, an estate in Mount Kisco, from W. H. Leonard. The Kenneth H. Clapp Company was the broker of the lease. The property was the home of the late Colonel Robert W. Leonard.

Aldrich Estate Sale Broker.

Harvey Craw was the broker in the sale of the Sherwood Aldrich estate in Nassau County, L. I., to Alfred P. Sloane Jr.

MORTGAGES RECORDED.

On the property at 5 and 7 Dey Street, the Municipal Properties Corporation, Robert W. Dowling, president, gave a mortgage of $326,254.44, due Dec. 31, 1933, at 6 per cent, to the Dey Street Realty Corporation. This mortgage, which also covers the leasehold of 187 Broadway, is subordinate to a first mortgage of $500,000 and a second mortgage of $350,000, both held by the Bankers Trust Company and Thomas H. Gillespie, as trustees.

Edith C. Mooney of New Rochelle, took back a purchase money mortgage for $48,000, due Feb. 1, 1941, at 6 per cent, to the [illegible] corner of Charles Street and Waverly Place, [illegible] feet by [illegible]. There is a first mortgage [illegible].

ENGINEERING AWARDS DROP.

Contracts in Country Show 19% Decline From First Third of 1929.

Heavy construction and engineering contracts throughout the country last month totaled $335,839,000, a drop of 14 per cent from the record March total but 6 per cent above the April, 1929, aggregate, according to The Engineering News-Record. March contracts totaled $391,833,000, while lettings in April a year ago were valued at $316,209,000. The gain over last April was in both public and private work and was made in New York State.

By comparison with April, 1929, figures on contract award totals for New England, the Middle West and the Far West remain virtually unchanged. The South, however, made the smallest showing, with a drop of more than 50 per cent.

Taking the country as a whole, the cumulative total value of engineering awards for the first four months of the current year showed a 19 per cent decrease from the corresponding period last year. Public work, however, made an 18 per cent gain, while private construction lettings declined 32 per cent. Activity in road construction continues to gain.

According to classes, the sums involved in heavy construction and engineering jobs for all contracts were let up to May 1, follow:

*Commercial buildings	$523,100,000
Industrial buildings	125,239,000
Streets and roads	160,339,000
Bridges	38,786,000
Waterworks	16,519,000
Sewers	24,657,000
Excavations, &c.	7,780,000
Federal government	41,773,000
Unclassified	223,352,000
Total	$1,161,546,000

Decreases in lumber and common labor rates reduced the Engineering News-Record construction cost index number for May to 205.46, which compares with 207.12 in April.

Building Congress Moves.

The New York Building Congress has moved to larger quarters on the sixth floor of 101 Park Avenue, where the organization has taken a seven-year lease. Formation of an advisory board and fact-finding committee and increased activity by the appointment commission made larger quarters necessary.

Smithtown Residence Leased.

Hamilton Fish Potter has sublet for a term of years his residence in Smithtown, L. I., to Richard Peters of the Knickerbocker Club. Hamilton, Iselin & Co. were the brokers.

Equitable Life Assurance Society Finances New Housing.

The Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States announced yesterday that it had made new construction loans totaling more than $7,000,000 on apartment house properties in New York City and vicinity. The statement involves the first four months of this year and was made by Thomas L. Parkingson, president of the Equitable. The loans will provide housing for about 900 families.

Loans on private residential properties approved for more than $16,500,000 will provide housing facilities for 4,132 families throughout the United States. During the same period the farm belt of Iowa, Illinois, Kansas, Oklahoma, Missouri and Nebraska was benefited by 1,250 farm loans approved for $8,556,300.

The total amount of all forms of mortgage loans approved by the Equitable in the first four months was $33,404,250, providing housing for 5,190 families in 276 cities and 44 States.

SHIPPERS OFF TODAY TO WORLD CONGRESS

19 Nations Will Discuss Plan for Uniform Ship Load Line at London Session.

BILL ALREADY PASSED HERE

Effective Sept. 2, It Empowers the Secretary of Commerce to Name Maximum Cargo Depth.

Although the bill providing an appropriation of $20,000 to finance an American committee to the international convention on load-line regulations in London was defeated last month in the Senate, the first of two groups of delegates comprising the committee will sail today on the Leviathan and will be followed Wednesday by another group on the America. It is expected that the funds will be provided by an emergency measure to be enacted by Congress next week.

The convention will try to agree on international regulations for the loading of ships in foreign trade and will be attended by representatives of at least nineteen countries. The United States has passed a load-line bill which becomes effective Sept. 2, by which the Secretary of Commerce is authorized to designate the maximum depth to which vessels in the foreign trade can be loaded. A committee appointed by President Hoover when he was Secretary of Commerce to study the matter recently reported to Secretary of Commerce Lamont recommending regulations that should be effective.

Secretary Lamont is now studying the report of this committee and if he accepts its recommendations, the report will be made the official instructions to the committee to the international convention. The action of Mr. Lamont will be taken before the convention opens, May 20. If the convention attains its end, the various nations will establish regulations under which an American ship can load her and proceed to any port of the nations which are parties to the agreement. This will eliminate much difficulty due to the lack of uniformity of loading regulations in various ports.

The delegation sailing today consists of:

H. B. WALKER, president, American Steamship Owners' Association.
DAVID ARNOTT, chief surveyor, American Bureau of Shipping.
S. D. McCOMB, manager, Marine Office of America.

The delegation sailing Wednesday will include:

H. C. TOWLE, Bethlehem Shipbuilding Co.
LAURENS PRIOR, technical assistant in the Bureau of Navigation of the Department of Commerce.
Capt. A. F. PILLSBURY, naval achitect.
JAMES KENNEDY, marine department, Gulf Refining Co.
H. B. WARLEY, vice president, Ore Steamship Co.
DAVID W. DICKEY of San Francisco.
GEORGE A. SMITH, surveyor of the American Bureau of Shipping.

The convention will be attended by representatives of the United States, Canada, Chile, Cuba, Belgium, Finland, Peru, Australia, India, France, the Netherlands, Norway, Paraguay, Mexico, Irish Free State, New Zealand, Yugoslavia, Spain and Portugal.

DR. WYNNE PRESSES HIS 'FIXED FEE' PLAN

Asks Medical Society Heads to Confer on System to Aid Preventive Treatment.

Health Commissioner Wynne, who is campaigning for fixed fees for preventive medicine, yesterday asked the five heads of the County Medical Societies of the city, together with a representative of the Academy of Medicine, to meet him at his office next Thursday to discuss a plan to establish an hour in the day of each practicing physician where children of pre-school age may receive treatment at a fixed fee.

Dr. Wynne plans to write each of the 11,846 practicing physicians in the city, asking that such an hour be established, and then to establish a central information bureau at the Health Department, where parents may find out where to send their children for such treatment.

This will serve as "collective advertising, sponsored by the Health Department," Dr. Wynne said, "for the commendable purpose of raising the health standard of our pre-school children."

"It would do what the private physician could not do, get the patients to come to him for medical advice on keeping well," Dr. Wynne added. He holds that such a plan would "restore the physician to his place as family counselor," bring preventive medicine to people of moderate means and lift the burden from the free clinics, which are badly overcrowded.

PLANS NEW TYPE OF CRUISE

National Company's Vessels to Have No Definite Destination.

A new type of cruise will be inaugurated in the Summer months by the National Tours Company when the Anchor liners Transylvania, California and Caledonia sail from New York with no specific destination for five-day stays at sea. The backers of the plan expect to carry 700 passengers on each trip.

It was first believed that the plan would violate the intercoastal shipping laws which require that a ship leaving an American port must have a destination. The matter was discussed with the State Department and with Commissioner of Navigation Tyrer, who expressed the opinion that no violation existed as the ship would not be in American waters. One cruise will be in July and two in August.

ALTERS BUILDING PLAN OF NEW CRUISER HERE

Navy's Order Delays Laying of Keel—150 Men May Be Out of Work in Brooklyn.

A Navy Department order received at the Brooklyn Navy Yard yesterday will result in changes in the plans for building Cruiser 32, including a temporary delay of several months in laying its keel and the probable discharge of about 150 employes of the various shops at the yard, which force already has been depleted by the lack of navy repair work, according to Captain Paul B. Dungan, officer in charge.

Captain Dungan declared that the contents of the Washington order could not be revealed but admitted that the changes in the cruiser construction program would alter the design of Cruiser 32, to fulfill requirements of recent conferences of navy officials in Washington.

Civic and political leaders in Brooklyn have been working to have the Cruiser 32 named the Brooklyn. The Naval Affairs Committee of the House of Representatives has been requested to consider the advisability of naming the ship in honor of the place in which it will be designed and constructed.

The keel of this ship was to have been laid next Fall but the change of plans may make it impossible to do this work before next Spring, Captain Dungan said.

Thomas J. Mahoney, chairman of the executive committee of Brooklyn Navy Yard workers, said that about 4,200 men were working at the yard at this time last year. With the new order in effect this force will be reduced by 2,000 men, he added.

BOY PASTRY COOKS DO WONDERS IN CONTEST

Make Cakes, Pies, Muffins and Candy at Fair Without the Aid of Books.

Many a housewife could appease her husband's wrath by applying for cooking lessons to the youthful members of New York's boys' clubs, Miss Thelma Hein declared yesterday after she had judged the cakes, pies, muffins and candy submitted by the youngsters in the cooking contest held in conjunction with the Boys' Fair. The contest was held in the Gramercy Boys' Club under the auspices of the Civitan Club. Miss Hein is chief dietician for Childs.

Early in the afternoon the boys went into the kitchen, rolled up their sleeves and proceeded to mix the ingredients of toothsome pastries. There was no one to instruct them and no cookbooks to help them.

The results proved a surprise. In the cake class a chocolate-covered "checkerboard" was the winner. Three youngsters made this, each preparing a layer. All three were from the Madison Square Boys' Club. They are Gerard Seringer, James Larkin and Gildo Rosen. Miss Hein thought this piece of pastry exceptionally fine.

In the pie division Alex Kanierwich of the Gramercy Boys' Club triumphed over Joseph Flaherty of the same organization. Alex had made an apple pie, which Miss Hein declared was a much more difficult task than baking a lemon maringue pie as Joe had done. George Malinich, also of the Gramercy Club, was declared winner in the muffins class.

Putting an extra "e" in "judgment" proved the downfall of Harry Vermell in the spelling bee, another feature of the fair. Thomas Gaffney was declared champion. Both boys are members of the Gramercy Club. Mrs. B. S. Potter of the Children's Aid Society acted as judge.

Several athletic events will be held today.

MISSION GIFTS DECLINE.

But Currency Fluctuations Give Presbyterians Surplus for Year.

A substantial profit resulting from the decline of Chinese and Persian currency in terms of American money, coupled with a sharp reduction in the missionary force, resulted in a credit balance of $1,223.92 for the year's operations of the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions, according to a statement issued yesterday.

The two factors reducing the cost of operations more than balanced a shrinkage of $226,727.41 in the contributions for the year. Contributions began to decline in -925, and this decline was temporarily stopped in 1928, when special campaigns for funds were vigorously pressed. It had been hoped, the statement declares, that this increase in 1928 would mark a turning point and that missionary contributions would again begin to grow from year to year.

Total reecipts from all sources for the year 1929 were $5,270,552.56, receipts from living donors being $3,922,460.11. Total expenditures and funding for the year were $5,269,328.64. A net reduction of thirty-six in the missionary force during the year resulted in a reduction of $152,-00 in expenditures, while the shifts in foreign exchange resulted in a saving of $81,300 as compared with budget estimates.

CLAUDEL SAILS FOR FRANCE.

Fannie Hurst and Rupert Hughes Also Embark on the Paris.

The French liner Paris sailed for Plymouth and Havre last night with about 800 passengers, including 415 in first class. On board was Paul Claudel, French Ambassador, and Mrs. Claudel, who will have a vacation in France.

Fannie Hurst, the novelist, sailed for Paris with her husband, Jacques Danielson, to complete a novel. Rupert Hughes also sailed to continue abroad his life of George Washington.

Lake Superior Freighter Grounds.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich., May 2 (AP).—The steamer Munising, loaded with ore from Duluth, went aground on Isle Parisienne in Whitefish Bay during a storm on Lake Superior last night. Although lying on the west side of the island exposed to the waves and with her forepeak filled with water, the vessel is not believed in danger. Tugs and a lighter have gone to her aid.

Seek Witnesses in Burning of Ship.

The New York office of the United Steamboat Inspection Service has been asked by the New Haven office to cooperate in the investigation of the burning of the Sound freighter Thames near Bridgeport and to locate witnesses to the burning in this city. None has yet been located, the local office said yesterday.

TOSSED 4 DAYS IN LIFEBOAT.

Men Seeking Aid for Ship Leaking in Gulf Reach Mexican Coast.

BROWNSVILLE, Texas, May 2 (AP).—Tossed four days in a 14-foot lifeboat on stormy waters in the Gulf of Mexico, Captain E. E. Bailey and Navigation Officer Benjamin Jones of the motor vessel M. P. reached Matamoros today to learn that six shipmates they had sought to save had been rescued.

The M. P., which sprang a leak 200 miles out in the gulf last Sunday, was picked up by a passenger steamer and taken over to Alvaro Obregon, Mexico, after Captain Bailey and Jones had set out in the lifeboat for shore to summon aid. The pair reached a point below Washington Beach, Mexico, yesterday, and proceeded to Matamoros.

SEES OUR CULTURE LEADING IN 30 YEARS

Wolf Von Dewall, Returning to Germany, Finds Industry Basis for Great Advance.

CALLS SENATORS NARROW

Asserts They Are Not Best Type of Americans—Lauds Hospitality, Criticizes Stress on Sports.

America, today the industrial giant of the world, will be the cultural colossus thirty years hence, according to Wolf von Dewall, foreign editor of the Frankfurter Zeitung, who has completed a ten weeks' lecture tour of the United States and will return to Germany this morning on the Leviathan.

Mr. von Dewall, who came here under auspices of the League of Nations Association, gave his impressions of America yesterday in an interview at the association's headquarters, 6 East Thirty-ninth Street. The very industrialization of this country and the era of mass production, viewed with alarm by so many, is in reality laying a fertile foundation for high culture, he declared.

"I have been most impressed," he said, "with the evolution and progress of all educational systems in the United States. It has struck me very forcibly that your industrial methods and the mass production has resulted in the workers insisting upon better education for their children. So you have splendid schools and universities. You are a music-loving nation, and you can hear as good if not better music here than anywhere else in the world. You have developed a splendid type of architecture; your skyscrapers are often very beautiful. The future years will intensify all this, and I predict that America will tower, culturally, over the rest of us in thirty or forty years."

There is more true politeness in America, said Mr. von Dewall, than anywhere in Europe. "We perhaps know how to bow deeper, but I have never seen such hospitality and such real politeness of the heart as I have here," he added.

Of the men who are in high public office, especially the American Senators, however, the German journalist was critical. The Senators, with very few exceptions, he described as "terribly provincial." American politics, he said, is regarded as "dirty business" by the Americans themselves, and most of the politicians look upon European and international politics as "dirty business."

Te told of having met a number of Senators, and how they had nearly all struck him as being extremely narrow of opinion.

"It seems a great pity," he said, "that the representatives of the Senate are not the best type of Americans. Everywhere I have been I have met wonderful people, eminently qualified for such positions, but the 'dirty business' idea causes them to shun political careers, it would seem. I hope that further education along political lines will serve to do away with these ideas."

Another point of criticism was regarding sports. "I think," he said, "that your press attaches altogether too much importance to sports. This should not be front page news."

GIRL, 17, KILLS HERSELF.

Takes Poison Before Fiance When Wedding Is Put Off.

Disconsolate because of being unable to carry out her plans to be married last Saturday on account of the illness of her mother, who supports her blind father and three younger children, Rose Seracco, 17 years old, of 51 Bayard Street, visited yesterday morning her fiancé, Frank Carasarci, at his apartment at 94 East Broadway, swallowed a tablet and died a few minutes later.

Carasarci told the police that they had been engaged four months and were to have been married last Saturday, but that the wedding had been postponed indefinitely. He said the girl took the tablet from her pocketbook as she had done several times before and asked him if he "dared" her to take it. He said he asked her not to, but before he could prevent her she had swallowed it. Dr. Conlon of Governeur Hospital, who was called in, said he believed the tablet contained cyanide of potassium. The body was removed to the morgue for an autopsy.

$21,000 FOR BOYLAN AS COLLEGE HEAD

Higher Education Body Urges This Salary for President of Brooklyn Unit.

APPROVAL IS EXPECTED

Resolution Referred to Committee of Estimate Board—Increase for Dr. Robinson Now Likely.

The salary to be paid to Dr. William A. Boylan, associate superintendent of public schools, who was chosen about ten days ago as president of the Brooklyn unit of the College of the City of New York, was virtually set at $21,000 a year yesterday in a resolution of the Board of Higher Education submitted to the Board of Estimate.

On Monday the Board of Higher Education adopted a resolution requesting the "establishment of a personal service schedule for the president of a college unit at a salary of $21,000 per annum." The resolution also requested an appropriation of $11,550 to meet Dr. Boylan's salary after he takes office on May 15. Dr. Frederick B. Robinson, president of the City College in Manhattan receives $18,000 a year and Dr. James M. Kieran, president of Hunter College, receives $21,000.

As associate superintendent of schools, Dr. Boylan now receives $12,500 a year. His term began in March, 1927, and will expire on March 22, 1933. He is well known at City Hall as the representative of the Board of Education in matters before the Board of Estimate and the Sinking Fund Commission. While the Board of Higher Education's recommendation was referred to the committee of the whole of the Board of Estimate and to Budget Director Charles L. Kohler for reports, it was reported at City Hall yesterday that Dr. Boylan's salary would be fixed at $21,000. It was understood that members of the education board had conferred informally with members of the Board of Estimate before fixing the figure.

With Dr. Kieran and Dr. Boylan receiving $21,000 a year each, it was said, Dr. Robinson's salary will probably be increased to the same amount. Dr. Boylan was appointed to the city school system in 1894 and has been associated with the Board of Education for thirty-six years. He lives at 770 St. Nicholas Avenue, Manhattan.
